Should Cut Power Of Small Nations In UN--Churchill

Decisions Based on Enmity May Bring Body to Nothing

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Local 444, United Auto Workers, has ordered a union "trial" for 31 of its members accused of forcing a shutdown at Chrysler of Canada July 12. It is believed to be the first such trial in the 20-year history of the UAW.

A union spokesman said Wednesday evidence collected by the local union officers "leaves no alternative but to take the matter before the membership if the policies of the international and the local union are to mean anything."

Charges will be filed formally by the union's executive officers and the trial will be held before the entire membership. No date has yet been set.

The UAW constitution provides penalties for those found guilty in such trials. These might be a reprimand, fine, suspension or expulsion from the union. It provides for selection of an impartial trial committee, of which shall be drawn rather than appointed or elected.

Local Orders 'Union Trial' For Members

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill has called for revision of the United Nations charter to trim the power of small nations in the world organization.

Britain's elder statesman Wednesday night told the closing banquet of the Conservative party association convention: "It is anomalous that the vote or prejudice of any small country should affect events involving populations many times its own number or that it should have as momentary self-advantage may direct."

Churchill said new members have swollen the General Assembly to a point where at the same time great power disputes have thrown increasing responsibility on the assembly.

Churchill said the United Nations has failed in many cases, citing Hungary in particular. He agreed with Prime Minister Robert Menzies of Australia that justice is not being achieved in the United Nations.

"It is certain that if the assembly continues to take its decisions on grounds of enmity, opportunism or mere jockeying for advantage the whole structure may be brought to nothing," Churchill said.

With three U.S. Supreme Court justices present, Churchill said the "Supreme Court in America has often been the guardian and upholder of human liberty, and long may it continue to thrive."

Churchill's words had all the earmarks of a rebuke to the Bar Association's committee on communism, which on June 25 called for legislation to "overcome the effect of these Supreme Court decisions" which the committee termed unauthorized overreaches produced "theoretical individual rights."

Diefenbaker Soon to Name More Ministers

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday he will announce further appointments to his 17-member cabinet early next week.

Speaking to reporters following his first cabinet meeting, he indicated that some but not necessarily all of five portfolios, now held by junior ministers on an acting basis, will be filled.

The five portfolios are agriculture, health and welfare, mines, defence production and citizenship and immigration.

Seaway Body To Build Docks At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority has decided to proceed with wharf development on its own beside the south shore plains across from Montreal harbor in the hope that private business will take quick note.

Transport Minister Hees, touring the 114-mile seaway during the Montreal to Toronto, Ont., for the first time since taking office, announced Wednesday that a 4,000-foot wharf will be built upstream from Cote Ste. Catherine lock.

The wharf—capable of handling five or six seaway-size ships at the time—will be inside the new seaway channel itself, where it cuts across the river shore facing Lachine Rapids.

Maximum size of a cargo vessel able to navigate the seven seaway locks is 730 feet in length and 72 feet wide.

WILL RENT FACILITIES

Mr. Hees said the authority would provide the wharf, and then rent facilities to private shipping companies. Estimated cost of the dock is $1,500,000 or $2,000,000. The wharf would be ready when the seaway opens in 1959.

Seaway Authority President Charles Gordon, who accompanied Mr. Hees on the all-day tour, said several shipping companies have already expressed interest in the suburban wharf. He indicated that private firms may follow the seaway lead and build similar docks in the south shore region.

Major industry—steel, cement, oil and others—is already investigating the south shore region, he said, and new plants are climbing in response to the interest.

The new wharf, first of its kind across the river from Montreal, is at the upstream entrance to Cote Ste. Catherine lock which leads into the Lapraire basin.

The basin is regarded as a promising location for port development when Montreal runs out of harbor space.

"There's one thing sure about Eustice," said a luncheon club member about a long time friend. "If there's nothing to be said, he'll always say it."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:

Skies are clear with warm temperatures throughout Ontario. Present indications are for this fine weather to continue through Friday over most of the province except in regions near Lake Superior where a few thundershowers are likely to occur Friday afternoon and evening.

WANT CHRISTIANS TO PRESS FOR BOMB TEST HALT

Church Agency Seeks Trial Before Treaty

NEW HAVEN (AP)—An international church agency today suggested that Christians urge their governments to halt nuclear bomb tests—for a trial period—without waiting for iron-clad treaties.

The step was endorsed by the commission of the churches on international affairs in a report to a policy-making meeting of the National Council of Churches.

Vigorous debate on the report was expected.

The commission, a sort of diplomatic arm both of the world council and of the international missionary council, said in its statement:

"There is a risk for peace which Christians in a country projecting tests of nuclear weapons are justified in advocating, in the hope of breaking through the barriers of distrust.

FOR TRIAL PERIOD

"They can urge their governments to forgo tests for a trial period in the hope that others will do the same. A new confidence will be born, and foundations laid for lasting peace."

Rev. Dr. O. Frederick Nolde of Philadelphia, director of the council, presented the 900-word statement, along with a supplementary report analyzing all aspects of scientific findings on bomb testing.

Delegates of the world council's central committee, representing Protestant and orthodox denominations in 35 countries, may act on the statement, or draw up a different pronouncement on the subject.

Numerous member denominations have urged it to voice a general Christian stand concerning the current tension over bomb tests.

Man Who Hoped He Would Die Gets 10 Years

VANCOUVER (CP) — John William Buckell, 40, who said he took a knife in the hope he would be killed, Wednesday was sentenced to 10 years in jail.

Buckell, an accountant, was convicted on two counts of attempted murder and one of attempted bank robbery. Each carried a 10-year sentence. They are to run concurrently.

He attempted to hold up the Royal Bank of Canada mhin branch at Granville and Hastings Street West March 15. During his trial he said he committed the holdup because he hoped he would be killed so that his beneficiaries, including a 19-year-old girl friend, could claim life insurance policies totaling $60,000.

He Just Could Not Pronounce Name U.S. Envoy's Explanation of 'Goof'

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Maxwell H. Gluck ever appears again before a U.S. congressional committee, you can bet he'll prime himself in advance with all necessary answers.

Gluck is a self-made millionaire businessman newly named as U.S. ambassador to Ceylon.

He was shoved, suddenly and unwillingly, into the capital spotlight this week when it was disclosed that he couldn't name the Ceylonese premier (Solomon Bandaranaike) of the country in which he will represent the United States.

Obviously upset, he sought to explain belatedly to reporters Wednesday that he actually knew the prime minister all along and when he was asked before the Senate foreign relations committee July 2.

But, because he wasn't sure how to pronounce it, he left senators the name "is a bit unfamiliar" and that "I would let it off." He didn't pronounce it now, he added.

The name of the Ceylon premier is pronounced Bahn-dara-nik'-ah.

A soft-spoken man, Gluck shook his head as he pondered the fireworks that have exploded since the Washington Post and Times Herald published some of the testimony he gave before the senators.

Nothing like this unhappy affair ever happened to him in the business world, he said.

Some Democratic congressmen announced his appointment. He even prompted a press conference question Wednesday as to President Eisenhower. Eisenhower hesitatedly told reporters that Gluck's $26,500 contributions to the Republican party last year had nothing to do with the appointment.

But Gluck has no intention of giving up he post. He will be accredited to Ceylon by his wife. They have no children.

Gluck, a Texas-born Republican, has an impressive business background. In 1929 he started a shoe store in Olean, N.Y., to sell women's shoes.

By hard work he built it up into a chain of 150 stores, known as the Bootery Stores which now operate in 27 states. His shops gross some $25,000,000 a year.

When he "semi-retired," as he puts it, early this year he began looking around for a government post because he wanted to be "of public service" as part of the Eisenhower administration.

If Gluck had known much about Washington political life, he wouldn't have been afraid of mispronouncing the Ceylon prime minister's name. Former senator Tom Connally of Texas, even as chairman of the foreign relations committee, frequently used to call Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek "Shanghai-shek."

DEDICATE MAGNA CARTA SHRINE

Crowds gather at Runnymede, England, to witness the dedication of the Magna Carta Memorial by members of the American Bar Association as it ended its session in London. In the foreground, a guard surrounds the rotunda during the ceremonies. For 750 years, the place where the rights of man were established by the "Great Charter," was unmarked, save for stone pillars.

Blind Pensioner Dies in Fire In Winnipeg Rooming House

WINNIPEG (CP)—A 60-year-old blind pensioner was killed and three other persons were critically burned in a fire that raced through a downtown frame rooming house early today.

Nine others, including six small children, fled the three-storey home as flames swept out of control, leaped across a narrow alley to walk and spread to a house next door.

Families of homes on both sides of the burning building were evacuated and stood with hundreds of others who jammed the street as fire equipment from five stations fought the blaze for more than two hours.

Dead is Reginald Williams. In hospital were:

Mrs. Christina Warden, 55, in serious condition; Evelyn Cook, 32, in critical condition, and Roderick Cook, 37, Miss Cook's father, in poor condition.

Also in hospital and suffering shock was Marr Sutton, 62, owner of the 40-year-old home.

Mr. Cook leaped from a back verandah and pleased with neighbors to save his daughter. He was by Frank Frith, who lives behind the Cook home.

"It was terrible," he said. "The screaming woke me up. I ran out of my house and saw flames leaping 30 feet over the house. It was like a nightmare. People were screaming all over the place."

Europe-Bound CF-100 Lost In Sept-Iles, Que., District

MONTREAL (CP) — A CF-100 jet fighter was believed to have crashed in the Sept-Iles, Que., area early today while flying from Montreal to Europe, RCAF air defence command headquarters reported.

The plane was from No. 419 Squadron and was one of a group being flown from Germany to join the RCAF Fighter Wing there.

The RCAF said the plane was last seen over the Seychelles area at about 22,000 feet. Crews of other planes saw the canopy of the fighter being released. Then the aircraft went into cloud and did not emerge again. The RCAF said the release of the canopy indicated the pilot had baled out. The plane's two-man crew bailed out.

Missing are Flt. Lt. Kevin J. McNulty, 32, of Thorold, Ont., and F/O G. W. Wilding, 29, of Kingston, Ont.

McNulty was stationed at Trenton at one time and both he and wife, the former Jerry Campbell of Nova Scotia, are well known in Trenton, where they met and married and in Belleville, where Mrs. McNulty once worked.

The RCAF air search rescue unit at Halifax was notified immediately and now is on the scene.

Sept-Iles is on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River about 600 miles northeast of Montreal City. It is one of the landmarks on the route followed by jet aircraft en route to Europe. They fly from nearby St. Hubert to Goose Bay, Labrador, then to Sondrestrom, Greenland, Iceland and Europe.

NORTH BAY (CP) — Twenty-four CF-100 fighters of No. 419 Squadron took off from North Bay at dawn today bound for an air force base in Germany. They left at 10-minute intervals in flights of three aircraft.

The squadron expects to make the 15,000-mile flight in about 36 hours with refuelling stops at Goose Bay, Labrador, and Keflavik, Iceland.

The planes, due in Germany Friday, are being sent to fulfil a commitment to NATO to supply each of the four European

Rocket Plane Sped 2,260 MPH Before Crash

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force announced Wednesday that the Bell-X-2 rocket airplane has attained an unprecedented speed of 2,260 miles an hour just before it crashed last September in California.

Maj.-Gen. John W. Sessums, vice-commander of the Air Research and Development Command, gave this word to the convention here of the Air Force Association. He said the speed attained in the X-2 by Capt. Milburn Apt was nearly four times the muzzle velocity of the rifle bullet that killed Apt. Apt was killed in the crash.

Sessums said the Convair B-58 bomber, weighing 150,000 pounds, has gone faster than twice the speed of a .45 bullet, or 1,132 miles an hour, while the Lockheed F-104 fighter will outrun a 16-inch shell.

The air force also announced for the first time that "re-entry bodies" discharged from the Lockheed X-17 missile have been returned from hundreds of miles above the earth's surface without burning up in the intense air-friction heat.

The first CF-100 to take off was piloted by Wing Cmdr. R. E. Mackenzie, commanding officer of the squadron.

Each of the 10-ton aircraft will have 6,000 to 7,000 gallons of fuel on route. They carry wingtip tanks which will be changed for rocket pods upon arrival in Germany.

No. 419 Squadron's duties at North Bay have been taken over by No. 445 Squadron, refitted with CF-100 all-weather fighters. No. 414 Squadron, formerly equipped with F-86 Sabre jets, is commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. Arthur G. Brunel.

Movie Stars To Testify In Libel Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Confidential magazine publisher Wednesday won court permission to call on Hollywood movie stars to testify in a $5,000,000 criminal libel trial, which opens Friday.

Judge Robert V. Walker denied a motion to quash a subpoena served on actor Rory Calhoun. Calhoun's lawyers contended his testimony could serve no useful purpose because the defendant magazine was issued primarily to harass their client.

Clarence Linn, assistant attorney general, has submitted eight other subpoenas. Among those called by the prosecution claims are libelous and obscene. The others involve Maureen O'Hara, Dick Powell, Robert Mitchum, Dorothy Dandridge's mother, Dale Velez, Mae West, John Carroll and Mark Stevens.

Linn said he does not plan to call them but they can be summoned for rebuttal if the defense uses the stories about them are true.

Thugs Kidnap Woman Storekeeper, Aged Customer, Hold Them for Day

TILLAMOOK, Ore. (AP)—Mrs. Aida Lorene Wright, 42, and Mrs. Ethel Mahlandt, 70, were released, apparently unharmed, after being held 18 hours by two men who robbed her country store of about $500.

"Mrs. Wright had some bruises on her arm," reported Sgt. Bill Maulding of the Oregon state police. "I don't know how she got them. They were treated good after they were offered food and the gunmen bought sandwiches for them."

Police said Aubrey apparently was shopping in Mrs. Wright's store at Jasper when the two men held up and abducted them Tuesday.

For the next 24 hours they drove Mrs. Wright's car 70 miles south to Roseburg, Ore., and then about 225 miles north of the Tillamook area, on the Pacific Coast in northeastern Oregon.

Police said they parked the car on a country road and fled on foot in different directions. Mrs. Wright and Aubrey couldn't get out of the car and walked several miles to a telephone.

Hungarian Reds Arrest Priests, Assail Cardinal

Major Group of Clergymen Held for Part in Revolt

BUDAPEST (AP) — Communist Hungary struck out at Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty and other leaders of the Roman Catholic Church by announcing the arrest today of what it called a "major group of counter-revolutionary priests."

Cardinal Mindszenty took refuge in the U.S. Legation in Budapest when the Russians crushed the Hungarian revolt last November. As far as is known, he still is there.

The Hungarian interior ministry in a statement accused the Hungarian primate of giving instructions for "looting" the government religious affairs office during the revolt.

It mentioned the name of his secretary, Rev. Albert Egon Turcsanyi, who was alleged to have "taken part in the looting at the head of an armed group."

DOCUMENTS TO CARDINAL

"From there," the ministry said, "they shipped secret documents to Mindszenty."

Father Turcsanyi previously was mentioned in the Budapest press in connection with armed groups with headquarters at the Central Theological Academy of the Church. Its activities were said to have started before the outbreak of the revolt and to have become "very great" at that time.

Among the charges:

"Large quantities of leaflets and other propaganda material were made and duplicated, and distributed mainly in the armed centres of counter-revolution.

CONCEALED TERRORISTS

"They (the priests) were in close contact with armed groups, conducted personal agitation among them, supplied them with clothing . . . revolutionaries and after the fighting was over, concealed armed counter-revolutionary terrorists from the authorities."

The ministry said "some church leaders were aware of the large-scale preparations and conspiracy of counter-revolutionary activities."

It did not specify which church leaders it had in mind. The Hungarian Roman Catholic hierarchy, under the leadership of Archbishop Joseph Groesz, has been following a more conciliatory policy than Cardinal Mindszenty toward the Communist regime. It has formed an organization called Opus Pacis (the work of peaces to co-operate with the Communist - organized "peace movement."

Fail to Settle Arvida Strike

QUEBEC (CP) — Hopes faded Wednesday for a quick settlement of the strike of 6,500 workers at the Aluminum Company of Canada plant at Arvida, Que.

Labor Minister Daniel Marcotte said at the conclusion of two meetings between representatives of Alcan and the National Metal Trades Federation (CCCL) that at present "it is almost impossible to finish negotiations this week."

Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor and chief union delegate to the talks, said he is convinced "agreement is near."

Population Rises Half a Million, Canadian Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's population was swelled by 508,000 persons in a year—largest annual gain in history—to reach an estimated 16,589,000 at June 1, the bureau of statistics said today.

With a huge rise in immigration the major factor, the population grew at the rate of 3.2 per cent in the 12 months following the June 1 census.

The gain of 508,000 compares with the average increase of 414,000 during the five-year period 1951-56.

Immigration in the 12 months to June 1 totalled about 350,000—roughly half the total increase. That figure compared with immigration of 194,291 in the calendar year 1951 and the record 400,870 in 1952.

HALF IN ONTARIO

Almost half of the population increase was registered in Ontario, with a four-per-cent gain of 217,000 to 5,429,000. Quebec's population rose 190,000 or 2.8 per cent to 4,758,000.

British Columbia's increase of 80,000 was the largest proportional rise—a rate of 6.3 per cent. In June 1 population was an estimated 1,487,000. Alberta had an increase of 37,000 or 3.2 per cent to 1,192,000.

A decline of 2,000 was estimated for Saskatchewan's fifth province in population. It dropped to 879,000 from 881,900. Prince Edward Island remained unchanged at 99,000.

Population estimates for the other provinces, with 1956 figures in brackets: Manitoba 809,000 (850,000); Nova Scotia 702,000 (695,000); New Brunswick 565,000 (555,000); Newfoundland 436,000 (415,000). Population of the Yukon and Northwest Territories remained unchanged at 12,000 and 19,000, respectively.

Campbell Fails In First Try At New Record

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — Donald Campbell today failed in his first attempt to break his water speed record.

The British king rocketed his hydroplane, Bluebird II, to 200.419 miles an hour in the two runs over Lake Canandaigua, but a slight, almost invisible crack in the rear of the boat into a series of violent bucking motions.

Campbell said he will "have to take a terrific beating out there."

His crew said the lake had changed little, ideal conditions for the speed run, but that an unexpected wind and rain storm arrested the swell.

Campbell called off any more runs today in his attempt to break his own record of 225.63 miles an hour set at Lake Coniston, England, last year.

Grain Crop Yields High

Prospects of a high yield of fall wheat, as well as of oats and other spring grains, are reported for the counties of Hastings and Northumberland in the weekly farm report published by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The report states than an excellent crop of fall wheat is being harvested, while a good oat crop is expected since there has been very little lodging and the grain has filled well.

Yield of canning peas is said to have been above average. Early potatoes are now being dug but prices are disappointing with the average price at the farm being around $1.00 for a 75-lb. bag.

Local Citizens' Grand-Daughter Dies in Accident

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Mitchell, 150 Bridge Street east, will extend sincere sympathy to them in the tragic death of their granddaughter, Miss Nancy Mitchell, 19, Bowmanville, killed in a car accident at the junction of Highways 35 and 115, near Newcastle. Another girl, Thelma Larson, 15, Bowmanville, was also killed, when the car in which the girls were riding collided with a transport truck. The driver of the car, Miss Betty White, 19, R.R. 2, Newcastle, was seriously injured.

Miss Mitchell was a daughter of Mrs. Bernard Mitchell and the late Bernard Mitchell, formerly of St. Catharines. Her grandparents have left for Bowmanville to attend the funeral. Livery service will be given.

Murder Hearing Tentatively Set For August 19

PICTON (Staff)) — The date for the preliminary hearing into the death of Mrs. Clarence A. Jones has been tentatively set for August 19, Prince Edward County Crown Attorney Gordon Walmsley said today.

The hearing will be held in the Picton Magistrate's Court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills of Belleville. It will begin at 1.30 p.m.

Clarence A. Jones, charged with the gun-shot slaying of his wife, is lodged in the county jail. He has been remanded until August 3, the Crown said.

Mrs. Jones' body was found in the family cottage on the Glenora Road on July 17. She had been killed with a single shot from a heavy calibre rifle. A 30-30 rifle was later found in the cottage.

The actual date of the hearing depended upon the prosecution being prepared to proceed.

Provincial Police are continuing with the investigation into the slaying.

Jones has retained Fred L. Ward, Q.C., well-known Picton lawyer.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Dougherty who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on July 31. Members of the family and a number of friends were guests at dinner of Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty.

Dinner Features Golden Wedding Of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dougherty

Marking the 50th anniversary of their marriage on July 31st back in 1907, Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Dougherty, 65 Geddes Street, were "at home" to members of their family and many friends on Wednesday.

The anniversary was highlighted by a family dinner at which about 25 relatives attended.

Mrs. Dougherty, the former Minnie Bateman, is a native of the city, while Mr. Dougherty was born in Tyendinaga, but has lived practically all his life in this city. He is a retired Canadian National Railways employee and former engineer of the railway.

Ill health has hampered Mr. Dougherty's activity in recent months, but when health permitted, he spent much of his time in his flower and vegetable garden. During his younger life he was an ardent fisherman.

A lifetime resident of the city, Mrs. Dougherty said there have been many changes in the city within the past half century, although most of the growth has come since the end of World War II.

"The world is getting too fast for us old folks, but we must try to keep up with the times," she said.

The couple are members of Tabernacle United Church where Mrs. Dougherty has been active in W.A. circles and in other work of the church. Lovely bouquets of flowers from church organizations, from lodges and from friends attested to the high esteem in which the couple are held.

Mr. Dougherty belongs to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, and the Moose Lodge, with Mrs. Dougherty being a member in the ladies' auxiliary of the B. of L. F. E. She is also a member of the Rebekah Lodge No. 350, and the Crystal Chapter, No. 34.

They have two sons, Wm. Dougherty of Belleville, and Russell of Oshawa, and a daughter, Miss Laura Dougherty of Toronto. There are seven grandchildren.

MAN, 71, GETS LIFE

ZEBULON, Ga. (AP) — An elderly retired white farmer has been sentenced to life imprisonment in the savage slaying of a young Negro mother he claimed "sassed" him. B. T. Dukes, 71, was convicted Wednesday of the Aug. 2, 1956, slaying of Mrs. Maybelle Mahone, 30. A jury recommended mercy and Judge John H. McGee sentenced Dukes to life in prison.

Trenton Drivers on Strike Offer Toronto Milk for Sale

Although dairy operators in Trenton and in Belleville described the action as entirely illegal, carloads of milk from the Mimico Dairy outside Toronto was offered for sale by striking milk drivers in Trenton this morning.

The outside milk was being delivered at doors for 22 cents, while stores were also supplied at 19 cents per quart.

At noon today no outside milk had been delivered in the city, although dairy operators expected this would be done. Officials of the striking milk drivers' union could not be contacted.

Delivery of the outside milk in Trenton today was said to have been the result of a request from the Trenton and District Labor Council and the Milk Drivers' Union, backed by a petition from milk consumers in the town who have been inconvenienced by having to carry their own milk since the milk delivery strike last Thursday.

Milk drivers at Riverside Dairy in Trenton and at Reid's Dairy in Belleville were called out on strike in support of demands for pay increases and other benefits.

Then, acting on an agreement between Belleville and Trenton dairies, deliveries from other dairies were also ceased.

Since then there had been no development in the strike issue until this morning when the outside milk was offered for sale in Trenton.

PARK OUTSIDE TOWN

The outside milk was brought to Trenton from Toronto in a refrigerated truck which was spotted on North Front street at the Canadian National Railways station which is just outside the town limits. Legal aspects of delivery of outside milk were being pondered today by strike-bound dairy operators.

Alan Weaver, acting clerk at Trenton, said there had been no application by the milk drivers' union for a milk delivery license. Belleville Dairy in Trenton pays a $25 licence, while Bayview Dairy, another Trenton township, outside Trenton, pays a $100 hawker's and pedlar's license.

It was stated that a licence could also be required from the Milk Control Board.

The town clerk said Police Chief Jack Taylor had power to exercise authority in the matter.

Mayor Ross Burtt said he was interested only in seeing the milk strike settled and that the people were given service.

Striking milk drivers today were still picketing Riverside Dairy in Trenton and Reid's Dairy here with over-the-counter sales of milk on a cash and carry basis being made by the dairies.

An official of Riverside Dairy said dairy operators late this morning were deciding on what action was to be taken with respect to the delivery of outside milk.

"The whole thing is illegal," the official said, "but the funny thing about it is that it is all done before action can be taken."

Belleville and Trenton dairymen have milk control board inspectors in Trenton this morning.

All Belleville one dairy operator said the union delivery of outside milk was "a move to put the bee on the dairy operators."

He said that before outside milk could be legally delivered in Belleville the union would have to apply for a licence as well as a licence from the milk control board. In addition the milk as well as the herds from which it came, would have to be inspected by the medical officer of health.

'Miss Kiwanis' Title Won by Claire Rashotte

The title of "Miss Kiwanis, 1957" belongs to Miss Claire Rashotte, 16, 11 Evans Street.

Miss Rashotte was included in a group of entrants, made up of district girls and one tourist from Florida, who vied for honors last night at the Quinte Drive-in Theatre.

Four judges from Toronto were present to select the winner of the bathing beauty contest, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Trenton.

As winner, Miss Rashotte won a diamond ring, as well as other gifts. Presentations will be made tonight at a dinner to be given in her honor in Trenton.

City Couple Received Much Press Attention

Mr. and Mrs. James Cook who drifted across Lake Ontario to Sodus Point, N.Y., in a 14-foot motorboat a little more than a week ago, really commanded the attention of newspaper reporters and photographers.

Mr. Cook said today 207 newspapers signed in at the hospital in Wolcott, N.Y., to interview them and snap pictures.

The Cooks spent two days in hospital recovering from the effects of 66 hours adrift on the lake without food. They were returned to Belleville by Harry Mullard and Jack Devine of the local radio station.

Foxboro Road Overpass Ready This Weekend

With paving of the highway overpass expected to be completed by this evening, the overpass section of the Queensway at the intersection of Highways 401 and 14 will go into use by this weekend.

This was announced by representatives of the Muskoka Construction Company of Huntsville who earlier this year were awarded the contract for the completion of the highway overpass.

The concrete bridge section of the overpass was done by Domex Construction, which also started the north and south approaches. The firm then went into bankruptcy and so no work on the overpass had been done since last fall.

Paving of the overpass grades was expected to be completed today and hope was expressed that it would be in use by the weekend. Still remaining to be done is sodding of the approach grades and erection of the guard rail, which will be started next week.

Report Good Yield Potatoes

TORONTO (CP)—A good yield of early potatoes in Ontario County was reported by the department of agriculture in the weekly farm report. Prices are disappointing though, at $1 for a 75-lb. bag. In Welland County potatoes were plentiful at $2 a bag and tomatoes are selling at $2-$2.25 a 6-qt. basket.

Wheat harvesting resumed in Elgin County following a heavy rain Monday. Corn and soybeans are showing excellent growth in Lambton County.

A good rain is needed in Frontenac County to improve pasture and help fill out the grain. Haying is approximately 90 per cent completed in Glengarry.

In Renfrew County dry weather continued and pastures were showing the results.

Haying is general in Sudbury district and well under way in Cochrane. Rainy River reports crops, particularly potatoes, showing the effects of too much rainfall.

Move Trucks When Police Give Protection

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Herb Dickey, manager of the strike-bound Canada Vitrified Products Limited plant here said Wednesday three loaded transport trucks will start rolling "as soon as we get an assurance of full police protection."

The trucks loaded with tiles were bombarded last Wednesday when rocks were thrown at the trucks and flaming tires rolled in their path as they left the plant. The drivers returned the trucks to the plant, where they have remained since.

"It's up to the local municipal authorities to do whatever necessary to restore law and order," Mr. Dickey said. "When that is done, we want to move those trucks out of there and move them fast."

Mr. Dickey made the statement as city Police Chief Tom Rickwood and Mayor J. M. Stirling met Wednesday to discuss the company's demand for protection.

Negotiations in Toronto Tuesday between Ontario Labor Minister Daley, company representatives and the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) ended in failure.

Deadly Drug Found by Boy At Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—An intensive search is under way in Hamilton for a deadly drug which police fear may be in the hands of children.

A capsule of the drug was picked up by a young boy playing in the north end.

Authorities identified the drug as a habit-forming and hypnotic type. A pharmaceutical expert said if the drug is taken in a large dosage it is fatal.

Police urged parents in the area to inspect any objects their children may bring home.

The boy who found the capsule said he thinks other children also picked up some of them.

Police said a man earlier stopped two small children in Victoria Park, presented them with seven sleeping pills, and disappeared.

They said the man appeared to be either drunk or under the influence of drugs. He told the youngsters the name of the pills and warned them that they were dangerous.

Police Blotter

Two minor break-ins, one of which netted about $10 in silver, and another a carton of cigarets, were reported by city police this morning.

Patrol officers found the latter at the Five-in-One Theatre, forced at an early hour with a check by the manager revealing cupboards had been searched and a carton of cigarets was missing.

The second break-in was at Kincaid's Service Station at North Front and Harriet Streets where a coke machine had been forced and 10 silver taken.

One minor motor mishap was reported on Highland Ave. this morning, when a car driven by Clarence Shepherd of Godfrey, Ont., went out of control and struck a hydro pole. A slippery pavement caused by recent showers in the city street flusher was given as a contributing cause of the accident.

Car Salesmen Join Union

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Robinson, a Toronto Central Conference official of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, says 200 of the city's 2,000 car salesmen have signed union cards in an organizing drive.

He said Wednesday local 930 of the union has been granted a charter by the Ontario labor relations board to act as bargaining agent for 10 employees of Weston Motors Limited.

The local has also applied for certification at eight other companies.

Mr. Robinson said the union is bargaining for a contract that will "clean up the many evils of this industry."

The unions are asking a guaranteed minimum weekly salary plus commission; full pay for all-testing motor shows or exhibitions; workmen's compensation and other benefits.

Doesn't Think Sons to Blame For Derailment

WINNIPEG (CP)—The mother of two small boys who investigators say admitted they opened the switch that derailed a CNR passenger train Sunday said in an interview Wednesday she doesn't think her sons are to blame "if the lock was left open."

"After all," she said, "kids are kids."

The mother, Mrs. Rudolph Riter said she isn't even certain her sons tampered with the switch.

The boys—Bobby, 7, and Ralph, 8—earlier this week told police they loosened the switch. Sixteen cars of the CNR continental Mo. Limited from Montreal from Montreal and Toronto, were derailed and Mrs. Riter's son from Montreal and Toronto, were derailed and Mrs. Riter's son Ralph, 8, was injured. Eighty-six persons were injured.

LIVE ON FARM

The Riters live in a small farm house 500 yards from the wreck scene at Sourus, 36 miles east of Winnipeg. Mr. Riter is employed by the CNR.

Mrs. Riter said the boys were not picking berries today after noon. But she said she still doubts her boys opened the switch.

"You know how cross scare children," she said. "They might say anything."

No charges have been laid against the youngsters. CNR vice-president J. H. Miller said he might be several days before a decision is reached on what action will be taken.

Hydro Names Three Directors

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Hydro Wednesday announced the appointment of three directors to the company's personnel branch.

W. Oliver of Dorchester, Ont., becomes director of employee relations; W. H. Barnes of Prescott becomes director of industrial relations and R. H. Nicholson, Toronto, will be director responsible for employment, salary administration and training.

The appointments are effective Aug. 1.

Set-Piece Attack May Be Thing of Past in Atom War

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP)—The meticulously planned, set-piece attack may be a thing of the past on atomic battlefields, staff officers say.

This, they add, is probably one of the major lessons to come out of the 10th Canadian Infantry Division's Exercise Eastern Star, scheduled to end today.

In drizzle and total blackout, the division, supported by nine simulated nuclear strikes, put in a cross-river assault Wednesday night and early today.

But it soon got bogged down in the hit-and-run defensive tactics of the enemy force and the situation quickly became confused.

LESSONS FORGOTTEN ¶

Officers said hard lessons learned in the latter stages of the Second World War about how to conduct a night attack have been largely forgotten by the peacetime Canadian Army. That was the main reason for the final night exercises.

Staff officers said it would be almost impossible to conduct a set-piece attack across a river, by day or night. All the enemy would have to do would be to throw a few men along the bank with wireless sets and they could direct nuclear strikes on the bridgeheads.

Officers also said the set-piece attack appears doomed because roads choked with convoys would be "sure as shooting blow." This is why the army is anxious to obtain as soon as possible a new armored carrier which doesn't have to stick to roads at all and is troop carrier plane.

LIKE YANK FORCE

Many officers here would like to see an American infantry division imported next summer to do mock battle with the 1st division.

Their main argument for such a move is that the present system of exercising the division here is unrealistic. One battalion of 1,000 men represents the enemy force and is pitted against six infantry battalions and artillery and tank regiments of the 1st division.

Officers say it is hard for 1st division soldiers to imagine one tank as can be a platoon a than section as a 150 - man infantry company. Also, bringing in an American division would enable the Canadian and U.S. armies to build up tips on each other's tactics and weapons.

CAMP WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP)—The army today began to evaluate the results of a three-day atomic warfare exercise which ended its summer training of early 5,000 regular troops at this camp 120 miles southeast of Edmonton. Officials indicated the results will influence future army policy and tactics.

One of the chief aims of the operation which ended Wednesday was to exercise the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade in nuclear warfare attack and defence.

Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, general officer commanding Western Army Command, described the operation—Exercise Hot Foot—as "very successful" and said the exercise has proved the advantage of mobile infantry and new army tactics of dispersion.

Gen. Vokes, who directed the exercise, added that evaluation will not be complete until the results are studied thoroughly by army headquarters. Exercises such as this have an important bearing on long-term policy of the army.

On hand to observe the operation was Lt.-Gen. H. D. Graham, chief of general staff. Thirty umpires kept an eye on the mock battle which highlighted the operation.

For the exercise troops from Kingston to Victoria were divided into two groups, one of more than 1,000 men equipped with armored personnel carriers and the other, composed of more than 3,000 troops, equipped for conventional wars.

May Sell Hospital To Pay Contractor

UXBRIDGE, Ont. (CP)—An action against Uxbridge Cottage Hospital for $100,000 in overdue builders' costs goes into court at Whitby today. The nearly completed building may have to be sold to pay the bill.

L. C. Scott Construction Company of Markham placed a lien on the 32-bed hospital in May pending payment of the outstanding amount after the hospital board had exhausted funds raised over a six-year period.

Hospital board member Fred W. Taylor said Wednesday he had advised them would be no further adjournment of the suit.

KEEPING THE RECORD STRAIGHT

"Readers often write angry letters to newspapers: 'How does the government expect a person to live on an old age pension of $46 (or $50) a month'?" says the Windsor Daily Star. These protests, it says, are the result of "a misconception the politicians for some reason or other seldom straighten out."

"No one would try to argue that $46 or $50 is enough to maintain a person unless he has income of his own or is assisted by his family," declares the Windsor Star. "A pensioner in the unfortunate position of having to rely entirely on the pension requires some supplementary assistance. This is forthcoming from some of the provinces."

The Windsor Star contends that "The fact is, of course, the universal old age pension is not intended to cover full maintenance but to supplement private resources."

The Star's editorial is just the latest, and the best-reasoned we have seen, of a recent flood of similar comment. It makes excellent sense. There is only one difficulty. It does not happen to coincide with the facts.

Prior to 1952, old age pensions were paid only to those people over 70 who could prove they needed such financial assistance. They had to pass a "means test, proving that their private resources were either non-existent or extremely small. If they passed such a test, they received $40 a month, the Federal Government paying half and the provincial government half.

In 1952 universal old age pensions were instituted for people over 70. Primarily the change was made because, it was argued, the means test was, in some cases, accompanied by a penalty against thrift. The thrifty person drew no pension; the spendthrift ate his cake and then had the government provide him with another one.

Since prior to 1952 the total sum provided by federal and provincial governments to the destitute was $40 a month, it is surely obvious that, at that time, this was supposed to cover full maintenance. After everybody received old age pensions, provincial governments cut off their contributions to those over 70. That some have since provided supplementary aid for those with no other source of income merely proves that the $40 pension is not today doing what it was intended to do—provide full maintenance.

The Windsor Star says: "The old age pension was designed not as a substitute for thrift and savings and family responsibilities, but to augment private income." With that statement there can be no quarrel. It was as true the day when pensions were started as it is today. In making pensions universal, the Federal government aimed at helping that large group of older citizens, probably the majority, who had done what they could to provide for their old age but who found their savings insufficient to provide a decent standard of living. But, and this point should not be overlooked, the pension was originally set at an amount which, while not providing an adequate standard of living, would at least make it possible for the absolutely penniless to eke out an existence. Eking out an existence on $40 a month in 1952 was, we suggest, much easier than eking out an existence on $40 or $46 a month in 1957.

BALANCED?

We have just received a copy of the 37th report of the Ontario Department of Labor for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1956.

Included is a chart showing the set-up of the department and its various branches.

From this chart we gather that in the year in question there were 83 persons engaged in the examination of operating engineers, the inspection of boilers and the inspection of elevators.

This was five more than the number of persons dealing with conciliation in industrial disputes, the administration of the Fair Employment Practices Act, the Female Employees' Fair Remuneration Act, the Fair Accommodation Practices Act, the Hours of Work and the Vacations with Pay Act, the Industrial Standards Act and the Apprenticeship Act. If one excludes those dealing exclusively with the Apprenticeship Act, the number of Department employees engaged in the work listed in this paragraph is reduced from 78 to 38 -- compared with 83 examining engineers, boilers and elevators.

—It would be interesting if somebody would compare the ratio of Department inspectors per boiler with the ratio of conciliation officers per worker.

THE BRAVE FRAIL

They do so much—the crippled and the blind,
The brave bodies and the badly lamed.
They do so many gracious deeds and kind
That we, the well and strong, should feel ashamed.

They are so brave. They wave —at all and smile.
They welcome every task their strength can do.

Still to be living seems to them worthwhile,
But some in health complain the whole day through.

Each of us knows one, brave and blithe and gay,
Shut off from all the well have strength to do.
Who still can smile and turn to us and say:
"The best of luck throughout the day to you."

A Large Black Mustache

New York Times

The arrival on the local sports scene of a French middleweight whose fame rests as much on a large black mustache on his ability to dispatch his opponents into pugilistic dreamland recalls for us how hair on the masculine face and fighting ability have been associated. A fine beard, for example, traditionally has signified fierceness and masculinity if for no other reason than appearances.

Sal Maglie, Dodger pitcher known affectionately as the Barber, refrains from shaving before each ball game so that his scowl will be accentuated in frightening better of the opposing team. This is something he admits to have learned from Jack Dempsey, who discovered early in his career that entering the ring for any brawl helped to intimidate and disarm his challengers.

Ancient history links shaving and fighting in several ways. In the reign of Henry VIII of Philip, soldiers were ordered to wear their mustaches on his face dragged by their whiskers during battle and held in the easy grip of the enemy. This belief is believed to have launched the Black fashion shaving.

Shortly after, though, the process was reversed in Rome, where the Emperor Hadrian adopted the beard to cover the marks on his cheeks on his face stained from incessant feuding. As a result, he in turn set a fashion which, for several centuries, made beards, and this continued until the Emperor Constantine the Great. Here in New York State the Greek fashion seems to have won out over the Roman, for the State Athletic Commission in the 1940's insisted on his face clean shaven, although exceptions have been made for Archie Moore, who has been allowed to wear Germinal Ballarin, our mustachioed Gallic visitor.

IMPORT FROM FRANCE

The renascence that the beard currently is enjoying brings up considerable speculation. One psychiatrist sees some relationship between the world's comeback and another type of battle that between the sexes. He offers the thought that in a day when the woman moves increasingly into areas once acknowledged the sole prerogative of the male, man reverts to the beard in an attempt to regain his once dominant position.

Another explanation has it that the beard is a post-World War II import from France, brought back by ex-G. I.'s who stayed on after the hostilities and joined the Paris existentialists. Still another holds that increased spare time forces today's male to develop new ways and means of spending idle hours, and care of the beard has taken its place alongside woodworking, painting and driving sports cars among his favorite leisure activities.

ONCE FAMILIAR NAMES

Whatever the reason, the beard definitely has returned. After a lapse of centuries it again we hear the once familiar names of the bearded ones: Vandyke, the goatee, the Storza, the Presbyter (as sported by the yesterday Hemingway), the Shenandoah, Guelph, Mutton Chops, Cruz Diablo, Shaker, Lincoln, Napoleon III, and the Waved Assyrian. Madison Avenue has taken up the beard reliably in its advertising for Schweppes and smokes, where bearded gents joined "Trade" and "Mark", the Smith Brothers who have been in the cough drops for almost eighty years. Latest estimates have it that 200,000 acts of chin whiskers currently are being pampered in the United States. This figures no doubt are in for a seasonal increase during the weeks of midsummer, when male uses his holiday days to let out a beard, finding it gratifying to himself and a source of notice to others, he often decides to continue it throughout the year.

Editor Wary About Shorts

Sudbury Star

As inevitable as the Joy with which a visitor welcomes news a sight of the first spring robin, is the concern with which he reads the first summer letter from a Regular Reader complaining that women are wearing shorts on downtown streets. The first one of the year, written by a woman out recently, came desk today.

We experience little difficulty in recognizing the perennial return of the robin. It is a news item, and can be committed to memory, with the addition of a paragraph on the weather and the poor goodness of "son, better pick pesky tons today".

It wasn't as bad in all much than cleaning out cellar pens or hoeing corn. With can in hand one could up and down the rows picking the handsomely-colored, black and yellow striped beetles from the green leaves. Not necessarily an exciting job, but one in which sisters who felt a moral obligation to help out their brother industry, there were valuable side issues involved.

There was woodchuck holes to explore with Shep; there were big, enormous birds' nests in the grey birches by the pasture wall. Sometimes a big black snake would be running itself on a flat boulder at field's edge. Song sparrows carols from the barway posts and the bobwhites called from the meadow.

Picking potato bugs was necessary routine work, but as with many farm tasks, it had points in its favor for a 12 year old.

On Picking Potato Bugs

Ottawa Journal

One traditional activity with which Canadian youth is familiar is potato bugs by hand and dropping them into a can partially filled with coal oil.

Commercial growers do not depend upon hand labor today; the entire process is mechanized. But a generation and more ago, farm and city boy and girl alike were sent by hand. It was a farm lad's pride to hoe one or twice before the rows were hilled. Then came the potato bugs and father ordered the scouring when he had finished his piece of job, "Mister pick pesky

Great Works After Sixty

Timmins Press

There are a lot of people in this world who are disturbed by the fact that they have reached middle age, and yet fame and fortune have eluded them. They have not been able to write the great novel or the great symphony. The records of life have passed them by, and as the years pass they feel it is too late for them to achieve anything worthwhile.

To such people we can offer some grain of comfort. Research workers have been delving into the histories of some famous people, and of them we can an outstanding statesman, painter, writer, poet or worker for the group's greatest achievements in their lives, 35 per cent when they were in the years between 60 and 70 years old. Twenty-three per cent of them achieved their greatest work and fame when they were between 70 and 80. Eight per cent of them reached that goal when they were more than 80 years old. Summing it all up these figures show that 66 per cent of the world's greatest work has been done by men over 60 years of age.

That should provide some comfort for those nearing middle age as being our most useful. It is too late for them to achieve anything worthwhile. They still have time for great accomplishments. It may be that with advancing maturity, they can use their talents to greater advantage. It may be that with the gift of retirement, they will have time to do some of the things of which they have dreamed, but have never had time to accomplish. But one thing is clear, the above record knocks into a cocked hat that modern theory that it is too old to do any useful work when he reaches the age of 65.

It's Net Income Now

Time was when gross income meant something to farmers, but that era went out with the horse and buggy. Now it is the net income that really matters and it is for that reason that agricultural policies and programs should be designed to improve.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Children Should Keep Their Tonsils

It appears to be the consensus of physicians today that individuals have undergone tonsillectomy are more likely than others to catch poliomyelitis. This seems logical enough, for it is fairly well established now that poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) is a virus infection, and that is, due to germ or virus) and that the germ or virus gains entrance to the body just as the germ of diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough, measles, chicken-pox, by penetrating the mucous membrane lining of the nose or throat. Polio is a respiratory infection — one of the common respiratory infections, that is, the C R I.

In a medical magazine a rhino-laryngologist (nose and throat specialist) says that studies on polio patients indicate that absence of tonsils, regardless of the time of their removal, makes an individual more susceptible to poliomyelitis. He reminds us that the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was attacked by polio 11 months after tonsillectomy. Although some operators remove tonsils regardless, it is now the general practice to refuse to operation when polio is epidemic.

Although some physicians are unconvinced of the function of lymphoid (round cell, adenoid) tissue, which composes the tonsils and adenoid body and is found in other strategic situations, the prevailing consensus is that the adenoid body and cervical lymph nodes (called "kernels" when enlarged) constitute the body's first line of defense against the C R I respiratory infections.

This association of tonsil tissue with defense against invasion of the body by disease germs and with acquired immunity (always relative, not absolute) to the common respiratory infections which account for "the diseases of childhood"; is one of the two main reasons why I believe tonsillectomy should never be done — except possibly for malignancy. The other reason why this atrocity should never be perpetrated is that it fails so many children.

For the young child with enlarged tonsils the instantaneous and comparatively safe "clipping", slicing off the obstructing portion with scissors, instead of entire adequate treatment. For the older child or adult with infected tonsils — in matters of religion is electro-coagulation (diathermy), applied in a series of sittings in the doctor's office, to destroy, drain or disinfect the infected area without damaging the uninfected portion of tonsil or nearby throat muscle.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IT CAN HAPPEN

Even who has made a study of missions in North Africa declared recently in a public address that in the town near Carthage in which the famous church of Cyprian was born, there is not a Christian today. Under the pressure of intolerant activities at the point of a sword, the whole of this section of North Africa was wrested from Christian to Mohammedan faith. In fact the Berbers, who are one hundred per cent Mohammedan, still tattoo all the members of their tribes with a cross. This comes from the day when the Berbers were one hundred per cent Christian. Apparently the present generation has forgotten what this tattoo mark means. He only knows that is an ancient custom.

Hospital Rates, Benefits Set By September

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost announced Wednesday rates and benefits in the Ontario hospital insurance plan will be set by mid-September.

"It will be a very attractive arrangement," he said.

The premier said hospital and medical insurance firms will continue to operate when the provincial plan takes effect Jan. 1, 1959.

The proposed Ontario scheme will provide standard ward care for all residents of the province. Mr. Frost said the government has no desire to drive insurance companies from providing supplementary protection over the universal coverage.

BLUE CROSS WILL HELP

He said actuaries now are working on rate structures and they should be known by mid-September. Land in North Toronto had been bought for an administration building from the Ontario Hospital Association, operators of the Blue Cross hospital insurance plan in Ontario. The province will also buy tabulating equipment from Blue Cross, he added.

C. V. Charters, president of the Hospital Association, said the association foresaw no conflicts or duplications between the government plan and Blue Cross. Blue Cross experience over 16 years showed many people in Ontario preferred semi-private care to standard ward hospital care to be offered by the province, he said.

Blue Cross would continue its operation in the fields of both basic and semi-private hospital care, he said. The organization intended to make available records, personnel and equipment to aid the provincial scheme in getting started.

Lawn Bowling Club Holds Tournament

DESERONTO — On July 24 an enjoyable tournament was held in the afternoon by the Deseronto Lawn Bowling Club. There were teams from Kingston and Deseronto competing in a mixed doubles tournament.

As a result of the competitions the prizes were evenly distributed, two prizes going to Kingston teams, and two prizes going to Deseronto teams. The three-game high winner was the team of E. Dennison from Kingston, the two-game high winner was Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Walker of Deseronto, the one-game high winner was Mr. and Mrs. W. Cable of Kingston, and last, but not least, the game winner high, Dr. R. D. Hall and Mrs. William Crabbe, of Deseronto.

Following the second game, a delicious supper was served by the members of the Deseronto Women's Lawn Bowling Club.

The greens were in excellent condition, the weather pleasant, and the food was good, which in all made for a most enjoyable day.

23 Youths Fined

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-three of 25 youths arrested following a fight between two rival gangs were each fined Wednesday $10 and costs or three days in jail.

Two of the youths were convicted of causing a disturbance Tuesday night.

Magistrate C. A. Thoburn suggested to the members of the rival gangs that they should go to a boxing ring and fight it out.

The youths, ranging in age from 16 to 22, were armed with pop bottles and wrenches.

Stratford Indians Walk Out Of Western Group Meeting

KITCHENER (CP)—A dramatic walkout by a four-man Stratford delegation at an Ontario Hockey Association senior A meeting Wednesday night may have removed Stratford Indians from active status in the association's top series.

After nearly three hours of discussion, Dutch Meier, leader of the delegation, called his associates out of a meeting convened by OHA President Lorne Cook. He suggested that if the remaining senior clubs in the OHA's Western Ontario senior A group—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Chatham Maroons and Windsor Bulldogs—had anything more to suggest, "you can let me know."

The other members of the Stratford delegation were Walter (Red) Scott, Arnie Helm and Bob McCully.

PRESS FOR ANSWER

The walkout came unexpectedly when delegates of the other clubs and group convener Lloyd Pollock of Windsor were pressing Meier for an unequivocal answer on whether he would operate a Stratford team if his rink rental demands were met.

Meier said that many weeks ago he had told the Stratford parks board, which operates the Stratford arena, that he would run a team only if he could get the rink for $200 a night and be guaranteed $3,000 for operational use if he needed it.

Ernie Goman, business manager of the Dutchmen, and coach-manager Murph Chamberlain of Maroons, have been representing the western group in delicate negotiations trying to bring the two Stratford groups together.

WANTED $3,000 BOND

They reported that the park board had demanded $350 nightly or 20 per cent of the gate, whichever was larger, and a $3,000 performance bond.

They suggested that a way would be found to meet Meier's terms. On this basis they asked the Stratford delegation head to say that he was prepared to operate a team. Meier demurred, said that he would "probably" operate but refused to commit himself even on the terms suggested by himself.

After two hours of fruitless talk, a half-hour intermission was called to give the Stratford delegates a chance to confer.

Upon resumption, Meier asked a number of questions and was informed that financial help through a league pool of 10 per cent of all gross gates would be available. He then informed the meeting that he expects to get the $5,000 guarantee in cash before the season begins.

DELEGATES LEAVE

Argument on whether this was the original proposal then suddenly terminated when Meier and his fellow delegates left.

The other clubs will seek a fourth term in other quarters. Chatham will look over the possibilities in Sarnia, Windsor in Woodstock and the Dutchmen in Galt.

It was indicated that the three remaining clubs are prepared to provide substantial direct and indirect financial help to any new entry. In addition, all the Stratford players and those of the defunct Owen Sound Mercurys have been "frozen" by the OHA and will be made available to any new entry.

Chamberlain suggested that it was time to forget about Stratford and that the league, which has been awaiting a Stratford answer for three months, had gone more than far enough.

$15,000 LAST YEAR

Meier did not operate the Stratford team last year, when it was run by the arena commission of the park board and lost upwards of $15,000.

Owen Sound, another loser last year, dropped out a couple of meetings back.

The teams will report progress on their search for a new entry to Pollock in a week's time and will hold a full-dress meeting in Chatham Aug. 15.

During the meeting, the OHA past-president, Frank Buckland, of Peterborough, was presented with a clock by Goman on behalf of the clubs that made up the 1956-57 league. Buckland was senior council chairman for several years.

Women's Institute

FOXBORO W. I.

When the Foxboro Women's Institute met for its July meeting, Mrs. W. L. Johnston was the hostess.

Mrs. C. Hubble presided and opened the meeting in the usual manner.

After some discussion it was decided to sponsor the Foxboro 4-H Potato Club.

It was also decided that shoulder the floor and be painted before the middle of August, that members clean same in the school auditorium.

The committee of the Institute in charge of arrangements for the fair, were to meet later in July.

Mrs. C. Bamber acting for Mrs. Gough, was in charge of the program. The following readings were given: "Weeds," by Mrs. Hollinger; "Points of View," by Mrs. W. Simmons, and "Wealth" by Mrs. Bamber.

Mrs. W. L. Johston read the motto, "What Effect do Current Events have on us Today", prepared by Mrs. F. W. Kinsella.

In reporting on "Current Events", Mrs. M. B. Shorey gave a most interesting reading of Susan B. Anthony, and what she had done for the betterment of women in the world. She has now been honored by the United States government by having her picture on an American three cent stamp.

FLOUR CONTEST

A contest on flowers was give by Mrs. C. Bamber to complete the program.

Mrs. M. C. Jamieson gave a interesting report from "Home and Country," on the Quinte Conference, telling of the different countries of the world which the conference delegates will visit before they return home.

Mr. M. B. Shorey gave a most interesting demonstration on homemade radios using the tape recorder as an amplifier.

Refreshments were served by the lunch committee and a social hour was enjoyed.

DANCE EXPERT

SCULTHORPE, England (CP) —Rodney Ditchburn, serviceman at an RAF station, will teach square-dancing to couples at a United States Air Force base near here. "It is my small contribution towards bettering Anglo-American relations," he says.

Girls Renovate Old Hearse as Travelling Home

CALGARY (CP)—A long, low, 1930 hearse whose grim purpose has been brightened by two young Australian school teachers passed through here en route to Ottawa.

The pretty newcomers, Bonnie Coulton and Wilma Anders, bought the vehicle in Vancouver a few months ago. They have converted it into a comfortable vehicle for travelling. The body of the car provides sleeping quarters, with extra room for kitchenware, clothing and sundry other equipment.

They purchased it in April and made a trip as far south as Tijuana, Mexico, before coming north again to head east. Their trip included stops at San Francisco, Los Angeles, the Grand Canyon, Zion Canyon, Salt Lake City, Yellowstone Park and Glacier Falls, Mont.

The girls left teaching posts in Sydney, Australia, last January to sail for Vancouver to "see the world." They hope to get school teaching positions when they reach Toronto.

WEDDINGS

HEALEY — POWER

On Saturday, July 20, at 10 a.m. the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the scene of a lovely summertime wedding when Bernice Mary Power, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. James Power, became the bride of Joseph Vincent Healey, of Stoco, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Healey. The Reverend W. P. Healey officiated. Also present in the sanctuary were the Reverend C. E. Baker of Stoco, and the Reverend Peter Murphy of Belleville. Gladioli adorned the altar.

Miss Loraine Wardoff presided at the organ and accompanied Mrs. Fergus Cassidy, Stoco, soloist, who sang "Ave Maria" during the ceremony and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," during the signing of the register.

The radiant bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a charming gown in floor-length of white Chantilly lace and tulle over satin with matching lace jacket having a Peter Pan collar dotted with mother-of-pearl sequins, and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a flat silver headdress of mother-of-pearl sequins and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses, white pom 'mums and trailing ivy. Pearl earrings completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Pat Roach, of Belleville, attended the bride, gowned in green lace over taffeta with matching stole, gloves and headdress. She carried a nosegay of Ball Boka fluffs and white Pinocchio poms edged with yellow tulle.

Mr. Harold Healey, of Kingston, attended the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. Kenneth Power of Oshawa, brother of the bride, and Mr. Walter Healey, of Kingston, brother of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, where the bride's aunt, Mrs. Joseph Power of Read, Ontario, received the guests, wearing mid blue crepe with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in ice blue, with white accessories and pink carnation corsage.

The bride's table was centred by a three-tier wedding cake and flanked by the bridal bouquets.

For travelling to Watertown, Syracuse and other interesting points in the United States, the bride chose a natural satin in sheath style with black sheer duster, white accessories and a corsage of white gardenias. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Healey will reside at 280 Sydenham St., Kingston, Ont.

Guests were present from Oshawa, Tweed, Kingston, Belleville and Read.

Prior to her marriage the Northern Electric Company presented her with an automatic coffee maker. Several showers were also held in her honor; one at the home of Miss Millie Lester, of Belleville, and one given by Mrs. Harold Callaghan, of Marysville, Ontario, cousin of the bride.

O'CONNOR — HENLEY

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, July 27, at 11.00 a.m. at Grace United Church parsonage, Trenton, by the Reverend G. A. Puttenham, when Dorothy Ann Mildred Henley, of Frankford, R. R. 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henley, became the bride of Roderick Thomas O'Connor, of Belleville, son of Mrs. Thomas P. (Reada) O'Connor, and the late Mr. T. P. O'Connor.

The bride was attractively attired in white net over white satin, in street length, with matching headdress and cascade bouquet of red and white roses.

She was attended by Miss Phyllis Henley, of Oshawa, who wore blue net over blue satin, in street-length, with matching, small, petal hat, and carried a cascade bouquet of shaggy, yellow 'mums.

Mr. Donald English, of Shannonville, attended the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the bride's home in Frankford, R. R. 2, which was prettily decorated for the occasion with summer flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor will make their home in Belleville.

CROWE — BATEMAN

Ferns and pink and white gladioli formed a pretty setting in Springbrook United Church, on Saturday, July 27, at 2.30 p.m. for a double-ring wedding when Miss Jean Bateman, registered nurse of Springbrook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bateman, became the bride of Donald Stephen Crowe, of Stockdale, son of Mrs. Fred Crowe, and the late Mr. Crowe. The Reverend H. E. Beare, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mrs. Bob Sanderson, of Marmora, rendered the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ken Brandon, of Toronto, as she sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Attired in a waltz-length bridal gown of white slipper satin and lace fashioned with molded bodice having a matching bolero with long sleeves ending in V-points over the wrists, and crowned at the back over-skirt of lace and inserts of matching lace; shoulder-length veil caught to a beaded headdress and carrying a bouquet of Sweetheart roses and baby narcissi, the charming bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Percy Bateman.

Attending the bride as maid of honor, Miss Joan Campbell, of Belleville, wore a waltz-length gown of blue taffeta, with matching blue headdress, white nylon eyelet gloves and carried a muff of white 'mums with yellow net.

Miss Doreen Broadworth, of Bonarlaw, niece of bride, wore yellow taffeta in waltz-length with matching yellow headdress, and white, eyelet nylon gloves. She also carried a muff of white 'mums with blue net accent.

Mr. Harry MacDonald, Frankford, was groomsman, and Mr. James Dorland, of Hilton, and Mr. Robert White, of Toronto, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the L.O.L. hall where the catering was done by the W.A. members. Those serving included: Mrs. Stockdale.

AUSSIE GIRLS TOUR NORTH AMERICA IN 1930 HEARSE

Australian schoolteachers Wilma Pruden, left, and Bonnie Coulton have travelled throughout North America by a novel means of locomotion—a 1930 hearse. They bought the big car in Vancouver for $150 and have even retained the curtains because they "give the car a homey touch." So far they have travelled 9,000 miles throughout Canada and his U.S. and are very satisfied with their gasoline buggy, even if sometimes it causes men to lift their hats as it goes by.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THIS IS A GOOD DEAL YOUR OWN FAULT

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Mary catrice Fairfax:

Mary and I split since we were over eight months ago, this we said I have been seeing each other. She is 20 and I am 21. As you can imagine, we are quite gone on each other.

Up until recently, everything was going fine, but lately this girl has been showing a great deal of jealousy if I even stop to talk a few minutes with some girl I know who we happen to meet when we are out together. She says I shouldn't stop to talk to any other girl; that I should just say "Hello" and move on.

I really am devoted to this girl, and have been planning to ask her to marry me, but I don't think she ought to act the way she does about other girls I know. What do you think? Pal.

Dear Pal:

In the first place, I think it's a big mistake for any young man or girl to see each other "every single night" to the exclusion of each other when they know when they keep up with other friends and interests to a reasonable extent, instead of wrapping themselves up in each other so completely that they lose all perspective about their relationship.

That, I say, is the crux of exactly what has happened to your girl friend—she's lost her perspective. Because the two of you have concentrated so exclusively on each other, she has come to think that she "owns" you, and resents your appearing to have the slightest interest—even a normal social interest—in anyone else. Undoubtedly, she is the type that is predisposed to be jealous, but, just the same, I think a great deal to blame for the present situation for having had this "every single night" understanding to develop.

Whether you intend to marry this girl or no, you'd better make it clear right now that you're a free agent and not the exclusive property of anyone; that you have a perfect right to be interested in other friends and that you're definitely not going to cold-shoulder them when you happen to meet.

And if you do marry her, I can predict that you're going to find yourself in hot water quite often unless you come to a mutual agreement in advance that the rules of this custom and just plain common sense, and not the jealous possessiveness of either of you, shall be the guide for both of you in your friendships.

YOU HAVE A LOT OF SENSE, ALMA!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I saw a letter in your column lately from a girl who was complaining that she never had a date and couldn't get a boy friend.

I think it is very silly for a girl to say she can't get a boy friend. All you need is to have a pleasing personality, to act properly when out with a young man and to listen to him tell you about himself and talk along with him on the subjects he brings up. I have found that this works very well. — Alma T.

Dear Alma:

I congratulate you on your analysis—of what it takes to get along with young men, and I think there is a great deal of good sound sense in what you say.

Everyone likes a person who will listen attentively while they talk about themselves and the things in which they are interested, that's only human. Also, anyone can develop a pleasing personality if they will.

I think if some of the girls who seem to find it hard to get boy friends would follow your suggestions they'd have a lot better luck.

Ermine Used By Balmain for Evening Dress

PARIS (Reuters) — Pierre Balmain has presented his latest interpretations of the new fur fashions. They appeared in trench coats, suits and dresses.

Skins are handled like fabrics, his fall and winter collection revealed Tuesday.

His latest classic ermine garment is an evening dress. A wide, full-length, belled skirt made entirely of ermine was set off by a tight-fitting bodice with round neck and long sleeves of black velvet.

In the use of furs in suits and dresses, black broadtail is the favored fur to replace fabric. Trims include enormous cuffs of fur that button into wide fur sleeves.

Coats are predominantly full, with easy folds falling unbelted from a yoke at the back from the shoulder line, which is dropped to accentuate the sleeves.

FALL BLOUSES HAVE NEW LOOK

A backless dinner blouse of flowered French silk chiffon is typical of Fall's new glamour trend.

Earlier this year, Parisian couturiers revived the vogue for the blouse beautiful, launching it as Fashion's heroine and brightest star. Rising rapidly in style importance ever since, blouses have now converged with an entirely new and elegant look for fall, strongly reminiscent of the new, such two-piece costume look of the twenties and thirties, according to an advance forecast by Helen Joyce, Fashion Director for the National Association of Blouse Manufacturers. So radically changed in appearance are the fall designs and so important is the new costume possibilities for the average woman, that this year for the first time the blouse industry has set aside a National Blouse Week to be held from September 8 to 14, when stores throughout the country will spotlight the whole gamut of new blouse fashions that are playing a brilliant leading style role on the American scene.

Blouse fashions for fall are focused on several strong themes. These are the soft look achieved by both feminine design and pliable fabrics, as inspired by Chanel and Vionnet; the emergence of a popular new color, Florentine Gold, which promises to be the feminine answer to the Madison Avenue pink shirt; the renaissance of the overblouse and blouson which contributed so importantly to the two-piece costume look of the twenties and thirties; and the return of the complete dinner blouse.

The new blouses follow the trend for soft relaxed styling that neither exaggerates nor ignores the figure, after Chanel and Vionnet those two great French dressmakers who emancipated women from the stiff "wishbone and corset" look. Severe lines and crisp fabrics have given way to soft fluid effects achieved by easy silhouettes, dressmaker details, and supple gently-draped fabrics. Manifestations of the new becomingly feminine influence include accented, on-pleated ruffs and cuffs, rippling jabots, cascading ruffles, floating bows, round necklines, lace edgings, beading, hemstitching, tucking, fagoting, delicate embroideries.

Even the classic man-tailored shirt has gone soft with generous bows that tie high or low at the neckline. Often the bows unbutton or snap off to reveal a convertible plunge, further softened by a winged design. Open necklines ask for layers of decorative beads, filmy scarfs, further softened by a feminine accents. Even the staidly-tailored Ivy League button-down collar has been softened with a new plunging convertible neckline. And shirt sleeves are now most popular at three-quarter length with luxurious French-cuff cut sleeves that lend themselves to interestingly jeweled cuff links and bracelets.

Strong Chanel influences include tailored shoulder-fitted blouses, braid and bone buttons, the overblouse, regimental stripes, and jewelry and other fabrics in her favorite shades of red and beige. Popular in both waist and hip lengths, the overblouse is feminized by neckline bows, large jabot or softly ruffled collars, and slide waist-ties. The sailor middy, with its low softly-knotted tie and squaredoff collar makes a strong appearance for fall. The blouson "the rage" in 1936, is back in many variations with both elasticized and drawstring waists, nostalgic too of the twenties and thirties is the little crepe dinner blouse with its meticulous open-work fagoting, made to be worn as a tuck-in or overblouse with sheath dress or skirt.

Finest fabrics for the new look in fall blouses include chiffon, georgette, satin, jersey, lace, tissue faille, and many varieties of crepe in natural fibres, such as silk, wool, and cotton, as well as in synthetics and blends. The color story centr'g around Florentine Gold, a rich warm neutral shade that adds life to the new fall ensemble tones of electric blue, tobacco brown, burgundy red, black and gray. Prints that lend themselves to the renaissance of the elaborate dinner blouse we see the return of royally-extravagant fabrics, minutely hand-detailed with pleats, self-covered miniature buttons that stud sleeves from ⅛ cup plus 1 tablespoon, if shortening is hydrogenated), about 4 or 5 tablespoons ice cold water.

Cut shortening into flour and salt. Sprinkle water over, 1 tablespoon at a time, as you stir with fork. Press dough into ball. Divide into 2 parts. Roll out half to fit 9-inch pie plate. Roll out top crust, gash it, fold, and place on plate while you make the Filling: Wash Montmorency cherries and pit them and measure 5 cups. To these add 1 cup sugar (or less if you have a very sweet tooth), 7 level teaspoons quick-cooking tapioca, ½ teaspoon each salt, mace and almond flavoring, and, if desired, 1 tablespoon butter. Stir in bowl to mix the tapioca with the juice. Turn into pastry-lined pie plate and dot with butter if used. Very carefully seal on gashed top crust. Bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for 12 to 15 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes longer or until juice bubbles up through gashes. This is best served after pie has cooled to room temperature for about 3 hours. Danny wanted Danish blue cheese with his Pete nothing. Marianne and I Gary managed to steal a few cherries from between the crust before we caught him.

MARIANNE'S FRESH CHERRY COTTAGE PUDDING

Wash and pit enough sour cherries to measure 3 or 4 cups and put into buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with ¼ cup sugar, some mace and almond flavoring and dot with butter. Start heating oven to 375 deg. Fahr.

Only Montmorencies Will Do

By Mary Moore

"Can you do anything with red currants besides jelly?" or "I remember eating gooseberry tarts in England. I'm going to make some." But there you could have fresh ones while cream with them.

We had red currant and raspberry lattice pie and "goosegog" tarts—and double crust fresh cherry pie and fresh cherry cottage pudding.

It is the two cherry desserts that I'm giving you today for they silenced our two trenchermen effectively for a few moments while they took their first delicious bites. (Do you suppose we are becoming a family who cares about nothing but eating? Not quite. We are saved by a little guy called Gary who can't get all love much more.)

FRESH CHERRY PIE

(2-crust)

Pastry: Two cups sifted pastry or all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅔ cup shortening cut to elbow, ruffles, tucks, beading, embroidery, and all the fine hand-work that characterized the grand costume look of the twenties and thirties.

Like a great lady of the theatre who's retired from the scene temporarily, the blouse beautiful has returned to the fashion world with her glamour intact, her charm doubled and her dynamic appeal more exciting than ever. With last year's look so astonishingly outmoded, the new blouse fashions to be expected to make fall style headlines in the wardrobes of every fashion-conscious woman.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

PLANS TO GIVE SERIES OF HOUSEWARMINGS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have been married fifteen years, and are now moving into a brand-new house. Our relatives and friends are saying, "Don't forget to invite us to your housewarming."

(1) Is it proper for us to give such a party ourselves?

(2) If so, it would have to take the form of 2 or 3 parties because of limited space and different people (some drink, some don't). Would the several parties be correct?

(3) Should I send invitations to a "Housewarming," or should "At Home" on such-and-such a date? — Reader

(1) It's proper for you and your husband to give the housewarming . . . this is the customary plan, because then you can decide when you'd like to give the housewarming for series of housewarmings) whom you will invite to each, what you will serve, and all other details.

(2) Yes, if you and your husband think this is the wisest procedure.

(3) Either form of invitation is correct. But since it is obvious that the occasion is a Housewarming to enable relatives and friends to your new home, I think it's a good idea to use this word, which so delightfully registers "Welcome to our new house!"

Agency Sues Beauty 'Queen'

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Mary Leona Gage Ennis, Maryland's "Miss United States" who turned out to be a Mrs., has been sued for $100,000 by the Baltimore Modeling agency that sponsored her.

The suit against the mother of two was filed Tuesday in Anne Arundel County circuit court by Laureen Walter of the Walters Academy.

Mrs. Ennis had won the Miss United States title in Long Beach, Calif., earlier this month and was in the running for Miss Universe honors when officials discovered she was married.

She said that she had told a representative of the agency that she was married and was advised to "forget it." Miss Walters and her husband, William F. Adams, agency manager, denied they knew Mrs. Ennis was married.

Miss Walters said Mrs. Ennis' statement had caused "severe national adverse publicity" for the agency.

Mary Callie Hill, runnerup to Mrs. Ennis in the state contest, brought suit for $30,000 last Thursday against Mrs. Ennis and the agency.

Urges Seeking Frost's Aid in Curbing Erosion

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Ontario Agriculture Minister Goodfellow suggested Tuesday that the Lake Ontario Property Owners' Association ask Premier Frost for help in an erosion-curbing program.

Albert Holland, leader of an association delegation which met Mr. Goodfellow and Works Minister Greisinger, said the association wanted a survey of the Lake Ontario shoreline before the level is raised two feet for the St. Lawrence Seaway. In this way any claims for damage caused by the higher level might later be assessed.

Hillier South

HILLIER SOUTH — Berry picking has been the order of the day the past week. The crop is only fair. Many places the crop was ruined when the terrific gale struck.

Expect Lightning To Start Fires In Dry Bush

Fire Protection Supervisor M. Villers of the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed yesterday foresters are expecting an outbreak of lightning fires in the district before long. Periods of the lengthy dry spell and frequent night lightning storms.

Forests nearby are tinder dry with several fires currently burning. One is at the east of Jarvis Lake in Madoc township, which was caused by smokers in a party of blueberry pickers. Another is near Loon Lake.

Two fires in the townships of Angiesea and Wollaston were said to be out on Wednesday morning. Each of these fires burned less than an acre of bush, while the fire now burning in Madoc township has enrolled five and one-half acres.

Mr. Wilson said: "Each of these fires is a serious one in a small scale. We are doing everything possible to extinguish the fires before they start making history. This is a dangerous year in our forest and I would like to appeal to everyone to be careful with fire in the bush."

Monkey Bite May Not Have Caused Death

MONTREAL (CP)—A preliminary autopsy Tuesday failed to establish the cause of death of Joachim Tellier, 17, who died 11 days after being bitten by a rhesus monkey at the University of Montreal's Salk polio vaccine centre in nearby Laval des Rapides.

The boy, a laboratory technician was taken to hospital July 21 two days after being bitten by the monkey while trying to feed it.

Tests still are under way to determine if the monkey's bite had anything to do with the boy's death Monday, said coroner A. B. Clement, but we have not ruled out the possibility the victim may have died from polio."

Tweed

TWEED — The weekly appreciation winner on Saturday at the Bank of Montreal corner was Chief of Police, Walter Higgins, of Tweed, with a 10 per cent ticket on a "kitty" of $85., so the chief is richer by the amount of $40.

The Life-Saving classes were attended by about 20 persons last Wednesday night at the Tweed High School. There will be classes every Wednesday night all through the summer months so long as any interest is shown by the public. The Tweed Kiwanis Club assisted, as this enterprise is sponsored by their club, wholly, but the instructors were experienced hydro personnel. Artificial respiration is something every individual should be familiar with, and it is a privilege to be allowed to take these free lessons, in one's own town.

The girls of the C.G.I.T. returned last Tuesday from Camp Ouin-Mo-Lac summer camp. They were, Misses Laurel Arbuckle, Doris Woods, Doris Robinson, Ada Woodcock, and Alma Woodcock, all of Thomasburg.

Mrs. P. C. Barrett's daughter and sons, Mrs. W. Dobson, have had a recent enjoyable vacation at her home, here.

Ian D. Rush, well known in Tweed, is taking a special kindergarden course at the Teachers' College, Ottawa. Miss Rush has been teaching at Picton.

Mrs. J. J. Lyons of Peterborough, and Mrs. P. Cooke of Toronto, spent the last week at Newman's Cottage on Sugar Island.

Carter Supply Store has been recently appointed issuer for Hunting and Fishing Licences here in Tweed.

Mr. Ray Rivers has returned to work in Belleville after enjoying his vacation of two weeks.

Mr. Jim Statham is also enjoying a two weeks' holiday from his employment at Cutler. He is in Tweed, (Stoco Lake Cottage) with his wife and family.

Mr. Norman Champagne is at his home on Victoria Street, enjoying his annual vacation.

The Rev. and Mrs. George Dawson, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, [illegible] Mrs. Earl Saxsmith, [illegible] Street, recently.

[illegible] storm on the early [illegible] was a severe one, a few damage incidents have [illegible] motor was [illegible] at the plant of Hunter Rose Limited, the telephone [illegible] torn from the wall; at the [illegible] Ford Hill, and an electric clock was burned out at the residence of Mr. Ken Thompson on Melanson Street, no doubt there was more damage but at the moment this is the extent of the trouble on report.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved family of the late Mr. Ernest Bateman who passed away on Saturday.

Sympathy is also extended to the family and friends of Mrs. Lorne Carleton, of Thomasburg, who passed away Sunday at the Anglican Church in that village. She is well known in Tweed, her maiden name was Morton.

Seaway Costs Will Be Repaid By Tolls in 2014

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the basis of complex computations, Traffic World predicts that the United States portion of the St. Lawrence seaway will have paid for itself—through tolls—by the year 2010.

Canada, on the other hand, with a larger total investment, won't recover what it's spending until 2014.

Traffic World is a publication devoted to the transportation industry.

The estimates take into consideration construction costs, interest charges and annual operating and maintenance expenses as against expected tonnages commencing in 1958.

Captured Documents Reveal Nazis Offered to Place Windsor on British Throne

WASHINGTON (AP)—A grandiose Nazi plot in 1940 to put the Duke of Windsor back on the British throne at a price has been revealed in top secret documents captured by the Allies and just made public.

The papers were among 415 German messages and reports unveiled Wednesday night simultaneously by the U.S. state department and the British foreign office.

The British government labelled the documents as "necessarily a much tainted source." It said the Duke of Windsor "never wavered in his loyalty to the British cause." The duke called the part about him "complete fabrication and . . . gross distortions of truth."

The German documents cover the period June 23-Aug. 31, 1940. France had fallen in a six-week blitzkrieg. Britain braced for invasion. The United States was eligible (interest or stay out). And a prime aim of Hitler's policy was to keep the United States neutral.

In the papers, published as part of an historical project to illumine Hitler's years, 1933-45, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop emerges as the mastermind of the Duke of Windsor plot. Ribbentrop later was hanged as a war criminal.

The plot, as recited by Ribbentrop, went this way:

The duke and the duchess were to be invited to Spain. Once there, held by force if necessary, they were to be under a pressure location. It was this: Denounce the duke's brother, King George VI, and then the prime minister, Churchill. Appeal to the British people to surrender. Let the duke die there and the duchess for whom he gave up the throne in 1936 come back and queen of a Britain defeated by Hitler.

Or, if the duke didn't like that, he and the duchess could go anywhere and live "a life suitable for a king," with Hitler paying all the bills.

They backed their plan with phony bomb scares and other threats to his life and the life of his American-born wife for whom he gave up the throne in 1936.

They planned to get the duke to denounce the war against Hitler as folly and attempt to put the blame for the war policy on Churchill. In return he was to be offered his brother's place on the throne or a life "suitable for a king" in the land of his choice.

There was nothing in the documents about any direct contact between the duke and any German. Appeasers in the German camp carried on all their efforts through Portuguese and Spanish intermediaries.

The British embassy, commenting on the documents, declared they "are necessarily a much tainted source."

The embassy added:

"The duke was subject to heavy pressure from many quarters to stay in Europe, where the Germans hoped that he would exert his influence against the policies of His Majesty's government.

"His Royal Highness (the duke) never wavered in his loyalty to the British cause or in his determination to take up his official post as governor of the Bahamas on the date agreed. . . .

"The only firm evidence which (the documents) provide is of what the German were trying to do in this matter and of how completely they failed to do it.

The hitherto top secret papers crackle with cloak and dagger intrigue.

They implicate Portuguese and Spanish officials, among them Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco who is indicted to have approved the whole idea.

In London the duke denounced the reports.

A statement from the duke, in New York, was issued on his London lawyer. It said that letters between the German foreign ministry and the German ambassador in Spain and Portugal in July, 1940, concerned himself were partly "complete fabrications" and partly "gross distortions, of the truth."

The statement also said:

"While I was in Lisbon certain people, whom I discovered to be pro-Nazi sympathizers, did make definite efforts to persuade me to return to Spain and not take up my appointment as governor of the Bahamas. It was even suggested to me that there would be a personal role in the duchess and myself if we were to proceed to the Bahamas.

"At no time did I ever entertain any thought of complying with such a suggestion, which I treated with the contempt it deserved.

"At the earliest practicable opportunity the Duchess and I proceeded to the Bahamas, where I took up my appointment as governor in which I served for five years."

Study Report Russia Tries To Enlist Aid of Informers

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal officials plan to study reports of a new Soviet attempt to enlist informers among Russians now living in Canada.

The technique, the London Free Press says, is to offer amnesty—and the right to return to the Soviet Union—to Russians who will report anti-Soviet activities of their colleagues "to the closest Soviet representative."

RCMP and external affairs officials declined immediate comment but said they plan to study reports of the scheme.

The Free Press published the text of a letter, which, it said, was sent to a London resident and signed by General Mikhailov, president of the committee for repatriation with headquarters in East Berlin, where the envelope was postmarked.

The letter recalled a decree, issued Sept. 7, 1955, by the Supreme Soviet, that amnesty would be granted to all emigrants willing to return here provided "they have made good their mistakes by subsequent patriotic activity on behalf of the homeland."

It recommended as such an activity watching the attitudes of compatriots and informing "on those who are carrying on anti-Soviet activities."

In Toronto, Milan Jakubec, secretary of the Mutual Co-operative League which represents about 17 European ethnic groups, said the struggle for the loyalties of thousands of East European Canadians has been going on for years.

Effect of the Russian propaganda has become more serious since the Hungarians' revolt, Jakubec said.

Political refugees here are losing hope, he said, because they feel Russia is constantly making progress at the expense of the West.

"Many feel if they have to wait for Russia to come here anyway, they may as well go home again."

Absolve Montreal Policeman Of Blame in Fatal Shooting

MONTREAL (CP)—A coroner's jury has absolved Montreal policeman Claude Dubeau of all criminal responsibility in the fatal shooting of Rene Quinn, a pedlar.

Constable Rocheleau shot and killed Quinn when he ran away as Rocheleau was about to question him last Friday. The constable was in uniform.

Dr. A. B. Clement, Montreal coroner, said in his summation to the five - man coroner's jury "There is nothing in the Criminal Code to indicate that a police officer must fire warning shots before questioning or arresting a person who is trying to run away.

"You must base your verdict on what the Criminal Code says . . . and disregard what municipal bylaws or police department regulations lay down if these do not conform to the Criminal Code."

Constable Rocheleau testified he had spotted Quinn trying to sell an electric razor to workmen digging a sewer.

He said the man ran away when he tried to question him. Despite repeated appeals, Quinn continued to run and Rocheleau chased him in the patrol car and on foot. He fired a shot intended to hit Quinn in the legs but hit him in the head.

FRANCO WIDENS FALANGE

NORTH BAY RCAF SQUADRON FLIES INTO NATO POST IN GERMANY

North Bay's 419 Squdron is on its way to augment the RCAF forces at the NATO station of Baden-Soellingen, Germany, and where the squadron goes, so goes Bruce the Moose. Bruce, the mascot of the squadron, is a big package to put into a cockpit of a CF-100 but Flight Cadet Eileen Kennedy of South Porcupine and W/C Sam McBride, commanding officer of the squadron, manage the job without damaging an antler.

Say Death at Mom Whyte's Due Inadequate Supervision

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—An inquest finding that "inadequate supervision and facilities" contributed to the death of a six-year-old boy at Mom Whyte's farm for children is to be passed on to the provincial government.

A five - man jury Wednesday found that the death of Mark Markusson July 23 was caused when he choked to death after his head became wedged in an iron fence at the west. They found death was accidental.

Crown Counsel H. R. Deyman said the decision will be forwarded to the provincial welfare department. Under the new Boarding-House Act, the department room will assume regulation of homes where more than five children not of common parentage reside. An official of the department said it does not plan to take any action as a result of the jury's verdict.

MUST LICENSE

Provisions of the act will require Mrs. Bertha Whyte to register and license the farm, which houses about 100 children, and be liable to inspection. Mrs. Whyte says it will cost $100,000 to bring her haven up to the conditions required.

"I'm terribly hurt by the attitude of the people of Bowmanville," she said. "If they were not so selfish they could help provide the facilities and supervision needed."

A six-year-old witness, Richard Henry, said he, Mark and another boy were locked in the outhouse when a steel bar got wedged in the door. Mark climbed to the air vent to try and get out and got caught, he said.

While giving evidence, Mrs. Whyte slumped forward and cried. She said the outhouse was used temporarily during the summer because of a visitor shortage. A self-closing door had been put on the outhouse at the order of the county health office but the spring had later been broken, she said.

The dead boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Markusson formerly of Oshawa. The Markusson first four children at the Whyte home when Mr. Markusson was unable to find employment in Oshawa last year.

Believe Icing Caused Crash Of Light Plane

MONTREAL (CP)—A Montreal Flying Club official said Wednesday night "air conditions at the time make it seem possible" that carburetor icing caused the crash of a light plane in Ontario Tuesday in which a student pilot was killed.

The plane, owned by the club, crashed and burned near Kemptville, killing student pilot Georges Barrette, 17, of suburban Verdun.

Eisenhower Say It Is Easy To Quit Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday it is easier to quit smoking than most people think.

Questioned on the subject during his weekly press conference, Eisenhower said giving up cigarets isn't too bad if people "turn their mind to something else and quit slying themselves about it."

The president, once a heavy smoker, said he found it easier to stop than to "be more moderate about it."

YOUNG VOTERS

MONTREAL (CP)—When about 300,000 youngsters voted to elect mayors at 115 civic playgrounds, there was one report of "irregularities." Balloting at Campbell East park was re-scheduled.

Manitouwadge Makes First Ore Shipment

MANITOUWADGE, Ont. (CP)—A token 50-ton shipment of the first mineral concentrate from the wilderness 150 miles northeast of the Lakehead rolled south by rail today as Ontario's newest mining area went into production.

The zinc and copper concentrate of the first return on a development investment of $25,000,000, came from the Willroy mine, discovered with its larger neighbor, the Geco mine, four years ago. Geco is expected to begin production within weeks.

The Willroy mill has a 750-tons-a-day capacity while Geco's will be 2,000 tons a day.

J. W. Spooner, Ontario's new mines minister, in his first public function since taking office two weeks ago, said the occasion marks the culmination of three years of unremitting toil, engineering skill and financial enterprise which began with the incorporation of the companies in 1954.

DEVELOP AREA

He said Geco and Willroy will go down in history as the major developers of this area that only four years ago was almost impenetrable—a virtually unknown wilderness, fittingly named by the ancient Ojibway Indians as the place of the Great Spirit.

Wednesday's shipment, zinc concentrates for Lasalle, Ill., and copper concentrates for smelters at Noranda, Que., was hooked to a special train which brought dignitaries and a few newsmen to Manitouwadge.

It was taken 40 miles to the main line of the Canadian National Railways central region, the CNR announced Wednesday. He succeeds Norman Walford who has retired.

Hot, Dry Weather Causing Rapid Crop Deterioration In Saskatchewan, Alberta

OTTAWA (CP)—Rapid crop deterioration over extensive areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta was reported Wednesday by the bureau of statistics. Hot, dry weather had caused "a further serious reduction in crop prospects" in the last two weeks.

The bureau's report, based on telegraphed messages from crop correspondents Tuesday night said it now appears prairie crops will be well below the average of the last few years.

"Unless adequate rain is received they may even fall short of the long-time averages."

Manitoba crop prospects have been maintained. In general on the Prairies, late-seeded and stubble crops would be poor but with sufficient rain fair to good yields still could be gained on summerfallow land.

In Ontario, ideal weather has helped haying, now almost completed except in the North. A good crop of fall wheat now is being harvested and spring grains are ripening rapidly. Acreage yields are expected to be above average. The tobacco harvest is beginning. Pastures are in good condition in central and western districts but rain is needed in some eastern parts.

STORAGE SPACE TIGHT

PORT WILLIAM (CP) — Grain officials said Wednesday the elevator space situation at the Lakehead remains "tight" with upwards of 67,000,000 bushels in storage.

Lakehead terminals are capable of storing an over-all total of 80,000,000 bushels but because grains can not be mixed in storage, about 72,000,000 bushels are considered terminal capacity under marketing trends at present.

Officials said movement through the Lakehead is slowing down due to the storage situation in eastern Canada, but that it had been a good movement and business is brisk and they are not worried over the tight storage conditions.

Wilfred C. Bowra Follows Walford

TORONTO (CP) — Wilfred Charles (Bill) Bowra, 46, who started his career as a machinist's apprentice, has been appointed general manager of the Canadian National Railways central region, the CNR announced Wednesday. He succeeds Norman Walford who has retired.

Tossed $20,100 In Garbage Can

EDMONTON (CP)—Putting out her garbage may have cost an Edmonton woman $20,100.

Police are investigating the loss of some negotiable bonds the woman believes she may have tossed in her trash can. Shortly after throwing out the garbage Saturday she missed the bonds. A thorough search of the area and the garbage can failed to turn up the bonds.

'Vertijet' Makes Test Flight

WASHINGTON (AP)—The "vertijet," an experimental craft sponsored by the United States air Force and the navy, took off vertically Tuesday on a brief test flight.

Test pilot Peter F. Girard took off from a contraption that looked something like a hat-rack. Under the nose of the plane is a metal hook.

Girard started with the hook over a metal rack at the top of a mobile platform which steadies the plane for take off. Turning on the jet's blast, he lifted the hook off the rack, and backed the plane away to clear the platform.

He then turned on full power to complete the take off, climbing sharply away.

Upon his return, Girard turned the aircraft's nose upward and slid down, then in that vertical position moved slowly toward the platform and hooked back onto the rack.

BEATTY SERVICES TODAY

FERGUS (CP) — Funeral services for William George Beatty, chairman of the board of directors of Beatty Bros. Ltd., washing machine manufacturers, were held here today. Beatty Bros. Ltd., was founded by William's father, George, as a farm implement manufacturing concern.

Sheep Provide Control of Leafy Splurge

Under the Canada Seeds Act, leafy spurge is classified as one of the five prohibited noxious weed seeds in Canada, reports the field crops branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Other names for leafy spurge are Belcher's weed or Faltour's grass, but by whatever name it is known it is still prohibited. This means that if a single leafy spurge is found in a lot of seed the whole lot is condemned and cannot be sold legally as seed.

The weed causes great loss to farmers. Aside from the fact that seed which contain any leafy spurge seed cannot be sold, the plant is capable of crowding out pasture grasses and grain crops almost completely. It is also difficult and costly to control.

Leafy spurge is a deep-rooted perennial which grows from one to three feet tall. The stems contain a milky fluid and the flat-topped clusters of greenish-yellow flowers bloom from June to September.

The weed spreads by seed and by creeping rootstocks. Birds are often responsible for carrying seeds to new locations and implements used in cultivation can scatter small pieces of the root also. Even a half-inch section of root will produce a new plant.

Small patches of leafy spurge can be controlled by applying soil sterilants such a D.B. granular (or other boron 2,4-D mixtures), Monuron or sodium chlorate at the rates recommended by the manufacturers. Larger areas can be kept under control by spraying with brush-kill (50-50 mixture of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T) at one to two pounds of acid per acre. A period of two years is usually required for complete control.

One of the least expensive ways of keeping leafy spurge from spreading is to pasture sheep where it grows. Their close grazing can keep it from producing seed, and in fact, weaken the weed itself.

Tweed

TWEED — Miss Madeline Tilney, of Downsview, is spending some time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Beach, on Victoria Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCall and family, of Cleveland, and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Dunbar, of Wickliffe, and family, are spending their vacation in the two Countryman cottages.

The beautiful and spacious home erected some three years ago by Steve T. C. and Mrs. Graham on Metcalf Street has been sold to the Department of Lands and Forests. One of the departmental officials will be occupying the house. It will be recalled that the home of Mr. Gordon Nelson, on the Crookston Road was purchased by the same department not long ago.

Miss Josephine Beach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Beach is spending an extended holiday, in Weston, with Mr. and Mrs. Gould.

Two from Thomasburg participated at a recent wedding in the Presbyterian Church, in Campbellford. Miss Mary Thompson was a bridesmaid, and Little Irene Calvert was flower girl, the other bridesmaid was Mrs. M. Scott, of Crookston. It was at the wedding of Miss Donna Marie Sharp, to Mr. Harry O. Bradley. Mr. Bradley had been on the High School staff for the past five years. The bride is a member of the Chorliians there.

The Crown Cleaners started their holidays on July 29th, with the entire plant closing down until August 6th.

Mrs. Lois Chambers, has just returned home to Tweed, from Toronto Conservatory of Music, where she was attending a three-week course in teaching.

Mrs. Arthur Beach, Metcalfe Street, was disturbed on Monday morning during the bad electric storm when considerable damage was done to the wiring in her home. She had her grandchild with her and it was fortunate the child was not near the chandelier when sleeping in its crib, as later, the entire chandelier came tumbling down on the floor of the dining room. They had no lights and the fuses were all burned out in the dwelling. It will be quite a costly job to repair all the damage.

The telephone was also burned out at the service station of B.A. station here in town.

Mrs. Joseph Dion has been one Charles Dion, who operates the fined to her home for a few days through illness. Her wide host of friends wish her a speedy "get well".

Mr. Edwin Champagne left on Monday for Sarnia (motoring) after the wedding on Saturday, of his sister, Donna.

Mrs. H. B. Crosbie and son, "Bob", with Miss Joan Stevens, all of Toronto, were in Tweed renewing old acquaintances on Tuesday. Mrs. Crosbie is vacationing at Maxinaw lake and "Bob" is on holidays from his employment in New York City.

Mrs. Jack Heninger and daughter, of Brantford, called on Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Spencer on Tuesday. They have a spacious new cottage on Loon Lake.

The 30th. biennial provincial convention of the Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion, will be held in St. Catharines on August 4-8th. They expect about two from each branch and there are about 500 branches. "Who's who" in Tweed state that there may not be any representatives from Tweed, but if there are, they may attend late in the session, on account of the big days planned by the Legion, locally, over the Civic Holiday weekend and all obtainable male legionaires are needed in the various enterprises they have on the "menu" for those dates. The weather man of course will have to do, in these celebrations being a necessary, and it is hoped he is kind to the members and visitors.

The Fidelity Construction Company is doing a fine job of rushing the work at the new Tweed Consolidated School to have it in ship-shape for September occupancy. Pomeroy Street is still closed to traffic to permit the laying of water-works into the school.

Mr. Robert Cretney, of Trenton, operator and owner of the cottages adjacent to the Tweed Memorial Park, has dismantled the barn at the entrance to the cottages, and this makes an immense difference in the appearance in general. The cottages have all been filled pretty well to date. They, at times, have found it necessary to use the main house for quarters, too.

The annual family re-union of the descendants of the Countryman family, was held at the home of John Thompson, Queensborough, on Sunday.

Relatives of the annual Finley-Elliott family will hold their reunion Saturday, August 3rd, and Sunday August 4th. Service will be held in St. John's church, Sunday morning, and dinner will be enjoyed at Prices' Log Cabin, Actinolite, at 1.30 p.m.

BERRY PICKER SAFE

SUDBURY (CP) — A ground party brought 70-year-old George Hunt out of the bush near Chapleau Saturday after he had been missing more than a day. Hunt became lost when he went picking blueberries Friday. He was spotted from a plane Saturday afternoon and rescuers assisted him out. "I don't know how it happened," he said.

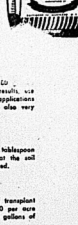
NUTRI-LEAF ECONOMICAL-SAFE-EFFICIENT

WHAT NUTRI-LEAF WILL DO:

1. Feeds plants through the foliage.
2. Supplies needed Minor Elements in chelated form.
3. Helps to size up the fruit.
4. Improves quality and color.
5. Increases yield
6. Produces earlier marketable crops.



WHEN YOU BUY Niagara YOU BUY PROTECTION

NUTRI-LEAF is an instantly soluble fertilizer containing 20% Nitrogen, 30% Available Phosphoric Acid and 20% Potash. These three major elements are supplemented by the following minor elements: Manganese, Magnesium, Boron, Copper, Zinc and Molybdenum, and the hormone naphthaleneacetic Acid. Also contains a safe effective wetting agent.

Unlike the common field fertilizers, NUTRI-LEAF is derived from complex double salts, fortified with the above mentioned secondary elements and Naphthaleneacetic Acid.

Manganese, Magnesium, Iron, Copper and Zinc in this formula are derived from the new chelate complexes EDTA (ethylene diamine tetra acetate).

The use of this chelate affords many nutritional advantages to commercial growers.

NUTRI-LEAF's superior solubility eliminates filming and when sprayed as directed, no foliage or cropping injury should result. It is not toxic to plant tissue.

NUTRI-LEAF furnishes every element of plant food necessary for healthy, vigorous growth from seed bed to maturity.

SPRAYING:

For foliar feeding use 3 pounds per 100 of water or spray material. For best results, use weekly during critical periods. Spot applications during adverse growing conditions are also very helpful.

FOR HAND PLANTING:

Add 1 pound to 15 gallons water (1 tablespoon per gallon) and apply solution so that the soil adjacent to the plant root area is wetted.

FOR TRANSPLANTING:

Add 5 pounds to each 100 gallons of transplant water. (10 to 15 pounds Nutri-leaf 60 per acre is recommended, based on 200 to 300 gallons of water per acre.)

COMPATABILITY:

Nutri-leaf 60 is compatible with Carbamates, Copper, DDT, Parathion, Malathion and other commonly used insecticides and fungicides. Add Nutri-leaf 60 to the spray mixture as the last step.

HAND PLANTING AND TRANSPLANTING:

The use of Nutri-leaf at transplanting time or when hand planting, requires no extra labor and quick start and uniform stand. Young plants, transferred from the bed to the field keep right on growing.

Try NUTRI-LEAF on a block of your crop and see for yourself the results you can get

Marlene Favored to Annex Seventh Consecutive Crown

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Champion Marlene Stewart Streit today ruled favorite to win her seventh consecutive Canadian ladies' championship as the first round got under way in the 54-hole medal-play tourney.

There wasn't much argument about the little Foothill, Ont., star being the one to beat. But around the Royal Montreal course there was little variation in opinion, as to those most likely to dethrone the doughty champion.

Home support seemed to center on 19-year-old Judy Darling, in the last few weeks the Montreal girl has walked off with both junior and senior ladies' Quebec championship.

ALBERTA GIRLS STRONG

Pat Fletcher, Royal Montreal pro who won the Canadian Open three years ago, and Judy's rival contender who "plays all her clubs well" but was a disappointer in three Alberta girls will pose the most serious threat to Marlene.

Fletcher felt her power display by the Alberta girls could make any of them the outstanding challenger down to the last putt next Saturday.

Among the three Pat was inclined to rate Rae Milligan of Calgary first because of her greater experience. Rae has been runner-up to Marlene the last two years. In practice rounds Wednesday she was out-driving Marlene by about 25 yards, but the little champ's short game left nothing to be desired and her putting was deadly.

Betty Stanhope of Edmonton, now 19, is one of the new golden stars in the West. She won the Canadian junior title last year and has been playing golf seven years.

The third Alberta threat is Mary Gay of Calgary, formerly of Kimberley, Ont., who has had plenty of experience. She won the Calgary city open this year and was low medallist in the Alberta Amateur, losing to Miss Stanhope in the semi-final.

COURSE SHORTER

For today's round the field will find the Royal Montreal course shorter than when they toiled over it during practice rounds of the last two days.

The tee markers will be moved forward, and the 6,395-yard course will be shortened by a total of around 200 yards. This won't hurt Marlene. It shouldn't cause the others any particular worry, either. During subsequent days the tees will be moved back. On Saturday the girls can figure they will be playing the full 6,395 yards.

The team championships are causing plenty of pre-tournament interest. Eight provinces, with four members to a team, are competing in the senior interprovincial championship. Six provinces, represented by two players each, are competing in the junior interprovincial title event.

The senior section of team play appears to be a scramble for the title among Ontario, Quebec and Alberta—they finished in that order last year.

Canadian Kids Meet Americans In Golf Show

TORONTO (CP) — The seventh annual international junior competition between Ontario and American golfers is to be played Saturday and Sunday at the Columbia Country Club in Washington, D.C.

Under the direction of George Revenor, junior chairman of the Ontario Golf Association, the Ontario entry is headed by the current whiz kids Phil Brownlee of Scarborough and Bob Panasuik of Windsor.

Brownlee, 16, recently won the provincial junior crown with 69-71—140 over the par-72 Weston course. Panasuik, 15, scored a 71 in the first round of the Canadian Open and went to the fourth round in last week's Ontario Amateur.

Other players are: John Kindred of Peterborough and Ernie Hauser of Kitchener, Ontario's representatives in the 14-year-old class; 17-year-olds Panasuik and Jon Hall of Summit; Mike Millman of Tillsonburg and Brownlee, and 17-year-olds Paul Gilbert of Islington and Ross Pollard of Brantford.

Alternates are Gary Black, 13, of Oil Cheshams and Lookout Point and Terry Green, 15, of Woodstock.

Apologize for Inept Handling Of Commercials

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—The Buick division of General Motors Corporation has apologized to fight fans for what it called the "inept handling of commercials during the Patterson - Jackson heavyweight title fight Monday night.

A statement issued Wednesday night by Edward T. Ragsdale, general manager of Buick and a GM vice-president, said:

"As a fight fan myself, I was incensed at the bad timing of the commercial as the fight ended. Although we had no control over the broadcast itself, as general manager of Buick I can assure those interested that this will not happen again in a public service telecast by Buick."

Ragsdale said his apology was prompted by numerous letters and telegrams of complaints from fight fans.

The Buick commercial was switched in almost immediately after referee Ruby Goldstein gave the bout to Floyd Patterson in a TKO over the battered Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson. The official verdict from the ring was missed by television viewers across the U.S. and Canada.

Recorded Calls of the Wild Won't Lure Ducks to Death

OTTAWA (CP)—Winston Mair, chief of the Canadian Wildlife Services, says use of electronic devices by hunters to attract waterfowl in flocks to their room, has been "nipped in the bud" in Canada.

A government order-in-council, passed Wednesday, makes it unlawful to hunt migratory game birds "by use or aid of electrically-operated calling devices." It is aimed particularly at devices using high - fidelity records of waterfowl calls similar to one demonstrated here last month at a federal-provincial wildlife conference.

Mr. Mair said he knew of no instance of the device being used in Canada. But only Wednesday a representative of a U.S. company told the service he was interested in putting the machine on the market.

"It was before the order-in-council and I told him he had better wait," chuckled Mr. Mair.

CALLED DEVASTATING

Robert H. Johnson of Washington, the U.S. government's wildlife delegate, described the battery-operated, portable record players as "devastatingly effective" when he demonstrated them at the wildlife conference here.

Mr. Mair said the impetus for the order-in-council came from a resolution proposed by the council's resolutions committee and unanimously carried calling for prohibition of such instruments in Canada.

The resolution in effect was a unanimous request from all Canadian wildlife authorities. The conference is made up of dele---- federal and provincial governments as well as non-governmental organizations.

The wildlife chief said very little is known of the machine in Canada "except from what one reads about them." But the country was well rid of a device that would appear to be almost infallible in attracting waterfowl and other birds to slaughter.

It was "practically like using live decoys" and "even more deadly in that it can be heard a lot farther."

PRESERVE SPORT

The Canadian ban would keep waterfowl hunting "as near sporting as possible."

One U.S. company advertises that its transistor amplifier can be heard up to a distance of three miles. The compact devices can be used in almost any weather.

Use of the devices still is legal in the U.S. but Mr. Johnson and later Ross L. Leffler, assistant secretary of the U.S. department of the interior, said the government there is studying the possibility of outlawing them.

Mr. Johnson gave the June conference some examples of the machines effectiveness:

On one farm with only four shooting pits it enabled hunters to shoot 1,285 geese during one season.

On another occasion, five hunters netted their limit in 90 minutes and during that short time as many as 2,000 geese hovered over their blind.

Richmond Hangs Loss on Leafs; Jets Nip Royals

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond's Marty Kutyna missed a no-hitter by two outs and Buffalo and Montreal both tasted some infrequent defeats on their home pastures Wednesday in the International League.

Toronto's Hec Rodrigues looped a single to right field in the seventh inning of a five - abhreviated opener of a twin-bill to break Kutyna's mastery over the Leafs. He still gained credit for a 3-1 victory, after giving up another hit and then being relieved by John James. Toronto came back to win the nightcap 4-3 on Rodrigues' hit in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Buffalo suffered its first shutout at home this year when Miami and Tom Qualters won the opener of a doubleheader 2-0. The Bisons gained a split with a 12-inning, 3-2 triumph in the nightcap.

Montreal and the 18-game home winning streak broken by Columbus Jets in the nightcap of their doubleheader, 7-5, after the Royals won the opener 3-2. In the only single game, Rochester won over Havana 3-0.

HOMER HELPS

Kutyna won his eighth against four losses with help from Tommy Carroll's 12th homer. Ross Grimsley now 1-2, lost it.

Don Johnson tossed a seven-hitter at the Vees in the nightcap for his 10th win against five losses. Johnson now has won all three of the Leafs' victories in the doubleheader covering the three-quarter mile track in 2:05 2-5.

Qualters set down the last 10 men in a row in his win over Buffalo. He allowed only six hits in gaining his eighth.

An error by Marlins' second baseman Ben Tompkins, following a memory-lapse fielding play that went for a scratch hit, set the stage for the Bisons' 12th inning win in the nightcap. Saich Paige was the loser.

Bob Anderton, even with a shaky start, broke the Montreal skein for Columbus Jets. It was his first win against a single loss. He also had some sterling relief help from George O'Donnell who toseed three scoreless innings.

Rene Valdes had a one-hitter for Montreal until the seventh inning in the opener when Gail Harris touched him for a homer. Valdes won his eighth against seven defeats.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — Owners of harness horses currently racing at Old Woodbine raceway have decided to find a name for a six-weeks-old foal owned by Elgin Armstrong of Brampton.

Helicopter and her unnamed foal are to be paraded Saturday evening with the public invited to name the colt.

There weren't many potential Hellcopters in Wednesday night's races, but fans found the Armstrong pinpoint a horse to watch the same. This came in the seventh race, when the Brampton squire's fine Adios filly, Debora Frost, came down in front of a fancy field in the $1,000 Frontenac Reserve chase by Clarence Lockhart of Collingwood with his eight-year-old gelding Single Chip. Debora Frost set a new one-mile track record in 2:05 3-5, covering the three-quarter mile track in 2:05 2-5.

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Chopadette, the Canadian - bred colt owned by Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto, won the $5,000 Heresy Stakes at the Fort Erie Jockey Club Wednesday. The co-featured $5,000 Summer Stakes was won by the favorite, Silver Ship.

Chopadette took the lead at the head of the stretch and beat the fast-closing Ally's Pride by three quarters of a length. Ali's Pride was a head in front of Sunday Star owned by Dr. Harry G. Jones of Indianapolis.

Veteran Jockey Pat Remillard drove Chopadette to the wire in 1:40 3-5 for the mile.

Silver Ship had things all his own way in the summer stakes, taking the lead from Count High with three furlongs to run and winning comfortably. Count High was second with Silver Ship's stablemate, Woodsrunner, third.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry La Montagne's Plotter led almost all the way to win the $29,000 Top Flight Handicap, a fifty and mare stake, at Belmont Park Wednesday.

Plotter, ridden by Pete Anderson, fought a head-and-head duel through the stretch with Mrs. Gerard S. Smith's Outer Space, the 4-to-5 favorite, to win in 1:42 3-5 for the 1 1-16 miles.

Reginald N. Webster's Manotick was third.

Mrs. Anson A. Bigelow's Bridgework easily outran 13 rival juvenile fillies in the $24,650 Sorority Stakes at Monmouth Park, Oceanport, N.J. Marina took second place over third - placed Sweet Mandy

WOTTA MAN!

Comparatively speaking, the mid-summer session of the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" Hockey League was more like an oldfashioned grandmothers' quilting bee than a modern hockey combah.

The expected fireworks failed to fuse and the oratorical genius of the Whitby Dunlops was in a co-operative mood, as far as the veteran members of the league are concerned.

It looked like a record would be established in the general business of the league, up to the discussion and drawing of the tentative schedule—and then the circuit master-minds ran into a roadblock from Pembroke.

Mr. Wally Lenser, boss-man of the Lumber Kings, if that is what they are to be called, is a purposeful gentleman to say the least. He doesn't shake loose from his demands easily. It took a lot of the argumentative power of the league managerial brains to convince him on not a few points—and the guy went down fighting on all of them.

Whitby's Wren Blair fired the first volley at the impersonable gentleman from Golden Lake. Blair demanded in no about-the-bush vocabulary why the $1,000 guarantee as agreed upon by Lenser at the June 23 meeting had not been posted.

He fired a chaser volley at Lenser regarding the latter's dealings with the NOHA, producing a newspaper clipping which he read to the assembly. The man from Golden Lake never batted an eyelash.

Lenser regarded more or lest lightly the fact, as pointed out by OHA prexy Lorne Cook that he had filed an entry after the June meeting and such was registered in the minutes of that get-together.

Again the Lenserian eyebrows refused to move.

Pressed as to why he did not post the guarantee, Lenser calmly stated: "Because I have concessions to ask for and I want to know where I stand before I enter this league." He made it clear that a marked cheque for the amount of the guarantee reposed in his pocket.

He had three concessions, he said. He wanted a thousand smackers off the top of the pool if his average attendance did not amount to 1,500; five players from member teams of the circuit and a 56-game schedule.

There was a mass raising of eyebrows at this miniature thunderbolt.

Then the managerial brains made it quite clear, in fact emphatically so that there would be no subdivision of teams in the league. Financial help, in the case of trouble later on, perhaps, but no flat handouts to any club.

Mr. Lenser remained unperturbed but was insistent in his demands. Belleville's Drury Denyes then tried to throw some oil on the troubled waters by suggesting a compromise of a sliding scale. It read well, sounded fine, but there was a morgue-like silence when President Cook asked for the "seconder" to the motion.

But it's an ill wind that doesn't dry somebodys' washing. The question of player help to Pembroke, after a lengthy discussion, spawned the idea that the league should have a draft regulation. This in turn paved the way to a suggested waiver list.

These additions to the league constitution will be mulled over, considered carefully and will come up for debate and decision at the next meeting. In the meantime Lenser said he was satisfied, and it was his own idea, with the fact that he would get first opportunity to sign any players released by member clubs before the next meeting.

And so it went on.

The question of a 56-game s[illegible] was dismissed by Lenser launched another flood of instructional remarks to the team from Pembroke. He may have been acting 'dumb,' but it paid off. He got all the details that were necessary. Finally he gave way, deposited the bond and the five-team loop became a reality.

Lenser made no bones about dickering with the NOHA. He said promptly and plainly, he had been looking for the loop which would give him the best deal—and provide the best hockey for Pembroke. And he was told just as promptly and plainly how the eastern league operated for the good of all concerned.

Brooks Sweep 2 From Cubs As Leaders Maintain Pace; Chisox Defeat Senators 6-5

St. Louis Cardinals, usually dead ducks by Aug. 1 in recent National League pennant scraps, are camped on the threshold of first place today after an explosive July run.

And they've done it the hard way, coming from behind in half of their 20 July victories and winning four of five extra - inning battles.

In third place, 2½ games back on June 30, the Cards were 20-10 in July for a .667 percentage—and except for a suspended game at Pittsburgh, which they led 11-2 in the ninth, would be 21-10 and in first place instead of second, two percentage points behind Milwaukee.

The Cards were at it again Wednesday night, coming from behind to whip New York Giants 5-1 for their fifth straight with Milwaukee's ace clung to the top spot with a 6-2 job on Pittsburgh for four in a row.

DODGERS SWEEP TWO

Third-place Brooklyn, matching the Cards' 20-10 pace for July, swept a doubleheader at Chicago. Reliever Ed Roebuck was credited with both victories as ninth inning rallies beat the Cubs 3-2 and 2-1. In leave Dodgers two games behind. Fifth place Cincinnati, four games back, junked its losing string at seven games with a 6-5, 11-inning decision over Philadelphia. The fourth place Phils, who had won four in a row, are 3½ games aloy. The Phils were 20-11 in July, Cincinnati 13-17.

The Cards, who have been this high on August 1 only once in 11 years, bagged it after Hank Sauer, who had driven in seven hits off Herm Wehmeier, homered the Giants into a fifth-inning lead. Al Dark, who was 4-for-4 and drove in two runs, and Wehmeier then hit RBI singles in the bottom of the fifth and the Cards were off. Wally Moon, pushing his hit streak to 17 games, doubled and scored on a doubleplay in the sixth before St. Louis finally shelled Ray Crone with two more in the seventh.

Wehmeier won his third in a row for a 5-4 record, walking none and fanning six.

Milwaukee, 18-12 for July and only .500 against the other, contenders for the month, rolled on solo homers by Red Schoendienst and Andy Pafko against Lefty Bob Purkey, then locked it up with two in the sixth on four singles, Hank Aaron's double and an error. Bob Buhl won his 13th, fourth in a row, with an eighthitter. He had a five-hit shutout until the ninth.

SECOND AGAINST CUBS

The Dodgers, whose biggest spurt (6-6) has followed the all-star game break (when they were fifth, five games behind), closed it with what was only their second whitish sweep of the year—both against the Cubs. After Duke Snider's 28th and 29th home runs had drawn them even in the opener, they tagged Bob Rush with a 12th double on singles by Roy Campanella, Elmer Valo and Junior Gilliam with two out in the ninth. The Cubs led 1-0, on Ernie Banks' home run, going into the nightcap inning, when two walks, an error by losing reliever Don Elston and singles by Charlie Neal and pinch-hitter Rube Walker won it.

Cincinnati tied the Phils with three in the ninth, two off Ted Klusewski's pinch homer, then won it with a looping single by Joe Nuxhall—a pitcher who was 0-8 at the bottom of the pinch-hit barrel. Manager Birdie Tebbetts used 21 players, six of them pinch-hitters who were 4-for-6 at the plate. Art Fowler was 1-0, with Bob Miller the loser, both in relief.

First-place New York and second-place Chicago swapped their favorite cousins in the American League as the Yankees padded their lead to 3½ games with a 2-0,5-4 doubleheader sweep over Kansas City. The White Sox nailed Washington 6-5. The Yankees are 16-1 against the As this season. The White Sox are 13-3 against the Nats.

Detroit rapped Boston 5-3 and Cleveland beat Baltimore 4-0 as relief ace Ray Narleski extended the Orioles' scoreless streak - inning slump to 32 with his first major league shutout.

Gene Woodling hit his ninth homer and two singles and Bob Avila chalked up a double and triple to pace the 11-hit Cleveland attack.

Narleski gave up five walks along with the six hits, but he was tough in the clutch as he left 11 runners stranded. The Orioles loaded the bases in the first inning and three times left two runners on base.

HIT LONG HOMER

Narleski gained his fifth major league complete game for an 8-1 record. Rookie Jim Piersall and Woodling hit him in the fifth for a 400-foot homer into the right field stand to produce the third run of the game.

Virgil Trucks wild-pitched the winning run home for the Yanks in the first-game sixth inning, then Mickey Mantle swatted his 28th home run in the seventh off Wally Burnette. Bob Turley went the with a five-hitter, his third shutout in a 6-3 record. He Ace blew a 4-0 lead, all on unearned runs, in the nightcap as Don Larsen lost them for a fourth time, a 6-5 record.

Gil McDougald—homered to tie it in the fifth, then scored the clincher as Bill Skowron singled in the eighth. The A's had just two hits off Larsen and Art Ditmar, who pitched no hitless ninth.

TIGHT NINTH INNING

Bob Keegan won his seventh for the White Sox as Earl Torgeson, 1-for-4, and Luis Aparicio each drove in two runs to beat Pete Ramos. Roy Sievers hit his 25th homer for the Nats, who scored one in the ninth before Paul Lapalme, the Sox' fifth pitcher, ended the scare.

Both clubs employed five pitchers. The White Sox were forced to throttle Senators' ninth - inning rally when successive doubles by Lou Berberet and Faye Throneberry nudged Washington within a run of the Sox.

Dixie Howell, victim of the doubles, retired Milt Bolling on a foul to first baseman Earl Torgeson. Then Lapalme came in to dispose of pinch-hitter Art Schull on a grounder to Nellie Fox. Exposito at third.

The Senators accumulated 16 hits, with Ed Yost and Throneberry collecting three each, to Chicago's 11.

SUDDEN BURST

The Tigers bunched a homer, a hunt double and two doubles for four runs in the fifth inning to defeat the Red Sox. Winner Jim Bunning needed help from Harry Byrd in the eighth inning when Boston nicked him for a run.

Boston's Willard Nixon retired the first 11 batters in order before singles by Frank Bolling and Al Kaline and an error gave Detroit a run in the fourth.

Boston tied it on Ted Lepcio's homer and a double and a steal by Billy Consolo, an infield out and a single by Nixon.

The Tigers then erupted with their game-deciding rally in the fifth.

Dave Philley led off with a homer and, after an infield out, Bunning singled. A steal bunt which clung to the third base line, Harvey Kuenn doubled off the wall in left, with Bunning going to third. Bill Tuttle grounded out as the runners held, but Bolling followed with another double to left, scoring Kuenn and Bunning. A double by aline scored Bolling.

Kid Gavilan Whips Ortega In Comeback

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Kid Gavilan took a long step on the road back when he punched out a unanimous 10-round decision over Gaspar (Indian) Ortega of Mexicali, Mexico, Wednesday night.

The former welterweight champion won the unanimous decision of the judges and referee Jimmy Peerless with a bruising body attack that raised welts on the Indian's torso but never slowed him down. Ortega kept shooting at Gavilan's head while the Cuban, veteran of 127 ring battles, bored in to carry the attack to his younger foe.

Yanni Chade, Gavilan's manager, said the 31-year-old Havana fighter is ready now to meet welterweight champion Carmen Basilio either in Miami Beach or Havana. Chade said Wednesday's victory was the greatest fight of Gavilan's career.

Both started fast. Gavilan shot rights and lefts to the body, took a couple in the face and shot over a right cross that jarred Ortega to his toes.

A furious exchange opened the second round, and after Ortega had roused the former champion with body shots, Gavilan replied with jabs to the face and head.

Ortega kept backing away until Gavilan's pounding. The Cuban kept after him, driving him off with hard shots to the ribs. Gavilan used little footwork and stood and slugged at his opponent all the way.

Gavilan had a decided edge on the infighting, hammering his opponent's ribs and head with lefts and rights aimed at the Cuban's face.

Gavilan had been taking vitamin shots in his native Cuba. His manager said "they did the work." The former champion weighed 159 to 146½ for Ortega.

'Greedy, Arrogant, I Despise Him,' Excerpt From First Act of 'Carmen'

NEW YORK (AP)—Kept waiting for more than an hour by Ray Robinson, welterweight champion Carmen Basilio vowed Wednesday "I'll take him off his high horse in the ring."

The occasion was the formal signing of the two champions for their 15-round middleweight title fight at Yankee Stadium Sept. 23.

Robinson, who had spent more than two hours studying the contract boot clause, finally affixed his signature to the contract, Basilio heaved a deep sigh, and said "at last."

"This is what I've been waiting for," said the 30-year-old fighter from Chittenango, N.Y. "In my book, he's greedy, and arrogant, and I despise him. I can't wait to get in the ring with him."

DISLIKES HIM

Basilio never has disguised his dislike for Sugar Ray.

Under the terms of the contract, Robinson, who is defending his 160-pound middleweight title, will get 45 pcr cent of the gate and the theatre - television receipts. Basilio will get 20 'per cent. Promoter James D. Norris of the International Boxing Club said he expected the fight to gross more than $750,000 with the theatre-TV receipts adding at least another $250,000.

If Basilio wins, they will meet in a return bout within 90 days. Each will collect 30 per cent.

Originally Basilio had accepted a 25 per cent offer from the IBC which had hoped to sign Robinson for 40 per cent. But the 37-year-old middleweight king insisted on 45 per cent.

Richest Golf Tourney on Earth Gets Under Way

CHICAGO (AP)—The first section of golf's greatest money-pressure tourney starts today at Tam O'Shanter and there is no definite pre-event favorite.

The first step in the treasure hunt is the all American with a purse distribution of $25,000 for men pros, $7,500 for women pros, and trophies and merchandise for men amateurs and women amateurs.

In all, 237 players teed off in the dawn-to-dusk first round, including 162 men pros shooting for a $2,500 top prize to be awarded at Sunday's finish of the 72 holes. Next week, however, comes the big one—the "world championship."

The winner of the men's pro division collects $50,000 and a $50,000 exhibition contract. The total purse is $102,500. Champion of the women's pros will receive $6,000 out of a $15,000 purse.

There is a general feeling that the group of younger pros may teach the oldtimers a lesson this time. They seldom have before. Bob Toski was the youngest ever to win the "world" when he hit the jackpot in 1954 at the age of 27.

But never before has there been such a fine crop of younger players. They include Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, Dow Finsterwald, Peter Thomson of Australia, Ken Venturi, Don Whitt and Paul Harney.

Corbin Gold Trophy Tourney Attracts Top Bowlers From Many Centres of Province

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

One of lawn bowling's most colorful tournaments, the Fifteenth Annual Corbin Gold Trophy Men's Rinks, gets under way on the greens of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club on Monday, Civic Holiday.

Some 264 bowlers representing clubs from Toronto to Montreal, and their ladies, will arrive in the city over the holiday weekend.

Tournament chairman Gerald Hyde and his competent committee have left nothing undone to make the 1957 "Battle for the Prizes" the most successful in city bowling history.

Seventeen prizes, topped by the beautiful Corbin Gold Trophy and valued at nearly $1,700, will be the pots o' gold at the end of the bowling rainbow.

Bowlers will be here from Trenton, Ottawa, Waterloo, Campbellford, Cornwall, Kingston, Oshawa, Toronto, Belleville, Brighton, Peterborough, Prescott, Newmarket, Montreal, Chesterville, Deloro, Almonte, Hamilton, Madoc, Brockville, North Lindsay, Cobourg, and Orillia.

The Corbin Gold Trophy, one of the most beautiful top prizes in bowling circles of the country is the aim of every keeper and every rink. The present trophy is second of its kind, and has been in competition for the past four years. With it goes four modern transistor radios.

Second prizes and a thing of beauty in its own right is the handsome Lord Calvert Trophy and four sets of silver services the gift of Calvert House, Calvert Distillers Toronto, noted for their interest in and furtherance of many phases of sport.

The third and last trophy prize is that of the Belleville Hotel Proprietors Association. This handsome cup is accompanied by four leather travelling cases.

The first Corbin Gold Trophy was retired after ten years of annual competition and the present beautiful model H. The latest for is the presentation of the Corbin Lodge Division of the International Hardware Company of Canada, Ltd.

During the fourteen years of competition Belleville rinks have won the trophy three times. Last year a rink from this city skipped by G. G. Watkin with C. D. Ashley, lead; A. B. Weiler, vice and W. S. Wright second were the winners. Kingston rinks have won it twice.

The Calvert Trophy has been in competition since 1952 and has yet to have a double winner.

The Belleville Hotel Trophy was presented in 1952 and has been won once by a Belleville rink skipped by A. Watkin.

Play in the 1957 Gold Trophy Tournament will get under way sharp at nine thirty following the popular "Spider" when all bowlers circle the first green and "shoot at the kitty". The bowl nearest the little white ball gets its owner a handsome mantel electric clock.

Then follows the first draw. The second draw is scheduled to get under way at 11.30. Nine Belleville rinks will take part in the play. Kingston is sending an equal number. Ottawa will be represented by six and Toronto two. Montreal is sending one rink.

Nor has the social aspect of the tournament been forgotten. Visiting bowlers and their wives will be hosted at the bowling club on Monday afternoon and will be guests at a reception in the Queen's Hotel Sunday evening. On Monday the ladies will be entertained on the greens and the Club Commodore will be open to visiting bowlers and their ladies during and after play.

The handsome prizes which will be awarded to the various winners at the cessation of play are now on display in the windows of the C. H. Hyde and Son store windows.

Members of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club Corbin Gold Trophy Committee are: honorary chairman, H. C. Argue; general chairman G. B. Hyde; secretary-treasurer J. B. Miller; canvassing committee, C. B. Tice, W.-Wright, H. Parker, J. McArthur, O. Smith; publicity committee, G. L. Edwards, F. Jones, P. Graham and G. C. Vince; prizes and awards committee, G. B. Hyde, J. B. Miller; entertainment committee, A. G. Watkin, chairman, J. B. Miller and G. Watkin official umpires, G. B. Hyde, greens chairman, E. Jones. Mr. J. E. Watkin is the club president.

Sasky Riders Corral Argos In Fist-Swinging Exhibition

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts today were counting their injuries following a 30-9 loss to Saskatchewan Roughriders in a fist-swinging exhibition football game before 16,073 fans.

After grabbing a 9-0 lead Wednesday night, Toronto suddenly ran out of gas against the hard-hitting ex-Leaders and came out on the bottom of the score-board. Count of injuries piled up following a fight-pastered third quarter. The officials almost decided to call off the game with five minutes remaining.

The fracas erupted in the final 10 minutes following a mysterious injury to Argo tackle Dick Fouts.

Fouts, who finished Roughriders' Mel Mcheson toward the Saskatchewan bench, suddenly disappeared from the spectators' view when knocked down by a player who, apparently tumbled off the Ridge bench.

He was immediately surrounded by Saskatchewan players and when his teammates arrived on the scene he was rolling on the ground from what is thought to be a kick in the groin. He is expected to be out of action at least two weeks.

FIVE TIMES

Immediately following the Fouts injury Toronto's Pete O'Garro and Bobby Kuntz and Atchison were bounced for the remainder of the evening after a free - swinging brawl.

Toronto's most serious injury occurred to guard Burt Delavan, who suffered a severed Achilles tendon, and might be out for the rest of the season.

Other injured Argonauts were reserve half Doug Thompson, who sprained an ankle, and C. R. Roberts who injured his back.

Saskatchewan end Stan Williams was injured when he attempted to catch a pass in the third quarter. The extent of his injuries was not known.

Toronto grabbed an early lead when Reg Meserve and Dave Murphy kicked singles. Murphy's was a 64-yard boot that rolled across the deadline.

Argos' Art Powell romped 54 yards for a touchdown on a pass from Gerry Doucette, early in the second quarter. Bart Moll converted and Toronto led 9-0.

When the tide turned, Roughriders scored their first major after Dick Shatto was stopped in his tracks by a bone-shaking jackle that caused him to drop the ball. Four plays later Ken Carpenter scored from the two-yard line and Reg Whitehouse plunked the convert over from the post.

Carpenter made it 9-8 when his kickoff went between Shatto and Roberts and rolled almost to the deadline. Almost immediately Argonauts kicked away the ball on their own 21-yard line and four plays later Bobby Marlow went over. Whitehouse converted.

Before the second quarter ran out Ken Tripucka passed to Sam Wesley for a major. After a scoreless third quarter Solly Glaser scored from the four and Whitehouse kicked a field goal to round out the visitors' scoring.

Marine Bats Clout Three Homers In 6-0 Victory Over Frankford

Goyer's Marines swept their way into the district softball league finals here last night, blanking the Frankford Shoemen 6-0 for their second straight victory in the best-of-three semi-finals.

The Marines meet the winners of the Point Anne - Trenton Juniors series for the league championship.

Clustered clouting in the eighth when back-to-back homers and a triple scored four runs clinched the verdict for the Marines. Up to this point they led 2-0 by virtue of singles scored in the first and seventh, the latter the third home run off the Marine cudgels.

Tommy Thompson scattered eight hits in a mound duel with Bobby Hunter, getting himself out of jams with some fine clutch hurling. The Shoemen bunched three hits in the third with one out but failed to score.

Hunter six-hitted the Marines letting them down with three hits until the disastrous eighth. He whiffed five and walked four. Thompson struck out three and strolled the same number.

Singles by Kingston and Bovay in the first aided by a Frankford error sent the first Marine run across the plate.

Bob Burtis blanked the opposition until the seventh when Johnny Green powered a terrific blast to the centre field fence for the first homer of the game.

In the seventh Bovay popped to first and Gerry Goyer reached first on a Shoeman bobble. Brother Vern smashed out a soaring triple scoring Gerry then St. Denis lofted a towering drive to left centre good for the circuit, sending Vern home.

Soules plastered another drive in approximately the same place and rounded the sacks for the third four-bagger of the game.

Fields powered the Shoemen attack with a triple and two singles with Wickson, Burtt, Curtis, Dafoe and Harder hitting singles.

Frankford: Fields, Cooper, Rankin, Wickson, Burtt, Hunter, Curtis, Dafoe, Harder, Austin.

Marines: Russell, Kingston, Bovay, Gerry Goyer, Green, Vern Goyer, St. Denis, Leo Goyer, Thompson, Berrum, Soules.

Line score

Frankford	000	000	000	—	0	8	2
Marines	100	000	14x	—	6	6	1

Umpires: Kelleher, (plate), and Bawden.

TIGERS TAKE GROTH

BOSTON (AP)—Outfielder John Groth, who began his major league career with Detroit, was re-acquired by the Tigers Wednesday in a straight cash deal with Kansas City Athletics. The 21-year-old Groth played parts of the 1956, '57 and '58 seasons with the Tigers before winning a full time job.

AT THE McCARTHY — Debbie Reynolds has her breakfast served in her bedroom, the volunteer servant being Leslie Nielsen, in this scene from "Tammy and the Bachelor," Universal-International picture in Technicolor and CinemaScope, in which Nielsen, Walter Brennan and Mala Powers are co-starred with Debbie, opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE — The vastness of the sets constructed for "The Ten Commandments" and its cast of thousands, are typified by the scene the above shows above of Pharoah's treasure city, one of the spectacular scenes in Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments." Moses, portrayed by Charlton Heston is seen in the foreground. The massive starring cast also includes Yule Brynner, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Yvonne De Carlo, Debra Paget and John Derek. "The Ten Commandments" in Technicolor and VistaVision is continuing at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Paar May Be Able to Rescue 'Tonight' From Its Doldrums

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — I believe that Jack Paar can rescue NBC-TV's Tonight show from the doldrums in which it has been floating since Steve Allen left for the Sunday night wars.

On his opening night Paar came out slowly, but he'll surely not come out slowly in his opening rounds. He's returning in general to the old Allen format, but he's making it clear that he's not imitating Allen; he's simply being Paar.

Being Paar is being an individualist. He says that you won't hear any jazz and jive talk from him on Tonight, even though there's a theory that jazz lovers are always still up at midnight. Paar could easily acquire a little superficial Jazz talk, but he won't because it doesn't interest him.

This, I think, is a refreshing quality in a comedian. Instead of trying to be all things to all men, a good comedian is simply himself to all men. In the past Paar has been so much himself that he's frightened several press agents and not endeared himself to that minority of reporters who prefer the sweet manner to the wasp ish.

Being Paar, he lives with his wife and daughter and swimming pool and a lot of books up in Westchester County and always enters the city reluctantly and leaves it as quickly as he can. I once had lunch with him in a restaurant habituated by athletes and comedians out of training and the only person present whom he knew was Jackie Gleason.

The hours of the Tonight program are an ordeal for Paar at first because he's been in the habit of going to bed about 9 o'clock in the evening and rising about 5 in the morning.

The new Tonight show is further adorned by the music of Jose Melis, the Cuban pianist, and—at least for this week — by singer Helen O'Connell.

It is to be hoped that as time progresses Paar will be able to spread an interesting array of screwballs to interview, though let's not earn his loquaciousness. For, in his own words, "asking me a question is like taking your finger out of a hole in dike."

AT THE PARK — Handsome Richard Todd re-starts the role of Commander Ernest H. Edwards in "Battle Hell." Michael Anderson (40 Days) directed the stirring war epic, "Battle Hell" is now showing at the Capitol Theatre. On the same screen is another new outdoor action hit "The Badge of Marshall Brennan" starring Jim Davis.

REMEMBER WHEN?

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lefty Grove, famous pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, administered New York Yankees' first shutout in 309 games when the A's beat Yankees 7-0 in a fine pitching performance 24 years ago today. Up to that point the Yanks had not been scoreless in their last 56 games in 1931, in 152 games in 1932 and 97 games of the 1933 season.

The shutout ending, both rooms reached a contract of four hearts with east as declarer. The opening lead in each room was the jack of clubs. So, everything started off even.

But in room one the master, in last spot, too big for his britches. No ABC of play was going to tie him down. He grabbed the first trick with club ace and led a high trump to force out the ace.

It did. North won it and returned a diamond. This caught diamond king and south got two diamond tricks. South also got a club trick later and the contract went down by one trick.

In room two it was an entirely different storey. East saw there was a near loser in hearts a sure loser in clubs; two possible losers in diamonds. He must plan to save a diamond loser.

Not by a finesse if some other and safe plan is available. And such a play is available. He took the first trick with club ace and cashed spade ace. Then he entered dummy with a club to king.

Now he led spade king and shifted an east diamond thereon. In this way he did not care who had the diamond ace. He could lose only one diamond trick and opponents could not defeat his contract.

The cards help those who help themselves.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was in the kitchen when pop came home from his office, and she said: Look, William, I got this newly stainless steel mixing bowl at the market, absolutely free.

When you say absolutely free I suppose you mean you had to buy something, pop said, and ma said, Well naturally you dont get anything for nothing, even if it's free. I had to buy a giant size packidge of Bluebell reddy made cake mix, she said.

If I remember rightly, you tried that stuff once, and the cake was a flop in the litterel sense of the word, pop said, and ma said, Well yes, Mrs. Berbly down the street recommended Blue bell mix and I tried it on my sorrow. That's why I didn't buy a giant size packidge until I had given the matter considerable thought, she said.

What did you think? pop said, and ma said, I thought if a big corporation was generous enough to give me a stainless steel mixing bowl absolutely free, the least I could do was to be generous enough to admit that I may not of followed the directions correctly the first time. And to that end I had been doing Mrs. Berbly a grate injustice, be cause I haven't felt freedly to her since the advised me to try Bluebell mix. So that was another consideration. So I bought the giant size packidge with a clear conscience, and I hope who ever gets it has grate success with it, ma said.

Heh, how do you meen, whoever gets it? pop said, and ma said, I have decided to present it to the church bazaar with some other things I'm donating to their rummage sale.

Yee gods, whoever gets the packidge you take the cake, pop said. Meeting nobody can beet ma.

My first bridge lesson to beginners in card play is very simple. Before playing the first card for dummy, I tell them, see what tricks it is possible for you to lose in each suit.

Then, plan the safest way you can to save what losers you can. And of all the plans of play you already know or are about to learn, rely the least on a finesse.

Even when a master fails to do this he throws away too many of his cinch contracts. A glaring example slaps you in the face right here in world championship deal number 109:

Sexy Blonde Makes a Liar Out of Handsome B. Mathias

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A sexy blonde made a liar out of Bob Mathias the other day. Mathias is the handsome former Olympic decathlon champion who recently was signed to an acting career by John Wayne.

Bob, six-foot-four, was discussing with a reporter about women athletes. Said he:

"Women, if they are smart, will keep out of athletics. First, they're no good at it compared with European women and, secondly, it tends to make them muscular and ugly."

He cited how the U.S. lost the last Olympics to the Russians in a sun scene when the Iron Curtain amazons swept their events.

"They were great athletes," he observed, "but they were no beauties. The two just don't go together."

About this time, an executive with Batjac Productions brought blonde Jeanne Carmen to the table and introduced her to Mathias and the reporter.

Jeanne, soft and curvy and a cross between Marilyn Monroe and Anita Ekberg, listened intently while Mathias continued his discussion on women athletes. She said nothing.

MODEL? ACTRESS?

Then the reporter started questioning her. Being her what she had done before she tried for a movie career. All at the table expected her to give the usual stint about little theater. Instead she replied demurely:

"I was a golf pro."

"We had just about where we would get some volunteer from the audience to tie down and hold a heavy golf ball in his mouth. Then the pro would ask me to hit the ball off his volunteer's mouth.

"I used to take an amateur's mouth plus his pro would ask: 'have you ever swung a golf club before?' Then, if the volunteer hadn't fainted by this time, I answered 'no' and smacked the ball right off his mouth."

Did she ever miss? No, but she admitted that she had scared a lot of volunteers in her time. Her movie work has kept her busy for some time and away from the golf course but she did play the tough Riviera Country Club circuit in men's tees the other day. She shot a highly-respectable 76. It was her first game in six months.

What did she think about Mathias' connection with athletes?

"I think he's been around too many women shot putters," she answered.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, August 2, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You begin and end the day will quite a great extent. Also whether you lag or pep-up in the middle period. Day has more advantages than show on the surface. Look for them.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Influences neither too encouraging nor too restrictive. Daily routine, familiar matters can advance, depending upon how diligently you apply yourself. Heart and family interests favored.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — No matter how difficult your schedule or how unappreciative others may seem, keep plugging at worthwhile activities and you will be rewarded in one way or another. Romance tops in late afternoon, evening.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Not an entirely easy day for unusual or big scale matters. However, routine matters should go smoothly with keen, intelligent effort.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — It might be well to slow up a bit in order to gather more facts, to ascertain whether you are headed in the right direction, and to check on your tempo. Do not disagree for disagreement's sake.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Get started early, briskly, but not overzealously. "Nerves," tension do not contribute to easy accomplishment. Reflect are your tactics and system the best? Uphold good will.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — While your planetary aspects are stimulating now, so are those of many others, so conditions will be keen. But there is always room — and reward — for good work and the support of sound policies.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Give your best thoughts to sound proposals. Keep abreast of trends and show an interest in all matters. Engage in some diversion in free hours.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—A little self proding may be necessary today. If you are your normal self, you won't waste time — yours or another's.

December 22 to January 20— (Capricorn) — Looks for hidden benefits, for those treasures that are always about but which most of us willingly overlook. Many of our biggest, best days start with "little" advantages. Enjoy a good laugh.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Tackle your duties and obligations, then arrange the in-between moments for relaxing. No day should go by without some reflection, meditation.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces)— Plan thoughtfully, but once you have set a plan, follow it determinedly, with conviction. And the happier you are at work, the easier your attainment. Happenings of the past may reoccur.

LUXURIES UP IN FRANCE

PARIS (Reuters)—The French man's aperitif will cost more next month, government officials said Sunday. Brandy and liqueurs will also go up in price together with a wide range of luxury articles, including furs, jewelry, phonograph records, some household appliances, sporting devices, toys and sports articles.

U.S. BUILDS INFANTRY AIR JEEPS

These artists' sketches, released by the U.S. army, portray three versions of an "aerial jeep" the army hopes to develop. Three firms have been awarded contracts for the design, construction and testing of flying research vehicles. Design of the jeep was submitted by Chrysler Corporation, one at centre by Aerophysics Development Corporation of Santa Barbara, Calif., and one at bottom by Piasecki Helicopter Corporation. The flight principle on all the three designs is that the machine rises on a column of air formed by rotating blades in ducts.

But How About Those Ads for Deodorants?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the not-too-distant future your favorite newspaper may not only read well but smell good, too.

The Printing Industries Association of Los Angeles says it now is possible to print food ads that smell like fried chicken and wedding announcements that have the scent of orange blossoms.

The association predicts that "sell through smell" may soon be the advertising watchword.

The PIA said Thursday that more than 120 distinct aromas now can be incorporated in modern printing processes.

Will Protect Canadian Russ From Spies Here

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton says he will take every possible step to protect Russians living in Canada from attempts to have them act as Soviet informers if an investigation of published reports indicates action is warranted.

He said Thursday federal authorities now are investigating reports that Russians here were being offered amnesty and the right to return to the Soviet Union in return for information on anti-Soviet activities of fellow Russians in Canada.

The London Free Press Wednesday published the text of a letter which, it said, was sent to a London resident and signed by General Mikhailov, president of the committee for repatriation in Kitzwilin.

The letter offered amnesty in turn for such "patriotic activities" as informing on anti-Soviet activities of fellow Russians in Canada.

Pole Kept Wife in Chastity Belt Fifteen Years

WARSAW (Reuters) — A morbidly jealous husband has been arrested in eastern Poland on charges of having kept his wife in a chastity belt for the last 15 years.

The Polish news agency PAP reported Thursday night that a 59-year-old man kept his wife, by whom he had three children, in a chastity belt fastened from behind with a lock he invented.

PAP said the jealous husband, whose name was not announced, was arrested July 31 in the town of Rzeszow Voivodship where he was employed as a doorman at the Tolowa Wola Hotel.

The unhappy wife, after years of "horrible torture" by her husband, will have to undergo an operation, the news agency said.

Today's Chuckle

What the modern businessman must decide is not whether he will make trouble — but when, and how much.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Thickening clouds over Northwestern Ontario caused isolated thunderstorms during the night. This activity is expected to spread eastward into the White River and Timmins - Kapuskasing regions later today. Cooler air which now covers the Prairies, will spread across Ontario's northern regions Saturday and the southern regions on Sunday.

OTTAWA (CP)—A pooled operational headquarters for North America's air defences will be set up soon with an American in command and a Canadian as his deputy.

A joint announcement made Thursday from Ottawa and Washington said that the unified command would be set up at Colorado Springs, Colo., Defence Minister Pearkes said the purpose of the command would be to work out a common plan for the defence of North America in event of an emergency.

General Earle Partridge of the United States Air Force is to head the integrated setup, and Air Marshal C. R. Slemon, 53, chief of Canada's air staff, is to be his deputy.

Air Marshal Hugh Campbell, 49, is to succeed Slemon as head of the RCAF. Campbell is commander of the Canadian Air Division in Europe, he now is deputy chief of staff (operations) at NATO headquarters in Fontainebleau, France.

NO REDEPLOYMENT

There will be no redeployment of RCAF strength, Mr. Pearkes told a press conference, but expansion of either the force or its airfield facilities, and the order to no deployment of additional United States service men to Canadian soil, and USAF components now stationed in Newfoundland would be left under RCAF control.

The move was designed to work out common procedures in peacetimes, and to be in the man-who could be the American or the Canadian, who at the time was with the authority to order the continent's air-defence forces into the skies "as soon as groups of planes has been determined as being hostile."

Other aspects of the two countries' air forces would remain operational responsibilities. They would continue their own discipline, administrative, logistics, communications and unit training.

Gen. Partridge's headquarters would be essentially a planning formation but would occasionally exercise the new force's vast organic manoeuvres to be ready in the event they have to use its supreme defence power.

Besides the RCAF's nine home-based Canada-force fighter interceptor squadrons, it would have available the force's vast communications and logistics organization, plus the DEW (Distant Early Warning) line of Mid-Canada radar lines and the Pinetree radar control network.

The defence minister said the role of Canada's projected CF-105 supersonic jet fighter, on which more than $200,000,000 already has been spent, will not be affected. Instead, the CF-105 program will be up for review this year by NATO.

Mr. Pearkes added that there is no suggestion that under the new command Canadian fighters will be equipped immediately with atomic weapons.

SLEMON TO MOVE SHORTLY

"This system of integrated operational control and the formation of up of a joint headquarters will become effective at an early date," Defence Minister Pearkes said. Slemon will go to Colorado Springs shortly.

HOODLUM UNIONS AND EMPLOYERS GYPPED WORKERS

'Sweetheart' Contracts Under Senate Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets committee today called as a group of New York city workers to show how they allegedly were exploited by hoodlum-run unions and co-operating employers.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem., Ark.) said in advance it would be shown that "sweetheart contracts" exist, the union and the employers gave the workers only the legal minimum wage.

Today's hearings are a new phase of the committee's investigation into New York area unions dominated by labor racketeer Johnny Dio. Described as a close friend of James R. Hoffa, International Brotherhood of Teamsters president.

Previous testimony has brought out that Dio got the unions started as part of the old AFL United Auto Workers of America, but since has switched them into the teamsters union.

SAYS DID LITTLE

McClellan said Wednesday that Hoffa used Dio to help gain labor domination over New York and other eastern cities. In his statement, McClellan also said:

"I will be interested to hear Democrate Puerto Rican and Negro labor was misused by both management and labor.

"The racketeers, in effect, sold out the membership and gained the co-operation of management in organizing plants by giving employers so-called 'sweetheart contracts,' which contained little or no benefits to employees."

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee's counsel, said some of the employers having contracts with Dio-dominated locals may be called for testimony today, as well as a number of New York workers in Puerto Rican extraction.

The committee had learned by relatively small steps in the flight from Hungary to the West, operations from 118.5 to 120.5 at March 1 in the following four months it declined sharply to 101.9 at July 1, 121.1, 121.6 and now to 121.5. Although the figures were new price declines for some food items, like canned vegetables, sugar, coffee and jam, these were offset by rises in seasonal food items, chiefly eggs, potatoes, most other fresh vegetables and fruits and pork. The food sub-index rose to 118.2 from 117.7.

There were also increases in the indexes for shelter and for household operation, but declines in the figures for clothing and for transportation and services.

The shelter sub-index moved to 131.4 from 134.6 on the strength of higher rents for owner - occupied ownership. There were contigued rises in rents in residential building materials and wage rates.

The household operation index moved upwards to 119.6 from 119.1 because of higher prices for gas, furnishings, household equipment and domestic help.

The index for clothing, which has shown little movement for some time, fell to 108.4 from 108.4, compared with 108.6 a year earlier.

Civil Rights Bill Defeated, Adopt Jury Trial Amendment

WASHINGTON— (AP)—The Eisenhower administration lost the battle against trial by jury in civil rights cases and Senator William Knowland said today the civil rights bill probably is dead for this session of Congress.

Knowland, Senate Republican leader from California, said reporters he had "no alibis" for the 51-42 vote by which the Senate adopted a jury trial amendment shortly after midnight.

"We just didn't have the votes," he said.

Adoption of the amendment, he said, probably means that any measure the Senate passes will be tied up in conference with Representatives disagreement. The House has rejected any provision for jury trials.

Senator John Potter (Rep., Mich.) was called as President Eisenhower today, said "the president is damn unhappy" about the jury trial amendment.

On the roll-call vote the party lineup was 39 Democrats and 12 Republicans for the amendment and 35 Republicans and 7 Democrats against it.

Knowland said after the vote on the amendment that its adoption would be a "fatal blow" to the bill and he wasn't sure the bill would be virtually unworkable.

But supporters of the amendment maintained that the bill otherwise would violate a constitutional guarantee of the right to trial by jury in criminal proceedings.

The bill, as it now stands, would authorize the U.S. attorney-general to obtain federal court injunctions against violations, or threatened violations, only of the right to vote.

The amendment adopted early today would provide that in criminal contempt cases arising from these injunctions, defendants shall be entitled to trial by jury.

In civil contempt cases, designed to force compliance with court orders but not to punish for violations, there would not be a jury trial.

Written into the amendment was a provision to wipe out the requirement of present law that federal judges sentence must be qualified under state laws.

This was designed to meet the objection of southerners that Negroes are discriminated against in the selection of juries in the South and that all-white juries would try contempt cases.

The President Eisenhower had restated only Wednesday his opposition to such amendment. Vice-President Nixon said in a statement, "This was one of the subjects I discussed with the Senate because this was a vote against the right to vote."

Price Index Climbs Again, Another Record Set in June

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs in Canada hit record levels in June, the bureau of statistics reported Thursday. The consumer price index increased for the fourth consecutive month to 121.9.

The June rise of three-tenths of one per cent from May 1 set a 1949 prices equalling 100.

The committee had formed by relatively small steps in the flight from Hungary to the West, operations from 118.5 to 120.5 at March 1 in the following four months it declined sharply to 101.9 at July 1, 121.1, 121.6 and now to 121.5. Although the May and June were price declines for some food items, like canned vegetables, sugar, coffee and jam, these were offset by rises in seasonal food items, chiefly eggs, potatoes, most

Trade Parley Is Good Idea Menzies Declares at Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Australian Prime Minister Menzies says he thinks the July 31 to August 7 Commonwealth trade conference but he wants to know what topics are proposed for discussion first.

He expressed this view Thursday in a press conference with Canada's 24-hour visit here. He was to leave today.

Mr. Menzies said that a Commonwealth trade conference such as Canadian Prime Minister Diefenbaker proposed would be a good idea if it were carefully planned and thought before it was held.

The Canadian government and yet had not informed other Commonwealth countries as to the agenda it would propose at the conference.

"I am a great believer in planning man," he said. But he wanted to know what was being proposed for discussion before attending any conference—"Not because I want to confine topics but because I want it to be a success."

"With the idea we are in warm sympathy," Mr. Menzies said. It was a worthwhile project and when Canada proposed topics for such a conference Australia would examine them "not in a hostile spirit but in a spirit of co-operation, wealth way."

He said he favors the proposed European free trade area as long as it does not result in exclusion of Commonwealth preference and other primary products from participation in European markets.

The free trade area would be an extension of Western Europe's six-country common market now being ratified in the member countries: West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Australia's attitude to these proposals, Mr. Menzies, is that "we want to be astute and protect our immediate interests," but while we are Australian agri-

Planes Search Sept-Iles Area For Missing Jet

HALIFAX (CP) — Four search planes combed the Sept-Iles area of Quebec today for trace of a missing CF-100 jet fighter and its two-man crew who were flying it home.

The twin-jet fighter, carrying Flt. Lt. K. P. McNulty, 22, of Arnold, Ont., pilot, and P/O J. W. Wilding, 24, of Kingston, observer, disappeared Thursday while flying information with other planes of No. 419 Squadron.

McNulty was formerly stationed at Trenton, Ont., and he and his wife have many friends in Belleville.

Crew of other aircraft reported seeing the plane's canopy flying before it went into a cloud and disappeared. The air force said the flying debris they saw released may indicate the two men baled out.

The CF-100 jet was to leave Greenwood, N.S., today to join the four RCAF planes already taking part in the search.

The missing plane had taken off Thursday from North Bay, with the other planes of 419 Squadron to join the RCAF fighter wing in Germany as part of Canada's NATO commitment.

cultural exports to Europe.

Mr. Menzies said one consideration Australia would make regarding a Commonwealth trade conference is the possible effect it might have on a recent Australia-United Kingdom trade agreement. He pointed out found that a number of bilateral agreements with industrial countries gave it "more elbow room" in such dealings.

CUBA IS PLACED UNDER MILITARY RULE BY BATISTA

U.S. Envoy's Comment Annoys Ruling Group

HAVANA (AP)—President Fulgencio Batista's army held Cuba under martial law today following an anti-Batista demonstration in the pro-rebel city of Santiago de Cuba.

Comments on the demonstration and the situation in Cuba by Earl E. T. smith, the new U.S. ambassador, brought a fusilade of criticism from political leaders loyal to the president.

Batista's cabinet suspended constitutional guarantees for 45 days and immediately directed the police take control of Santiago, capital of Oriente province and a center of anti-Batista sentiment.

A general strike had been called in the city to protest police action in dispersing a pro-Castro demonstration. Most places of business were closed, although a few others forced some food stores to reopen. Port operations were halted and banks closed.

Censorship again was clamped on local radio stations, foreign newspapers and radio stations and on outgoing press dispatches. Stories sent by telephone were delayed as much as six hours.

EXPONENT NEWS BAN

Specifically banned was publication or transmission of news implying support for the rebels led by Fidel Castro. Also banned was news on work stoppages protesting the arrest of Batista opponents.

Full constitutional guarantees had been restored to Cuba's 6,000,000 people April 15 after a 45-day suspension. Thursday's new decree was the fourth time that constitutional rights have been lifted since Castro and a band of followers landed in eastern Cuba last Dec. 2 and launched a guerrilla campaign against the government.

Smith told a press conference the American people "are sad and preoccupied by the political unease which has followed the recent bloodshed in Cuba."

Ambassador Jose Gonzalez Puentes, leader of the president's National Progressive party in the Senate, issued a statement saying: "Cuba wants and repudiates everything that could be interference in the affairs of the Cuban government."

Communication Minister Ramon Vasconcelos wrote in his newspaper Alerta that Smith had acted "as though Cuba was a Yankee protectorate."

Remove Statue Of Queen

AGRA, India (Reuters) — Another unpopular statue of Queen Victoria, condemned by the Indian government as an offensive monument, has been removed from a public park here. In Allahabad, a statue of Queen Victoria was removed last week.

Mrs Murphy's Chowder or Presley Won't Replace Old Southern Tunes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elvis Presley and the overalls in Mrs. Murphy's chowder got mixed up in the House Rules Committee Thursday in a musical plea to the House of Representatives rules committee to prevent tampering with southern folk songs.

Representative Frank Chelf, a Kentucky Democrat, said the rabble rousing Presley was about to ensnoring some of the best lyrics by deleting such words as "darkies," "old Kentucky home" and the traditional Association for the Advancement of Colored People is behind the move.

"If we follow the same logic of the newsboys in banning Swanee River and My Old Kentucky Home we'll have to change the name of the White House," said Chelf, "because it's considered by classified as discrimination."

Chelf said he couldn't understand it because he said Stephen Foster "never saw a colored people" when he wrote My Old Kentucky Home."

Furthermore he said, a Negro wrote Carry Me Back to Old Virginny, another song which Chelf said "has been censored for the airwaves."

The committee took under advisement Chelf's request for an investigation of the alleged censorship.

Dulles Himself Submits Plan For Inspection

Takes Over Leadership Of U.S. Parley Delegation

Ditto Data About Pair Of Dittos

LONDON (Reuters) — The five-power disarmament subcommittee met today to hear U.S. State Secretary Dulles outline Western proposals on aerial and ground inspection to prevent surprise military attacks.

Dulles, here since Monday rallying Western support for the proposals, took over leadership of the American delegation.

ALTERNATIVE PLAN

A conference source said the four Western nations would offer Russia an inspection zone in Europe stretching from western Ireland to the Urals, provided that the Soviet government accepted a zone of mutual inspection of North American and Soviet territory stretching into the Arctic Circle.

An American spokesman said Thursday that the Soviet Government of Russia being offered a European inspection zone only and declined the plan to be put forward today as "alternative and supplementary."

Formal subcommittee meetings have been postponed this week while Dulles confers with the delegations of Canada, Britain and France to coordinate their joint approach on the inspection subject.

SOVIET EYE TO EYE

There have been frank admissions that the Westerners did not see eye to eye on all phases of disarmament.

The inspection proposals will form the last major feature of a series which the U.S. has been submitting during the last two months to obtain a first-stage partial disarmament treaty.

Russia decided to take over leadership of the U.S. delegation today despite a statement by an American spokesman that it would be left in the hands of Harold Stassen, official chief delegate.

The spokesman was commenting on Russia's press report that Stassen has been a "delaying factor" in the negotiations. He said there is "no lack of confidence" in his leadership.

5 White Youths Sentenced for Slaying Negro

CHICAGO (AP) — Five white teen-agers charged with murdering in the hammer slaying of a 21-year-old Negro Thursday received prison terms ranging from 14 to 30 years, two others were given new trials.

The youths were among 15 originally named in an indictment in the death of Alvin Palmer, struck down March 11 as he stood at a south side corner waiting for a bus.

One of the pack, Joseph Schwarz, 18, admitted wielding the hammer and earlier received a 30-year prison sentence.

Chief Judicie Albert F. Crowley of criminal court sentenced Ronald Hybka, 19 years; Edward Frow, 17, to 14 years; Thomas Trybula, 16, to 14 years; Andrea Dyer, 16 to 14 years and Edward Grosik, 17, to 14 years. Judge Crowley also sentenced the youths at a non-jury trial.

Raymond Kozlowski, 17, and Lawrence Dyer, 17, had their hearing continued to Aug. 6 to set the date for a new trial.

34,000 Boy Scouts of All Nations Cheer as Jubilee Jamboree Opens

SUTTON PARK, England (CP) — Surrounded by 30,000 cheering, waving scouts of all nations, the Duke of Gloucester Thursday officially opened the world jubilee jamboree marking the 50th anniversary of the boy scout movement.

The duke, whose helicopter landed dramatically on a nearby golf course, was greeted with a din like money on a circular platform in the capacity of president of the Boy Scouts Association of Britain.

Among officials on the platform was Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry, director of the international branch and former executive commissioner of the Boy Scouts Association of Canada.

The 12-day jubilee gathering also marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the scout movement.

Lady Baden of Powell, his widow, and world chief guide, was present at the opening.

The duke inspected the 730-acre encampment by jeep and had tea with a group of scouts including Sydney Pierce, acting Canadian high commissioner in London, and Ralph Connor of Saint John, N.B., leader of Canada's 1,500-scout contingent.

The heatwave caught many of the scouts—Motto: Be Prepared—with their guard down. It was warm uniforms and packed closely together, perspiring and fainting the duke's speech and were carried away by stretcher bearers.

The duke spent considerable time with the West Indian scouts, who serenaded the Queen's uncle with calypsos.

Canada's headquarters was a big attraction to the crowd of more than 70,000 visitors with its 14-foot plastic igloo, two Indian teepees, two bear totem poles and distinctive wooden maple leaf signs.

Milton L. Fowler, Local Teacher, Dies on Vacation

An instructor in special handicrafts classes in Belleville public schools since 1928, Mr. Milton L. Fowler, 31 Octavia street, died suddenly on Wednesday while vacationing at High River, Alberta.

Mr. Fowler came to Belleville in 1928 when he joined the teaching staff of the then Belleville Board of Education. A specialist in his department, he had taught handicraft classes at Queen Alexandra school and for the past several years had been at Queen Mary school. He was a bachelor.

Born in Proton township, he attended Toronto Normal School and began his teaching career at Fort Arthur. He later taught at Marathon, near Dundalk, Ontario, following which he came to Belleville.

He was a life member of Moira Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 11, and also was a member of Metro Chapter R.A.M. No. 7.

He is survived by one brother, Edwin Fowler of Dundalk.

Legion Branch Holds Annual War Memorial

FRANKFORD — The annual Memorial Service held by the Frankford Legion Branch, No. 387, in memory of fallen comrades of World Wars I and II, was held in Frankford on Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

The parade, led by the RCAF Band of Trenton, numbered over 100 marchers, and included the Frankford Kilt Band, Frankford Boy Scouts and Cubs, and Frankford Girl Guides and Brownies.

The ceremony took place in Frankford Memorial Park. The speakers for the afternoon included Reeve H. W. Rose, the Rev. J. L. Barnum, of Frankford Free Methodist Church, and the Rev. Reuben Hoyt, of Bethel United Church, who were introduced by Zone Commander Scott Jackson of Brighton.

Following the sounding of Last Post and two minutes silence, wreaths were placed on the cenotaph by the following: Frankford Legion of Honour, World War I, Batawa veterans, Ladies' Auxiliary of Canadian Legion, Sidney township, Frankford Lions Club, Frankford Kilties Band, Frankford Scouts and Cubs and Frankford Girl Guides and Brownies.

After the National Anthem the parade re-formed and Fly-ing Officer Waddell took the salute at the cenotaph.

Present at the ceremony was one of Frankford's oldest citizens, Mr. Enos McAllister, only living member of the original monument committee which was formed at the time of the First World War, to raise funds for the erection of the monument. Mr. McAllister also built the forms for the lamp pillars which stand in front of the cenotaph, and these moulds are still in his possession.

Special commendations are given Com. Kenneth Lawrence, president of Frankford Branch of the Canadian Legion.

England, and the Jamboree

By RICHARD P. FUKE
Queen's Scout

(Ed. Note:—This is one of a series of articles written for The Ontario Intelligencer by Queen's Scout Richard P. Fuke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Fuke, 184 Bridge St. East. Scout Fuke is a member of the Belleville contingent of Boy Scouts attending the Ninth World Jamboree.)

ARROWE PARK SUB CAMP, Warwickshire, England
July 23-28—During the last week in, and my Canadian companions, have been attempting to cram as much sightseeing into seven days as humanly possible. In the next few paragraphs, I shall endeavor to describe the events of the past few days and convey my impressions concerning them.

Tuesday, July 23rd, I spent touring the Surrey countryside through such places as Guildford, Godalming, and Dorking. The English countryside to my mind is much prettier than that of Canada. No place is very far from where you are, and the winding roads spotted here and there with tiny hamlets with picturesque names, create a peaceful atmosphere hard to find in America. It takes longer to go from place to place in England, but no one seems to be in any hurry.

Watching the Guard change at Buckingham Palace was where we could be found Wednesday morning. However we could actually see very little as hundreds of others had the same purpose in mind. Several times the troops would march either in or out of the courtyard, thus enabling us to get a good view of the British Red Coats as well as good pictures. The Welsh Guards were the new Guard for the next two days, and as an extra point of interest, the royal flag was flying, meaning the Queen was in residence.

In the late morning of the same day we dropped in at the Imperial Boy Scout headquarters, a visit highlighted by the Baden-Powell room, a museum of his trophies collected during his many years of Scouting.

About 11 a.m. or so on Thursday, Mr. Telling (my England host) and I set off in his little English car, bound for the scouts our ultimate aim. We stopped at interesting points on the way, one of which was an old tower in southern Surrey, from which a wonderful view of the downs could be obtained. We arrived at Arrowe Park in time for our very late lunch on the river. The sea was not very impressive as the tide was out and the seaweed in. Nevertheless it was an experience I shall never forget. We then went back to camp and ate supper through Brighton. We went by Epsom Downs, the famous horse racing track, before arriving home.

In the early part of the same day I attended the civic reception for the Canadian Scouts billeted in Richmond and Barnes, held in the Richmond town hall. Here we were greeted by the mayors of both burroughs and mingled with the local English Scouts. Another event of the splendid English hospitality, and the novelty of the hedge maze, more than made up for my disappointment in the palace itself.

We then moved out of London to Windsor castle, eating box lunches on the way. Our stay at Windsor to me has been the highlight of our stay in London. The round tower, St. George's Chapel where all the deceased monarchs lay, and the state rooms filled with armor and weapons, were only three of the many attractions there. I took several pictures of the wonderful panoramic view from the round tower.

The afternoon I finished my downtown London touring until after the jamboree, visiting such places as the armor and weapon-filled Tower of London, the Westminster Abbey, and St. Paul's Cathedral, all of which was very interesting and breathtaking.

Scores Injured By Subway Blast In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Scores of passengers were injured and shaken up today when a blast jarred a Broad Street subway train at the Erie Avenue station in north Philadelphia.

Police said the blast apparently was in the electrified third rail in the city's main underground tube.

The blast occurred at the end of the morning rush hour. Many of the injured were taken to hospitals. Some subway passengers wandered to the Erie Avenue station after the terror created by the shock.

Edward Caswell, 40-year-old motorman of the subway train, said the blast derailed the lead car of the eight-car train.

Caswell said he was temporarily blinded by the flash from the explosion, but recovered quickly and opened the subway train doors to let passengers out on the station platform. Many passengers, he said, were hysterical.

Says Eisenhower Gives Brushoff On Diversion

WASHINGTON (AP)—A leader in the fight for more Lake Michigan diversion water discounted today President Eisenhower has given Illinois congressmen a brushoff on the subject.

Representative Sidney Yates (Dem., Ill.) used that term in describing a letter from I. Jack Martin, a White House aide, to representative Thor C. O'Brien (Dem. Ill.), dean of the Illinois congressmen in the group.

Illinois congressmen contend Chicago needs more water from the lake to operate its sewerage system and to improve navigation on the Illinois waterway.

HAS URGED TALKS

O'Brien has urged the president to order federal agencies to again try to obtain Canadian agreement to increased diversion. A brief White House reply Tuesday said a report on Canada's present attitude "has not yet been received but is expected momentarily."

"What that means," Yates told a reporter, "I don't know."

A state department spokesman indicated the state department probably will recommend a third presidential veto of a water diversion bill.

Bills to permit increased Lake Michigan diversion by Chicago were passed by Congress in 1954 and 1956. Eisenhower vetoed both on the advice of the state department.

The state department's position was influenced by Canadian contentions that added diversion would lower parts of the Great Lakes and cause a financial loss in hydroelectric projects. The same position has been taken by Great Lakes states other than Illinois.

Strikers Say They Will Not Stop Trucks

ST. THOMAS (CP) — After a meeting Thursday night, strikers at the Canada Vitrified Products Limited plant issued a statement that they would not interfere with trucking or leaving the plant, or with other normal company business.

A total of 42 members of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) have been on strike since June 1 in a wage dispute.

USW representative Ken Levack said the union has maintained it was not responsible for two outbreaks of violence last week when four non-union drivers of tile-laden trucks were treated in hospital for injuries after rocks were hurled and flaming tires were rolled onto the road. Mr. Levack blamed the trouble on picket line "sympathizers."

A conference in Toronto a few days ago between Labor Minister Daley and company and Union officials ended in a stalemate. Company officials said company they could negotiate no further with the steelworkers.

'Sword Society' Aims to Foment Anti-Red Riots

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The New China (Communist) news agency reported today that security police in Canton, southern China, had unearthed a counter-revolutionary religious organization called the Sword Society, which aimed to stir up anti-Communist riots.

The society spread rumors that "the people will rise against the government in the month of August this year and a king will emerge to lead the strife," the agency said. The plot was uncovered in June.

Police were said to have arrested the society's leader, Kan Yui Tung, and his three lieutenants.

The agency said the society took advantage of local unrest over the removal of several homes to make way for a reservoir project.

They put up slogans opposing the project and promised that when the Sword Society took over there would be no forced labor or grain and no grain tax for three years.

The agency said the society planned to kill (Communist) party members and members of the (Communist) Youth League and then slaughter directors of agricultural co-operatives.

Toronto Couple's Tour Has Exciting Interruption Here

What started out as an uneventful holiday trip to Fredericton, N.B., for a young Toronto couple and their three small daughters, had a brief but exciting interruption in Belleville this morning when during a stop at Fireman's Park the youngest daughter fell 12 feet from a stone wall into the Moira River.

The little girl who escaped unharmed, was rescued by her mother who jumped in fully clothed from the wall into four feet of water.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Nason, R.R. 3, Malton, left Toronto last night with their young family. They stayed overnight at Trenton in their cabin trailer and drove on to Belleville this morning when the river incident occurred shortly before noon.

The party had stopped at the park on lower Front Street, and the father and mother stretched on a brief errand.

While he was away the mother and the young family: Susan, 2; Pamella, 5, and Janice, 7, were enjoying the fresh air in the park. Unnoticed Susan climbed on the stone wall at the river bank and started walking along the rocks when she was spotted by her mother.

The mother ran to grab her daughter but the little tot started to run, tripped on the stones and tumbled 12 feet to the water.

The tot promptly disappeared under the surface and the 22-year-old mother, without thought of her own safety or the depth of the water, kicked off her shoes and jumped in to the rescue.

An unidentified man climbed down the rocks and handed the little girl to the top of the wall where she was taken by willing helpers. The mother climbed back up unaided.

"It's nothing but a racket," he said. "It is high time the highways department cracked down on its examiners."

He called the granting of a chauffeur's licence to Peter Iler, 27, of Toronto "a sloppy piece of business" and said:

"No examiner should ever issue a chauffeur's licence to a man who cannot speak English."

Two Brothers In Death Cells Try to Suicide

ATLANTA, Georgia (AP) — Two brothers convicted of rape and sentenced to die tore at their own wrists in federal prison cells Thursday in attempts at suicide.

George and Michael Krull of McRae Rock, Pa., lost the last hope of avoiding Georgia's electric chair when President Eisenhower turned down a clemency plea.

The Krulls have been held in separate maximum security cells. Both punctured their left arms in some manner and tore the punctures with their teeth or fingernails.

Obituary

LATE W. E. BATEMAN

The funeral of W. E. Bateman, Thomasburg, was held Tuesday afternoon from his residence to St. John's United Church, Tweed where service was conducted by Rev. W. K. Pace.

The church was filled to capacity for the funeral as friends in the community paid their final tribute to a respected resident. During the service Mrs. W. K. Pace sang "God Night and Good Morning." Interment was in Thomasburg cemetery.

Elders of St. John's Church acted as honorary bearers. Active bearers were: Lincoln Elliott, Fred Stein, Arthur Hayes, George Gordon, Charles Heath and T. C. Graham.

Decrepit Tents, Huts, Vehicles Blasted by Jets

MANAMA, Bahrein (Reuters)—RAF jet fighter planes ripped up dilapidated tents and huts in Oman, a British communique said today.

Britain is aiding the pro-British sultan of Muscat and Oman to quell a rebellion led by a political-religious leader in the Arabian Peninsula hinterland.

"The former camp of the Oman regiment at Firq was attacked by the communique said. "The rebels' tents and huts beside the Firq Tower were also attacked and tents and huts destroyed. Five vehicles were also damaged."

The planes also raided Nizwa, headquarters of the rebels. The communique said the tower was damaged and "buildings in the Nizwa block were extensively damaged."

Cadi Declares Driving Licence Examiners Lax

COOKSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Magistrate R. I. Blain has urged the Ontario department of highways to crack down on driving licence examinations in Peel County.

His recommendation came on Thursday in the wake of the fining of 12 immigrants for making false statements on licence applications.

Magistrate Blain said immigrants are flocking to Peel county from nearby Metropolitan Toronto to get their driving licences because "they know examiners are easier to get out here."

"There is nothing but a racket," he said. "It is high time the highways department cracked down on its examiners."

He called the granting of a chauffeur's licence to Peter Iler, 27, of Toronto "a sloppy piece of business" and said:

"No examiner should ever issue a chauffeur's licence to a man who cannot speak English."

Dozen Homes Destroyed by Brush Fire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A leapfrogging brush fire believed started by juveniles burned 13 homes and sickened 500 more in the Mount Washington area of suburban Highland Park.

The fire, one of three in southern California, was brought under control late Thursday.

Two of the 125 firemen battling the blaze were injured and three overcome by smoke. The homes destroyed were described as modest to middle-class.

The fire broke out in the afternoon in tall brush covering an uninhabited slope. Police said several boys were seen running from the area.

Two other fires, one in the Hollywood Hills and the other near Pomona, also were contained.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Amid the slowest morning trading in three years, the stock market today edged lower.

The 11 a.m. volume of 439,000 shares was the lightest since Aug. 1, 1954, when sales on that day totalled 392,000 in the first hour.

Canadian Tire lost 8½ points at 81¼ among industrials on a light turnover. The drop, however, is not uncommon with this stock which fluctuates in a wide range under light trading.

Calgary Power, McColl and Price Bros. were each off a point. Page-Hersey Tubes gained 1¼ to 126 but other price changes in the industrial list were fractional.

Senior base metals were lowered by International Nickel's 1¼ point loss at a new low of 82. Lower-priced mines and oils were mixed in narrow-range trading.

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter price prices were reported unchanged today.

The egg market was reported quiet with prices steady at the light demand.

Country dealers are quoted on graded eggs delivered here, in fibre cases: A large 46; A medium 42; A small 31; B 36; C 28.

Wholesale to retail: A large 51; A medium 48; A small 37; B 35; C 27.

Butter prices: Canada first grade Ontario cream made 60¼-60½ in steady trading; western 61-61¾ (nominal).

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Top grades of slaughter cattle sold fairly actively at steady prices this week, the Ontario agriculture office here reported. Heifers—idling 50 cents a hundredweight —and lower grades and steers and cows were 50 cents and more lower with bulls steady.

Trade was active in the replacement cattle class. Veal calves were steady with best good calves and runners slow and hard to sell. Hogs declined $1 a hundredweight. Lambs were firm and sheep prices unchanged. Bucks were discounted $1 a hundred weight.

Cattle this week numbered about 100 head less than last week—down 200 from the same week in 1956. Receipts of cattle were at 1,774, were about 50 head more than last week. For the third consecutive week no shipments went to eastern Canadian slaughterers. One load of choice steers averaging 1,130 pounds was exported to the United States.

Trading conditions on steers and yearlings were similar to last week's. Top grades sold fairly actively with lower grades meeting a narrowed demand. Prices on these classes were generally unchanged. The situation was reversed in the cow section: top grades of cows sold sharply lower —losing $1.50 cents to as much as $1 a hundredweight. Canners and cutters, however, maintained steady prices.

Prices

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers $20-21, sales to $21.35; good $19.50-20; medium $17-19; common $15-17; good heifers $18.50-19, odd lots higher; medium $15-16; common $13-15; boners $15-17; choice fed yearlings $20-21; sales to $21.50 and odd extreme top to $22; good $19-20; good medium $17.50-19; sales to $12.50; medium $11-12; common $10-11; canners and cutters $8-10; good heavy bologna $15.50; common and medium $11-15.

Heifers and cows: Good $18.50-19, odd lots picked to $19.75; common and medium $15-17.50; stock heifers $14-16.

Calves: Good and choice vealers $22-23.50, odd sales higher; medium $16-21; common $14-18; bobers $10-13.

Hogs: Grade A mostly $36, with several loads $36.25; sows $24 ton at $2 hundredweight decline); stags $16 a hundredweight, on a dressed-weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good lambs $25, small lots fractionally higher; common down to $16; feeders $14-16.50; good light sheep $8-9; common and fat $3-7 a hundredweight.

Ruthless Cuts In French Budget Given Approval

PARIS (Reuters)—Finance Minister Felix Gaillard, 37, has won his fierce battle for ruthless economy cuts in the state's civil expenditure next year.

After two days of cabinet meetings, Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury annoyched Thursday night that agreement had been reached on practically the whole of the finance minister's economy program.

"We have made cuts of 600,000,000 francs (about $1,600,000,000)," he said.

"When the details are known, the public will see that the austerity effort has been enormous. Some public works will come to a total standstill. We have established a terribly tight budget which imposes sacrifices we have not been accustomed to in recent years.

This is the first time since the Second World War that a French government has slashed civil expenditure on such a scale.

The cuts mean higher rail fares, 30-per-cent higher prices for gas, the probable cessation of the building of a new transatlantic liner, the possible suspension of the Franco-Italian tunnel under Mont Blanc, and the abolition of two-thirds of the various subsidies the government has for years been paying to the state railroad, the social security fund, the beet growers, and others.

Grocers Deny New Light Beer Is Intoxicating

TORONTO (CP)—A Liquor Control Board of Ontario statement that light beer is intoxicating has brought a prompt denial from the Great Retail Grocers Association.

The Association introduced light beer into grocery stores across the province several weeks ago and since then sales have been rising.

W. H. Collings, chief commissioner of the board, said in a statement released Thursday light beer is intoxicating and should be government controlled.

The statement said: "The present Liquor Control Act defines beer as conclusively intoxicating if the alcoholic content is 2½ per cent by volume or better but the definition of liquor covers all drinkable liquids capable of human consumption which are intoxicating."

SHIPMENT HELD UP

The liquor board statement followed the detention of a truckload of imported near beer at Fort Erie by customs.

John W. Kieran, a spokesman for the Grocers' Association termed the control board statement "completely ridiculous."

"The Collings statement shows he is trying to frighten grocers by interfering with their business.

"We know . . . . that Ontario grocers have complete legal right to sell light beer."

SEVERAL DIFFICULTIES

Mr. Collings' statement said there were several difficulties in allowing the sale of there beers free from the control of the board. It said:

"They are intoxicating and there would be no restriction of sale to minors, or sale on Sundays.

"They are purposely made to appear and taste like beer sold in government stores and the stores of the Brewers' Warehousing Company Limited.

"Their sale has not been confined to grocery stores. It has appeared in such establishments as cigar stores, butcher shops, delicatessen and other establishments in which soft drinks are sold."

80,000 Germans Want to Leave Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — West Germany's Ambassador Wilhelm Haas and shocked Western correspondents a massive set of files Thursday night and said they contained the stories of 80,000 Germans asking to go home from the Soviet Union.

The Soviet government does not recognize the German citizenship of the applicants and maintains that they are Soviet citizens.

The demonstration was staged in the cellar-and file room—of the West German Embassy.

It was in rebuttal to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's statement Wednesday night that there are no German citizens in the Soviet Union.Jeft to repatriate. Earlier special Ambassador Rolf Lahr broke off the Soviet-German negotiations on repatriation and flew back to Bonn.

The negotiations broke down when Vladimir Semenov, chief Soviet delegate, entered the Soviet position and said the repatriation problem had been settled long ago. There was nothing further to discuss on the subject, he said.

Sheriff's Wife Bet $96,000 On the Ponies

CLEVELAND (AP) — Plump, motherly Mrs. Louise Madigan, 46, bookkeeper for a large law firm, signed a statement Thursday that in the last four years she took $96,000 to bet on the horses.

"I started to bet on the horses in 1952, but I used my own money at first," she said.

Her husband, formerly a clerk in a state liquor store, recently became a deputy sheriff.

Union May Open Own Dairy If Counter Sales Continue

TRENTON — The Milk Drivers' Union, whose members are out on strike at the Riverside Dairy in Trenton and Reid's Dairy in Belleville, is prepared to buy its own dairy and resume door to door delivery of milk if dairies in the two centres continue to sell milk on a cash and carry basis.

This was stated last night in Trenton by Bernie Whyte, spokesman for the Milk Drivers' and Dairy Employees' Union.

Mr. Whyte said that since the milk drivers' strike commenced a week ago, the union has had many requests from housewives for the resumption of door to door deliveries.

He said that the union had applied for a milk distributor's licence in Trenton, and that Trenton council had been approached on the matter. Council will meet next Tuesday evening.

BRING IN MILK

Wednesday the Milk Drivers' Union brought in over 6,000 quarts of cartoned milk from the Toronto district and delivered it in door to door deliveries in the town and in Middleton Park. No outside milk will be delivered in Trenton today.

So far there has been no attempt to bring outside milk to Belleville for door to door delivery, but Mr. Whyte said this was the union's intention.

Gregory Butler, Trenton solicitor for the dairies, claimed today that the union action of bringing in milk for home delivery was illegal. Before delivery of milk can be made a licence is necessary both from the Milk Control Board and the Local Board of Health. Under the Public Health Act all milk handlers must also undergo T.B. and other health tests.

He noted also that prior to last Thursday's strike of milk drivers, the employers had made offers of increased wages and other benefits to drivers but had been turned down by the union which came back to original demands.

Last Thursday after negotiations had broken down the union pulled drivers at Riverside Dairy in Trenton and at Reid's Dairy in Belleville, out on strike. By agreement other dairies in the two centres then also ceased deliveries.

SOME WITHOUT MILK

One union driver who assisted in operating a delivery of outside milk in Trenton reported finding children in the poorer section of the town who had had no milk since the strike began a week ago.

The reason for this was said to have been that the families had purchased milk tickets for home delivery and when the strike started were unable to get the dairy to get milk. Lack of money until their next pay prevented them buying other milk.

Mr. Whyte claimed the dairies had accused the strikers of depriving people of milk through stoppage of home delivery and this was one of the reasons outside milk had been brought in.

In order to bring about a settlement of the strike, he said, the union was prepared to meet with employers, with or without the aid of a conciliation officer or the minister of labor.

In the meantime many Trenton householders took advantage of yesterday's home delivery of outside milk and obtained several days' supply.

A sample of the milk taken by a representative of the board of health was tested in Kingston and was reported okay.

PURCHASES COW

Meanwhile the milk strike is not worrying a worker from Central Bridge Company living just outside Trenton. With a family of 10 children the dairyman formerly left up to a dozen quarts daily at his home. Since the strike he has purchased a cow for $125 and now has all the milk the family requires with some over which he gives to a neighbor.

Gaspe Strikers Get Last Chance To Keep Jobs

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)—Striking employees of Gaspe Copper Mines have until tonight to decide whether they want to remain as company payrolls, company manager W. G. Brissenden said Thursday.

Mr. Brissenden said the strikers, who left their jobs March 11, have been sent letters offering them a "last chance" to return to their jobs.

"If they haven't reported to work by Friday night they will be taken off the payroll lists."

Roger Bedard, spokesman for the United Steelworkers of America (CLC), said the strikers "are not worried at all." He said the move is "just one of a series of threats the company has been making all along."

TO PLAN HIRING

The letters were sent "in order to plan the hiring of new men," Mr. Brissenden said. "There are no circumstances will we lay off employees presently working to replace them with returning strikers."

He said 398 employees have been hired since the company resumed production on a restricted basis April 29.

The letter was the third the company has sent the strikers. The others, May 21 and June 21, demanded that the strikers make an immediate and unconditional return to work.

Mr. Bedard said Thursday night the union has scheduled for today a series of one-minute radio broadcasts on three area stations.

MAKES CLAIMS

In the broadcasts, he said, the union is making these claims:

1. "Of the 940 men who went on strike March 11, 250 are still on the payroll. These persons are working for the company are students, German and Hungarian immigrants and employees who had left the past been fired by the company as unsuitable workers;" 2. "The company has not produced a single pound of copper since the strike began."

Mr. Bedard said the broadcasts are being made to counteract "intimate company-sponsored talks being made three times a day over area stations."

PRICE INDEX

Small price increases for newspapers, prepaid health care and some personal care items were balanced by lower prices for new passenger cars and gasoline.

WHOLESALE INDEX DOWN

The bureau's announcement also reported on movements of some wholesale price indexes, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100.

The wholesale index for 30 industrial materials declined slightly to 340.3 in the week ending July 26, compared to 340.9 for the week ending June 28. Raw sugar registered a major decline but there were price increases for structural steel shapes, hogs and steers.

The wholesale index of Canadian farm products, also on the 1935-39 base, advanced 2.9 per cent in the same period to 313.9 from 307.8. The sub-index for animal products rose 4.3 per cent to 272.6 from 262.3, while that for field products rose slightly to 154.2 from 153.2.

Answers Charge Butter Is Held For Price Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—President F. J. Reynolds of the National Dairy Council of Canada says allegations that dairy processors are holding butter stocks in anticipation of higher prices this winter "carry an entirely unreasonable implication."

"Suggestions to the effect that dairy processors will make large profits are unrealistic and inconsistent with the facts," he said in a statement Thursday.

Mr. Reynolds was commenting on a brief submitted to the cabinet Wednesday by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. The brief said the current butter marketing situation "indicates that butter is being privately held in anticipation of a profitable rise in price during the coming winter months."

Mr. Reynolds, whose organization represents producer-owned co-operatives and private companies, said such contentions "ignore the circumstance that the government through the agricultural prices support board is understood to hold approximately two-thirds of the total butter stocks in Canada and is at present in complete control of butter imports."

ELECTRONICALLY SPEAKING

Electronics - - it, (or is it they?) is, (or is it are?), wonderful!

Some people, though, just do not appreciate the finer things in life - - others are just plain helpless to resist.

In the latter category are future pilots. If the Link Aviation Corp. puts present plans into effect, future users of the famed Link trainer will have a new reminder of any error they make at the controls. It is proposed to install a closed-circuit television device which will provide the trainee with a lifelike view of an airport on landing or take-off, this view reflecting changes in perspective, altitude and motion caused by whatever action the training pilot takes with the simulator controls. Carried to the logical conclusion, the pilot of tomorrow could climb into a hospital bed or a cemetery when altitude falls below zero. But think of the additional hazards the pilots of Link trainers will face. They will have to be on the watch not only to prevent stalling the plane but to recognize and correct "flop-over" when the vertical hold on the TV circuit gets out of adjustment.

Among those who stubbornly resist the march of progress are actress Jessica Tandy and actor Hume Cronyn. They are appearing at the Westport, Conn., Country Playhouse in a production called "The Man in a Dog Suit." The title would appear to be handicap enough, but the play is said to install "television," an electronic device which would have processed information on the manner in which the audience registered approval or disapproval. Miss Tandy and Mr. Hume said no.

Reason suggests that they are right. Before we let a machine tell us whether a play is good or bad, based on the reactions of an audience, somebody will have to design a machine which will tell us whether an audience is capable of appreciating a good play, or adequately displaying its disapproval of a bad one.

We do wish, though, that the man who claims "televac" and his windchill would peddle his device amongst those who write television commercials. Many TV-viewers would be willing to play host to "televac," providing they were absolved of all blame if their guest blew its fuses while registering their reactions to male exuberance" - - "And now, folks, the most exciting news in the history of the human race, Near-Meat Pet-a-Pet Dog Patties are positively guaranteed, guaranteed mind you, to curl every hair in the tail of your spunky spaniel" - - - and feminine coyness - - - "Won't you-u-u try it too; join me in those wonderful, wonderful hours of sheer pleasure, dreaming away the summer on the rarefied air-cushion of a foam rubber mattress by the Better Seat Manufacturing Co., the firm with the feel for the form of the future."

A PROBLEM

The new Highway 401, which passes north of Trenton and Belleville, is expected to relieve Highway 2 of much transport traffic, thus eliminating a good deal of the main street congestion created by trucks as they pass through populated areas.

Highway 401 will accommodate a good percentage of through transport traffic but, for Trenton, it is doubtful that residents there will benefit much from the new highway unless something is done to improve or modify the narrow bridge at the north of town on Highway 33, which will link highways 401 and 2.

When 401 is opened it will carry much of the transport traffic which otherwise would enter Trenton on Highway 2. But when truckers find it is difficult, if not impossible, to get high loads through the railroad overpass in question, those with calls in Trenton will revert to using Highway 2 again, turning off Highway 401 east or west of Trenton.

If transports intend to deliver goods in Trenton and wish to use Highway 401 out of Toronto then, to make entry to the town easier for them from the new highway, the subway will have to be widened and its height increased.

MAY DEMAND REESTITUTION

Police at Passaic, N.J., have caught the "kissing bandit" who entered the homes of at least six sleeping women in the last six weeks, waking them as he stole a kiss. He is a bandit in his fifteenth year, 10. Police reports do not indicate whether Gregich was arrested as the result of a description provided by any of his victims. Chances are they were too sleepy to notice him clearly. Perhaps, when he is arraigned, closer inspection may lead some of the kissed women to suggest that he be granted a suspended sentence, on condition that he make restitution.

A man alone his room within	At seventy-seven, his home to keep
Needs this, contented long to	And done with broom and dust
A wife to bring the paper in	He has a wife to dust and sweep
And wash the dishes after tea.	And happiness for both I wish,

Chaplin And Swiss

Kansas City Times

When "The Little King," Charlie Chaplin's latest picture, flopped some weeks ago in London and Paris, the same sorry fate befell him after an off-stage production starring the world's former foremost funnyman.

Chaplin's latest extravaganza has not yet been told in this country, but people in Europe, and particularly Switzerland, which is where he spends their heads and are not amused. The story began four years ago when the little fellow left America, the land that made him rich and famous, and which he had come to hate. In search of peace, freedom and lower taxes he moved to Switzerland. Near the town of Vevey on Lake Geneva, the refugee from Hollywood bought a (million) estate at the bargain price of $125,000, complete with Italian villa, rambling woods, elaborate parks, a sweeping view.

The happy idyl of Charlie — now Charles Spencer Chaplin, Esq. — lasted only three years. This spring, it was ended by gunfire resounding from the ramparts of a shooting range which bordered on his estate. On Swiss peace prize awarded him by the Moscow masters for his part in the "peace" — considered these goings on a breach of the peace, and complained to the authorities.

The citizens of Vevey wondered why their new neighbor should be disturbed by Hundred Sundays morning activities in the exercise of their inalienable right to silence among them. They explained to him that they had enjoyed tranquility for centuries in this way and place. But Chaplin, himself disturbed by the echoes of Swiss guns at Vevey rather than by the thunderous applause he basks in from Hollywood, Switzerland's peace prize winner subscribed to the weekly newspaper, asked pointedly.

When it became evident that the Swiss would not submit, Chaplin left the country. He rented a villa near Cannes in the South of France where bikini-clad bathing beauties and well-heeled loafers rather than Swiss militiamen can be seen, while the popping of champagne corks rather than rifle shots can be heard.

It's Ill Wind That Aids None

Moose Jaw Times-Journal

The wind and hail storm that slashed a path of destruction through southern Saskatchewan probably brought great hardship to a large number of families. The loss of standing crops, buildings and stocks, particularly to young farmers struggling to get a firm foothold in agriculture, is indeed discouraging.

But farmers who suffered only crop damage may have considerable cash in hand. It is probable some will reap more from hail insurance than they would have received from good crops. And much less work.

Regardless of the individual loss, it is a fact that the over-all loss in the expected wheat crop from the hail and driving rain will not seriously affect the nation's economy. Less than a normal harvest of the record surplus of grain in storage at the end of the last crop year.

Hail has long been, and probably always will be, a hazard to Prairie agriculture. It seems that every year Southern Saskatchewan is hit by a hail storm that sweeps in a similiar path from the general northwest to southeast Current through the general area of Moose Jaw. And when the wind accompanies the hail, whether it's carrying hail or not, the Tuxford area seems to get at least a touch of the damage.

A consoling feature of these hail storms is that they do not usually come unexpectedly. The conditions are very like the 10 days of sticky heat preceding this week's storm, are an almost infallible indication of hailstorms. When the hot air becomes so still breathing is almost difficult, the fast flying moving clouds roll westward, a cool wind springs up the dust and the storm is on.

Hail storms are by no means enjoyable features of Saskatchewan's weather. Nor are Winter blizzards. But the two together are more endurable than weather freaks experienced regularly in some other parts of the continent. Hurricanes, tornadoes, floods and earthquakes are hazards Saskatchewan doesn't have to worry about. And in comparison the hail storm takes on new moderation.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WELLS OF PLEASURE

So many times, throughout the years, we are hungry for those brief moments that seem to attract us which may be termed our "wells of pleasure." Little things in their way, but adding up to the sum total of our happiness effects. A hobby, for example. We all ought to have something definite that adds to our own pleasure and delight. Such...a thing soothes the nervous system.

I recently read in my newspaper of a man who spends hours each day in carving interesting figures from pieces of wood. One who goes about the country collecting antiques and fashioning them into articles of great beauty. For thirty years I have collected interesting books that have attained rarity. I have even collected an interesting group of post-age stamps. They have told me much about many countries, and their way of life, than a history could.

For years I have had a summer island where I have learned facts about birds, flowers, trees and beings of nature that I might never have known. Much have these wells of pleasure added to my personal happiness, and through me to the happiness of others. One of the reasons why so many people are discontented and unhappy is that they have never drawn the cool water from a well that could have quenched their thirst and added to their health and well-being.

Thinking and being among friends it always a well of pleasure that leaves memories that do not become obliterated, but add substance to life.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

MOTHERS

President Chiang Kai-shek in the dedication of his book "Soviet Russia in China" speaks of the part which his mother and his wife's mother played in developing the life of their childhood and bringing about their complete interesting book that have attained rarity. I have even collected sympathy of democracy.

"My wife and I," writes Chiang, "share the acute sense of failure in not living up to the lofty ideals inspired in us by our mothers through our childhood training." And at the end of the dedication he says, "My wife and I dedicate ourselves once more to the supreme task to which we are called and thus strive to be not unworthy of our upbringing."

It has been almost a cliche to declare that behind every great man stands a purposeful and dedicated mother. One thinks of the influence which Lincoln's mother and stepmother had on his career. There is probably not a man who has held a position of any trust in this country or any other country who would not attribute to maternal influence much of the success he has made.

All this adds up, does it not, to this sum total, namely, that being a good mother is at one and the same time the most difficult and worthwhile job in the world. Even the biblical physical entry into the stream of human history stands a mother.

The Power Of a Word

Toronto Telegram

As he sentenced three youths for stealing gasoline, Magistrate T. A. Hanrahan, of London, declared that fear of being called "chicken" had led more youths to the reformatory than any other word in the English language.

"Chicken" was a word Churchill flung back in the Nazi face. "Some chicken, some neck," he retorted when the enemy threatened to wring Britain's neck like a chicken. Today the word among young people carries the same jeering taunt of timidity, weakness, fear. To the spirited boy it is a challenge. Even to the timid boy it is a dare since the gang spirit is strong and to refuse to do what others in the gang do is to invite expulsion. That it sometimes takes more courage to refuse a dare means less than the fear of being labelled "chicken."

It was Lloyd George, the late Dr. C. T. Currelly, of the Royal Ontario Museum, that the chief of Mussolini army of Italian bellegerency would not have taken place if the nickname of "Dago" and "Wop" had not been used. Call a man, or a nation, disrespectful names, be said; Impute inferiority, and the man or nation is fired to accept the challenge come what may. How stupid, Dr. Currelly would say if he be right. Millions of men and civilization, to pin labels and to aspere a name.

The power of the spoken word, such as uttered by Churchill, inspires men and women in mortal danger of heights to power to do and dare in defiance of great deeds. A word, "chicken", contemptible in itself, also has power to drive youths to contemptible acts. To defiate the meaning of a word is to its proper size, to render it as harmless as a chicken, is the problem.

Who Invented Egg-Cups?

Peterborough Examiner

We should like to know when egg-cups first came into use, and what maker of china invented them. We should like to know why egg-cups are so common except in private households, both here and in the U.S.A., whereas they seem to be unknown in restaurants. The egg-cup is such a useful article, so logical and practical, that we are astonished that neither the Oxford Dictionary, Funk and Wagnalls Dictionary, nor the Encyclopaedia Britannica, makes any mention of it. If its merits were fully recognized, we are sure that both Russia and the U.S.A. would speedily have adopted them. But it is not. But it is invented. We have a strong feeling that the egg-cup originated in England, where the whole modern concept of domestic comfort had its origin.

Yes, the concept of domestic comfort is an English one, though important additions have been made by the Scots in the seventeenth century it was the English who broke away from the tradition which the world could afford it should live in a series of compartments, each connecting series of reception-rooms, admirable for entertaining guests, but inferior as a home for private use. It was the English who decided that it would be more convenient to have bedrooms opening onto a bath-room, and not have people eat into each other, so that a night's rest could not be so frequently broken by people passing through. It was the English who invented the bath as a domestic habit. (It was the Romans who invented the custom of putting a portable bathtub in front of an open fire and chairs which the modern bath-room, for all its convenience, cannot match.) It was the English who devised covered dishes for foods which must be kept hot, and were first inserted on hot plates for hot food (a convenience which the modern restaurants have yet adopted). And we would be willing to bet that they invented egg-cups.

There are egg-cups to be had in restaurants of course; they are big things, into which the egg is emptied and from which it must be scooped with a spoon, like ice-cream which has turned out badly.

Lady-Like

Nestor Moore, In The Montreal Star

Fascinating is the statement of one Fred Cole, who designs artificial bathing suits for American women. "Today," said Mr. Cole, "the idea is the lady-like look personified by Grace Kelly. And people are discovering that 'ladylike' doesn't mean sexless. Such appeal can be on a very high frequency like a supersonic dog whistle."

Anatomy of Tetany

The late pediatrician, L. Emmett Holt, was aware that tetany (not to be confused with tetanus or lockjaw) occurs in mature adults. If so, he refrained from saying so, perhaps lest he be accused of straying outside of his field. He did mention one case where a child aged 7 years, the night following operation for enlarged tonsils, "cried out with pain in her hands and feet which were found in the typical position of tetany. In four or five hours the spasm completely disappeared and did not return. This was the only symptom of tetany that she ever manifested. "Carpopedal (wrist and foot) spasm may come on spontaneously but it is more frequently found in the course of some febrile (feverish) illness."

The old time authorities, each copying what his predecessors have said, made a point of the characteristic spasm of the wrist and hand — thumb and fingers flexed, first knuckle joint bent straight at other joints, thumb drawn across palm toward little finger, wrist flexed and elbow bent, evening it out causes pain; feet strongly extended, sole arched, toes up or of foot prominent, standing out like a cushion.

Young children with tetany may have breath-holding spells, brought on by temper or fright, during which the face becomes flushed, then livid, and in severity or thirty seconds complete relaxation with momentary loss of consciousness.

Some infants with tetany have convulsions from slight causes, and older children have short clonic (trills, cheers, peas, beans, nuts, peanuts, greens) every day.

In reference to testimonials I have been told one swallow maketh not summer, but in reference to adult tetany I have received hundreds of letters from persons of mature age who have obtained relief from painful nocturnal leg (or arm) cramps by simply supplementing their regular diet with calcium and vitamin D.

A Horse Seen at Work

Owen Sound Sun-Times

The other day while motoring through the country we saw a horse being used in a hayfield. The sight was nearly unusual these days. There is now in every chance that, in a few years, such a happening will be practically impossible. Old papers, the trend toward motor powered machinery has been so great.

The horse quite a fine animal, was being used to rake hay prior to gather up after a hay loader. It is a machine which motor drawn machinery is not particularly adapted and therefore may call for horse power for some time yet.

There are, of course, still many horses in the country. But, with the odd exception, they are not put to any great use in this season on the farm. Rush is the slogan of the day when full advantage has to be taken of every good day to get the hay harvested. And the methods adopted to attain the necessary speed are truly amazing.

Only a few years ago haying was touch-and-go period of the farm year. Now, with the aid of heavy crops of timothy and clover watched the weather signs because it took at least two days for heavy hay to horse hay rake and mow across the big team on the mowing machine in the morning before one of the horses on the hayrake in the afternoon. Failure or the hirsute mane tossing fearfully on. Someone had to tramp and build the load on the hay rack. Many lucky executive members the pitching off in the barn and mow-mate to take the hay. Under the eaves of a barn on a hot July day the sweat poured off one's body and the hay chaff itched a lad all over. A boy's existence was a grumbling and fortunate indeed were the farmers who lived near enough to the city of water to benefit from the cooling breezes. All not put to any great use in this day, though doubtless there is still the job of mowing down . . . where no machine may steer, they have. Even there, however, the mechanical hay fork, tracked well back into the corners of the mow, make it a lot easier. It's doubtful, though, if a tractor can be taken up into the mow with safety. Perhaps there is another job where good old Dobbin comes in handy!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What you might call an eating friend of mine has just returned from a tour of Europe, and all he can talk about is veal.

In France, he got the most beautiful dishes of veal. In Italy, the choicest food he tasted was concoctions of veal that followed the customary bucket of spaghetti which was the first course. In Germany of foundation under the meal proper. But in such Germanic lands as Austria, he got Wiener schnitzels in a sort of heavenly galaxy of variety. These were thin slices of veal, breaded and cooked with sauces of wine, spices, herbs or customary vegetables that brought out a flavour, he says, that makes the whole thing a dream of delight each before. Hitherto, he says, he just ignored.

Such he saw Rome and the Vatican, and Pisa and the Alps, and the Bavarian towns and villages, and the Rhine. Sure. But he kept talking about veal all the way and around the circuit. And he pinched menus, and interviewed chefs, and had a special way of ordering which to inscribe all the veal menus he could ferret out. And he come home prepared to launch a crusade to try to interest the Canadian people in veal.

But the first butcher he broached the subject with has this to say:

"Ah," said the butcher, "in Europe, they have veal because they spare. They count their pasture the way we count our parking space. We have cattle in Europe. So rather than waste good pasture in raising steers, they save the pasture for the cows and kill all the bull calves before they get a year old. And they have this plentiful supply of choice veal all the time because the cattle aren't tormented unduced in the way of a luxury. It is an economic necessity. That is why the most of it. In this country, where we breed all kinds of pasture for beef, we kill a moderate quantity of veal. But it's a specialty. And a good deal of the veal might say, is grass fed veal. What you've been eating in Italy and France was milk fed veal."

This is a sad setback for my friend.

He is thinking of retiring and moving to Europe to end his days.

Economists Hotly Debating Whether Creeping Inflation Is Necessary, Evil or Both

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

"Is inflation necessarily an evil thing?

This question is part of the current debate on rising prices—their causes and consequences.

All are agreed that "run-away" inflation, wherein the value of money quickly drops to virtually nothing, is entirely evil.

Some maintain, however, that "a little inflation" is a good thing. They say that with the exception of the Depression of the 1930s we have been in a state of inflation since the First World War and that standards of living have risen with it.

In any event, they feel that continuing inflation is an inevitable result of the increased economic tempo of today's world, and that it is better than its opposite number, deflation, which would probably mean recession.

Others hold that there is no such thing as "a little inflation"—that inflation must be warred against whenever and wherever it raises its head and that there can be no compromise with it.

Dr. Sumner H. Slichter of Harvard University is perhaps the best advocate of a "creeping inflation" involving maybe a two-to-three-percent annual increase in prices over the next decade.

RESTRAINING INFLUENCES

He holds that creeping inflation will not necessarily speed up and does it restrained by three influences — competition, technological progress and use of monetary policy to restrain credit. He adds:

"It would, of course, be nice if prices would not rise, but the dire predictions that one reads every now and then about the consequences of a slow inflation, strike me as ridiculous.

"In this imperfect world we are often compelled to choose between evils, and if the choice is among enough unemployment to halt the rise in labor costs, direct controls of wages and prices, and creeping inflation, let us by all means have creeping inflation. It is the least of the three evils."

Countering Dr. Slichter's argument, C. Canby Balderston, vice-chairman of the U.S. Federal reserve board of governors, said:

"A little inflation, sometimes thought of as roughly two per cent a year, would double the price level every 35 years. However, even if we accept the inevitability of creeping inflation, and it certainly do not, it is not possible to have just a 'little' inflation.

"Once a community accepts the prospect of continued inflation and begins to make its business decisions in the light of that prospect, the infant ceases to creep. It earns to walk, run and finally gallop."

LUTHER OPINION

A further opinion holds that in any fears one moment of inflation and fears the next moment of deflation and recession, we underestimate the flexibility of effects of the two forces upon one other.

Some in this group feel that with odom a reasonable balance may maintained and some feel that, forget the strength of the ages-3 pendulum swings between prosrity and recession.

In this connection, J. H. Goldsmith, financial editor of the Montal Star, draws attention to an ticle in the Harvard business re-w by Peter L. Bernstein, New rk investment counsellor.

This article, as quoted by Mr. oldsmith says there is a tendcy to think that, just because mething has been going on for or 12 years, it must go on infinitely.

Mr. Bernstein feels that special conditions contributed to the postar boom. These conditions included the circumstance that non-producers in the population (particularly children) increased faster than producers, so that while the emand for goods was high, the upply of labor lagged.

Mr. Bernstein sees a decline in he special boom circumstances nd concludes:

"The truth is our economy is lways changing and no trend can continue indefinitely. The danger lies not in change but in excesses of optimism or pessimism which result from assuming that this time there will be no change.

"Let us not fall into the trap of thinking that 'this time' will be any different from the others. Let us take advantage of the fact that we can see the change so far in advance of its arrival, and plan to cope with it, or even turn it to advantage, rather than be caught unprepared."

57 DROWNED

CALCUTTA (Reuters) — Fifty-seven persons were drowned July 21 in the River Hooghly after a boat with 97 passengers on board capsized during a storm, it was reported today. Bipin Bera, a socialist party official who survived the disaster, said 40 persons swam to safety.

FAMOUS CASTLE

Glamis Castle in Scotland, childhood home of Queen Mother Elizabeth, is the traditional home of Macbeth.

CANADA AND U.S.

The idea had been a long time developing. Air Marshal Slemon first suggested it publicly two years ago to a group of aviation writers in Montreal.

George Drew, then Opposition leader, questioned former defence minister Campney about the idea. Mr. Campney told the Commons the air marshal had been discussing "a trend in service thinking" rather than policy.

Mr. Pearkes said Thursday the thinking had reached the policy stage during the latter months by the Liberal government and that then defence minister Campney had considered the proposal. He did not know whether Mr. Campney had placed it before the Liberal government.

"But it is my fortunate position to finalize the endeavors of the past," he said.

Defence planning for continental North America had to be worked out in co-operation with the United States so that the maximum defence resources of both powers could be mobilized and integrated for the task.

"The whole concept must be that we engage hostile forces as far away as can be," he said.

MORE CANADIAN INFLUENCE

The new headquarters would enable Canada to have more influence on air-defence policy, to advise the United States on it, and would make a Canadian the deputy commander of all the continent's air interception forces.

"They will work and live together, form one headquarters and will develop the plans and procedures required for the tremendously rapid decisions that will have to be taken in a war when the interval between positive information and action is brief and a decision has to be taken within seconds," Mr. Pearkes said.

The integrated air-defence headquarters will be responsible to the chiefs of staffs of both countries and the procedures developed will require the approval of both governments before becoming the authorized pattern.

Thereafter, however, sole responsibility for sending the air defenders into the skies to attack an invading force would rest with Gen. Partridge, or, in his absence, Air Marshal Slemon.

"He would take the decision to start the shooting," Mr. Pearkes said.

NATURAL NATO EXPANSION

The development was a natural extension of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization provision that constituent members negotiate bilateral arrangements to ensure the balanced defence of their areas, he said.

"I regard the defence of the North American continent as part of the defence of western power within NATO," Mr. Pearkes commented.

Air Marshal Slemon, a native of Saskatchewan and a science graduate of the University of Manitoba, is

Radioactivity Makes Dynamite Safer to Handle

OTTAWA (CP) — Atomic radioactivity—deadly in large doses—has been added to dynamite to make it safer to handle.

The federal mines department has perfected a method of adding an active but harmless quantity of radioactive antimony to the dynamite mixture while it is being manufactured. Miners and others handling the explosive thus can use a Geiger counter to locate sticks which have failed to explode or have been lost or misplaced.

The department hopes the development will sharply reduce the number of accidental deaths and injuries from dynamite explosions. Most accidents occur in mines and quarries and in logging, farming and construction.

In 1955, 112 accidents in Canada involved explosives, mainly dynamite. Twenty-two persons were killed and 119 injured. Deaths in the 1952-55 period totalled 111 and 534 were injured.

Many of the accidents in mines are caused by so-called "boot-legs," sticks of dynamite which fail to explode. Sometimes they are not detected and explosions occur when miners accidentally drill into them.

Most accidents of this type could be prevented if manufacturers adopt the idea of making dynamite radioactive.

Officials of the mines department said the antimony isotope is inexpensive and no health hazard. It contains only sufficient radioactivity to last over a reasonable period of storage before being used.

After the dynamite explodes the force of the blast dissipates the radioactivity. However, a Geiger counter can pick up radioactivity from an unexploded stick.

Department officials said there is no health hazard because the quantity of radioactive antimony required amounts to only four parts for each 1,000,000 parts of dynamite.

The RCAF's lone "original," with continuous service since the force was formed in 1924.

During the Second World War he organized the RCAF's all-Canadian bomber group, was its second-in-command for 2½ years and later became deputy commander of all RCAF forces overseas. He became chief of the air staff in 1953.

Air Marshal Campbell, a native of Salisbury, N.B., and also a strategist, was the first director of air staff at RCAF headquarters in England during the war.

He became assistant chief of the air staff in 1944 and in 1948 attended the imperial defence college.

He has served at Edmonton, Washington and Ottawa and in 1952 became the first commandant of the RCAF's air division with the NATO forces in Europe. He assumed his present position at NATO headquarters in 1955.

Mountain Climbing Parties Given Every Assistance at Banff

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Park wardens in this Rocky Mountain resort 80 miles west of Calgary have tightened regulations on registration for mountain climbing to include personal interviews with all climbers.

"Talk is cheap, lives are irreplaceable and rescue operations are expensive," says one warden. Folders and advice on registration are handed out at the tourist offices to the national park, but the interview with a park official if he pivot point of the new regulations, geared to supplement each climb with detailed help from start to finish.

PATHS PLOTTED

Wardens are compiling a collection of panoramic views of the more popular climbs. Plotting the actual path not only tells precisely the correct routes, but heightens awareness of possible hazards.

Most of the routes can be computed easily by the trained wardens and thus an idea of the progress of a climbing party is available.

Through the personal interviews, the wardens can suggest alternatives when certain areas are considered too dangerous to allow climbing. At certain seasons, some spots are prone to mud slides and other hazards, and climbing is forbidden.

Most of the wardens are avid climbers themselves and are expertly trained by Walter Perren, Zermatt-born and familiar with such mountains as the Matterhorn.

DESCENT HARDEST

"Almost anyone with muscles can go up," said warden Pettyway. "Although attaining the top is the epitome of the experience, the descent determines who is the skilled and who the rank amateur."

Reasoning that equipment needs vary according to the area and weather, wardens here see the personal interview as the only answer to preventing disaster in the ever-changing conditions.

For the same reason, mountains are not marked. An overnight snow obliterating a marker on a dangerr area would lead to danger.

"It is best to be alert for danger at all times," say the wardens.

DRIVES OVER BROTHER

CHICAGO (AP) — An enraged husband ran over his brother with an automobile Wednesday, police said, because the brother had made advances toward his wife. Confession Sanchez, 25, suffered a broken arm and leg, police reported, when he was struck by a car driven by Ramon Sanchez, 28.

Average British Woman Like Venus de Milo

LONDON (AP)—The vita statistics of the average British woman are almost the same as those of Ja Venus de Milo.

After a six-year study the board of trade reported today the average British woman measures 37-28-39. The Venus de Milo statue in the Paris Louvre Museum, 37-28-39.

Britain's average woman is just under five-foot-three. Venus de Milo is five-foot-four.

Board of trade representatives measured more than 5,000 women to help manufacturers and retailers of women's clothes as well as the lady customers.

FIREWORKS KILL 11

CALCUTTA (AP) — A fireworks-laden rail freight car exploded Wednesday in the depot at the coal town of Asansol, about 130 miles north of Calcutta, killing 11 persons. Several other persons were severely injured by the blast which was heard four miles away.

Insects are smart — they must be to survive. After a few generations each develop a tolerance to good and tested insecticides. If type used doesn't seem effective, switch to another for a while. It's not fault of product — probably next season will do job again.

Sunday School Picnics

UNITED CHURCH

FRANKFORD — On Wednesday afternoon the annual Frankford United Church Sunday school picnic was held at the beach of Oak Lake with a large number of adults and children attending.

In the afternoon everyone enjoyed swimming after which the senior girls and Sunday school teachers thrilled the younger fry with a number of games.

A bounteous supper was enjoyed by everyone.

Races were as follows:

Mrs. E. Couture's class: Cheryl DeMille, Bruce DeMille; Mrs. G. Halshal's class: Wayne Kemp, Patty Gregg; Mrs. S. Carson's class: Janie Sharpe and Rhonda Wickson; Mrs. Harry Church's class: Susan Chase and Marjorie Carson; Mrs. Cap's and Mrs. Powell's class: Elaine Sharpe and Sharlene Vosbaugh, Ian Finnegan's class: Andy Rowe and Kenny Conley.

Later in the evening races were run by the interested senior classes.

A vote of thanks was given all those who helped make the picnic a success.

BETHESDA S. S.

ACTINOLITE — Two classes of the Bethesda Sunday School, under the leadership of the two teachers, Mrs. Roy DeMille, and Mr. Richard Barnard, spent an enjoyable day at Oak Lake recently. Several of the parents completed the party.

On arrival, the children enjoyed a swim, which worked up an appetite for the bountiful picnic dinner that was served in the spacious park at Sarles' Beach.

After the main course, the children were treated to several rids of pie topped with ice-cream provided by the teachers.

In order to settle all, that the children had stored away races were held. Cash prizes were given to the winners in the following order: Boys' class — Age 8-10, Vernon DeMille; Eugene Francis; Age 11 up, Jackie Francis; Claire Downey. Girls' dash — Age 8-10; Gail Hill, Heather Blakely; Age 11-up; Elsie Barnard, Donna Fleming.

Numbers were drawn, partners were chosen for a three-legged race, Eugene Francis and Gail Hill finished first.

The same partners were kept for a wheel barrow race with Jackie Francis and Gail Francis trailing in first followed by Eugene Francis and Gail Hill second.

A sack race was not only exciting, but thrilling when Jackie Francis finished first, 2nd— Larry Barnard, Ralph Francis 1st in the second running.

RELAY RACES

Several relay races were conducted by Mrs. M. Scott. The happiness and excitement of the day when the adults decided it was time to stretch a muscle and limber up their legs in a race. Shirley Scott 1st, Gladys DeMille 2nd.

The main event was a swimming race with following winners:

Group 1 — Brian Blakely, Lesley Brentnell. Group 2 — Sharon Wickens, Jackie Francis. Group 3 — Larry Barnard, Elsie Barnard.

This brought to a close an enjoyable time, and tired but happy children thanked their teachers.

WEDDINGS

MOWLE — RAWSON

Christ Church, Belleville, was the setting for a lovely summer wedding at 2.30 o'clock on Saturday, July 13th, when Marion Agnes, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Rawson, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Rawson, became the bride of John Edward Mowle, Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Baker Mowle, of Brantford. Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, rector of the church, performed the ceremony. Bouquets of pastel gladioli, delphiniums, and regal, white lilies graced the altar.

Mr. J. B. Herdman, church organist, provided the wedding music and/accompanied the soloist; Miss Phyllis May, Belleville, who sang "Panis Angelicus," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William Rawson of Belleville was attending in her original, floor-length gown of imported Nottingham lace and ivory satin. The fitted bodice of lace over satin, featured a wide "V" neckline, edged with a narrow satin collar, short, scalloped sleeves and a drop waistline, cut to a "V" point in front and back. A double panel of scalloped lace appliqued to the front of the bouffant satin skirt, which cascaded into a slight train, accented by a draped bustle at the back and sash.

A face framing headdress of nylon ruching and iridescent sequins held her fingertip veil of tulle illusion. Matching lace mitts completed her ensemble. She carried a white prayer book, crested with palest pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. John Lynden of Downsview, was the matron of honor and the bridesmaids were: Miss Sylvia Dickie, of Belleville, and Miss Mary Johnston, of Kemptville; all were gowned alike in waist-length, rounded blue Swiss organdy over taffeta, embroidered with white in an eyelet design. The bodices were fashioned with Sabrina necklines and criss-cross sashes of matching taffeta. They were close-fitting head bands of double taffeta bows, white shoes and lace gloves. Their bouquets were of white feathered carnations, interspersed with white maline.

The flower girl, Miss Wendy Green, niece of the bride, was as sweet in her dress of petal pink organdy over rose taffeta. The frock was daintily embroidered in white; a taffeta sash accented the full skirt. She wore a matching headband and carried a bouquet of carnations and maline.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. William Lundie, Brantford, Mr. Mitchel Baran, Brantford, Mr. Enzo Sivilotti, Fort Erie, were ushers.

The reception was held in the parish hall, which was prettily decorated with streamers and bells of pink and white, and bouquets of pastel flowers. The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask and centred with a three-tiered, pillared wedding cake, surrounded by a mist of pink and white tulle. The bride's mother received the guests, wearing a dress of pale delphinium blue Nottingham lace over taffeta, with champagne and beige accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother who wore a gown of French peach satin with matching accessories and carried a corsage of white chrysanthemums.

For travelling to Quebec and Cape Cod, the bride chose a white, pinstriped cotton sheath, embroidered in blue silk with a matching blue, linen duster, pill-hat and gloves, white shoes and a corsage of pink roses.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Mowle will reside in their new home in Belleville.

Guests were present from Toronto, Brantford, Hamilton, London, Bermuda, Kemptville, Utica, N.Y., and Newark, N.J.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored by a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Morton with Misses Sylvia Dickie and Mary Johnston as co-hostesses, at a presentation by the staff of Queen Victoria School where the bride is a member, at presentation by the children in her class, and a tea held in her honor by the bride's mother.

SHARPE — McCAULEY

FRANKFORD — In St. Francis of Assisi Church, Frankford, the very pretty wedding took place on Saturday morning, July 27, at 10.30 a.m., when Margaret Begins, daughter of Mrs. Annie McCauley, of Frankford, and the late Leo McCauley, was united in marriage to Wilbert Stephen Sharpe, of Toronto, by the Rev. Francis O'Neil.

Mrs. Ellen Kelly rendered the nuptial music beautifully and accompanied the soloist, Miss Vera Lyons, who rendered the hymns "Remember Holy Mary," "O Sacred Heart, O Love Divine," "O Lord I Am Not Worthy," and "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother." White satin ribbons marked the guest pews and baskets of colored gladioli, snapdragons, phlox and carnations adorned the back of the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Milford McCauley, looked lovely in a floor length white satin gown. Her finger-tip veil of lace illusion fell in soft folds from a crown of seed pearls and sequins. She carried an ivory prayer book with red roses and white streamers.

Mrs. Peter Houle of Frankford, was the bride's only attendant, wearing a green nylon gown with matching headdress and carrying a white prayer book with red carnations and white streamers.

Mr. William Newell of Batawa, was the groomsman and Mr. H. J. Deane, acted as usher.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Donohue, guests of the bride, which was decorated with white and pink streamers and white wedding bells.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, attired in light brown with white accessories and with corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. C. Shaw of Toronto, assisted, wearing blue silk with white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Toronto, the bride travelled in a two-piece dress with pale blue duster and white accessories. She wore a yellow corsage.

Guests attended from Toronto, Batawa, Trenton, Glen Miller, Belleville, Quebec. Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe will reside in Toronto.

Specialist Offers Some Advice To Teen-agers Plagued by Acne

TORONTO (CP)—More than 90 per cent of Canada's teen-agers are plagued by acne, a skin disease that ranges from a few blackheads to cases where the victim may have facial scars.

Acne sometimes continues into adulthood, said Dr. William Garbe, a Toronto dermatologist who advises parents to seek a specialist's advice for effective treatment.

"It is an individual problem and not one that can be treated by mass prescription," said Dr. Garbe.

VARIED TREATMENT

Acne is found on the face, shoulders, lower back and chest. It is associated with excessive oiliness of the skin, said Dr. Garbe. During adolescence oil gland activity is increased. When hormones are not in balance at this period, acne occurs.

There are varied treatments for mild acne, said Dr. Garbe. One, the "peeling" treatment has been found to be effective. The skin is dried to a flaky point with medicated special soap. Peeling from the sun is also helpful, Dr. Garbe said.

In more severe cases acne sufferers can be given X-ray treatment which reduces oiliness and acne.

Basically a glandular problem, Dr. Garbe said dermatologists have found gland therapy treatment the least successful. Gland ointments extracts are extremely potent, he said, and side reactions occur which are often more troublesome than the acne itself.

HARDEST CASES

Severe cases due to a greater plugging of the pores and oiliness are often accompanied by infection. For this condition, Dr. Garbe said the X-ray and peeling treatment reduces the overactivity of the glands. Anti-biotics are used to treat the infected areas.

However, some young people are left with pitted scars, said Dr. Garbe. The scars may be few or many, shallow or deep, depending on how much infection there has been.

Dr. Garbe recommends a "dermal - abrasion" operation, also known as "plastic planing."

A local anaesthetic is used. The skin is frozen and anesthetized with a refrigerant spray and each scarred area is ground smooth with a rotating wire brush. It takes two weeks for the scabs to fall off, said Dr. Garbe.

"Patients then find their skin as soft as a newborn baby's."

Dr. Garbe noted a tie-in between acne and emotional tension. "Usually at examination time many pupils develop severe outbreaks through the tension they have built up within themselves," he said.

He advises parents to make their teen-agers feel secure in their home life. Emotional upsets, he said, only aggravate their condition.

Dior's Spindle-Line Features Wolf-Whistle Evening Bosoms

PARIS (AP)—Wolf - whistle bosoms and hip-hugging sheaths set the pace in fashion czar Christian Dior's new "spindle-line" collection showed today.

Hemlines are a modest midcalf, or perhaps 15 inches from the floor. Dior liked them longer last season.

A new half-shell bra, strapless, backless and without fastenings, permits the most eye - popping neckline to be seen outside the Follies Bergere.

It appears only for cocktail and evening. Most daytime bosoms are far too flat to deserve the name. The great mystery is how Dior can create opposite effects with the same girls in the same dress.

Suits and dresses look tacked to the tummy and loose in the back. But both short and long formal sheaths age innocent of any waistline at all—while they grip the hips and hug the legs.

BLACK IS QUEEN

Black is queen, but Dior's other hues include coral pink, ruby red, watery to lacquer blue, emerald green and old gold.

Blouses over tops sometimes make it difficult to tell at a glance if a garment is coat, suit, or dress. Most turn out to be dresses with false two-piece effects.

Only a little "V" slit, discreetly tufted in, at the back of the knee, keeps Dior's slim skirts from being real hobblers, while his big ones stand out like balloons, stiffened with crinoline petticoats.

Dior's showing winds up the major Paris fashion openers for the season.

PLAINFIELD W.M.S.

The July meeting of the Plainfield W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hall.

In the absence of the president the meeting was opened by Mrs. Kerr.

There were two new members. Mrs. Harrison paid in $2.10 to defray the mailing expenses of the bale which was sent away.

A birthday card was signed by the members to be sent to Mrs. Hubble on her birthday.

Mrs. W. McMillan spoke at the Plainfield Sunday School last Sunday.

The treasurer reported $98. sent away on the allocation.

The Mission Band took charge of the devotional. "Gentle Jesus Meek and Mild," was read by Dorothy Parks, and the 22rd Psalm by Carol Park.

A reading was given by Mrs. Salmon about David caring for his sheep. In the old days shepherds went ahead of their sheep and they followed in a straight line. That is how Jesus leads His children, caring for His people and leading them in the way they should go.

Short prayers were read by Beverley and Brenda Bero and Carol Park.

Mrs. Salmon read a story out of the Study Book on "New Year's Day in Korea."

Mrs. Clarence Park had charge of the program. She gave a talk on Singapore. There is great wealth in Singapore, but unevenly divided. It is hard to get young men to go into the ministry. A minister cannot even afford a bicycle to ride to his work. Solo by Mrs. Brennan; reading by Mrs. Harrison on "Stewardship."

Mrs. Clarence Hall closed the meeting with prayer.

Attendance was 21 adults and nine girls, members of the Mission Band.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Dearth of Women Dentists Puzzles College Officials

TORONTO (CP)—The dearth of women dentists and women dental students in Canada is puzzling the University of Toronto faculty of dentistry.

Dean Roy G. Ellis, faculty head, said that in the whole of Canada there are only 20 women undergraduates among the 763 students registered in the five schools with dental faculties — University of Toronto, McGill, Dalhousie University and the University of Alberta. Of these, 15 women are among the 250 students of U. of T.

The Metropolitan Toronto area has 35 women dentists compared with 1,000 men. The profession is certainly not overcrowded with women, he said.

EAGERLY WELCOMED

"There is more room for women," Dean Ellis stressed. "We are glad to have applications from women students. Any feeling that applications from women may not receive favorable consideration is quite erroneous."

Canadian schools have minimum admission requirements which are much the same, said Dean Ellis. First the course takes two years' work towards a BA or BS C degree, the first year of which can be financed partly or fully by equivalent. Then comes four years of the dentistry course.

In the two years of the course, clinical experience is gained in all phases of dentistry. Internship following graduation is not essential, said Dean Ellis.

ENTICING CAREER

One reason dentistry should appeal to women is the part good teeth play in facial expression, Dean Ellis said.

Also the woman dentist, unlike her medical sister, can call her own hours. She can work normal office hours with little danger of being called out during the night.

Though small in numbers as a professional group, women who have chosen dentistry as their career have made quite a contribution to the community, he said.

First woman to graduate in dentistry in Canada was Josephine Wells of Toronto who went into the profession when her husband, a dentist, took ill. She graduated from the Royal College of Dental Surgeons and took over her husband's practice in 1892.

Many of the Canadian women dentists have opened successful practices. One is Dr. Yachiyo Koyama, a graduate of the University of Alberta, who is one of the more recent arrivals in Toronto.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. GLECKMAN

TODAY'S MEMO TO MOTHERS . . . MIND YOUR MANNERS

Mothers . . . attention, please! Are you careless about saying "Please," completely indifferent about saying "Thank you"? If you are, then inevitably your child will follow your carelessness and unattractive example. And this means, alas and most unfortunately, most unlikely to your child that your relatives and friends and neighbors will blame your child for the discourtesy for which you are responsible. Better do some straight thinking about this . . . because instilling in your child the habit of mannerliness is of vast importance, incalculable importance, to your child and his or her future. And right now, before the opening of school, is a perfect time to begin this training in good manners. Your child's teachers will be deeply grateful too!

RECEPTION INVITATION CARDS WITH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Because of a very special circumstance that arises in the family of our daughter's groom-to-be, she and her family had to change the plans from the large, formal church wedding that we had begun to plan to a very small chapel wedding to take place very soon. We are to invite the guests (members of the two families, close relatives and a few intimate friends) by word of mouth or by telephone. About three weeks after the ceremony, when they return from their wedding trip, our daughter would like to have us give a reception for them at our house, with the Wedding Cake for them to cut, toasts, and other customary features of the usual wedding reception.

If we enter the announcements when we are sure of the wedding date, would it be at all in the realm of propriety to order small cards of invitation to the reception, and enclose these in the announcements? If so, would you please tell me how this card should read? — S.R.

Although this would be most unusual, I see no reason why, in this special circumstance, it would not be perfectly acceptable. It certainly would be a great convenience to send out both announcements and reception-invitations at the same time. The invitation-card would read:

Reception
Saturday, the fifth of October
at four o'clock

AN UNUSUAL BUT PERMISSIBLE FORM OF WEDDING INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Could you please tell me if there is any correct way to word wedding invitations where the bride's parents do not issue them? In this case the bride's parents will not attend the wedding since they do not approve of the marriage because of the difference of religion the groom-to-be does not attend their church. — M.

In such a circumstance this form of invitation may be used:

The honor of your presence is requested at the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Smith to
Mr. John Paul Brown
Tuesday, the first of October
at four o'clock
— Church —
Haven, Ontario

Or the invitations may be given verbally or by telephone or by notes.

HER GROOM SHOULD PROVIDE THESE FLOWERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister, who is to be my maid of honor, insists that it is the groom's responsibility (the best man is her fiance) to buy my wedding bouquet, and my prospective groom seems more or less to agree with her. But I had always understood that the groom buys the bride's wedding bouquet — and also I am quite sure that I have read this in your column. Who is right about this?

— Natalie

You are right Customarily the bridegroom provides the flowers that the bride is to carry (or wear) at their wedding. This is the time-honored custom . . . and rightly so, is the romantic prerogative that belongs to the groom. Certainly there is no more appropriate occasion than their wedding day for a man to send flowers to the woman he has asked to be his wife! And if I were you, I would do some fairly direct hinting that this is what you want . . . that you are unwilling to have the best man take over a responsibility which is definitely not his but the groom's.

FRIENDLY GESTURE

BRISBANE (AP) — A friendly guard was posted today outside the hotel room of Herbert Evatt, opposition leader in the Australian Parliament, after he wandered feliriously into the wrong room during a bout with malaria. Norman Makin, former ambassador to Washington, volunteered to keep watch outside Evatt's door.

BEAUTY

By MME. CURTIVE

BEAUTY ADVICE

A new hair-do for special occasions puts one in festive mood even before the party.

In a recent address to a woman's club, an international famous fashion editor made this appeal to women in general: "Please Dress".

The word on to explain that she didn't mean a woman should get all frilled up with jewels in her hair every time she set foot out of the house of an evening. By "Please Dress" she meant, of course, "Please bother, please take a little trouble, please look your best, even if you give a party or accept an invitation."

The danger the average woman runs into, she believes, is letting herself become drab looking. It's become too easy for every woman at a social gathering to appear in a little black dress and let it go at that. The habit of showing a little individuality, of taking a little time with your appearance, is a habit a woman should hold fast to even though she does have a family to take care of, a house to keep clean, and a million and one other jobs to handle.

The point, of course, is making the most of what you have and you can afford comfortably. It certainly isn't necessary to rush out and spend a lot of money on party clothes. But you can do this: no matter what price bracket you shop in, you can look for and find a dress that is becoming, that's easy to launder, easy to iron, easy to keep fresh and ready for a party occasion. So many washable fabrics, you know, have been come year-round fabrics that a dress needn't be limited to any one short season.

In addition to being a smart shopper, you can give a little thought to a change of accessories. This one thing can do wonders, when it comes to making you feel new and different and gala. Vary your jewelry. If you've worn the same string of pearls for years, switch to some of the summer's favorite washable white necklaces and bracelets. If you've lived with jackets since you got out of school, switch to stoles. They can be laundered in a tenth of the time. Put a gay washable slip-cover on an old purse.

Be especially careful with your make-up. Consider the new shades of cosmetics especially designed to go with your summer tan and try some of the devastating eye make-ups that do so much to dramatize a woman's appearance. Change your coiffure for special occasions, too. The casual hair-do that goes so well with your sports clothes may clash most unbecomingly with your dinner frock.

And, most important of all, live up to your party clothes. It's sound advice for all of us . . . this "Please Dress". When we bother just a little bit, we look quite a lot better.

Reindeer Hair Tweed Fabrics Feature Show

PARIS (Reuters) — Jacques Griffe has brought the Paris fashion scene such ideas as suede lounging pajamas, toga coats Russian blouses,-sari dresses and tweed fabrics made of reindeer hair.

His silhouette, called the "wrap-over" line, is based on bias cuts and controlled fullness. Skirts have an easy swing with hem lengths at mid-calf.

Muffler ties for travel are barrel-shaped, first full and then drawn in at the hem. Collars are oversize with deep lapels, giving a cape effect.

Toga cuts endorse fluid wrap-over fullness with the skirt folded like an envelope. Russian blouses are draped over one shoulder, reach to mid-thigh length, and are totally independent of any waistline.

Griffe endorses the vital new trend in suits toward a drastically longer jacket. With the many short coats in the collection, it is difficult to tell the difference between the suits and coat and skirt ensembles.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PARENTS SHOULD BE FAIR.

Over and over again I give young people who write me about what they think is unfair treatment by their parents. The same advice: that they should try to consider honestly any objections their parents make about what they do or want to do, before being so sure they are right and their parents are wrong.

Every once in awhile, however, it seems only right to say the same thing to parents — that whenever they find themselves on the opposite side of an argument with son or daughter, it's just as much their duty to give honest consideration to the young person's point of view as the other way around. There are times, of course, when a parent has to lay down the law about what a teenager may or may not do. But I think there are more times when a compromise could be arrived at, if the parent were open-minded enough to listen and weigh the teenager's views.

Naturally, by far the great majority of complaints teenagers have against their parents have to do with the subject of dates.

No one will question the reasonableness of parents who want to make certain that the boys who invite their daughters to go out are proper companions for the girls. It's also perfectly legitimate that, when young people go out, parents should know where they are going and what the general program for the evening is to be.

And the third point on which parents have unqualified authority to insist is that the girls and boys arrive home at a reasonable hour.

All this is fair enough.

Where the unfairness of which I continually hear through the teenagers' letters comes in, is when parents refuse to discuss these three points or to give reasons for whatever their attitude on them may be.

In many cases, they make snap judgments about the boys their daughters want to date. Without investigation, also, they refuse to make the boy's acquaintance and thus determine on a factual basis whether or not he's a proper friend for their daughter, they simply put down on the daughter and forbid her to have anything to do with him. Other parents cling to the conventions of their own youth and expect their daughters to follow the same ones, wholly ignoring the fact that times have radically changed, and that modern customs approves a great deal more freedom in boy and girl associations than was the case in their own young days.

Again, many parents arbitrarily set an hour when their daughters must be home after an evening out and will accept no explanation for even some inevitable minor tardiness. Any number of girls have written me that because they were, even once, a little late getting home, their dating privileges were taken away from them.

Just because a man or a woman is a parent doesn't give him or her the right to force a child into a rigid mold of parental authority. The only fair thing is for a parent to be as ready to listen to the young person's side, in any difference of opinion, as the young person should be to consider the parent's. And then the two of them to get together in a spirit of comradely cooperation and work out a compromise.

SAME BIRTHDAYS

OTTAWA (CP)— Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rainville became grandparents twice on the same day. Their daughters, Mrs. Claude Girard and Mrs. Remi Charron, gave birth to girls in the same hospital.

Four Season Fashion

By ALICE ALDEN

The leather jacket has become a year-around wardrobe member, always right for some place or other, some activity or other, right through the four seasons. Here is an ever-so-useful coat, for which Samuel Roberts also does a matching leather skirt. He has designed it with twin buttoned tabs to conceal hip pockets and so emphasize the tapered silhouette.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

Letter: This is not the first letter I've planned to you — it's just the first I've actually accomplished. So often your column is of particular interest but the one thing I've wanted to write me about is how the one with the pork chop — rice — consomme recipe . . . 4 years ago I clipped it from the Ladies' Home Journal (I am an inveterate clipper — and yes! I do use them too!) and since then it has been a jewel beyond price for me. (see note from Mary below re recipe referred to). With a salad, hot bread (garlic, curry or poppy seed), plus dessert it makes a complete easy meal. It can be made up, all ready to bake, in the morning. No smells of frying meat, no spatters of grease on party clothes at party time. You need no directions, you can keep it an extra half hour or so in the oven if the guests/inaries are longer than intended, and you can vary it as you said.

In the first place my son does not care much for pork (especially our dismay) but I make it sometimes with tomato soup. Think of the varieties of other soups you could use! But most versatile of all think of the changes of meats. For a party or even home use with pork or the present rice use browned chicken breasts. It is really party fare — needs no apology — reaps lots of compliments . . . I am including recipe for Mexican Rice because it is another honey for ease, economy and flavor . . . once again raw rice is used . . . I always look for shortcuts . . . why cook rice separately when you can do it in the dish itself?

MEXICAN RICE

Two slices of bacon cut up and fried. Remove from pan. Brown in drippings 1 chopped oat care much for pork (especially our dismay) but I make it sometimes with tomato soup. Add 1 large can canned tomatoes (28-oz.), ½ cup raw rice, 1 teaspoon chili powder. Cover and simmer ½ to 1 hour. (Flexible too you see.) Stir occasionally. Add more water as needed. Can be made day ahead and reheated. May use mush- cup chopped onion and 1 clove garlic, minced; 1 green pepper, chopped; 2 tablespoons bacon fat or drippings; 1 cup raw rice; 1 teaspoon salt; pepper; add brown well ¾ lb. ground round steak. Put back bacon. Add 1 large can canned tomatoes (28-oz.), ½ cup raw rice, 1 teaspoon chili powder. Cover and simmer ½ to 1 hour. (Flexible too you see.) Stir occasionally. Add more water as needed. Can be made day ahead and reheated. May use mush- rooms or consomme if desired . . . best luck to you, Christine N.

Answer: Thank you for a delightful letter and for reminding to make poppy seed bread, also for the boost to Katie's Pork Chops which I will repeat now to avoid requests from those who missed it.

KATIE'S PORKK CHOPS . . .

To serve 4 buy 4 medium-thick pork chops; prepare 4 thick slices each of tomato and onion and green pepper, 6 tablespoons long grain raw rice or 1 cup special process rice, 1 can consomme (plus 1¼ cup water if 1 cup S.P. rice is used.) Brown chops on both sides until fat is golden. Sprinkle rice in bottom of ungreased casserole. Cover with browned chops; put 1 slice each onion, tomato, green pepper on each chop and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pour the can of undiluted consomme over (and water too if S.P. rice is used). Cover and bake 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour.

As Christine suggests I am going to try it with chicken legs.

WIFE TAKES BLAME

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chang Po-fang was freed from prison Wednesday after serving half of a 15-year term for murdering his mistress. His wife, waiting outside with the seven-year-old son Chang had never seen, said the blame for the murder was hers. "Had I been perfect," she said, "he would never have committed such a crime."

Star Performer of Shell's great new motor fuel team

Super Shell with TCP

Sparks all the live performance in the most modern cars on the road

Today's engines have the highest horsepower, the highest compression ratios in history. And the trend is toward still further increases.

Anticipating the need for an improved motor fuel, Shell Oil Company of Canada, Limited introduces Super Shell with TCP*. Super Shell is an all-new higher grade of gasoline—developed to meet the full octane needs of today's most advanced cars.

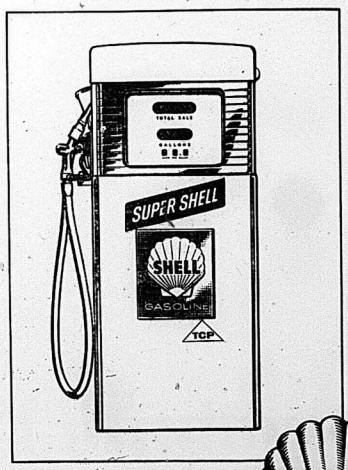
At the same time, Super Shell delivers better performance than ever in all cars now using premium gasoline. That's because Super Shell supplies all the octane value your engine needs under every driving condition.

This great combustion energy gives you an added bonus, too. When you're cruising, Super Shell's reserve energy converts automatically to extra miles in every tankful.

And with TCP in Super Shell, these benefits are always yours. TCP eliminates the effect of engine deposits that can rob even the newest cars of performance and economy.

For a new experience in motoring, drive up to your Shell Dealer's new white pump and fill up with Super Shell today.

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patented 1955



Higher octane in new Shell

Not every car needs Super Shell. If you've been using a regular gasoline, try new higher octane Shell with TCP. It will give your car better performance and economy than you ever thought it could deliver.

Ti-Cats Claw Bombers 21-0 Larks Fly High Over Stamps

WINNIPEG (CP) — An alert Hamilton Tiger-Cats team, taking advantage of fumbles, scored all their points in the first half to blank Winnipeg Blue Bombers 21-0 on Thursday night in an exhibition football game before 11,800 fans at Winnipeg Stadium.

Bombers lost five of their first-half fumbles, three of which led to touchdowns and a fourth to a single.

Halfback Tommy Grant scored two touchdowns, both on passes from quarterback Bernie Faloney. Cookie Gilchrist accounted for the other when he picked up a fumble by Winnipeg fullback Bob Davenport and raced 74 yards to pay dirt. Billy Graham converted two and Can Fraser added a single.

BALLHANDLING WEAK

Bombers had a wide edge in territorial play but weak ballhandling at the crucial time kept them off the scoore board. One of their best chances came late in the night came in the dying moments when rookie coach Bud Grant fielded an Al Carpenter backfield, quarterbacked by Barry Rosebrough. They marched from their own 42 to the Hamilton 34 but lost the ball on an incompleted third-down pass. Ken Ploen, Iowa Rose Bowl star, Guy Martin of Colgate, Chuck Curtis of Texas Christian U. and Jim Letcavage all good on eight of 18 for 87 yards.

Fraser Kelly had the edge in kicking over Winnipeg's Gerry Vincent, averaging 45 yards to 37.

Minor Baseball

K. of C. defeated the Y's Men 7-4 behind Casey Soden's three-hit pitching.

The Knights scored five runs in a third inning outburst adding two in the fifth. Y's Men pushed home two runs in each of the first and second frames.

Bill Latchford allowed two hits in three innings for the losers with Steve Wilson giving up five in two frames.

John Brennan, Latchford and John Spafford were the Y's Men hitters. Bob Richardson had a single and two-bagger among the five for the winners with Stu Malloy, Terry McCabe, Casey Soden, Bill Morelon and Jim Jarrett hitting singles.

CNRAA downed Parkdale 11-6 in a phantam game with Terry Thompson winning in a relief role. He allowed one hit and walked nine in six innings after taking over from Jim Miller who was touched for two hits and 3 runs.

Ron Stratton who whiffed seven was tabbed with the defeat although giving up only five hits. He walked six.

Doug Rose, John Lupinette, Jerry Reid and Jim Lockwood hit ably for the winners with Mills, Stratton and McDonald getting singles for Parkdale.

Rollins' Construction edged VRAA 8-7 in the seven - inning battle last night. Terry Thompson was touched for 6 hits and struck out 14 and walked seven. Rollins' B. Carson tentalized the railway kids over the route whiffing eleven and striking eight.

Lockwood, Adams singled for Rollins in the eleventh and Rose won in drive home the winning another single.

The game was all tied up at five all in the seventh and the teams battled scorelessly until the 11th frame.

Lockwood had two singles, Lupinette a double, Rose, Morgan and Adams singles for the winners with Skinner with a triple and single, Scott a double and single, Nolan a double, Thompson two singles, Campbell, Carson and Zakos one each powering the railway team.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Roundtrip, owned by Mrs. B. S. Chris of Kitchener, won the featured Buffalo Athletic Club purse at the Fort Erie Jockey Club Thursday.

Ridden and trained by the pacesetting Billy Lilly at the ten for the second straight day and defeated Bay Ile by two lengths. Navy Action and Belaloo finished in a dead heat for third.

Roundtrip was the second winner of the afternoon for apprentice jockey Norman Leid. He had won the second race on Harry Junior, owned by Harry J. Carmichael of St. Catharines.

Hunting Rules Almost Same As Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Migratory bird regulations for 1957 are almost unchanged from last year, the Canadian wildlife service of the northern affairs department says.

The biggest change is that electronic waterfowl - calling devices have been banned throughout Canada by order-in-council passed Wednesday.

Persons who use the electronic waterfowl caller in Canada — a portable battery-operated record player capable of luring birds to a hunter's gun from considerable distance—are liable to fines of not less than $10 and not more than $300 or a six-month jail sentence or both, under federal migratory bird regulations.

The daily bag and possession limits and the length of seasons remain about the same as last year.

An official of the wildlife service said the bounty on red-headed and canvasbacks was being cut to the time being to force hunters to take more crop-damaging mallards.

The province of Ontario has made a slight change in the boundaries of the Lake Erie district.

Ontario hunters on opening day may use no ducks and geese one-half hour before sunrise. Also opening day, hunting in all provinces opens one-half hour before sunrise.

The rare Ross's goose remains on the protected list throughout Canada and in the Northwest and Yukon territories.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — Veteran owner-driver Dr. J. S. Findley of Arnprior drove two successive victories to highlight Thursday night's program at Old Woodbine Raceway. Dr. Findley drove his five-year-old mare Indian Glamour to a pacing triumph in the second race and then steered the three-year-old filly Cathy Diggles to her fourth win in five starts in the third, a trotting race.

Another well - known driver, Hugh McLean of Ste. Elgin, was thrown from his cart in the fifth and knocked unconscious when his own seven-year-old mare Wilmot's Girl went down in a heap. Dr. J. R. McRae, track physician, announced that the driver "seems fine" after an examination and sent McLean to hospital overnight as a precautionary measure.

SIGN NEW END

SARNIA (CP) — The Golden Bears of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union have signed a new import end. He is Roger Urbano, 1956 star with the University of Saskatchewan team which was undefeated through the season and then lost to Baylor in the Sugar Bowl. Urbano, 22, stands 5 feet, 11 inches and weighs 200 pounds. He will report next week after being discharged from the U.S. army.

PURCHASE TAYLOR

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Redlegs have obtained outfielder Joe Taylor from Seattle of the Pacific Coast League, Redleg manager Gabe Paul said Thursday. He said Paul paid a "very large sum of cash" and a player for Taylor. The player to be sent to Seattle will be announced within the next 24 hours. Taylor, 29, has 21 home runs and 71 runs batted in for Seattle this year.

May Tour Country

Canadian Puck Fans May See Russ in Action Next Winter

KITCHENER (CP)—The Kitchener-Waterloo Record says the Russian national hockey team, which defeated Canada-Waterloo Dutchmen to win the world and Olympic hockey title in 1956 may tour Canada next winter.

If it does, the Dutchmen will probably play their conquerors in an exhibition game here.

Secretary-Manager George Dudley of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said the Russians are interested in making the tour. He said he was unable to give any details.

Dudley said there is also possibility that the 1956 Swedish world champions would tour Canada and the eastern United States. This tour was proposed at the end of last season just after Sweden upset Russia in the world hockey final at Moscow. Canada did not compete in that.

The Record says the Russian tour will probably be staged early in the new season and embrace such cities as Halifax, Ottawa, Sudbury, Kitchener and Windsor, Ont., all of which have sizable arenas and hockey teams considered capable of engaging the Russians on at least even terms.

Dudley, president of the North American zone of the International Ice Hockey Federation and vice-president of the world group, has just returned from a meeting of the IIHF in Europe.

One topic of discussion was the coming tour of Europe by Whitby Dunlops, Allan Cup champions and 1958 Canadian representatives in the world hockey tournament in Oslo.

There is a heavy demand for appearances by the Canadian team, Dudley said, but the tour proposed by the Europeans was for 24 games prior to the Oslo tournament, which was too many. A new 15-game tour is being arranged, to last about three weeks.

Dunlops will sail for Europe about Jan. 23. They will remain a week after the tournament and play exhibitions, several of them for Canadian forces in Europe.

Porky Oliver Tops Big Field In All-American Tournament

CHICAGO (AP) — Family man Ed (Porky) Oliver, who hasn't won a tournament for more than a year, was a one-stroke leader in the swift parade into today's second round of the $25,000 All-American golf tourney.

The 40-year-old Oliver, father of four, shot a six-under-par 66 into the second day doings at cluttered Tam O'Shanter where a fine five-year-old mare Indian Glamour is appearing triumph in the second race of the pacing trio.

Oliver, whose last triumph was the 1956 Greenbrier at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had the pro field nipping his heels.

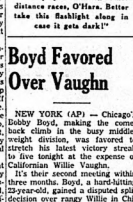
Robust Bill Casper, a 205-pounder from Bonita, Calif., was a stroke behind with a host of top players, including popular Sammy Snead, were locked for third at 68.

In all 33 pro men shooters finished under Tom's 36-72 par figures. The 72-hole chase dangles a $2,500 first prize. This is merely a warmup for next weekend's $101,200 "world" championship which has a $20,000 cash payoff for first place, golf's richest prize.

Cropped with snead at 68 were Shelley Mayfield, 33, of Jericho, Long Island, N.Y.; Tommy Bolt, 38, of Lake Worth, Fla.; Gay Brewer, 25, Cincinnati, national junior champion in 1954.

Eight players were grouped at 69, including Al Besselink, Jay Hebert, Arnold Palmer, Doug Sanburg, Paul Harney, Don Fairfield, Mike Souchak and Roberto de Vicenzo, top foreign entry.

National Open champion Dick Mayer was tagged at a 10-player tie for 60th place at 73. The defending All-American champion, Dutch Harrison, and national PGA titlist Lionel Hebert, each shot 75. Doug Ford, Master's champion, struggled to a 73.



"I've played him in other distance races, O'Hara. Better take this flashlight along in case it gets dark!"

Boyd Favored Over Vaughn

NEW YORK (AP) — Chicago's Bobby Boyd, making the comeback climb in the busy middleweight division, was favored to stretch his latest victory streak to five tonight at the expense of Californian Willie Vaughn.

It's their second meeting within three months. Boyd, a hard-hitting 23-year-old, gained a disputed split decision over ramgy Willie in Chicago. The return 10-rounder will be held at St. Nicholas Arena with the usual Friday night broadcasts and telecast (NBC, 10 p.m. EDT).

THE YUKE AND THE MILLERS!

Yukon Eric, puncheon-chested son of the Alaskan tundra, who once refused cliff-dwellers an option to build an his torso, has a mission to perform here tonight. And since he likes doing the job to music he selected Farmer Bur, the "Capiena Thrush," to warble sweet nothings in the ears of the Miller brothers after the Yuke has transformed them, he hopes, into trained seals garbed in wrestling trunks.

The Millers, a couple of guys you would like on your side whether it's a football game, an argument, or a good old-fashioned brawl, have other ideas. They have no intentions of sitting on their flippers, balancing balls on their snouts or catching fish handouts at the pleasure o' the Yuke and the Duke from the colton-pickin' realm of the southland.

They have more or less fresh memories of what the Yuke with another partner did to them not so long ago in a Toronto ring, when the Alaskan mauler poured out his chest and allowed his podner to play handball with the scions of the Miller clan. They figure they can flatten the steamroller that walks like a man and package the Farmer Boy into a bale if his favorite alfalfa before the suds salesmen shout "Time, Gentlemen, Time."

But the barrel-chested bloke from the steppes does not flatten easily, nor does Farmer Boy subject to balmy without considerable muscular objection. Yup, me hearties, the Miller boys will need all their tricks with a few extras thrown in, to subdue even Eric alone, let alone his handsome bald-trilling partner. It should be a honey of a bout.

PLAYOFF TONIGHT AT OX POINT

Tonight starting seven o'clock the Trenton Juniors and Point Anne clash in the third and deciding tussle of their district league semi-final series. The Trenton youngsters snatched an 8-7 win by virtue of two ninth-inning walks with two out and the sacks loaded in a crowdpleasing, if not according-to-Hoyle ball game, last night on their own diamond. Tonight at Point Anne should see a real diamond struggle.

Last night's tilt had plenty of action with nine errors, most of them costly, being committed by the clubs. There were a couple of home runs, close plays and some outstanding fielding. In fact the game had one of the most thrilling climaxes of any tilt of the season, with the Pointers getting a one-run lead snatched from them in the ninth and the home-towners going on to win by virtue of enemy mound inability to find the plate.

POSTPONED

The Trenton Juniors-N.H.L. All-Star game scheduled for Trenton Sunday evening has been postponed until next Saturday.

TRACK AT FAIR

Track events inaugurated at the Belleville Fair a couple of years ago have met with a lot of favor. Interest is gradually increasing. Bob Phillips and his committee in charge have arranged four outstanding events for this year's exhibition.

The featured event will be the Mead Mile open to everyone with the handsome Mead-Johnson Trophy as the prize. Cash awards will be given in all events.

There will be half-mile and quarter-mile events with a half mile relay, four men to a team, with each runner galloping 220 yards.

Several entries are already in the hands of "Red" Doran at city hall. The deadline was set for August 1 but if you get on your horse right away, we believe your entry will be accepted.

SOFTBALL

The Frankford-Bata Shoemen softball team has announced that it will exercise its playoff option and enter the OASA senior "B" playdowns. Frankford was eliminated from city playdowns the other night by the Geyer Marines and were expected to cast their playoff lots with Point Anne in intermediate "A" circles. However, Manager Austin informed this department that the Shoemen will "go senior 'B'." They will meet the Kingston representatives in a first-round two-of-three series with the first tilt scheduled for Frankford on August 19. The second game will be played in Kingston two nights later.

MOTORBIKE RACING

For those who like their sports thrills via the staccatos of motorcycles in racing action, the Pitson Pushers Motor Cycle Club offers entertainment extraordinary at the Fair Grounds on Monday, Civic Holiday. Expert riders from all parts of the province are expected to compete in the various events. The main attraction, or one of them, will be the re-run of the Canadian Junior Championships. This event was originally run at Oshawa but there was some misunderstanding or disqualification which resulted in the race being run again.

The meet which gets under way at 2 p.m., has the sanction of the Canadian Motorcycle Association.

Musial, Jones Blank Giants As Brooks Blast Cubs 12-3; Redlegs Take Over 4th Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Stan (The Man) Musial and Sad Sam Jones, an example of the old standbys and new faces who have made the St. Louis Cardinals hum, have the Redbirds perched atop the National League standings again. And they look poised and confident, as though that two percentage point edge they hold is a bulging 10-game spread.

Musial, 36-year with a pair of two-run homers, and Jones, pitching a six-hit shutout, were all the Cards needed to move past idle Milwaukee Thursday night. But the Redlegs won it big, banging 16 hits for an 8-0 job on New York Giants and their sixth straight success.

All it stands now, the Cards are 73-40 for a .596 percentage to Milwaukee's 69-41 and .594. Brooklyn is third, 1½ games behind, after routing Chicago Cubs 12-3. Gil Hodges hit his 27th NL record with the 13th bases-loaded home run of his 12-year career.

Cincinnati reclaimed fourth place from Philadelphia, rallying to beat the Phils 4-3. The Redlegs are 5½ games behind, the Phillies four.

PASSES TY COBB

Musial, who retired after six innings, passed Ty Cobb and took third place behind Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig with 1,later extra base hits in his 16-year career. His third four-bit game of the season — first since the opening week — broke a slump and put The Man second again in the bat race at .333 behind the .339 of Milwaukee's Hank Aaron. Musial also took the RBI lead from Aaron, 83 to 80, and moved to third in home runs behind Aaron (30) and Brooklyn's Duke Snider (26) with his 23rd and 24th.

Stan, who also singled twice, put it away fast, tagging a first-inning pitch from southpaw Johnny Antonelli, now 10-11, for his first homer, then giving the Cards a 6-0 lead in the sixth with the second, off lefty reliever Jim Constable, after Aaron had doubled.

Wally Moon, pushing his hit streak to 18 games, and Ellis Smith had three hits each for the Cards, who have won nine of their last 10 and 11 of 13 to regain the lead they lost to Milwaukee July 18.

The Dodgers, matching St. Louis 21-10 record in the last 31 games, rapped 18 hits as Don Newcombe, Tom Poholsky and three relievers as the Cubs collapsed in six innings. Sandy Koufax won his fifth with a four-hitter and 11 strikeouts. He's fanned 94 for the year, getting 53 from the Cubs.

DRIVES IN FIVE

Hodges drove in five runs and locked it up with his big smash off southpaw Dick Littlefield in the fifth after Elston Banks' three-run homer had whittled the Brooks lead. It was Hodges' second grand slammer of the year and bettered the mark held by Rogers Hornsby and Ralph Kiner. Gehrig set the major league mark with 23. Boston's Ted Williams tops active players with 14.

Curt Simmons, backed up by homers from Stan Lopata and Bill Repulski, had a four-hitter and a 3-1 lead until the Redlegs cut loose for three runs in the eighth to hand the Phillies' southpaw a seventh defeat. Ed Bailey's sacrifice fly scored the clincher. Johnny Klippstein won in relief.

Larry Doby belted the first bases-loaded home run of his major league career Thursday but it was a wasted effort.

Despite his circuit clout the Washington Senators surged back from a 4-0 deficit to beat Chicago White Sox 5-4. The defeat dropped the second-place White Sox four games behind the American League-leading New York Yankees, who were idle.

In the only other league contest Thursday, Frank Lary shut off a Boston ninth-inning rally at four runs to save a 7-5 victory for Detroit Tigers.

Doby's blast came in the fourth inning after Nellie Fox was hit by a pitched ball, Earl Torgeson singled and Minnie Minoso walked.

The Senators nicked Jack Harshman for one run in the first inning, added another in the fifth and chased Harshman during a three-run uprising in the sixth. Roy Sievers cracked a two-run homer, his fourth in four games, to pace the drive.

WINS HIS FIFTH

Chuck Stobbs, who required aid from Tom Morgan in the ninth, posted his fifth win as reliever Bill Fischer was shelled for fifth loss. Stobbs and Clevenger held Chicago to five hits as Washington snapped a four-game losing streak.

Lary, summoned at Boston from the bullpen after winner Duke Maas was driven out and Harry Byrd proved ineffective, came on with none out, two men on and two scored.

He got Norm Zauchin on a double play and struck out Ted Lepcio in a crucial performance.

The three runs Detroit added in the top of the ninth off Clevenger in reliefer Rudy Minarcin to make the score 7-1 proved decisive.

Maas, who had scattered the well in the previous eight innings, was shelled by Frank Malzone's three-run homer.

Maas was credited with his eighth victory against seven setbacks. Mike Fornieles, making his first appearance since July 21, drew the loss.

Leafs Recover Batting Eyes; Royals Zero Jets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now that Toronto Maple Leafs apparently have recovered their batting eyes, there may be trouble for the front-running Buffalo Bisons and Richmond Virginians in the International League.

The Leafs, who had dropped five of their six previous games and collected only 14 hits in the last three games, broke loose Thursday night for 13 safe blows as they defeated the Virginians 7-3. They relieved the Leafs within three games of Richmond and four of the Bisons, who defeated Miami Marlins 7-6 in the completion of a July 30 suspended game and then dropped the regularly scheduled game 8-6.

Rochester retained a firm hold on fourth place by blasting Havana Sugar Kings 13-3 and Montreal moved into a tie for seventh place with Columbus by blanking the Jets 2-0.

Sam Jethroe sent the Leafs away in front in the first inning with his 15th homer and they never were headed. On the defence they pounded up five double plays as Jim Pearce chalked up his 11th win of the season although he needed help in the eighth.

PACES MARLINS

Marv Blaylock, playing his first game in a Miami uniform and Forrest Smith paced the Marlins to their victory after the Bisons made the suspended game a doubleheader affair on official victory. Blaylock's two-run triple tied the score in the ninth and Smith came on with his 12th homer to account for the decisive pair of tallies.

Luke Easter drove Bubba Church from the mound with a three-run homer, his 28th of the season, in the seventh and Sal Yvars and Paige relieved to pick up his seventh victory.

The Red Wings pounded out 12 hits and scored all of their runs in the first four innings in downing the Cubans. Jerry Kramer led the attack with a triple, double and single.

Jackie Collum scattered five hits, four of them singles, and Jim Gentile accounted for all of the runs with a homer in the Royals blanking of the Jets.

Montreal Beauty Sets Pace, Leads Marlene by 4 Strokes

MONTREAL (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit, grim little champion of championships, today found herself in danger of losing a golfing title she has won six years in a row.

The precarious situation came about because a winsome blonde bomb from the Montreal Whitlock Club gave an unmerciful beating to the Royal Montreal course Thursday and grabbed a four-stroke lead in the first round of the Canadian ladies' 54-hole close championship.

Judy Darling, 19 years old and an even five feet, was the wrecker of the first round party. In the process of firing a sizzling 73—four strokes under women's par and only one above men's—Judy not only gave a shocking setback to Marlene but threatened to run away from the field of 100 before the tournament is scarcely got rolled.

There was nothing radically wrong with the game of Marlene, pride of Foothill, Ont., nor with that of four other girls who matched Marlene's par 77.

TOO MUCH JUDY

It was simply a case of too much Judy. The youngster had just about everything, including an eagle three at the 10th that proved the squelcher.

Marlene, who has international victories to her credit, now shares the runner-up spot at this stage with four girls from widely separated parts of Canada.

In the select company with the defending champion, all tied at 77, are Mary Ellen Driscoll of Saint John, N.B., Janet MacWha of suburban St. Lambert, Que., Donna Patton of Winnipeg and Rae Millgan of Calgary.

Judy's 73 was also the male equal to Canada Quebec's four other team a one-stroke work. Eric, Ont., over defending Ontario in the interprovincial team matches. Alberta was a close third with 326.

TEAMS BUNCHED

The two-member junior teams, playing for the junior interprovincial championship on a net score basis, were well bunched. Ontario led with 164, followed by New Brunswick with 167, Saskatchewan and defending Quebec had 169.

Judy gave little warning of what was to come when she shot an even par 36 on the front nine. She three-putted the first green, losing a stroke to par, and got it back with a birdie four at the sixth where many of the girls elect to play their second shots short.

Coming down he back nine, Judy birdied the short 12th, dropped a 20-foot putt for a birdie at the 14th after getting nearly out of range for a par at the 13th, then parred the 15th.

The 16th was the big one, a par five. She was three feet off the green to the left with her second shot, about 35 feet from the pin. Judy disdained her wedge and took a putter and went delicately for the hole. The ball bounced lightly once, ran on and dropped into the cup.

She missed a birdie at the long par-six 17th because of a hesitant chip shot but parred the 18th.

MARLENE STEADY

Marlene played steadily enough. She missed par at the third and fifth, but birdied the sixth, chipped up and rattled one in for four. She parred the next two and missed a birdie at the ninth where she three-putted the green.

She was par all the way down the back nine to the long 18th where she reached the green in three without trouble and two-putted for a birdie five.

Meanwhile Janet MacWha was matching the champions almost stroke for stroke, making the turn in 38 to Marlene's 39. The stroke to the Montreal girl's advantage came at the fifth where Marlene went over par. Janet took the lead and regained it coming home and fluffed her chance to stay in front by three-putting the 18th green for a 18th hole.

Miss Milligan, a pre-tournament prospect for the job of dethroning the champion, gave up too many strokes on the front nine to have hopes of catching up with little Miss Darling. She took 42 fours over par going out, but settled down with a vengeance coming home and duplicated Judy's eagle at the 16th with a powerful drive and good second shot that left her with an easy putt.

Mary Ellen Driscoll breezed along the front nine in one-under-par 37 and came home in 40, one over, to join the 77 bracket.

LOST CONTROL

Betty Stanhope of Edmonton, one of the real power hitters in the tournament, suffered poor luck of control on the front nine and took a 41 but came back in good stretch in one-under-par 37 to finish with 78, five strokes away from Judy.

With Judy's remarkable subpar performance, MacWha's par 77, the Quebec team of four squeezed out their one-stroke lead in the interprovincial title hunt. It is a 36-hole affair and ends Saturday.

Marlene led the Ontario team contingent with her 77, two strokes better than Mrs. J. R. Seawright of the Toronto Scarboro Club and three better than Rona Neundorf of the Toronto Ladies Club.

Trenton All Square With Pt. Anne Deciding Game at Point Tonight

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton Legion Juniors squared their district softball league semi - finals series with Point Anne here last night, edging the league-leaders 8-7 in an error-sprinkled action-packed game.

The third and deciding game to decide which team will battle Geyer Marlene for the loop title will be played at Point Anne tonight, starting seven o'clock.

There was a touch of drama in the game's climax. The score was the 7-7 Trenton 8 in the bottom of the ninth with the homesters having the bases loaded. Bob Hull who had toiled all game on the mound for the Pointers, had retired two batters and had a count of two balls on another. Pat Maracle was rushed into the breach cold. He walked Keman at the plate, tying the score, and again loading the bases. Trenton's largest crowd of the season was treated wild as Maracle threw four balls to push the winning run over the plate.

Trenton clustered three runs in each of the first and fourth innings and added two in the ninth. The Pointers scored singles in the second and fourth, two in the fifth, tied the game with a pair in the eighth and forged in front with a single in the ninth.

Bobby Hull only allowed five hits including a homer but was wild in spots. Five Point errors did not help his cause. He walked five with two being credited to Maracle. Ron Vanamburgh scattered nine hits, one a home-run blast in the fifth inning.

Jack Elliott, senior. He walked one and whiffed four. His mates bobbled four times, two of them costly.

Two walks, a hit batter, an error and Bill Kennedy's double gave the Juniors a three - run lead in the first innings. They added three more on a Point Anne miscue, Drake's single and Howard Cole's four-base blast with two on in the fourth.

Jack Elliott homered for the Point with none on in the second frame and a single, a sacrifice and two infield outs got them another in the fourth. A walk, Bob Hull's single and a Trenton error were good for a pair in the fifth and the Pointers tied the count in the eighth on Peter Green's double and two expensive Trenton mistakes. Bobby Hull doubled in the ninth, went to third on another Trenton error and put the Point one up on Claude Keman's single. Carr went out stretching.

Jack Wardhaugh, Bobby Hull and Pete Green had a double and single each, with Elliott senior homering and Gilmour and Carr singling for the Pointers.

Cole's homer, M. Kennedy's double and singles by Austin, Drake and Mel Kennedy powered the Trenton attack.

The score—

Point Anne	010	120	021	—	7	9	5
Trenton	200	300	002	—	8	5	4

Hull, Maracle (9) and Green; Wannamaker and Kennedy.

Umpires: Ebner (plate), Reid Bawden.

Eddie Machen Takes Over Contender Spot

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson's 10th round technical knockout of Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson won "fighter of the month" honors for the heavyweight champion and dropped the Hurricane from the top contender's position.

Eddie Machen, undefeated Redding, Calif. puncher was promoted to the No. 1 spot in the latest Ring Magazine ratings released today.

In another change, light heavyweight champion Archie Moore, preparing for a title defence against Tony Anthony, was dropped from the heavyweight list and replaced by Alex Miteff, undefeated Argentine. Miteff was given the 10th position as he made the elite list for the first time.

There were wholesale changes in the welterweight division where former champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba and veteran Gil Turner of Philadelphia came back into the rankings. Gavilan, by upsetting Mexico's Gaspar Ortega, won the 10th place. Turner gained the ninth peg by whipping Del Flanagan of St. Paul. Flanagan was demoted from fifth to eighth.

Injured Boxer Hangs up Gear

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Holyoke lightweight Bobby Courchesne, 22, who underwent brain surgery Monday, is through as a boxer, his manager said Thursday.

Pat Bartlett, who said he has a contract with Courchesne that runs to 1970, decided to retire his fighter officially after a talk with the neuro-surgeon who performed the operation to remove a blood clot.

"He advised me that Bobby's boxing days are over and that's good enough for me," Bartlett said.

The operation ended a six-year career for the young slugger who registered 50 victories in 59 professional bouts. He never was knocked out.

Courchesne, in "fair" condition in hospital, collapsed after the eighth round of a scheduled 10-rounder against Bobby Bell, of Youngstown, Ohio, 10 days ago in New York.

'Clown' Bragan Is Warned by League Prexy

CINCINNATI (CP) — Bobby Bragan, manager of Pittsburgh Pirates who was told bluntly Thursday to quit clowning on the baseball field or face indefinite suspension, was quick to get back.

When asked what he thought of National League president Warren Giles' low opinion of his clowning, he said his clowning was "worth the money."

Then in a more serious vein he added: "I'm very cognizant of the danger of any repetition."

At this time, Bragan appears nearer an indefinite suspension from baseball than any other person since Leo (Lippy) Durocher was put on the sidelines for a year in 1947.

Bragan was given the warning by Giles, who fined him $100 for sauntering on the field Wednesday night in Milwaukee, sipping from a bottle of soda after he had been thrown from the game. He offered each of the umpires a drink.

Giles declined to comment on Bragan's Chicago comment.

New Divisions In Soccer Are Approved

PRESTON, England (Reuters)—Proposals for the formation of the new third and fourth divisions of the English Football League in 1958-59 have been approved by representatives of the third division, Alan Hardaker, secretary of the Football League, announced Thursday.

He said the present rules will operate for the current season, at the end of which the top club in each section of the third division (north and south) will be promoted to the second division.

The next 11 clubs in each league table, together with the two bottom clubs relegated from the second division, will then form the third division of 24 clubs. The remaining 24 clubs from the northern and southern sections will form the fourth division.

Billy Martin Doesn't Like Steady Losing

NEW YORK (AP)—Losing is a new experience for Billy Martin and he doesn't like it, although he says he's trying just as hard since his trade from New York Yankees to the Kansas City Athletics.

"It gets so you don't want to go anywhere or do anything," Martin said Thursday. "You just sit around and pout.

"I was with the Yankees eight years and we used to lose once in a while. Now we lose a lot. Then you go home and think about it. About what you can do personally to help. And all you can do is try."

Martin, pepper-pot second baseman who used to scrap if necessary to help the Yankees when he was on the Kansas City roster for 45 games since he was obtained by the Athletics from New York on the June 15 trading deadline.

Of the 45 games Athletics have won 13 and lost 32, including 13 losses in 13 tries against New York. The A's defeats, in six weeks, are only two less than the Yankees have suffered all season.

Martin has tried his best, hitting at a better than .300 pace in Kansas City uniform to raise his average 30 points to .271.

"You get so mad," Martin said, "that it starts to hurt your baseball. You do things you wouldn't do.

"Like let's say the score is tied and you go up there and try to hit a home run. You're not a home run hitter but you try to do it all by yourself. I can't tell you how much you want to.

"And it's not a real bad club," he added. "We just lose those darn one-run games."

Little Beaney's Notebook

I was walking along with Puds Simkins counting how many people we heard asking each other if it was hot enough for them, and we stopped in front of the 20th Century Garage to watch a man fixing somebody's car, all we could see of him being his feet and the legs of his derty white pants sticking out from under the back of the car, and he stuck his head out from under the side of the car to get some better air and his face was all full of oil and stuff, and me and Puds kept on going, and I said, Oh boy, I wouldn't want to be him.

I'd rather be him than that man in the back of the market picking feathers off chickins all day, Puds said, and I said, Oh I dont know. It's always fun to see feathers flying, especially when you've got ting paid for it instead of getting beck for it, I said.

Seeing them flying is diffrent from having to breethe them in, Puds said. It's just like his own private office under that car. I bet that guy eveg reeds comic books under there and nobody can tell the difference just from his feet. Maybe he's asleep under there right now, he said.

That's be better than having to take a whole bath every night winter and summer to get the oil off, I said.

Being the end of the agreement and proving there's probably bad sides to every job.

At The Belle

DeMille's "Ten Commandments" Unsurpassed Motion Picture Experience.

Spectacle of an immensity never before seen on the screen and a masterful telling of a revered religious story make Cecil B. DeMille's production of "The Ten Commandments," the greatest of all motion picture entertainments. No matter what the movie-goer looks for, the Paramount colossus, which is attracting large audiences to the Belle Theatre, has it in incredible measure.

Since the story of Moses is one of a man who came to his greatness through the trials of a rich and varied life, the film is a vast panorama of drama, romance, adventure and history, building to the devout climax atop Mount Sinai through scenes of raw power and opulence.

In matchless Vista Vision-Technicolor photography, the pageantry of the Egyptian court, its music, dances, costumes, idols, splendid architecture, deserts and mountains are backgrounds for the intensely dramatic story of the evolution of Moses from prince to prophet, with a superlative cast acting out the mighty events of the Book of Exodus.

Starring are Charlton Heston, as Moses; Yul Brynner, as arrogant Pharoah Rameses II; Anne Baxter as tragic Princess Mer-ietri; Edward G. Robinson, as Yvonne de Carlo, Debra Paget, John Derek, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Nina Foch, Martha Scott, Judith Anderson, Vincent Price, Eduard Franz and top performers in the supporting roles.

Using thousands of extras with the skill of four-four years of dedication to the cinematic art, producer-director De Mille has re-created the mystery of the Hebrews' exodus to the great cities, the vast exodus, the miracle of the Red Sea and the barbaric Golden Calf worship.

As the weird wonders of the plagues, the Pillar of Fire, the Burning Bush and the awesome-ness of God's writing of the Commandments in Sinai's granite unfold, three hours and thirty-nine minutes pass as an hour.

No film in screen history has so dazzled the eye, so moved the heart more gripping, no theatrical presentation has ever had such reverence.

Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" is an experience never to be forgotten.

Sidney, now directing for Walt Disney on both movies and TV, appeared in better than 300 movies.

Before that, he had worked on the Children's Hour, a well-known radio program, in New York City.

"My mother and I used to take the train every Sunday from our home town of Shenandoah, Pa. to New York. One day a Warners' talent scout said Hollywood was looking for young boys for Penrod and Sam.

CLICKED IMMEDIATELY

"So mother and I came out on the train to Hollywood. I carried my guitar all the way. We arrived here and I went to the casting office myself. I can remember the casting director asking me what my name was.

"Instead of answering, I whipped out the guitar and started singing. For some strange reason, he said she had a part for me. It was as a Catholic altar boy in a religious procession scene.

"I carried the crucifix at the head of the procession and kept thinking how I had just had my Bar Mitzvah a few weeks previously."

He got the part in Penrod and Sam too, and from there went into many notable pictures, such as the Mickey McGuire series with Mickey Rooney and later Boy's Town with Rooney.

GUESSED WRONGLY

Sidney also recalls another series he played in for Educational Pictures, a studio no longer in existence.

"The stars were Junior Coughlin and me. Then they added a cute three-year-old girl as Junior's kid sister. She was really cute and I can remember the director and the producer arguing. The director wanted to put the kid under contract at $50 a week. The producer couldn't see it. He said: 'Another year and the kid will grow out of that cuteness.'"

Before she had grown out of it some 10 years later, she had made herself and the old Fox studio millions of dollars. The cute little kid, of course, was Shirley Temple.

"It takes a lot of patience to be a director of child actors," Miller says, "I don't think I would have that patience if I hadn't gone through it all myself."

POPE GIVES AUDIENCE

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — Several thousand persons gathered Wednesday night for the first general audience given by Pope Pius in his summer residence this year. The audience was in the yard of the papal villa.

AT THE McCARTHY — Leslie Nielsen is the sophisticated bachelor and Debbie Reynolds the untinhibited Tammy in "Tammy and the Bachelor," Universal-International picture in Technicolor and CinemaScope, in which Nielsen, Walter Brennan and Mala Powers are co-starred with Debbie, now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

MAGNA CARTA MEMORIAL

RUNNYMEDE, Eng. (Reuters) In this quiet meadow beside the Thames, where an unwilling King John signed the Magna Carta 742 years ago, American and British lawyers Sunday dedicated a memorial to the occasion. The memorial is a gift of the American Bar Association now holding its convention in England.

Georgia Says

Males Have It Easy on TV A Tux, a Smile-They're On

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Men performers have it much easier than women on television, says Georgia Gibbs, the girl who has launched a delightful new program of songs on NBC-TV (Mondays, 8:30 p.m. ADT).

"A man just put on a tux or a dark suit and goes before the cameras," she said the other day. "But a woman has so many problems. What clothes will she wear? How will she fix her hair? Is her makeup right? It seems to me that I spend three days a week fussing over my clothes for a 15-minute show."

Because of the care with which she selects her clothing, viewers don't realize that she is only five feet, pushing one inch. But—the home audience has discovered that she can sing anything: ballads or blues, beguines or rock 'n' roll; she can belt them or sing them sweet.

It's difficult to name a TV or radio singer's style on which Her Nibs, Miss Georgia Gibbs, has not appeared at some time. "But I feel that the television audience didn't really know me until I had my own show," she said.

MIXES NUMBERS

"As a guest, you're on for three minutes and then you're off—and who remembers you? It's true that 15 minutes is a short time, but at least you do have a chance to build a little. I don't aim at a special audience of any particular age. I mix up my numbers and sing what people want to hear." She began singing what people wanted to hear in a Worcester, Mass., movie house when she was 11 years old, the youngest of four children whom her widowed mother struggled to support. Two years later she lied about her age and began touring with small bands, sometimes travelling 400 miles between one-night stands.

"Those years were important years when a kid wants to be wanted," she recalled. "On the road it was lonelier than I've ever be again. Those years are best. But singing the way I did then—sometimes 50 or 60 songs a night—that's real solid training."

When she felt she was ready for the big plunge, she came to New York and competed with 150 others to land a vocal spot on the Jimmy Durante radio show. After that she appeared with such stars as Danny Kaye, Eddie Cantor, Bob Hope and Milton Berle. Her big break came with her 13th recording, Kiss of Fire, which sold over a million.

Unmarried, she lives in a beautifully furnished apartment on New York's Fifth Avenue, "I love it," she says. "It's the first real home I've ever had."

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, August 3, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Stars' position suggests more care in the use of your resources and talents; also warns against technical errors and confusion. Examine your intellect or powers of domineering manner. Be cautious.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Aspects indicate a somewhat restful period, but be alert and ready if conditions change. Some activities such as charity bene- fits and children's welfare projects could enjoy gains with your aid.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — This is neither a stimulating nor restrictive period. It could be a good day for you farsighted, emotional - minded folks who work and act while others wait for breaks, however. Good going, good luck!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — If giving your best and in a pleasant manner, no one can quarrel with you. But never be satisfied with so-so attainments. Aim to improve constantly. Do not divulge family or personal matters.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Freely accent others the rights you give yourself — all the rights of the individual as such. Sportsmanship is a grand and successful asset. Work sincerely done will bring reward now.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Encouraging aspects. Put in some extra "licks," work with spirit and the results will be fine. Dealings in metals, local, chemicals, shipping, trades, general merchandise all favored.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Many fine influences for you lovers of righteousness. Cooperation will help more than you may suspect. Heart interests favored.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Hold decisions until you have the facts; then you can determine whether your conclusions are correct. There are some restrictions now, so tread carefully but not fearfully. Put first things first — and keep them there.

November 23 to December 21 — (Sagittarius) — Generally fine aspects can advance personal interests, business, outside activities. Don't scatter your energies or you could miss out on important gains.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — You may not have too much planetary help, but go forward under your own initiative and you will achieve. Where aid is proffered, show your appreciation.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — Get in there and pitch, because competition is keen. Your versatility can adapt to whatever the day's demands. Don't rush, however; plan for steady progress. Analyze carefully; eliminate unessentials.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Generally good aspects, but some influences may tempt you to be lackadaisical, so be on guard. Will power, accuracy and ease of manner will net returns.

You born today are a happy combination of spirit, vitality, wholeheartedness and kindness. You love to have cheerful surroundings and can get along with the elderly or the very young, adapting yourself readily to circumstances. Although enthusiastic and interested in many and varied activities, you are also conservative. Avoid too much love of comfort and extremes. You have a magnetic personality; can become skilled in your work, and a) entertaining, too. Birthdate of: Henry C. Brunner, American writer.

SECRETS STOLEN

LANDAU, West Germany (Reuters) — The West German news agency DPA says thieves stole secret blueprints for a planned Nike rocket launching base from U.S. barracks near here during weekend. The safe also contained a considerable sum of cash which the thieves left untouched, DPA said Sunday.

and bazaar in the church basement on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Jackson were at the apron table. Many lovely aprons, all styles and sizes, were on display and were quickly sold.

Four tables of fancy work and novelties, consisting of embroidered pillow cases, tea towels, crocheted articles, children's clothes, potted plants, cut flowers, and many other nice things were picked up.

A large table of home cooking, vegetables, jams, jellies, picnics and numerous other things good to eat.

A fish pond proved popular to the children.

The tea tables were most attractive. Tea was served by the ladies from 4 p.m. A nice sum was realized. The ab-sident, Mrs. H. Pierson, wishes to thank all those who helped in any way.

Sunday School Lesson

A Story Without a Villain

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for August 4: "RUTH A FOREIGNER WHO WON HER WAY". The book of Ruth.

By ROY L. SMITH

The story of Ruth, in the Old Testament, has been called "the most beautiful short story ever written," and yet in one respect it defies all the conventions. There is not a villian in the whole cast. Boaz, the one conspicuous male character is an exemplary individual, who proceeds with delicacy and honor. The one actor who seems to fall short in any way — the girl who returns to her parents and her native land — was entirely respectable, and satisfied all the normal demands.

Misfortune had dogged the steps of Naomi, the old mother-in-law, almost from the day she married her husband, Elimelech.

A famine had driven them from their native land, and in a desperate gamble to save their lives, they had removed to Moab. There Naomi had buried her husband, and there she had seen her sons marry foreign women. Then, after a few years the boys died and the aging mother decided to return childless — to the land of her birth.

Eventually she arrived back among her kinsmen, a woman family that moved on to a small farm. It was not particularly good land; and it was not advantageously located. But with hard work it could be made to produce rather satisfactorily.

Within the space of hours after the family had arrived, every member thereof, including the tiniest was at work. And long after the white neighbors had gone in for the evening "those Japs" were still in their field working. At harvest time their crops were harvested, and everyone shared in the toil. After a season or two a few acres were added to the little holding. Then some of the white neighbors began to say, "They will take the land, if we don't watch out. You can't compete with them. They all work, even their women." And it was true. But they made their own luck. Life is organized on that principle. If your luck is not to your liking, you can change it. In some cases, more work will do it.

START OUR OWN GOSSIP

It came as a staggering surprise when Ruth discovered that Boaz was interested in her, a young widow from an alien land. When she expressed her astonishment that fact, he replied, "All that you have done for my mother-in-law since the death of your husband has been fully told me."

Somebody had been talking, and Ruth had furnished them with the good material out of which the friendly gossip had been fabricated.

Of course the faithful daughter-in-law had not been loyal to Naomi just because "it may prove some day to be good business." Her affection for the older woman had been genuine.

That was at least a part of the secret of her life. She turned naturally to the splendid, and the generous, and the unselfish. It was not an act; it was the natural expression of a deep grained instinct toward kindliness.

Most of us are in a position to choose the kind of gossip that goes about through the neighborhood concerning us.

FALLS TO DEATH

NEW YORK (AP) — James Boone, 13, was showing a friend Wednesday how he could jump across a five - foot gap between the roof of his five - storey tenement and an adjoining roof. He missed his footing and fell to his death in the courtyard below.

Cuban Rebels Leave Hideouts To Battle Army

Anti-Government Strikes Flare in Eastern Region

HAVANA (AP)—Resistance to President Fulgencio Batista's regime today stiffened in eastern Cuba as anti-government strikes and rebel flareups threatened to spread throughout the area.

Reports said insurgent forces of Fidel Castro had come down from their mountain hideouts and engaged elements of Batista's army.

A military headquarters spokesman said army units encountered a rebel band near Uberos on the south coast of Oriente province Friday, killing 19 insurgents and capturing several others.

A large weapons cache was seized on a farm where the clash took place, the spokesman added.

Censorship was in effect on local and incoming foreign newspapers and radio stations and on outgoing press dispatches and details were limited. Local newspapers published little or only general news about the political situation.

In the rebel center of Santiago de Cuba, a group of armed men forced attendants at a service station to turn on their gasoline pumps Friday night, then set the place on fire and fled.

In another incident in Santiago, a woman bus driver was killed and a bomb hurled at her as she was about to board a bus for duty.

A general strike appeal was called in Santiago following an incident Wednesday that involved U.S. ambassador, Earl E. T. Smith.

Black-garbed women staged a demonstration while Smith was visiting the city. Police scattered them with fire hoses and arrested many.

The U.S. Embassy said in a full statement on the incident and said it was asking a hands-off attitude towards Cuba's internal political situation.

No Publication On Monday

Monday, August 5, being Civic Holiday, there will be no publication of The Ontario Intelligencer.

Scandal Case Is Off to A Bad Start

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There were lights and cameras but little action Friday as the curtain went up on the actual libel case involving Confidential magazine and a long list of Hollywood personalities.

Due to a judicial mixup, the case was assigned to the wrong court. It caused a half day delay and wasted the appearance of actress Tab Hunter, Buddy Baer and Alan Nixon, former husband of Marie Wilson, as witnesses.

While an eager public jammed the courtroom and the corridors leading to it it, hoping for spicy details of the private lives of movie stars, the case almost got lost in a maze of legal technicalities. Finally, the selection of a jury began.

The way things started, this could prove an arduous task. One man asked to be excused, saying that he didn't think he could give the defendants a fair trial. Another was dismissed when she expressed vehement dislike for the magazines involved.

Railway Plans No Action Against Boys

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian National Railways plan no action concerning two young boys who admitted in statements to the RCMP that they tampered with a switch before derailment of a passenger train 36 miles east of here July 28, J. R. McMillan, CNR western region vice-president, said Friday.

The boys said they found the switch unlocked, moved it and were unable to return it to its original position before the train arrived. Derailment of 16 cars caused injuries to 86 persons.

Violent Storms Join Cold Front Moving South

TORONTO (CP)—A series of violent thunderstorms, described by a public weather office as a fast-moving cold front, today swept across the north shore of Lake Huron from Sault Ste. Marie to Sudbury, uprooting trees and knocking out telephone and telegraph lines.

Winds estimated at 80 miles an hour were reported in a thunderstorm Friday night, 60 miles north of Sudbury, cutting off all telegraph communication to Sault Ste. Marie from the east.

Heavy storms were also reported in the area around Long Tier, 90 miles north of Toronto, and in the Swastika area near Kirkland Lake.

Today's Chuckle

There are only two ways to handle women. Does anybody know what they are?

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cooler air pushing southeastward from Northern Ontario gave scattered thunderstorms in Central Ontario during the night. Sunday should be a pleasant cool day over most of Ontario.

GALT (CP) — A 15-year-old boy says he saw a flying saucer hover close to the ground for 40 minutes near here.

Ted Stephenson said Friday he was about 300 yards away from where the object touched down Tuesday in a gully four miles northeast of Galt.

He described the craft as round, about 35 feet in diameter and 10 or 12 feet high, and of a dull aluminum color.

Reporter Ray Frances of the Galt Reporter went with the boy to the spot Friday. Frances said he found what appeared to be huge footprints and a series of burned patches on the ground.

He said the several footprints were 17 or 18 inches long and that the yard-square burned spots were scattered over an area 20 feet across.

BRITISH GROUND TROOPS SUPPORT OMAN'S SULTAN

Move in by Sea, Air To Help Quell Revolt

MANAMA, Bahrein (AP)—British ground troops and armored cars today moved by sea and air into revolt-hit Muscat and Oman to aid the pro-British sultan.

Reports from London said a detachment of Scottish Highland troops already had entered the sultan's Musandam Peninsula domain. A foreign office spokesman said the troops were being used "in support of the sultan's forces."

Reports reaching the British capital said seasoned Cameronian troops had reinforced the 1,500-man Oman force to subdue rebel-held territory.

He declined on security grounds to say when an offensive would be launched.

The unit said the first objective will be Nizwa, believed to be the headquarters of the Imam of Oman, rebel leader, and a tough, trained group of insurgents armed with modern automatic weapons.

The imam, who was exiled as religious leader in 1954, is trying to set up an independent sultanate.

RAF SUPPORT

Reports said the RAF will continue to support the sultan's troops. RAF planes have been bombing rebel targets for two weeks since he asked for British help in crushing the revolt.

As soon as the sultan's forces regain control, Sinclair said, all British troops will be pulled back.

Sinclair said British troops will not attack villages, but will limit themselves to giving support with heavy weapons, including machine-guns and mortars.

Open 'Chute Kindles Hope Missing CF-100 Crew Safe

MONTREAL (CP) — A ground, air search party was scouring the bushlands near Sept-Iles, Que., today for further trace of two airmen who disappeared after their CF-100 jet interceptor apparently crashed.

Search for the missing men was spurred Friday with discovery of an open parachute seven miles from Sept-Iles. It was identified as belonging to the navigator of the jet, helping from North Bay to Europe.

Aboard the jet were Flt. Lt. K. P. McNulty of Thorold, the pilot, and FO J. W. Wilding, 22, of Kingston, observer. Their plane left North Bay Thursday with 414 Squadron.

An RCAF spokesman said the party saw no sign of the plane or its crew when the parachute was found. Pilots flying alongside the jet when it disappeared said they saw the crew bailed out and the navigator had bailed out.

RCAF planes from Greenwood, N.S., Trenton, Ont., and Goose Bay, Labrador, were taking part in the air search but bad weather was hampering them.

Will Free Labor Racketeer Long Enough to Face Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor racketeer Johnny Dio is getting out of jail long enough to face questioning by senators on charges that he has a big hand in victimizing many New York workers.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem.-Ark.) of the Senate rackets investigating committee said Dio will be placed on the witness stand Thursday or Friday.

The committee is exploring charges that Dio and Teamsters Union boss James R. Hoffa forced a corrupt alliance that ultimately could subject more than 1,000,000 New York workers to "crooked" labor contracts and "economic slavery," chaining them to less than decent wages.

That was the testimony Friday of John McNiff, executive secretary of the Association of Catholic Trade Unions. McNiff spoke of collusion between crooked management and crooked unionism.

McClellan has told the committee Dio and his New York underworld henchmen have "fattened their pockets" by extorting from employers and dipping deeply into the funds of unions they control, to whom they negotiated union contracts that allegedly provided few, if any, benefits.

McClellan says evidence will show that Hoffa helped Dio to get charters for Teamster locals and that through this alleged alliance, Hoffa sought a "stranglehold" over New York and the eastern seaboard.

As the committee was listening to charges of labor exploitation, a New York judge ordered Dio and three other convicted labor racketeers paroled just long enough to testify in the hearings.

Paroles also went to Samuel Holdeman, president of Teamsters Local 239 and Max Chester, former financial secretary of Local 805 of the Retail Clerks Union. Both were convicted with Dio of a $30,000 shakedown conspiracy against two New York electroplating firms. The three are being held without bail pending sentence.

Dio also is under indictment in the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel.

The fourth man to be paroled is Alfred Reger, sentenced last Tuesday to five to 10 years in prison for extorting $1,720 from two lumber companies. Reger is secretary-treasurer of Teamster Local 522.

Nationalism, Canadian Style, Said Good Thing

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP) — H. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said today nationalism in this age has become associated with "evil and militant systems" but he is convinced the Canadian variety is a good thing.

"It is, I believe, a living force today and can become even more vital tomorrow if we can make it more conscious and articulate and can spell out in greater detail a specific content."

Mr. Fowler was speaking at the 26th annual Councils of Canada conference at the Lake Couchiching resort near Orillia. The international conference is sponsored jointly by the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs and the United States Information Service.

The text of Mr. Fowler's speech was released to the press before delivery.

FIRST PAPER

Mr. Fowler, who delivered the first paper—Canadian values in a changing world—at the week-long conference which opened Friday, praised Canada's "liberal policy" in "keeping the doors to people, goods and ideas."

Hammarskjold Denies Claim UN Applies Double Standard

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold took issue Friday with the view that the United Nations applied a "double standard" in the Middle East and Hungary.

In his annual report to the General Assembly, he said this criticism reflected a "need for wider understanding" on what the UN could and could not do.

The British and French have made such a criticism. They have complained that while they heeded the assembly's demands to call off their invasion of Egypt, the Soviet Union ignored assembly demands for an end to Soviet intervention in Hungary.

In a London speech Wednesday, former prime minister Sir Winston Churchill said the UN had failed in Hungary. He objected to any system in which international laws applied only "to those who have the willing to keep them."

Hammarskjold's report spoke of "the persistence of misconceptions" of how the UN actually works.

He said there is "need for wider understanding of the constructive potentialities of the organization, as well as its constructive limitations; understanding, in other words, of how far it can or cannot exert an immediate influence on the course of events."

The most frequently expressed criticism of the United Nations in a few areas reflected this need for wider understanding," he said.

"The United Nations was criticized for applying a 'double standard' (but) . . It did not have legal power under the UN charter to impose its will upon the member states by force, but could only recommend action."

Cautious Soviet Reaction To West's Inspection Plan 'Good As Hoped'--Dulles

Two-Part Air and Ground Check Outlined to Parley by U.S. Secretary

LONDON (AP) — State Secretary Dulles' outline of a two-part Western plan for air and ground arms inspection of the Soviet Union and most of North America and Europe has drawn a cautious first reaction from the Russians.

Dulles flew back to Washington to report to President Eisenhower after telling the Soviet reaction "not as bad as had been feared and about as good as had been hoped."

Soviet delegate Valerin Zorin told the United Nations disarmament subcommittee the plan presented Friday by Dulles would receive careful study. But he suggested that it was unfair to Russia and favored the West.

Under the Western proposals, Russia and the West would exchange permission for inspectors to search on the ground and by air for warlike moves.

The first inspected area would take in all the Soviet Union, North America and most of Europe. Russia and Europe except for a fringe of Ireland and southern parts of Spain and Portugal, Italy, Albania, Greece and Turkey.

SECRATE PLAN

Or, under an alternate plan, Russia could agree to inspection of a zone limited to the wedge shaped segments with points at the North Pole, Nova Scotia and the tip of Europe from Ireland to the Urals on one side and Alaska to the Kamchatka Peninsula on the other.

Several smaller variations could be accepted, Dulles said, all subject to approval of the Western nations involved.

The subcommittee, composed of Britain, France and Canada in addition to Russia and the United States, will meet again Tuesday.

Zorin complained that the proposals did not allow for Soviet inspection of bases in Japan, Okinawa, Japan, North Africa, the Middle East and elsewhere. Another Soviet spokesman later said the main threat to Russian security came from bases established by the plan.

The spokesman said Russia can't accept the proposal of ways to control disarmament meaningless without cutting down on arms.

British spokesmen viewed the reaction as unfavorable. The British have taken a more realistic view of the possible negotiations, with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd favoring a recess.

A foreign ministry spokesman in Bonn said Chancellor Adenauer in the West tried to break up the disarmament talks with a walkout in Geneva in Berlin Monday by the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

The pledge said the three Western powers would not disarm unless agreement that would "prejudice the reunification of Germany." They said only free, all-German elections—which Russia opposes—can bring about reunification.

Steady, Men The Fish and Tackle First

MAPLE, Ont. (CP) — When fire broke out in the trailer of four Buffalo, N.Y., fishermen they worked swiftly to save their valuables.

And—did they save first? The fish, of course.

Joseph Langlo, Victor Shotrum, Herman Myers and William Schalgerwer were returning from a fishing trip jaunt to Georgian Bay Friday when they saw their trailer burning.

They unhitched the trailer, then removed their catch of pickerel, pike and bass. Firemen were able to save the trailer or the three outboard motors, fishing tackle and two cameras it contained. Loss was estimated at $1,000.

Copter Patrol Of Motorboats Will Be Tested

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Roberts announced on Friday that a helicopter will patrol Lake Simcoe over the coming Civic Holiday weekend to check motorists on boat speed regulators in the lake.

The aircraft will also patrol Highway 400 and other main highways leading north from Toronto towards Lake Simcoe, he said. It will operate today, Sunday and Monday.

The use of the helicopter above Lake Simcoe is experimental, Mr. Roberts said, "and is not to be regarded as in any way repealing the activities of the RCMP or Dominion department of transport, which departments are primarily responsible for the enforcement of waterway regulations."

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)— Pierre Lajeunesse, 12, plunged into a city swimming pool for a dip and a dive and that's where he had planned.

But he got a shock by suction in a pool drain pipe. While 500 persons watched, police and firemen pumped out the pool to free him.

English Magazine Says Queen's Speaking Style Is 'Pain in Neck'

LONDON (AP)—A Conservative magazine edited by Lord Altrincham said Queen Elizabeth's speaking style "is frankly a pain in the neck" and has succeeded in make her sound like "a priggish school girl."

The magazine, in an article that roused some shocked headlines in newspapers today, said the Queen has got some less aristocratic advisers. Newspapers called the article an attack on the Queen."

The National and English Review, a bi-monthly political magazine which has been published since 1883, said:

"The relative classless character of George V unfortunately is not that of his granddaughter's successors.

"The Queen's entourage—those who serve her from day to day, who accompany her when she travels and sit with her when she echo—are almost without exception people of the 'tweedy' sort.

"In other words, the court has unfortunately failed to move with the times; while the monarchy has become popular and multi-racial, the court has remained a tight little enclave of British ladies and gentlemen'. This can not be right.

"The Queen should surely now be surrounded by advisers and companions with as many different backgrounds as possible."

The article, signed by 33-year-old Lord Altrincham, said:

"When she has lost the bloom of youth, the Queen's reputation will depend, far more than it does now, upon her personality.

"It will not help then be enough for her to go through the motions; she will have to say things which seem to remember and do things on her own initiative which will command people's respect and notice.

"As yet there is little sign that such a personality is emerging."

The magazine said her present style of speaking "is frankly a pain in the neck." And as for her speeches, Lord Altrincham wrote:

"The personality conveyed by the utterances which are put into her mouth is that of a priggish schoolgirl, captain of the hockey team, head prefect, and a recent candidate for confirmation."

COMMONWEALTH FINANCE HEADS WILL CONFER

Will Meet in Quebec Four Days Next Month

OTTAWA (CP)—Commonwealth finance ministers will attend a four - day conference at Mont Tremblant, Que., next month to discuss mutual problems.

One topic to come in for discussion will be Canadian government's hope for a full-blown trade and economic conference of Commonwealth countries next year.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced Friday that Commonwealth finance ministers have accepted a formal invitation to come to Canada following the Washington annual meetings of the International Monetary Fund and World Bank.

Preparations for the conference are proceeding," he said. It is scheduled to open Saturday, Sept. 28 at the Laurentian resort north of Montreal.

Mr. Diefenbaker proposed the finance ministers meeting while in London last month at the Commonwealth prime ministers conference. He also broached the possibility of a trade meeting of Commonwealth trade.

The Canadian government is understood to be preparing a draft agenda for the later trade conference in time to distribute it to other Commonwealth countries before the September finance ministers meeting.

Prime Minister Menzies of Australia said while here Thursday that he favors Mr. Diefenbaker's trade conference idea but that such a meeting required a lot of preliminary planning first.

Government officials have said Canada may propose using tariffs and investment capital to promote increased Commonwealth trade. But they see plenty of problems along the way, including the effect on the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade of new Commonwealth preferential-type tariffs.

Enough Houses Within 12 Years Russia's Target

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government announced a 12-year plan with which it hopes to end the critical shortage of housing in this country within 12 years.

A resolution of the Communist party central committee and the council of ministers called housing "one of the most acute social problems. It blasted shortcomings of the construction industry.

"The population of many towns and villages lack modern housing and a large number of families still are living in decrepit homes," the resolution said. It added that the quality of building materials is low, construction work is poor, projects are installed carelessly and finishing work is especially bad.

Old Tin Can Came to A Good End

A strange clanking noise shattered the early morning stillness of Point Anne one other day.

It awakened Phil Lott from a deep sleep. It was four-a.m. and the Lott slumber world was not yet due.

The noise persisted at intermittent periods.

Lott got up to investigate. The noise seemed to come from outside the bedroom window. He looked out and what he saw really opened his eyes.

A king-size skunk, without filter or smoking, slowly along the street pavement. It's head was encased in a tin can. In its efforts to free itself the striped kitty kept banging the can on the pavement.

Lott decided to let somebody else take up the scent. After all, he needed his sleep and besides the wrong end of the skunk was in the can.

Playground Week Will Be Staged Here

All next week Belleville playgrounds will hold their own brand of fun-filled activity.

Starting Tuesday it is "Playground Week", annually sponsored by the Belleville Recreation Committee, when city youngsters go through the paces of all things they've learned during the summer months on the playgrounds.

From Parkdale's playground on the outskirts of the city, clear through to Bayview, an estimated 1,500 children will take part in the special events.

Opening night will be neighborhood night at all recreation centres, which it is hoped will be attended by all parents in the neighborhood of each playground.

Highlight of the following day probably will be a marshmallow roast, while on Friday, East Hill will be the special events.

Activity as the children's Penny Carnival gets underway.

In between these highlight events will be various activities and exhibits, reflecting subjects learned by the children from their playground supervisors. Playlets, craft sessions and various games are on the agenda, plus talent shows and elections of little beauty queens for each playground throughout the week.

The recreation committee already is gathering in a large stock of special prizes to be awarded the children during the week.

Playground Week will end Friday night next with a big outdoor square dance for the children.

Mother, Son Hurt in Accident

A Belleville mother and her five year old son were treated at Belleville General Hospital late Friday afternoon for injuries sustained when their car was in collision with another vehicle on No. 2 highway five miles west of the city.

Treated at the hospital by Dr. Sam Cronk were Mrs. Jane McCabe, 30 Sidney street, who suffered bruises, and her son Kevin, who had head lacerations.

Mrs. McCabe was said to have been eastbound when the right wheels of her small English model car dropped off the pavement. As she attempted to pull the vehicle back onto the road it swerved suddenly onto the pavement and was in collision with a westbound vehicle driven by Frederick Hornbey of Burlington. Damage to both vehicles was about $400.

Provincial Constable Robert Rice investigated.

Young Recruits' Training Course Nearing Close

An eight weeks' summer recruits course for 108 young recruits from Belleville, Picton, Trenton, Stirling, Campbellford and Norwood will shortly end at the Belleville Armouries as daily the boys are put through their paces in preparation for their marching out parade next week.

Days of training have been full for the over 100 summer recruits, mostly all young high school students from the city and district.

The course consists of eight weeks basic training in infantry drill as well as a week at Niagara Camp with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, the biggest regiment in summer camp this year.

While in camp the boys visited old Fort Niagara, Queenston Heights, and viewed the famous Niagara Falls as well as visiting the Chippewa power plant and other interesting points of interest in the Niagara area.

The boys have done range practice with rifles and have done their drilling at the local armouries and at the training area west of Shannonville and north of Highway 2.

Many ranking army officers, including Col. Peck, D.S.O., of Central Command; Major-Gen. Clarke, H.Q.C., Central Command; Brigadier Eric Snow, Commander, Eastern Ontario Area and Major Hill, G.S. O. 2, Eastern Ontario Area.

The summer training course concludes August 17th and during the final week the boys will take part in a demonstration by their senior officers what they have learned during the summer.

Napanee Man Committed For Trial on Murder Charge

NAPANEE (Staff) — Albert Hubert McEwen, 47-year-old Napanee district farm hand, was committed for trial on a charge of murder here Friday by Magistrate James D. Garvin, after a three-hour preliminary hearing into the July 15 shooting of Lynne Perry, 35, who died in a Kingston hospital 13 days later.

No indication was given at the inquiry as to why the shooting occurred, but Mrs. Delma Perry, wife of the dead man, testified that shortly before Perry was shot she saw McEwen with a gun in his hands, as the men stepped out of a barn.

"He was holding it straight in front of him at my husband," she said. "I heard Hubert say he was going to shoot him, but I did not hear what they were talking about in the barn. I heard Hubert say he would shoot him again."

HIT MAN WITH STONE

Mrs. Perry testified that after her husband had been shot, he fell to the ground. She ran into the house and called a neighbor to send for a doctor and police. When she went outside to the struggling men she picked up a stone and struck McEwen over the head with it, causing him to let go of Perry.

As McEwen arose, she said, he struck her husband.

Then McEwen walked toward Lynne Perry and Constable Frederick Shaw Bateman (Belleville-Ameliasburg township) returned and climbed into Perry's car, but when he could get it started, he walked east on the concession road toward the farm of Richard Hill.

Mr. Hill testified that he overheard McEwen say to George Cummings on the concession road when Cummings met the Perry farm: "Get the doctor; get the police. I shot Lynne." Hill also testified that McEwen had said "he didn't mean to do it and he didn't know why he did it."

McEwen told Cummings that Perry had hit him in the barn. Hill testified McEwen said then: "I didn't know it was loaded and cocked. When he (Perry) came at me again, I pulled the trigger."

Hill told the defence counsel, L. H. Pepper, on cross-examination that he saw two "scratches or patches of blood running down his face" from the cut on the head but no swelling or bruising visible.

George Cummings, a truck driver, who was picking up milk on the concession road when the shots were fired testified that as the accused was walking toward the car he heard McEwen "put up his arms and tried to stop me." When the milk truck stopped, Thompson asked him if Ewen say: "Get Ray Perry (the dead man's father). I shot Lynne."

Ray Perry, 65, testified: "There were arguments (periodically, between McEwen and Lynne Perry). Hubert would leave (the farm) for a while and come back, crying on his knees, for Lynne to take him back."

Mr. Perry said: "Several years ago, Hubert McEwen went after Lynne with a knife. Hubert was drunk and he was later picked up by the police. The record of that is in the court house."

Continuing, Mr. Perry said: "He never threatened to shoot my son, but he said, many times that he would burn him up."

Lynne Perry's wife earlier in the hearing told Crown Attorney Kenneth Ham: "He (McEwen) did say one time that he would burn the buildings, but Lynne always considered it an idle threat."

Mrs. Perry and her father-in-law described McEwen as having a quick temper, especially if things didn't go the way he wanted them to.

USUALLY FRIENDLY

The relationship between Lynne Perry and McEwen, they said, was usually one of friendship "as long as Hubert got his what he wanted."

Mrs. Perry told the court that McEwen owned a .22 rifle, which he kept in the hay mow in the barn. He stored the ammunition in his room.

The dead man's father said that after he arrived at his son's farm and knelt beside Lynne, "I glanced up and saw Hubert and Ewen peeking out of the cow stable doorway. I went after him. I hit him in the face, I think, the marks are still on my face. Then I took the rifle from him."

CLAIMED ACCIDENTAL

O.P.P. Constable Robert Graham testified that as he was driving along the concession road, approaching Lynne Perry's 250-acre farm, "McEwan waved me down, got in the cruiser with me and we went to the Perry farm. As McEwen got into the cruiser he said, 'It was accidental. I did not mean to shoot Lynne'."

When McEwen was searched at the provincial police office later, Constable Graham found a quantity of .22 calibre bullets in his left trouser pocket.

After being given a caution by Sergeant W. E. Smith, McEwen made a statement, and was later charged with wounding.

The Crown Attorney requested Magistrate Garvin to dismiss the wounding charge after McEwen had been ordered to stand trial for murder.

McEwen will stand trial in Napanee, possibly on September 9.

Dr. W. D. Hay, Kingston pathologist, said Perry died from complications caused by 6 percent passage of a bullet through the abdomen which lodged in his spinal column."

Stewart Warner Corporation Plans New Manufacturing Plant Here

Plans for the construction of a new manufacturing plant here, to be built in two stages and with a total area of 40,000 square feet, were announced Thursday by Arthur Young, president and general manager of the Stewart Warner Corporation of Canada Ltd.

The first unit of the new structure, containing approximately 27,000 square feet, is to be built this year, with completion scheduled for early December. The new one storey steel frame plant will be located at the corner of Pine street and MacDonald Avenue across Pine street and immediately to the north of the present plant.

Expanded production of certain of Stewart Warner lines has made the new plant necessary, and additional staff will be required when the new plant goes into operation.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

WHAT SHALL THE HARVEST BE?

Sowing the seed by the daylight fair,
Sowing the seed by the noonday glare,
Sowing the seed by the fading light,
Sowing the seed in the solemn night:
O, what shall the harvest be?
Sowing the seed by the wayside high,
Sowing the seed on the rocks to die,
Sowing the seed where the thorns will spoil,
Sowing the seed in the fertile soil:
O, what shall the harvest be?
Sowing the seed of a lingering pain,
Sowing the seed of a maddened brain,
Sowing the seed of a tarnished name,
Sowing the seed of eternal shame:
O, what shall the harvest be?
Sowing the seed of an aching heart,
Sowing the seed while the tear-drops start,
Sowing in hope till the reapers come
Gladly to gather the harvest home:
O, what shall the harvest be?

One night in the winter of 1876, while Dr. Dwight L. Moody and Ira Sankey were holding an evangelistic meeting in Chicago, a rough-looking fellow stumbled into the revival hall in the very middle of the service and found a seat in a crowded balcony.

He had scarcely settled himself when he seemed to realize his intrusion and arose to leave. Then, he sat down again, held by the spell of Ira Sankey's singing. It was Emily Oakey's popular gospel song, "What Shall The Harvest Be?", that the evangelist was singing and, even in his drunken stupor, the man in the balcony was touched and sobered by it message.

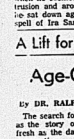
Two weeks later he returned to the meeting hall and told the evangelist he had decided to become a Christian. The words of the song he had heard at the earlier service, he said, had never left him. Wherever he went they kept singing through his memory, giving him no peace until he resolved to change his way of life.

Emily Oakey's song did more that night than lead a groping soul to the Christian fold. For the man who was converted was grateful for his transformation that he decided to devote his life to winning other non-Christians. Ultimately he became a preacher and for years was pastor of a large and influential church in Evanston, Illinois.

A Lift for Living

Age-Old Search for Security

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN



The search for security is as old as the story of Genesis and as fresh as the daily paper. And our generation is perhaps more security - conscious than any of its predecessors. Especially in our international situation the uncertainties of our complex economic life, the powerlessness of accidents in our high-powered age, all tend to intensify the search for security.

Yet the question arises, how secure should we be? In an absolutely safe world the great virtues of faith and courage would have nothing to live on, for these involve risk. If all our ancestors had played safe, each generation following the cut-and-dried plans of its forerunners, there would be no history worth recording, for the record of each century could be written in one word, "ditto" — which might be pleasant to school-boys in their studies, but would be mighty poor history to live.

When men think only of being safe, they stifle the urges of adventure and advance. Yet where is the point at which security ceases to be a blessing and stimulus and becomes a sedative and curse?

In the 21st chapter of Proverbs is this brief word, "safety is of the Lord." What safety does the Lord want us to have, and what security does He help us to get?

The first answer which I suggest is that the Lord would have us be secure enough to be calm. The safety which is of the Lord begins in an inner core of calmness.

It has been well said that most of the trouble in the world has been caused by people who were having trouble with themselves, and so a person is at odds with himself, he is quite likely to be at cross purposes with those around him.

With persons or nations, the first place to start in the search for security is within. Allan Hunter tells of a friend who awakened a small lemur when a dog came into the room. The little monkey like creature was so terribly frightened that its long tail became violently agitated. But only for a moment.

The tail had to be brought under control. Otherwise the little animal's energy would have been consumed in wagging its unruly rail. Apparently sensing this, the lemur grabbed its tail and held it firmly in its paws until the terrifying experience could be assimilated.

We human beings, I think, can see the parable if not the parallel. When we confront a danger, we so often start wagging our tongues or shaking our knees or restlessly rushing about until, flustered and frightened, we lose control of ourselves, and that increases the danger.

Hence the first prescription for adequate security is to attain calmness within. Hear the Psalmist saying "The heathen raged, the kingdoms were moved. Be still and know that I am God."

Second, may I suggest that God would have us be secure enough to be courageous. A certain amount of security is essential to the cultivation of courage. When a person feels insecure, he may do daring and reckless things, but he lacks the fortitude which can stand up to life.

To be at our bravest we need the security which comes from trustworthy home ties, from the fidelity of fortifying friendships, from the stable laws of a strong government, from confidence in the God who is operating amid are underneath us.

Third, I believe God would have us be secure enough to be creative. A certain degree of security is necessary in order to release and release the creative powers of a person. Consider the shy little girl who hides her face behind her mother's dress when a stranger is being greeted on the street. But in the home, surrounded by understanding and appreciative parents, she lives under the shadow of impoverished old age. She cannot give her best to her work. Old is the saying that necessity is the mother of invention, but sordid poverty is not the soil from which come our greatest advances in business and our noblest inspirations of life.

A friend of mine is retiring from a recognized position of religious leadership. He was born in Australia of humble parents. His father could hardly read and write, but his mother encouraged him in his studies. She gave him the confidence that he could be somebody worthwhile. She prayed the garden wherein the tender sprouts of his childhood grew strong enough to be transplanted to America. Here he grew and developed with self-confidence that gave him assurance and enough dependence on God to keep him humble.

Oddly, our pipit, sparrow size, belongs to the lark or nonsopper group, and as it walks it nods. Though quite sparrowlike in general appearance and colouring, it has long legs and a slender, pointed bill. The habit of moving its tail up and down when otherwise resting is an aid in recognition. However, one fact must not be overlooked. The pipit breeds in our northern tundras, so is not here in July.

Probably the slatecoloured junco and the vesper sparrow, both around 6 inches long, are the white shafted birds most easily confused. They spend the entire summer with us, and now we might catch sight of a brownish young junco. These two may be told from the pipit at once — lighter, dry fields near country roads, though the junco is more definite-ly a bird of our coniferous forests.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Founder of the Dominican Order

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER.

Sunday, August 4 — Today the Roman Catholic church remembers one of its favorite sons, St. Dominic, who founded the monastic order of preachers popularly called the Dominicans.

The great work of Dominic's life came about almost by accident. He was born in Spain the first part of the 13th century, a time when a strange idea known as the Albigensian heresy was luring many people away from the orthodox church. The heretics held the notion that everything material is evil, which, of course, meant the body is evil.

And if the body is evil, then the incarnation of Jesus in human flesh becomes a repugnant thing and so does the sacrament of the Body and Blood of Christ. Such doctrine undermines the very foundations of the Christian faith.

Dominic, on a trip with his bishop, happened to lodge one night in the home of a man who was steeped in the Albigensian belief, and after sitting up all night arguing with his host fruitlessly, Billy he saw that his work was cut out for him. He must devote his life to the conversion of the Albigenses back to orthodoxy.

At first the Pope assigned Dominic to work with the Cistercian monks in combatting the heresy, but it was not long before Dominic was thinking about organizing his own group, under his own rule.

The Pope, so legend tells, did not want any more monastic orders in the church, and was on the point of vetoing the new organization, when he had a dream in which he saw Dominic supporting with his shoulders the Church of St. John's Lateran, the central church of Roman Catholicism. Over the strength of the dream, permission for the new group was granted, and the result was the Dominican Order, a new kind of monasticism at the time.

Where other orders had separated themselves from the secular world and lived lives of contemplation and meditation, the Dominicans were active in the world. These preaching friars did not remove themselves from the routine of life — instead they spent their time on the very battlefront itself, fighting for the purity of orthodox doctrine and protecting the people from the insidious evil heresy that would have taken the heart out of the Christian faith.

Tuesday, August 6 — The ninth day of the month of Ab is, for Jews, the "Black Fast," the saddest day of the year, for on it they memorates the two occasions' — 656 years apart — when their beloved Temple was destroyed. It is called 'Tisha b'Ab, which means the ninth of Ab.

Even before the destruction of the Temple this particular day was "a day set for misfortunes." According to a story in the Talmud (the main body of Jewish lit-

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

WHITE SHAFTS

Disappearing white shafts are possibly interesting. These white feathers on either side of a bird's tail are grand for assisting in identification. "But when we get only a back view, how can we tell to which of the white shafted birds this individual belongs? It is well to have a few facts locked away in our memories. Locality, date of observation, size and general appearance of the bird in question, and any odd characteristics all help in determining the species.

As the name hints, a meadow lark prefers grassy fields peppered with small weeds; so here is where we might expect to see the white outer tail feathers disappearing at our approach. This bird enters Canada just as the snow is melting and leaves about the end of October. Therefore July is a possible month in which to see a meadowlark. It is a chunkier bird than a robin and spends much time on the ground, where it walks, constantly jerking open its short, broad tail. Strangely enough, though nonsopping birds are much in the minority, several of these with white sides to their tails come into the class of walkers. The meadowlark flies low over its field, often sailing on outstretched, downward bent wings.

HORNED LARK

The horned lark comes to us even earlier than the meadowlark and does not leave until almost the close of the year, feeding in open country, it invariably chooses for an evening spot some locality where there is a little bare earth. Slightly larger than the biggest of our northern birds, the horned lark is coloured similarly to them, but its head, definitely divided into light and dark areas, carries hornlike feather tufts. It is another walker.

ACTION ON POLLUTION

A. M. Snider, chairman of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, announced Wednesday that the Commission plans to take further court action, if necessary, to correct stream pollution all over Ontario. His remarks followed the Commission's first prosecution under the Water Resources Commission Act, against a tannery at Acton, Ontario.

When one feels like standing up and cheering at an announcement that the law of the land will be enforced, it is striking proof of the manner in which dangerous pollution of our waters has been ignored.

Placing the responsibility for enforcement of anti-pollution regulations in the hands of such a body as the Water Resources Commission was obviously the only method likely to achieve worthwhile results.

Pollution from industry past, when tackled at the local level, have too often brought the reply that the elimination of pollution would involve heavy expenditure for a local industry, with the possibility that it would not be able to continue to meet the competition of other firms not plagued by busybodies. No local body would dare risk the inevitable unpopularity which would result if such a plea proved to be in accord with the facts, forcing an industry to close, or if a firm moved to another locality to avoid the cost of treating the waste products from its operations.

Action on a provincial level, though, will avoid these pitfalls. It is to be hoped that Mr. Snider, when he referred to action "all over Ontario," meant just that, and that the Commission's activities will not be concentrated in those areas where stream pollution is most serious, but will embrace similar industries wherever they are situated. In this manner no industry can be placed in an unfair position with respect to its competitors.

While we cheer Mr. Snider and the Water Resources Commission, though, we might reflect on the fact that few of us are in a better position than the convicted Acton firm. The amount of waste we have individually release to pollute waters may not be as high as those from the tannery, but in the aggregate the waste from the homes of any sizeable community exceeds that from most industries. As long as the citizens of a community have not arranged collectively to treat the wastes from their homes through a sewage disposal plant, they are in no position to look askance at industries convicted under the act.

OCTANE AND COMPRESSION

Canadians who want to drive the more powerful cars of the future must be prepared to pay more for higher octane gasolines," says the August issue of the Imperial Oil Review.

Today's cars, says the Review, would knock "like old jalopies" if run on 1947 gasoline. At present octane levels, every fresh increase in compression calls for a futher 1½ point increase in the octane number of gasoline used. The most modern equipment for increasing the quality of gasoline actually reduces yield, and the greater the quality increases the lower the yield.

It has been said that the rise in compression ratios has been in response to public demand and that the public can still buy low-compression cars if it wishes," says the Imperial Oil Review article. "To this, oil company officials add that those who do prefer the high-compression cars must be prepared to pay for the high-octane gasoline their engines demand."

That is as far as the article as we would like to add a question. Can those who still buy low-compression cars also still buy low-octane gasoline? The Imperial Oil Review's article appears to throw some doubt on this, for it says that the average octane rating of regular gasoline sold in Canada today is four points higher than the average for premium gasolines in 1947. Does it not follow that those who do buy low-compression cars have to pay more for a gasoline with a higher octane rating than their cars require?

KING'S HIGHWAY?

Highway Minister Allan has written the Kitchener-Waterloo Record, informing that newspaper that the designation "the king's highway" will be restored to route markings on all provincial highways.

A Highways Department official is reported as saying that the phrase had been taken off signs recently during maintenance work, because the lettering was small and the Department felt the important thing was the highway number. - Mr. Allan states that "the public of Ontario have made it abundantly clear they want the message put back.". Having done this, perhaps those who protested the designation's removal can provide Mr. Allan with a reasonable answer in case any person ever asks him what king it is the highway belongs to. The Queen is still our sovereign.

Nicaragua's Past Studded With Strife, Floods, Quakes

New York Times

The Republic of Nicaragua counts more than its share of drama on the pages of history.

Contrasted with the beauty of Nicaragua's scenery and the friendliness of its people are four centuries of violent brushes with disaster: invasion, conquest, domestic and external strife, earthquakes, floods, and volcanic eruptions. The modern capital Managua, was especially built to withstand earth tremors and fire.

A Managua park preserves some of the most provocative archaeological sites in the western hemisphere, the National Geographic Society says. Early Americans, apparently fleeing volcanic fury, have thousands of years ago, left their footprints in the flow that hardened to stone.

Nicaragua—with a land area of 57,143 square miles, roughly the size of Michigan—is the largest of the six Central American republics. Most of its 1,225,000 inhabitants live in the warm, fertile plain that is dominated by blue-coned volcanoes and two huge lakes.

Colony of the Spanish San Juan River outlet to the Caribbean, it offers the most convenient, west transport route since the days of the Spanish conquest. Both Panama and Nicaragua as the site of a trans-isthmian canal. Nicaragua was the disappointed competitor.

GOLD AND COFFEE

Gold was the forty-niners bound for the California gold fields, crossed Nicaragua. They found gold, but not in quantity, nor had the gold-hungry conquistadors found much of the precious metal there. But today, ironically gold ranks with Nicaragua's leading exports, second as a leading export. Most of it goes by air to the United States and Canada.

The republic also exports sesame seed, mahogany, cedar, and rosewood. Nearly three-fourths of its working force lives off the land.

Nicaragua does much of its export-import business with the United States. Baseball is the favorite sport. Managua's main street was renamed Avenue Roosevelt in 1942 to honor President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Christoper Columbus discovered the country in 1502 on his fourth voyage to the New World. Two decades later, the first Spanish expedition called upon a powerful Indian tribe ruled by Nicarao, believed to have been the source of the Republic's name. History relates that the Spaniards' bristling beards so terrified the Indians that all but a handful soldiers were ordered to grow them and those who could not were given false ones.

CITIES FOUNDED

After a visitation, a colonizing force under Francisco Fernandez de Cordoba founded the cities of Leon and Granada. There he established rule for their colonial charm. The republic's monetary unit, the cordoba, is named for Cordovas, officially valued at 14.3 cents, honors his name. Most present-day Nicaraguans stem from Spanish or Spanish-Indian ancestry.

The early period was marked by warring Spanish factions, the Mosquito Indians and the colonials, by pirate attacks on treasure ships, by the long struggle between Spain and England for mastery of the Caribbean.

On gaining freedom from Spain in 1821, Nicaragua joined the short-lived Mexican Empire, then the equally ill-fated federation of Central American republics. When strife dissolved the latter union, Nicaragua declared itself independent in 1838.

Br'er Rabbit in Africa

By Holman Jameson in Unesco Features

The crocodile may be worshipped, the boa dreaded, the elephant respected, but in African life and legend none of them ever earned the popularity of Br'er Rabbit.

Br'er Rabbit as the epithet explains, is essentially of the Brother, the Elder, the Elder Brother, hence the one who knows all about the animals with whom he shares the bluggie human bit by fax in size and strength, and are by no means devoid of craft and cunning. The lioness unable to cope with the speed of her prey always is behind a bush or a grove. The leopard climbs on to a high branch to pounce upon his victims. The boa coils his massive length round the boughs of trees to watch and take his own choice of man or beast. He vomits huge masses of saliva around his victims to slide, trip and sling; then he seizes and strangles his prey on the ground.

How is it then that in the face of such high records of craftiness the rabbit still reigns supreme in the folk-lore of African folklore? The reason is not hard to find. The cunning and ruse of the majority of animals are spent in attacking and destroying others. Most of the rabbit's, on the contrary, is used to thwart these selfish and aggressive ends, in safeguard life itself.

A single case chosen among a host of other will illustrate this point. The Leopard once pretended to be dead in all the beasts of the forest gathered round in order to eat him. They soon noticed, however, that Br'er Rabbit was not among them and they became uneasy as it was as though the absence of Br'er Rabbit foreshed an absence of security. There was a flurry of relief when they saw him scurry towards them across a distant glade. All was well again and the animals began to mourn and to weep.

But instantly, Br'er Rabbit's ears flicked and drew Br'er's attention; then his nose began to quiver, and he turned to the right and to the left, to the right again and again to the left, then still quivering: "When did the Leopard die?" he asked, looking at no one, looking nowhere. The mourners slopped their weeping but 60 one answered.

"Who saw him die?" said Br'er Rabbit, and still no one answered.

"Who closed his eyes?" and Br'er Rabbit, still quivering, peering slyly at them.

Then someone spoke up, timidly from the rear: "Maybe he closed them himself before he died."

"If the Leopard were dead he would certainly close his eyes more firmly than that," said Br'er Rabbit. And the unwary leopard narrowed his squint a little more.

"If the Leopard were really dead he would surely raise a forelog", continued Br'er Rabbit. And the unsuspecting leopard stupidly stuck a foreleg into the air, and the animals rose in fright and backed a little.

"If the Leopard were really dead he would certainly wag his tail six times", Br'er Rabbit insisted. And the tail was now principled leopard gave five wags. But the little cry of Br'er. He is just 'Monkey'. True, Br'er Rabbit's ears rarely involves aggression and violence, but it is a subtle and individualistic and is often used for sheer mischief. The Monkey gets his fun by fooling others, whatever the cost to the victim. Br'er Rabbit, conversely, is mischief-maker, more impish than Shakespeare's Puck. And as for his cunning, there is an African proverb which says: "Softly, softly catches the Monkey" implying, that for all his wisdom, Br'er rarely gets caught—with patience and effort. Not so Br'er Rabbit.

The popularity of the rabbit in African legend has followed the Africans to America, and today Br'er Rabbit has his place in American folklore, in the famous Uncle Remus stories of Joel Chandler Harris.

Inflation

Hamilton Spectator

Finance Minister Fleming has foretold, with a candor rare in such matters, some of the reliefs he intends to introduce in his fall budget, but he will have to use considerable ingenuity to avoid inflation when he cuts the fiscal cloth. Not that inflation is unpopular, on the contrary there is evidence that the public expects it. The fact is the dollar, if not with equanimity, then with scattered and convenient political protest. Mr. Fleming described inflation as a "thief and a fraud." His measures will have to be correspondingly cunning to outwit it.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE KEY IS THERE

Legend says that on one occasion General Robert E. Lee came suddenly upon one of his officers gazing at himself in the mirror with obvious pleasure and admiration. "Sir," said Lee, "the happiest man in the world," Lee said.

"Why do you say that, sir?" the officer asked.

"Because you are in love with yourself, and have no rival in your affection," Lee replied.

Whether or not the story is true, it reflects the truth. The surest way to lose the love of others is to devote all our love to ourself. And the surest way to self-fulfillment is to forget ourself in the service of others.

Love for others is the one key to human happiness that is within the reach of all. It does not depend upon riches, nor education, nor power, nor social position. It lies within the grasp of anyone who, in the midst of others, will hold out to them the hand of love and fellowship.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 3rd., 1937

Mrs. Harold Bawden is spending her vacation with her aunt, in Detroit, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams of this city spent the holiday weekend with Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bryson at their summer home at Big Cedar Point, Lake Simcoe.

Miss Dorothy Carr, Chatham Street, is spending her vacation in Muskoka.

Mr. and Mrs. William Riggs of Windsor, Ontario, are visiting in his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Riggs, West Bridge St.

Mrs. R. Carruthers has returned home from St. Catharines where she was the guest of Mrs. M. J. Clarke.

The Rev. A. E. Mottershon, a former pastor at the Tabernacle here and for the past six years at the United Church at North Battleford, Sask., assumed his duties as pastor of Trinity United Church in Port Arthur, on Sunday last.

30 YEARS AGO

August 3rd., 1927

Mrs. L. C. Patrick, is visiting her parents in Peterborough.

Mrs. George A. Rennie is visiting friends in Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. W. H. Doran and Miss Stella M. Ford are visiting relatives in Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Harry C. MacKay has left to spend his vacation in Toronto and Rochester, N.Y.

Miss Annie Coulter has returned home after spending her vacation in Toronto and at Jackson's Point.

Mr. John B. Scott has returned home after spending a few days in Kingston.

40 YEARS AGO

August 3rd., 1917

Mr. Glen Thompson has returned home from Wellington where he has been employed.

Mr. Herbert Senoid of the staff at the Oak Hall Clothing store, has left on a two weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John McIntosh and family of this city are camping at Cottage Covy, Moira Lake.

Marsh and Hotchken are advertising for bakers, pastrydandy men and laborers.

The death of George H. Pope at Winnipeg leaves only two members living of the Belleville Rifles who left in 1885, namely Mr. David Price, now city treasurer, and Mr. James St. Charles. The 1877 Council was the last council of Belleville with a ward; it then became a city. (Note 1957). Mr. George Pope was a prominent resident here for many years. He resided on Commercial St., now Highland Avenue. The fine house, which he built and occupied, is now owned by the Women's Christian Association and is a home for ladies. The late John Elliott, banker, also occupied the house for some years.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The Day You Pass The Peak

It may be any between thirty and fifty-five.

Some persons reach the peak before thirty—physically, that is. I believe I'm competent to discuss the physical, physiological or health aspect of this question.

I leave the mental, moral and spiritual aspects of human growth and development to other teachers—Doctors of Divinity, Doctors of Philosophy. Doctors of Laws—who are better qualified to discuss these aspects.

Some women are at their peak of loveliness, capacity to conceive and bear children and nurture and raise them at from 22 to 35 years of age. Others reach such perfection at from 30 to 33 years of age. Physically, I say. The other doctors say more.

Men attain their highest intellectual and spiritual development in their forties.

All of us like to think that when we attain the peak we can stay up there for twenty of thirty years—if we take care of our health. It is not just my idea but the opinion of some top drawer nutrition and health authorities that we could stay up there for 20 or 30 years if we knew how to take care of our nutrition.

I'm thinking now of one of my bowling cronies. The man is 67 years old, hard for even the bowlers to beat, never seems to tire and has all but one of his own teeth. Such natural equipment in itself indicates that he knows how to take care of his nutrition. For many years now he has eaten a good daily ration of vitamins and minerals. Of course the man had his fine teeth before he began eating vitamins and minerals, but he tells me, and I believe him, that this keeps him on his toes.

Adults who want to cocktails, highballs, tranquillizers, barbiturates to keep going, begin to decline before they reach forty. After all, one in good nutritional condition enjoys good health and doesn't need or want stimulants, such as drugs, narcotics, stimulants or hypnotics.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A visitor in my summer cabin was astonished at the profusion of wild roses in the tangle along my fence. "Why," he said, "thousands of blooms of this loveliest of wild flowers, in a kind of billow of pink and feathery green."

"Up at my place," he said, regretfully, "there are a few scattered wild roses, but I'm not noticing them, and that there are hardly any blooms to be found."

On the verandah with us was an amateur botanist who probably knows every plant you can see with your eyes on in the Canadian wilds.

"Conditions that made this a good year for these roses right here," he said, "certainly could not duplicated even twenty miles from here. We forget that rain is merely days but whole seasons are different not only in provinces, or in counties, but even in townships. You may not see this profusion of roses right here in another twenty years. Maybe not ever again.

"It is all luck, in life. Given all the perfect factors — so much rain, so much sun, so much warmth, so much cold, so much frosts or weather move in from the north and west without really coming off Toronto pavements; when the day starts with a calculation whether the mercury is going to 90 or more, or only 80 or so.

It's hammock time in Ontario. This is really the best time of all in the Hammock land, that is the country lying north of the Great Lakes, the country that covers the lush farm lands of Western and Southern Ontario. The country where the cool lands of Muskoka, the Kawartha, the Haliburton and the Algonquin regions invite the tourists, whether they come from Toronto, Rochester, Detroit or the favored regions of the south.

It's a time to relax in a hammock. The black bass lie deep in the pools. Ontario's rivers and streams are at their best in the dim depths of Lake Simcoe, Couchiching, Rice Lake and The Kawartha Lakes. The ubiquitous outboard motor's hum is heard across the shimmering waters of Lake of Bays and the water skier flashes past in a cloud of cool mist. In the evening the slow smoke of the outdoor grill drifts skyward and the smell of food on the hot night air. This is outdoor time in Ontario and no land has more to offer than this province. The forest and rocks regions of Ontario are more extensive than any region of the world. We are lucky to live within easy distance of the best vacation land of all.

Speaking of food, vacation time is the traditional time to catch and cook bass and trout and other Ontario fish. It opens the door to food that one usually does not taste while staying at home during the rest of the year. Small fry may think of vacation as a time for hot dogs and ice cream cones, but the adult knows that half the pleasure of a holiday is the delicious food that are cooked and served by others. Ontario vacation land is full of restaurants where the quality of food and service has been steadily improving in recent years.

The armored car that was sighted on Highway 401 with its door wide open the other day is a symbol of Ontario on vacation. It's hot. It's humid. It may get cool, and it will certainly get chilly again before September arrives. So the best thing to do is to throw wide the doors of life to the cool breezes, the inviting lake shore and the hot weather magic that make food and rest and fellowship.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

POWER OF PURPOSE

It is essential for each one of us to make a decision early in life as to what we intend to do with our life. There must be an aim, and purpose, and we must determine that it shall be determined to battle out life, patiently, faithfully and even heroically. That principle is part of the failure. We can only actually fail when we do not even fail in living our heart, and the power of purpose is gone.

We work in life we become servo-helpers on, serving no useful end. There is magic in all manner of work, a beautiful magic. The longer you pursue the line that you have selected, the more excellent and happy you are sure to become. Power is cumulative, and so is weakness. We grow to what we have.

Whatever we work at should stimulate happiness within us. Stevenson said that "a happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five-pound note. He or she is a radiating focus of goodwill; and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted." Happiness is always latent power. Happiness should become habitual. What a despondency of aches and pains, as well as broken resolutions, thwart no more, and no less. Here and there, in the wilds, there is colour, on occasions, a coming together of flowers, the perfect factors. It may occur only in an area a few square miles square, or twenty miles square, but the perfect factors are perfect, let us say, for roses. And the reverse for a hundred other plants.

"Nothing in nature gets a good year every year. Indeed, most things in nature get a good year only once in a while, sometimes in a long while. One scorching hot June day may mean the permanent life to one species, and crippling setback to many other species. Three days of rain in July may mean famine to one form of life here," he said, referring to life in the wild world, especially the plant world, for each form of life is equipped to struggle alone and survive the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune all on its own, but far from certain hope that fusion of roses will ever stay all come together. And then that form of life multiplies immensely.

Nature is like that the wide set can; and then digs in for another siege of adverse conditions."

We then went down and stood for awhile, in our tough canvas shoes, among the keen briars, and paid close homage to the wild roses in their year of fortune.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

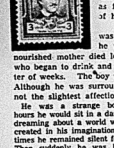
By R. J. SCOTT

The Face on the Stamp

The Poet of Mystery and Gloom

By Nicholas Mika

About one hundred and ten years ago died one of the most remarkable authors in American literature. He left us many precious books that will be read over and over again. As a writer of mystery stories he was the master of them all and remained unchallenged until today. He loved to indulge in mystery and gloom and as fascinating as his works was the story of his life.



He was born in Boston. His father was an actor, his mother an actress. When he was three years old his sickly, undernourished mother died leaving him to a poverty-stricken father who began to drink and literally starved to death within a matter of weeks. The boy was adopted by a rich tobacco merchant. Although he was surrounded with comfort and love he showed not the slightest affection for his foster-parents.

He was a strange boy. Forehours he would sit in a dark room dreaming about a world which he created in his imagination. Sometimes he remained silent for days. Then suddenly he was bubbling over with fantastic tales that nobody had ever told him. They were four times he ran away and when he was brought home again he explained that he had only followed a mysterious call which he often heard in his dreams.

MASTER OF MOODS

Blessed with a most striking imagination and the talent to compose tales of such originality he may be considered the father of our modern detective story. No one before or after him ever captivated the painful moods of the human soul with such perfection as he.

When his foster parents realized that he showed no gratitude toward them for his disinherited him and once again poverty was his lot. He was a brilliant student at the University of Virginia but was expelled for drinking and gambling. For two years he served in the army and as a promising young man he was admitted to West Point. Before too long he neglected his duties and was discharged. Poverty lead him into melancholy. He quarrelled with his few friends who soon forgot him.

Desperately, he sought his happiness in drinking. Some who knew him believed he was insane. But if your real is beautiful, immortal poems, you know that they must have been created by a genius. These masterpieces that he left behind belong to the greatest treasures in American literature. Yet when he tried to sell them to a publisher, he had to wait many years before they were accepted.

WORSHIPPED HIS WIFE

His marriage was not less original as he himself. He married his cousin, Virginia. Do you know how old she was? Thirteen years, only half his age. He worshipped the child-wife and loved her so devotedly that he gave up drinking. He even succeeded to become an editor of a magazine for a short time and was at last able to buy food and better clothes.

But his happiness lasted only a little while. Misfortune had not forgotten him. He lost his job. His wife became ill. Her last days were filled with tears and pain. She was lying on a straw mattress covered with a few rags. Sometimes they had nothing to eat for a couple of days and if it had not been for a kind neighbor they would have died of starvation. When his wife was buried, he sat for hours on her grave weeping like a child. In his misery he turned once more to alcohol and then to opium. He walked the streets with wide open eyes without seeing or hearing. It seems incredible that he could have written under these pitiful circumstances for nearly two more years.

Then his strength began to decline. He had moments when he knew that he was gradually becoming insane. Desperate, and alone, he was convinced that he was going to be murdered and he was afraid of every one. He was a haunted man, the poet of mystery and gloom, Edgar Allan Poe.

Edgar Allan Poe appeared on United States stamps in 1940.

Your Car

Take Spare Fan Belt on Trips

By EUGENE MILMOE

A faulty fan belt has often been the cause of a straining, over-heating engine. It's also the reason for many batters by slipping. The motorist is prepared to cope with such troubles — he packs a spare fan belt in the trunk before starting out on that long trip. Of course, it's also a smart idea to check the one you are now using.

Just by inspecting the belt, you can often gauge its efficiency. If it's too tight, soaked with cummy oil, frayed or battered by slipping, replace it.

Belt tension is satisfactory if there is approximately one-half inch slack. Often noise will signal incorrect tension. A constant squeak means the fan belt is too tight, while a squeak that's heard when the engine is accelerated generally indicates looseness.

C.C. writes: "On my 1954 sedan, a tramping noise comes from the rear axle. Both tires are new, the springs are O.K., the shock absorbers were inspected and so were the brakes. What's your theory?"

A: Your wheels are not balanced, then road-test the car. This is often the only treatment needed.

L.S. asks: "I can't seem to get rid of a rattle in my 1955 six engine. Practically all ignition parts were replaced and the spark plug was a machine-timed on two occasions. I have tried all standard brands of gasoline gas without losing the noise and vibration. Must I switch to premium?"

A1: Poor ignition timing and low octane fuel are not the only reasons for spark knock. If an engine runs too hot, or if the spark mixture is much too lean, knock is encouraged. On older engines, a carbon deposit on combustion, which raise compression pressures are often to blame.

From R.H.: "I have a 1954 four-door sedan which throws out a clear light blue smoke when the car goes down a hill. I had this same trouble when the car was new and they put in new rings. I am using one quart of oil each 1,000 miles, but I have been told this is normal usage for an engine with high mileage. On the level or hill climbing, the car runs wonderfully well. Hope you can help."

(A) I don't believe there's anything wrong here. The oil mileage you are getting leaves no room for complaint, and the smoking downhill is also a normal condition. It's due to increased vacuum which causes the piston to suck more oil from the crankcase.

H.Y. writes: "The engine possess and smoothness of my 1957 sedan is great, but the car itself doesn't ride too well — it too bouncy. Do you think I may keep too much air in the tires? The car ride is hard and stiff when the tires are overinflated. If the pressure is low, you will get a soft, bouncy effect. Ask your dealer to check the shock absorbers, too."

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT

Be extra careful when driving — be sure about your car.

Skelton Denies Tour Used For Publicity

LONDON (Reuters)—Comedian Red Skelton, angry at suggestions from home that his publicity-stricken son as a publicity gimmick, yesterday cut short his tour of England.

"Actors do not publicize on Earth," Skelton said. "And I don't believe my son is going to die."

His son, Richard, 9, has leukemia, a blood disease that is usually fatal. His parents are showing him many parts of the world so that he can see as much of life as possible.

Richard received a gracious welcome in Denmark, Italy, Spain and France. But some sectors of the British press have been hostile.

THREE-RING CIRCUS

Daily Sketch columnist Simon Ward complained Thursday that Richard is being involved in a "three-ring circus of publicity and hullabaloo." Ward said today that Skelton replied with a bunch of flowers for Richard and said "sorry that you are sick mentally and physically."

Ward said he sent the flowers to a hospital where they have sick children but "no publicity men, no press conferences, no TV cameras."

One critic on television called Skelton's sightseeing tour a "publicity jamboree."

Skelton said he will head for Scotland and Denmark and then home.

Hiroshima Will Be Featured in Series

TORONTO — August 6 of this year marks the 12th anniversary of the bomb that stopped a war. / The CBC Dominion radio network's Assignment program will be the first of four programs entitled "The Maidens of Hiroshima" on that date from 8.06 to 9.00 p.m.

The series, scheduled for Aug. 6, Aug. 13, Aug. 20 and Aug. 27, deals with the rehabilitation of a number of Japanese girls who suffered horrible mutilation when the world's first atomic bomb erupted over Hiroshima.

Thousands of persons were killed that day and thousands more maimed for life.

Assignment, visits Hiroshima 12 years after and the actual voices of some of "The Maidens of Hiroshima" will be heard.

A Man Must Understand His Wife When He Reaches Retirement Age

By THOMAS COLLINS

It is not enough that a man this desperation. Many of these has a pension when he retires. women are widows of fine gentle-Or a bank account. Or a road men now in cemeteries who didn' around 65. The pension will believe it either.
supply the daily needs . . . the insurance policies that will take care of things after that.

These are vital. But they aren't enough.

A woman also needs, at the time you retire:

JOINT RETIREMENT

1. A joint retirement with you. In your working years you must have had a partnership with the woman in your home. You have brought home the potatoes and she has boiled them. This partnership ended: retirement, and unless a new one starts based on the new leisure you drift apart and head for loneliness and boredom and loss of identity.

2. Being in the same house is not being together. But there are positive values if you will retire your woman when you retire from your business. Your woman has been home with her. You both are accustomed to companionship. Now comes a rare commodity after 65, and the two of you together have much long-awaited time to visit something rewarding to do than just family finances.

A LITTLE FREEDOM

2. A little freedom if joint retirement is impossible. Your woman has developed her own community life while you have been working. She has her own friends. Unless you can offer her your own retirement, you may find her more free than her life. She won't spoil what she has by complaining. And don't make her housework harder by always being under foot and interfering with the routine of her day.

3. Some practical information about money matters. Men have queer notions that only they can handle family finances, any new to teach their wives anything because yond governing the checks on the family budget. Many women in your life may have to take over the family finances tomorrow without knowing the difference between a stock and a bond, without knowing how many things about insurance payments, investments, and taxes that you have spent 40 years trying to learn. All statistics prove your wife will live longer than you.

4. A design for living after you're gone. One of the great tragedies of America is lonely, unwanted widows. Every fall the streets are filled with cars from California to Florida — if the insurance was big enough — and women from Chicago to Alabama if it wasn't. Many cry in their mourning loneliness. They don't know where to go. They don't know anything to do. Many of them live in fear of what will happen tomorrow. Many of them — ladies to the core — write this column asking if they might be introduced to respectable men who can give them companionship . . . and understandingly urging that should be told they wrote.

Of course you cannot believe your wife would ever be driven to

More Engineers Needed to Meet Red Competition

TORONTO (CP)—Russia this year will graduate more engin ers than the United States, Britain and Canada combined, Finance Minister Fleming said Fri day.

He said Canada's flow of grad uates is breaking records for this country but still is inadequate to meet the need created by the development of Canadian resources. Russia would graduate 60,000 this year, against 1,800 for Canada, 3,000 for Britain and 22,000 in the U.S.

Mr. Fleming spoke at the Ryerson Institute of Technology in presenting certificates to graduates of a summer course sponsored by the federal government for instructors in trades institutes.

Army Obtains More Recruits

OTTAWA (CP)—Army recruiting increased sharply in the last two weeks of July, apparently as a direct result of boosts in armed-forces pay.

More important to the army, the number of soldiers leaving the service dropped.

An average six-per-cent increase in armed-forces pay, retroactive to May 1, was announced in mid-July. There also was a 20-per-cent boost in trades pay.

An army spokesman said Friday that in the first two weeks of July there was a net loss of 88 men. In the second two weeks of July there was a net gain of 53.

The army spokesman said the number of inquiries about the army rose 20 per cent, the number of applications to enlist rose 14 per cent and number of enrolments rose 55 per cent in the last two weeks of July compared to the first two.

In the same period, the number of releases fell 15 per cent.

Let's face it. Everyone has heard about it but Canadian Tire's new Budget plan can help you if you are in this predicament. You can open a Budget Account for as little as $20, with terms for one, two, three or six months period on amounts up to $75. Or up to twenty-four months on larger amounts.

Have that Brake Job done now — Paint your house while the weather is good — Don't take chances on those unsafe tires — Anything and everything at Canadian Tire can be bought on Budget with no money down.

Average Driver Often Cause Of Fatalities

TORONTO (CP) — Highways Minister Allan says statistics show the so-called average driver is usually the one involved in fatal accidents.

In a release giving statistics of fatal accidents in Ontario during the six-month period October to March this year, the minister said Thursday that 500 of the 728 drivers involved in fatal accidents had no previous conviction for traffic offences.

"There is a misconception that fatal accidents usually involve wild, reckless or drunken driving; the accident repeaters or chronic violators of traffic laws or otherwise abnormal types," Mr. Allan said.

"The fact that some drivers keep free of accidents may be due to the alertness of other drivers or because their actions are not observed by the police. For these reasons, a clear record is not necessarily the sign of a good and skillful driver."

Garden Notes

Avoid Mid-Season Garden Slump

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

As summer progresses we notice that almost everything in the garden slows down to a crawl. We blame the heat but actually it is nutritional problem rather than a temperature problem. Leaching rains and the first big burst of growth has taken most of the available plant food out of the soil.

The whole garden needs a shot in the arm. Those long term vegetables have slowed their growth and become tough instead of tender, the roses struggle to produce a few buds and the annuals fail to live up to the description in the seed catalogue.

Giving the lawn and garden supplementary feedings to prevent these hunger signs is still a new idea with the novice gardener. It may look like too much work but the new instant water-soluble plant foods that have been perfected you can feed and water in one operation. Many types of water-soluable plant food applicators are available. Some syphon a concentrated plant food solution into the hose line. These are good for the lawn. Others in a variety of designs, consist of a metering or spraying nozzle for the water hose. These are good for flower and vegetable gardens. These plant food applicators vary widely in the concentration of the plant food applied. Concentration is not important; the actual amount applied to a given area is. For good results follow carefully the manufacturer's directions on the water soluable plant foods, which show the correct amount of food which should be applied to lawns and garden plants. For instance, for feeding lawns the maker of one kind of plant food recommends one pound of the plant food to 200 square feet of lawn every two weeks during the growing season. Whether this is applied through 25 gallons or 250 gallons of water makes no difference, although to take the best advantage of the feeding benefits the higher concentration is desirable. One plant food should not be applied in less than 25 gallons of water, however.

For flower beds and rose plantings, one-half pound of water soluble plant food is recommended for 800 square feet of bed, every two weeks, wetting the foliage thoroughly. For small areas two level tablespoons of the water soluble food may be dissolved and applied through a gallon jug sprayer attachment, such as is used for applying weed killer.

Leafy vegetables such as tomatoes, squash and cucumbers respond well to foliar feeding, but others such as corn should receive their supplementary feedings through the soil.

Many of the annuals and some perennials will be about due now for a pinch back. Delphiniums, coreopsis (tick seed) shasta daisy and others will present a new round of blooms if pinched back and given a mid-summer snack. If you are not using food in solution place a handful of balanced plant food around the plant and work it in lightly. Soak the soil thoroughly if the rain has been light and keep the soil around the plants loose. Nip out the growing tips of morning glories. This forces the growth of side shoots and profuses and snaps and don't forget to feed.

Weddings

GELHAUS — MURPHY

In the Sanctuary of the church of the Immaculate Conception, Colina, Ont., a double-ring wedding was recently solemized when Monica Theresa, daughter of Mrs. John P. Murphy, of Londesboro, Ontario, and the late Mr. Murphy, became the bride of Mr. Paul Gelhaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gelhaus, of Colina, Ont., the Rev. Louis Gelhaus C.P.P.S., brother of the bridegroom, officiated, and celebrated the Nuptial Mass.

The altar was adorned with lily-shaped arrangements of white gladioli and ferns, and white satin bows and fern designated the guest pews.

The men's choir sang Nuptial High Mass, and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," as the bride and bridegroom lighted a candle at the Blessed Virgin's altar.

Mrs. R. C. Vonder Linde presided at the organ. During the offertory of the Mass, Schubert's "Ave Maria" was sung by John Bowman, and at Communion Franck's "Panis Angelicus" sung by Clarence Cron.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Raymond Murphy of Belleville, wore a white rosepoint, lace gown, designed by Maurer. The basque bodice was accented with baby seed pearls and iridescent sequins and had a scalloped neckline and tiny buttons at the back extending to below the waistline. The very full rosepoint lace queen-length skirt with scalloped hemline, was cascaded over bridal satin and hoops. The shoulder length, French illusion veil fell from a rosepoint lace pleatau, studded with tiny seed pearls. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white starlight roses and baby's breath centred with a lavender orchid.

Mrs. Miss Milliner, of Celina, Ohio, sister of the bride, was matron-of honor, and Mrs. Carl Cook, sister, of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, and Janie Mac-Donald of Gordon, Ontario, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. All wore gowns of maize silk chiffon designed by Somal. The shirred bodices were re-embroidered with white beads, and had petal shaped panniers fell over the shoulders. The bouffant skirts were worn over hoops, and were in queen's-length.

All carried fan arrangements of white and dark blue delphinium florets accented with touches of white nylon-tulle, and wore matching floor-length veils of nylon net.

The junior bridesmaid carried a miniature bouquet identical to the bridal bouquet.

Dinner was served at The Inn on St. Mary's Lake, and a reception from two until five oclock at the Milliner home.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a navy ensemble with matching accessories, and corsage of pink sweetheart roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing brown with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For travelling, the bride chose a beige frock with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following the wedding trip through the U.S. the couple will reside in Dayton, Ohio.

"OUT of sight, out of mind" is a pretty good maxim to follow when, for instance, types of mischief are concerned, with children in the house. The magic of those small fire-making sticks is close to irresistible, and there's no point in putting temptation in the way of your young experimenters.

Former Newspaper Woman Finds Research Big Challenge

OTTAWA (CP)—A former newspaper woman who leafed through records covering more than 60 years of activities of the national council of women says she found the venture far from dull.

"In fact, I got a great kick out of it," Rosa Shaw, author of Proud Heritage, the NCW's first history, said in an interview.

Commissioned to pull together the council's scattered and sometimes scanty records, she found an adventure story among the council's year books and yellowed papers in the public archives here.

BUSY PIONEERS

"I really admire the energy and perseverance of the council's founders and early members," said Miss Shaw. She discovered all the individuals behind the council's achievements were go-getting women with agile minds, unhampered by old - fashioned inhibitions and enormous hats.

Research for Proud Heritage, just published by Ryerson Press, Toronto, took a year of part-time work. The author, for 14 years women's feature editor of the Montreal Gazette, now sells real estate and does free-lance writing in Ottawa.

The NCW was founded in 1893, but Confederation was less than 30 years old and exposed ankles were considered somewhat indecent.

But Miss Shaw found that the council's "hats, being usually unpotspoken, down-to - earth and wonderful women," led by the dynamic Lady Aberdeen, wife of the governor-general of that time.

With a handful of members, the NCW's early crusades were for protection of immigrant women and children, for health, housing, education and women's suffrage.

Council activities sparked the formation of the Victorian Order of Nurses, launched playground movement.

Instituted domestic science studies in schools and led to the formation of public health departments, to name a few achievements.

GREATLY EXPANDED

"I hope the history will help young women to realize the heritage they have in the National Council of Women," Miss Shaw said in the 325 pages illustrated work.

The group now has more than 200,000 women in 23 member-organizations working on local and national issues.

Its motto is the golden rule. Its history is essentially a lively story, sometimes spiced with the humor, personality and personalities of the women.

Miss Shaw, who edited consumer publications for the war prices and trade board, said she never tackled an assignment more fun than Proud Heritage before. Now she would like to do another historical review.

Walter Herbert, director of the Canada Foundation, said the book is "timely and worthwhile."

Miss Shaw has given life and vitality to an institution."

This - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

It was the pleasure of your reporter to interview Mr. Armstrong who is our province's chief representative in the United Kingdom. Last year a friend of ours who was on a half-way round the world flying trip with the R.C.A.F. told us how friendly and helpful Mr. Armstrong was in London, England. Our delightful visit with the distinguished Canadian during his rushed survey of eastern Ontario was more than a confirmation of our friend's report.

Mr. Armstrong was on a survey trip assessing development prospects. He told us that he believed was in the centre of a trend of new development extending east from Toronto. He envisions a mighty growth in this part of Ontario. Synonomous with growth and development goes the name "St. Lawrence Seaway."

Our visitor did not make any comment but on its own T and T appeals what it has mentioned previously, will Belleville be passed by because we have no deep channel to permit the larger ships to dock here? Mr. Armstrong is probably not aware that the bottleneck so he cannot be blamed but his enthusiasm for eastern Ontario development brought this reality vividly to mind again.

Every business is affected because of the things she buys so it is not the manufacturing business and politics. It could even affect "Shopping News" in Wednesday's T and T column. Funny or tragic? No one seems particularly concerned. Will it be too little too late?

We start our holidays today so your indulgence is asked for. For our weekend thought we go back two weeks to suggest that for the next three weeks T and T hopes to "keep things light" as in a bowl of summertime."

If your concern becomes dilatory in gathering from here to there in search of this and that, will you forgive us? We expect to be slightly garbled, or at least, more garbled than usual.

In a metropolitan paper we read recently a column written by Albert Schweitzer. The writer had been a visitor at Lambarene after meeting on Dr. Schweitzer; gracious hospitality and personality, he described as a memorable at the volume of criticism being leveled at the Doctor's attitude towards the natives, the sanitation skidderds at Lambarene etc. etc. etc. Three weeks ago T and T was hostess for a weekend to a young man from France who is going for four months under Albert Schweitzer at Lambarene and a visitor as at as possible over a period of two and three years.

Our heart is all deeply influenced by, and profoundly devoted to, the benefactor and friend. He referred to the Doctor's friendship for the natives. His log and life is not with revolver and rifle, plays the guitar, helps her mother to raise German shepherd dogs and does sketches. "Horses, of course," she smiled.

Jersey is again the big fabric favorite and is available in various weights, weaves, patterns, solids and prints, so that there is a wool jersey for every occasion. This pretty two-piece dress — top frock uses light weight jersey for the diagonally tucked top and tightly fitted gauze jersey for the gathered skirt. Pretty in deep putty beige with a black satin sash garnished with a jeweled pin. A delightfully young date dress.

DIVISION WITHDRAWING

WASHINGTON (AP) — Withdrawal of the last American division from Japan now is under way. The U.S. defence department announced Thursday the departure from Japan of the 1st Calvary Division. This was one of the first major units to arrive on the original army of occupation nearly 12 years ago, and is the last faithfully that no polemic is required.

As far as the hospital is concerned, our friend pointed out that lampreol is impossible because a man, in the beginning with his wife as helper, built with his own labor, his own courage, his own moral and spiritual and physical strength a refuge out of the equatorial jungle. And, too, our friend also told us that it must not be forgotten that for decades the only financing to speak of that Lambarene received was through the writing, the lectures, the music that came out of the mind and heart of Albert Schweitzer.

Also our friend advised us that Dr. Schweitzer does not argue about what he has done. His life and work is the answer to his example and his convictions are to be found in his books and his writings in that music. We thought you might be interested to hear what one, who knows Lambarene and its Doctor well, thinks. We are not creating an argument. Albert Schweitzer is the good Doctor of Lambarene

Working Cowgirl Enjoys Work On Ranch and as Rodeo Hazer

CALGARY (CP)—Viola Thomas, came a regular cowpuncher after leaving school.

She breaks and trains horses, herds them in jumping and other classes at horse shows, and also is a rodeo hazer. Bronc - busting is also a specialty.

Viola has ridden in rodeo events at Calgary and the dos ends the infield work, but this summer she's first time as a hazer at the Calgary Stampede.

She has two horses, Dusty and Smokey — one for the hazer and one for the contestant. She has trained them herself, and cow boys who don't own their own trained horse rent one on a basis of a percentage of the purse. This is how Viola makes money.

Apart from the rodeo jobs, she counts on her horses for a living all year round. She now has 54 head, including brood mares, colts, show horses and jumpers and hunters.

Miss Thomas has other accomplishments too. She is an excellent shot with revolver and rifle, plays the guitar, helps her mother to raise German shepherd dogs and does sketches. "Horses, of course," she smiled.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

IVANHOE — St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid met on a recent afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Wallace, with the children of the church as guests.

The president, Mrs. Harold Thompson, presided and gave the call to worship, "A Prayer for Today."

"Tell Me the Stories of Jesus" was sung and Mrs. H. Thompson led in prayer.

The children of the church each recited a Bible verse.

A story, "Jesus Loves the Little Children," was read by Mrs. John McIlroy and a song entitled "Jesus Friend of the Little Children" was given by C.O.C. group.

The offering was presented by Garry Thompson followed by offertory prayer and a poem, "All Children," was read by Mrs. David Fargey.

Mrs. Milton Shaw, leader of C.O.C. told something of the work and study of this new group.

The guest speaker, Miss Doris Donnan, a graduate of Marion Bible College, Indiana, gave an interesting and humorous missionary address. Miss Donnan will commence a nurse's training in the fall.

Mrs. William Donnan, on behalf of the W.M.S. members, expressed thanks to Ruth, and Nancy for their assistance with a small gift.

The meeting was closed by singing "Mothers of Salem," and prayer by Mrs. John Wallace.

MADOC-ELDORADO M.S.

ELDORADO — The Madoc and Eldorado Missionary Society held its August meeting in the Standard Church, Eldorado, with 21 present.

The president, Mr. Post, opened the meeting with a song service, "Saviour More Than Life to Me," "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross" and "Beulah Land."

Mr. Milford Stevenson read the Scripture, taken from Mark 5, followed by the president who gave a short talk on "Divine Healing." Mrs. W. Howard gave a reading entitled "The Cost of Eight Converts."

Offering amounted to $11.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gawley sang a beautiful number, entitled "Meet Me Over There, Jesus" with Mrs. Phillips as pianist; a reading by Mrs. Elgin Post, "Our Neighbor."

Mr. Lough favored with a hymn on the mouth organ, "If You Know the Lord."

The Rev. Harold Stobbard, assisted by Mrs. Stobbard, gave during as the basis of his message, "Jesus I Would Follow Some," bringing out the point of the possibility of being true to the ministery in our homes, and not being true to the home missionary. Also a wonderful message which was inspiring and helpful to all.

Mr. Shabolt closed with prayer.

HERRING TO RUSSIA

LONDON (CP) — The United Kingdom herring industry board says terms have been agreed to for the export of 30,000 barrels of hand-cured herring to be supplied to the Russian state purchasing organization.

English-Speaking Tourists May Find Quebec Signs Confusing

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

"What'd I do?" asked the obviously frightened French Canadian tourist as he pulled up to the toll-gate of the turnpike. The collector looked at him blankly.

"Your sign up there — it says 'Stop — Get Ticket.' What'd I do?"

The collector smiled. "Nothing I know of," he said. "That means to stop and get your toll card. Here," he added, handing it to him.

The sign taught the bewildered traveller a lesson in semantics. Instead of meaning "Stop — you are going to get a summons," it meant "Better stop or you'll really get one."

To a Frenchman this might be a sort of Fractured English, presenting a problem not unlike that of the Fractured French the English-speaking tourist encounters when setting visiting the province of Quebec.

CHARTER CHALLENGE

Patois is much more fun, however. Though road signs are bilingual in the province, fracturing the French for yourself offers a greater challenge than reading the English version.

For instance, "Gardez la Droite" translates into polite words of protecting the constitutional rights of man in your car. Unfortunately, for sign fighting words, it means only "keep to the right." "Gardez la Gauche" is more apt, and meant "Be the opposite — be gauche and "keep to the left."

Highway commands have a supremely commanding sound in French. "Ne Stationnez pas" (do not station yourself), "Stationnement Interdit" (stationing interdicted, or forbidden), or "Defense de Stationner" (defend from stationing) all mean "no parking" fair. With typical French abandon, nobody pays any attention to these signs, especially in Montreal, where there is no place to part except in the no-parking zones.

"Arretez" — arrest yourself — on stop signs seems to be the way of getting even for "Stop — Get Tickes" and probably scares an occasional tourist into looking around for the cop with the handcuffs.

Some terms are disappointing. The delightfully intriguing sound of "Oeil de Sac", translated, refers to little a first novel, means nothing more delightful than "dead end." and "Pont Etroit," one of the first signs motorists see after crossing the border, is only the name of a quaint village but merely the warning for a narrow bridge.

"Hommes au travail" is no more dramatic than "men at work." "Defense de Fumer" is derived from fuming — means only "no smoking."

The Quebecois himself is admirably enterprising in his campaign for a share of the tourist's dollar. Understanding, if not quite appreciating, the American passion for steak, he has named more roadside restaurants "American Steak House" than anything else. Not all of them have steak on the menu, but at least it brings the customer in to sample the French menu.

Except for "patates frites" — fried potatoes, which the French don't call French fried — most dishes sound much more appetizing in French. "Entrecote," "poulet roti," "hamboc" make steak, roast chicken, and ham sound much more interesting your first time in a French restaurant, even if you're jaded with American food.

"Cabines" in neon looks more than more inviting than the converted "Motel," and any place called "L'Auberge des Quatre Chemins" offers to find themselves determinedly asking directions to "rue de la Montagne" instead of prosaic "Mountain Street."

Who ever heard of a Cafe de la Paix or Auberge de la Salle being situated on a Mountain Street, anyway?

For an appetizer, all-crushed ice cubes around the large stuffed olives and bowl of tangy pimento and serve last.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By GEATRICE FAIRFAX

"HOT CAKE" TECHNIQUE NO GOOD

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

What do you think of a fellow who would go out with two girls at the same time and give each a hot cake. Don't you think this is the way to treat such a hypocrite?

—Peggy L.

Dear Peggy:

Well, no; I don't think I'd make such a production of it by using the "hot cake" technique.

In the first place, to do that might give him the impression that you yourself were somewhat hypocritical to have let him think you liked him and then to drop him suddenly without giving any reason. And in the second place, I wouldn't let him see that he was so important to you that you had to make a big thing of dropping him. When a girl doesn't really care anything about a fellow, and doesn't want to see him any more, she usually gives him the brush off more nonchalantly. The more fuss she makes, the more likely to think he's been pretty important to her.

Why don't you play it smart and, next time he comes around, poke a little extra attention at him for being such a "ladies' man." Tell him where he's been, if you found out about him? Let him think he never fooled you for a minute, but that you were sophisticated enough to have sized him up right from the beginning? Be one of those fellows who go in for routine flattering and flirting with every girl who will let him put.

That way, he's likely to think you're more than he gave you credit for, and he may even feel a little foolish. Also, you'll have come out the winner in the little game he's been playing with you, whereas if you do it the way you are planning, you'll definitely make yourself look like the loser.

YOU CAN FIND HELP

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am going to have a baby and I am not married. The father of the baby is willing to marry me, but I don't want to marry any man who doesn't ask me to marry him until he feels forced to. Don't you think I am right?

What I am writing you for is to ask if you know any place I could go to have the baby. I certainly don't want to stay in my home town, and besides I will need help in having the baby adopted. I am only 18 years old and can't possibly keep it. — Miss R.

Dear Miss R.:

The very best thing for you to do would be to write a letter to the National Florence Crittenton Mission, Alexandria, Va., explain your situation in detail and ask if arrangements could be made for you to be taken care of in whichever one of their homes for unmarried mothers is nearest you. This organization maintains such homes in a great many cities throughout the country, and I am sure you will find them ready to help you.

Perhaps you are right in not wishing to marry the father of the baby. That is for you to decide. It doesn't sound to me, anyway, as though there were any feeling between you that would suggest you might be really happy together.

As for whether or not you keep the baby, that is something else you will have to decide yourself. But I might tell you that a great many girls in your situation, who have felt, in the beginning, as you do, find that after the baby has actually arrived they wouldn't think of giving it up, no matter what they might have to go through in order to keep it.

BEAUTY

By Mme. CUI VIVE

SUMMER BEAUTY TIP: KEEP COOL, DON'T CALL

Blowing bubbles in the shade keeps kids cool and happy; gives Mom time for a bit of rest and relaxation.

So the "dog days" are here — and you're facing the annual problem of how to enjoy lazy days and still keep the household going, without letting the heat get you and your family down. Well, it can be done — with just a little planning.

Let's tackle first the task of helping the little ones in the family get through these next few weeks with a minimum of weather irritation. Not only will they be better off for your forethought, but you'll be cooler emotionally, too, for when children are fretting about the heat, can sound like at least six, and can trim your efficiency and good-nature to a low ebb. To say nothing of your sanity.

You meet the heat on its own terms when you plan outdoor play for the youngsters — in the shade whenever possible. Set up a wading pool, if you have one, and keep the kids in it as much as you can. A cardinal rule for coolness is that everything must be kept extra clean in the heat. So don't let children track in dirt or sand every time they run in, then rinse it with the hose. The children can help by sudsing their plastic or rubber pool toys.

A shady corner is the perfect spot for blowing soap-bubbles — using a dinnerstore pipe, an empty spool, or a drinking straw. For more good clean fun outdoors, the girls can "do up" dolly's wash and the boys can scrub their toy autos.

Remember that keeping the kids happy will give you much more time for leisure and relaxation and this, in turn, will contribute greatly to your looks — yes, even on the most sweltering days. Don't let the oldsters in the family get you nerves, either. And they won't if you follow these nice cool tips for the whole family:

1. Lightweight, porous clothing that absorbs perspiration is cooler than ultra scanty attire.

2. Don't eat less food, but do eat less of heavy foods.

3. Two baths a day — with a change to all fresh clothes each time — contribute to summer comfort.

4. Make summer seem like a privilege and a treat, not a trial, by giving often the things you can do only in summer: cook and eat outdoors in your own backyard or develop an easy routine for packing everybody into the car for an impromptu picnic.

5. Take it easy, physically and emotionally. Move a little more slowly through household chores (a Southern trick that makes summer pleasant), and be slower to anger and argue. It's just as hot for everybody else as it is for you!

Leamington's Woman Mayor Has Few Idle Moments

SENIOR WOMAN MAYOR

Mrs. Gordon McFarland of Leamington, Ont., is Canada's senior woman mayor. She was elected Leamington's first woman mayor in 1951 and was re-elected for her third term Dec. 5, 1955, by 45th birthday. She travels as much as 12,000 miles a year to keep speaking engagements. Leamington, a town of 8,300, is 30 miles southeast of Windsor. — (CP Photo).

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Grace McFarland, Canada's senior woman mayor, is one of the most-travelled mayors in the country.

About 12,000 miles of travel to make 30 out-of-town speaking engagements makes a typical year in the career of the charming Leamington, mayor of this town of 8,300 in Canada's "sun parlor," 30 miles southeast of Windsor, Ont.

Mrs. McFarland was elected Leamington's first woman mayor on Dec. 5, 1951, after two years on town council. She had been deputy reeve for two years and was the first woman to sit on the town council and on the Essex county council.

"FINE TOWN"

She sums up her feelings about the town and perhaps the main reason why she is in office by saying simply "this is a nice place in which to live."

"We've no bones about the fact it's a fine town, because the record shows it's just that," she said. "We have some of the finest industries it is possible to get and our citizens are content and steady and good.

"We don't know what juvenile delinquency means here. We keep our children busy. Everybody helps. I am proud that a boy or girl can be a delinquent."

Mrs. McFarland has a son, Jim, who is an announcer with radio station CFOR at Orillia, Ont.

HUSBAND APPROVES

Her husband, Gordon, is—at 76—a retired farmer. While his wife's job keeps her on the move, he has his complete approval of her activities.

"If he didn't approve I wouldn't be here," she said. "However, sometimes he does say he thinks he is married to an organization."

The organizations to which she belongs include the Ontario Mayors' Association of which she is vice-president, the provincial Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the IODE and the women's auxiliary of the Canadian Legion.

The mayor admits her activities do not give her time to do all the things she might like to do, but she does have time for her main hobby, wood-working.

"I love to work on cabinets and refinish old furniture," she said.

She declined a possible nomination as the Progressive Conservative candidate for Essex south in the recent dominion election, then acted as campaign manager for Richard Thrasher, an Amherstburg, Ont., lawyer, who won the seat for the Liberals.

"ADOPTED" PARENTS

A native of the Leamington district, Mrs. McFarland likes to tell the story of how she adopted her "parents."

When she was three years old her mother became ill and the little girl, wrapping her clothes in newspaper, went down the road to her mother's cousin.

"My mother died and what started out as a visit, turned out to be the real thing," she says. At the age of 19, I was formally adopted by the foster parents."

She remarried after the death of her first husband. Her son, been in high school, immediately changed his surname to that of his present husband.

For the future, Mrs. McFarland says as far as politics are concerned, she will wait and see.

Re-elected for her third term as mayor on Dec. 3, 1955, on her 45th birthday, Mrs. McFarland will be seeking re-election again next winter.

PINE GROVE W.I.

MARSH HILL — The July meeting of Pine Grove W. I. was held at Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Clare's cottage, Oak Lake with 16 members and four visitors present.

The president, Mrs. Allyn Finkle, presided and opened the meeting.

During the business, it was decided to remember the pound party family who had recently lost their home through fire.

Standing committee conveners reported.

Mrs. Charles Ross and Mrs. Harold Detlor gave highlights from the April and May Country Woman Magazine. Current events were given by Mrs. Fred Campbell.

Mrs. David Little, Canadian Industries conveners, was in charge of the program, and read several articles on the new Industries.

During 1956, 143 new industries have been established in Ontario.

One product now under construction will be of great economic benefit to Canada and greatly strengthen Ontario's position as the production giant of the nation — the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project.

The proposed St. Lawrence Seaway will be 1,200 miles water route, and is scheduled for possible completion by 1958.

Mrs. Little conducted a quiz which was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Little also read two poems, "Our Kindling Point", and "All I Ask." After the repeating of the Lord's Prayer, refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

BRIDE-TO-BE SHOWERED

MARSH HILL — Mrs. E. B. Finckle was hostess and entertained several ladies in honor of Miss Winnifred Parks, bride-to-be. Community singing was enjoyed by the guests. The bride's book was also signed by the guests.

Miss Parks was the recipient of a large array of lovely gifts and she voiced her thanks.

Refreshments were served and a delightful afternoon was enjoyed. All wished Winnifred every happiness in her new home.

ENGAGEMENT BROKEN . . . GIFTS RETURNED . . . WITH NOTE EXPLAINING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I was to have been married very soon, but my fiance and I broke the engagement two days ago. I have received many shower gifts, and quite a few wedding presents. Shouldn't I return all these gifts as soon as possible? I think I should, that this would make me feel better about the whole unfortunate situation. If you do advise me to return them, please guide me as to the proper way. Thank you so very much for any help you will give me.

— Ex-Fiancee

I am sorry, very sorry, that this shadow has come to your life . . . but I am proud of you for making up your mind to meet this difficult situation straightforwardly and deciding to lift the shadow at once. You have done a removing from your life as soon as possible the engagement ring, which symbolic of the engagement that no longer exists. This is the healthy way to look at things, and, of course, is constructive.

Return every gift you have received, engagement gifts, shower gifts, wedding gifts. And with each enclose a note worded somewhat like this:

Dear Ann,

You were kind and generous, as always you are, to give me such a beautiful gift as your wedding present, and I thank you deeply for your goodness. But now, dear Ann, I have broken our engagement, by mutual consent, please do understand my return of you the shower present which was for the engagement that no longer is for "me and wedding which is not to take place"! You were so thoughtful . . . the crystal centerpiece you chose is so very handsome . . . and I thank you again for your cherished friendship and for the present I have of your dear thought

Your devoted and grateful friend

Nancy

HOW TO INTRODUCE HER FIANCE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've recently become engaged, so my fiance and I'm a bit jittery as to the correct form for introducing him." For example, if the introductions should I explain that he is my fiance, "John Hall, of Durling Road," or just "John Hall"? — Fiancee

The correct form of introduction: "Miss Jackson, this is my fiance, John Hall." Or "Mr. Lane — John Hall, my fiance." I'm sure you will be delighted and proud to say "my fiance" instead of "my fiance," as you introduce your John (And I'm sure I can depend on you never to introduce your fiance as your "boy friend," as is the custom now and most unattractive way some girls introduce their fiances.)

QUESTION:

. . . often wondered how you plan meals for one person on $4.00 per week, including soap and every single thing for light housekeeping. I have an allowance of $5.00 but the dollar is for bus fare, stamps, stockings, etc. . . . I am in my late fifties and have disabilities that prevent me working . . . there are lots of others who only have small allowances . . . I shall be watching . . . tell us how to live healthfully . . . I know a mother of 4 lives by girls, deserted by their dad, mother's allowance grants $100. per month . . . $45. goes for rent, then there is gas, hydro, water, food for 5 . . . girls are 14 years, down to 3 . . . sometimes I have only $3 when I pay Blue Cross fee . . . Dr. says I'm extra short on food money . . . and I'm not getting enough food . . . Mrs. C. B.

ANSWER:

I don't see how you could be getting enough food either, but I have an idea that may be a basis for you to work from.

In the 1920's an Emergency Unemployment Relief Committee in Montreal published a booklet—entitled "Have-Not Recipes"—which contain food orders, menus and recipes obtained through a contest from folks actually on relief rations. While this contest was held and the lists made up over 20 years ago and present prices are double, these almost unbelievable foods will show what will provide adequate nutrition at the lowest cost.

MINIMUM COST MAXIMUM NUTRITION — A WEEK'S FOOD SUPPLY FOR TWO (about 1936)

(I'm sorry I do not have the figures for one person.) No. 1: 9 lbs. potatoes 11c; 1 lb. onions 5c; 1½ pounds 10c; 2 lbs. 5 oz. beef brisket 12c; 1½ lbs. belly pork 15c; ¼ lb. cheese 8c; 1 lb. margarine 12c; 1¼ oz. rolled oats 8c; 1½ lbs. beans 8c; 1 large tin of tomatoes 10c; ¼ lb. tea 13c; 1 pt. molasses 13c; 1 small tin salmon 5c. Total cost $1.50. Food Order No. 2: 1 lb. beans 8c; 1 lb. sausage 15c; 1 lb. sugar 5c; ¼ lb. margarine 12c; 1 lb. bacon 19c; 1 lb. macaroni 5c; 1 can each peas, corn and tomatoes were 3 for 25c; 1 can salmon 15c; 1 dozen eggs 16c; 1 pkg. tea 7c; 1 jar jam 25c; 1 bar soap 5c. Total cost $1.43. Order No. 3: 10 lbs. potatoes 15c; 3 lbs. brown sugar 15c; ¼ lb. tea 15c; 1 bar soap 4c; 1 lb. macaroni 5 c; 2 lbs. carrots 5c; 1 cabbage 5c; 2 small turnips 5c; 1 can evaporated milk 12c; 1 lb. margarine 25c; 1 lb. hamburg 15c; stewing beef 10c; 1 lb. pork steak 10c. Total cost $1.50.

Bread and Milk tickets from the Relief Committee were given extra. I repeat that these lists were for two as considering present prices and that you are buying for one, they will be sound help to you. A multitude of nutritional faults can be cured by the addition of fruit and whole wheat bread. You know that if you are a regular reader. Please keep in touch with me.

Canadian Girl and Fiance Had Choice of Names in Moscow

STONY MOUNTAIN, Man. (CP) — A Manitoba girl and her fiance, a Russian soldier fiance had their choice of names when they were married in a registry office in Moscow last year.

Jean Robertson, a Canadian external affairs department employee in Moscow, and Albert Bradshaw of Texas were asked by a clerk, through an interpreter, whose name they would take on their marriage. In Russia, it appears, they have the option of taking the groom's name, the bride's name or retaining their separate names.

The couple decided to stick to western traditions, and they became Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw with a signed and sealed Russian certificate.

MAKING SURE

But just to make sure there were no legal complications, they were married again when they reached this town 15 miles north of Winnipeg.

Mrs. Bradshaw lived close by the Kremlin in Moscow for two years. Transferred from Ottawa to Winnipeg as an external affairs department stenographer, she went to Moscow as secretary to Canadian Ambassador John Watkins.

She said Moscow in some ways was a little like Winnipeg. The city of 7,000,000 was "a little more run down, and there was less traffic in the streets," she said. But the wintry winds through Red Square reminded her of Winnipeg in winter. Her husband was on the American Embassy staff there, and they now live in the United States, parents of a baby girl.

Will Launch New Venture In Fashion

LONDON (Reuters) — Norman Hartnell, the Queen's dressmaker, will leave for Canada Saturday to launch a new fashion venture.

The venture is part of a worldwide scheme to sell Hartnell-designed and named separates.

Skirts and matching blouses or sweaters, and sometimes jeans, will be designed by Hartnell and manufactured under licence in the country in which the garment is being sold. In Canada, the creations will also include some dresses.

Each garment will bear Hartnell's label and will be made of British fabrics.

Little Benny's Notebook

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Ma and pop were taking a walk for pop's appetite before dinner, and pop said, Yes good, I can remember.

What, pop? I said, and he said, That's what I forget. I was lighting this cigar at the time, and whatever it was your mother asked me to do for her got all mixed up with the smoke. It was something connected with the food line, but the food line is long and has many turnings. Blink it to blazes, now what was it she said she wanted? he said.

I'll mention every kind of food I can possibly think of, and you tell me when I come to it, I said. Butter, lemmons, salt, eggs, something in a jar, something in a box, bread, raisins, something by the dozmen, something by the pound, something in a bottle, I said, and pop said, Cease firing, you're only deepening the confusion.

G, heck, pop, ma always claims you never listen when she talks to you, and now she'll say this is another proof of it. I said, and pop said, You've hit the nail on the head, and its sharp end is in my conscience.

Well hay, pop, I know what..' I said. Let's go in the market and buy one of everything we see, and it must be one of them, and you can tell me the rest and get prizes.

That idea is so brilliant it's almost blinding, and may be you can use it on another occasion, but I just happened to remember, pop said. Your mother told me she had a cheese craving in the even and it would flop into a tragic failure if we're not back in half an hour, he said.

And he looked at his watch and we quick turned around and got back just in time.

Now, any good bridge player in the world should know that a double of any four bids is for penalty. It is a positive statement that the doubler expects to defeat the bid he has doubled.

If not defeated, four clubs doubled will make more than enough for game. So, there is no more conceitable excuse to go five in the same suit; either to invite another double or to play it undoubled.

So, what on earth could the east player use for an excuse to go five clubs when he is already at four clubs? Surely he is not there to see how tough he can make it for himself.

If the player did not know the double of four is for penalty, he is ignorant of the basic convention. If he is not ignorant of this, he is stupid to go five.

Opening lead in each room was the south singleton of deuce of diamonds. Declarer in each room was able to take exactly ten tricks. So, the ignorant or stupid east in room one threw away a big score.

Even a rank palooka would be ridiculed for pulling such a boner. And so, here is representative of a continent in a world that is small. What is this world of bridge coming to?

Winter Hits N.Z.

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — The lowest temperatures in New Zealand's history were reported Friday from its southern areas, which have suffered three days of frost following violent snowstorms last weekend.

The inland sheep farming centre of Waikala reported readings of 19 below zero. The previous low was five below in 1943.

The Week's News

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The United States and Canada offered to open their skies and ground installations to inspection—provided Russia does the same.

This was the most sensational proposal yet heard at the United Nations disarmament talks in London, where the U.S., Russia, Britain, France and Canada are seeking a solution to the nuclear arms issue.

State Secretary Dulles of the U.S., in a personal appearance before the UN subcommittee, proposed:

"That all the territory of the continental U.S., all Alaska, including the Aleutian Islands, all the territory of Canada and all the territory of the U.S.S.R. will be open to inspection."

Speaking for the Western countries, he offered as an alternate plan watching facilities in a huge area of the Arctic—provided again that Russia moves in it also.

Dulles said that if either of the proposals were accepted, the West would be willing to extend its "open skies" policy to a further area, "always subject to the approval of the countries concerned. Dulles spoke with the approval of the NATO powers council.

UNIFIED COMMAND

One day before the London announcement, the U.S., Britain and Canada announced that a pooled operational headquarters for North America's air defences is to be set up soon.

This, in effect, that the need for split-second speed to repulse a supersonic attack has wiped out the U.S.-Canada border where air defence is concerned. Defence Minister Pearkes was told in Ottawa that Gen. Earle Partridge of the U.S. Air Force is to head the integrated command and Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, chief of Canada's air staff, is to be his deputy.

Partridge and Slemon thus become the "trigger men" who would have the power to order all available air defence forces into the skies if hostile planes were detected.

All this came in the same week that a major outburst in southeastern Asia—the distant early warning radar line across the Arctic—was announced as ready for operation.

WARLIKE POLITICS

President Fulgencio Batista placed Cuba under strict military rule following a street demonstration in the city of Santiago de Cuba, a hotbed of opposition against the dictatorial regime.

Batista suspended constitutional guarantees for 45 days in his drive to crush the rebel forces led by Fidel Castro. Censorship was imposed.

Elsewhere on the explosive Latin American scene, Guatemala's ambassador to Nicaragua was assassinated president, Carlos Castillo Armas, was buried in a Roman Catholic ceremony attended by thousands of mourners.

A number of palace guards, meanwhile, were arrested for alleged complicity in the assassination. Castillo Armas, foe of communism, was shot by one of his own guards, apparently a Communist, who killed himself with the same weapon.

ARGENTINE PICTURE

A more hopeful picture was presented in Argentina, where moderate forces united to defeat extremists in the first election since dictator Juan Peron was thrown out.

The election aimed at selecting an assembly to write constitutional guarantees to guard against dictatorship in the future.

Peron had boasted from his Venezuela exile that 75 per cent of Argentina voters would still support him—but the ballots told another story.

VOICES FROM PAST

A batch of Second World War documents, captured from the Germans, were finally made public—and crackled with strange stories.

The papers showed that the Nazis tried to entice the Duke of Windsor in 1940 with offers to put him back on the British throne provided he undercut prime minister Churchill.

The Germans backed the plan with phony bomb scares and other lies—and to the duke and duchess, for whom he gave up his throne in 1936.

The duke, in Paris, issued a statement tonight denying the allegation. "At no time did I ever entertain any thought of complying with such a suggestion, which I treated with the contempt it deserved."

CHURCHILL ON UN

Sir Winston Churchill, in a London speech, said the United Nations is failing to achieve justice in the world. He called for revision of the UN charter to limit the power of small nations.

Sir Winston suggested, as he usually does, that the vote or prejudice of any small country should affect events involving populations many times its own numbers and affect world peace unnecessarily self-destructive.

The elder statesman noted that new countries have swollen the General Assembly to 81 members, and that the same has given power disputes have thrown increasing weight on the assembly.

Canada received a brief visit from Prime Minister Menzies of new conference of Commonwealth prime ministers.

Menzies, questioned by reporters in Ottawa, seemed to favor a conference for a Commonwealth trade conference put forward by Prime Minister Diefenbaker—but he wants more details.

"I have a great empire trade man," he said. "But I like to know what proposals are on foot" before attending any conference "not because I want the conference to fail but because I want it to be a success."

POPULATION INCREASE

The bureau of statistics estimated Canada's population at 16,389,000 as of June 1, an increase of 248,000 in 12 months. Immigration accounted for about half of that boosted figure.

Canada thus is virtually certain to reach the 17,000,000 mark next year, just when it will depend on the volume of immigration.

CASE MAY INVOLVE BIG FILM NAMES

A parade of Hollywood stars will reportedly take the stand in Hollywood, Calif., after superior court Judge Herbert V. Walker thwarted a prosecution move to clear Confidential Magazine officials of obscenity and libel charges. The only defendants in California are Fred and Marjorie Meade (top), shown with their private investigator, Fred Otash (right.) Among celebrities already subpoenaed are actress Corinne Calvet (bottom, left), actor Walter Pidgeon (right). The magazine publishers said many big Hollywood names would be involved.

bers out of Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in a New York title bout, defeating the challenger by a 10th round technical knockout.

The Hurricane succeeded only in hurting Patterson's feelings. Patterson, talking with reporters after the fight, remarked:

"Jackson kept telling me in the clinches to come on and fight. 'You bum' he called me. I thought that was a funny way to describe a man who was winning a fight."

But Patterson went the next day to see Jackson in hospital, where the Hurricane received tests for a kidney injury.

BETTER DANCER THAN WORKER

When the plane in background was leaving Burbank, Calif. for delivery to Thailand, it seemed like a good idea to lend color to the ceremony by having a Burmese elephant pull the plane into position for flight. But Jumbo wasn't equal to the job. He putted and pulled but the plane had to be towed by mechanical means. So, to earn his peanuts, Jumbo joined in a dance with a Thailand girl.

British Paper Says Officials Lie About Oman

LONDON (Reuters)—The Daily Mail today accuses British foreign officials of lying about some of the developments of the rebellion in Oman.

After saying that the foreign office was resorting to "shabby tricks" to prevent newspaper correspondents from telling the British people what is going on in Oman, the Conservative newspaper adds:

"There is now no doubt that the foreign officials on the spot have resorted to a deliberate policy of lying.

"For example, correspondents in Bahrein were told officially that the Cameronians had arrived there. In fact they had gone direct to Sharjah. They were told that all further military operations had been suspended because the sultan's flag had been seen flying over Ibri. That was another lie. The truth is that in Whitehall support this policy of lying, if not, what are they going to do about it?"

Claim Catholics In China Sever Ties to Vatican

LONDON (AP)—A conference of Roman Catholics in Communist China agreed Friday to form a "patriotic" Catholic association and to cut all political and economic ties with the Vatican, Peiping Radio said.

A resolution said Chinese Catholics would obey the Vatican in matters of dogma, morals and religion but would reject any Vatican interference "with our country's internal affairs."

Communist hopes that the conference would result in a national association independent of Rome were reported by Communist Chinese news sources to have encountered resistance from several bishops.

In Rome, a Vatican spokesman said formation of a Roman Catholic "patriotic association" in Peiping appears to indicate a shift in Communist China of the line until now waged against the Catholic Church in Eastern Europe.

This source noted that the Vatican has warned Chinese Catholics against joining "patriotic associations" since they are obviously controlled by the Communist party, whose avowed aim is to whipe out religion.

Judgment Reserved; Strikers Are Warned

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice Charles Stewart reserved judgment Friday on a Lever Brothers application to have 14 striking employees committed to jail but he also warned the workers against use of violence.

The 14 were charged by the company after a commando style raid on the company plant July 29.

Mr. Justice Stewart said "in my view, violence cannot be tolerated in this day and in this country. Nor does it help the labor movement to achieve its aims to employ violence. Violence is not only wrong, it is unprofitable in the end."

West Gets 1958 Golf Tourney

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Ladies Golf Union Friday confirmed the venue for the 1958 championships — the Saskatoon Golf and Country Club—and fixed July 21-Aug. 10 as the dates.

The CLGU also announced an invitation has been received to participate in the proposed Commonwealth team tournament. The CLGU named a committee to investigate ways and means of participating.

The Bobcats and the Marines go to the softball mat next week in quest of the right to represent the city in OASA intermediate "AA" playdowns!

Tom Hocking's softball "sailors" surprised all and sundry by eliminating last year's intermediate "B" Ontario champions from Frankford in two straight tussles in the Belleville and District Softball League semi-finals. The Shoemen were favored in pre-series predictions to take the series in three games and some of the swamis even went as far as to say the Combines would take the measure of Point Anne in the league finals.

All of which goes to prove that baseball, like any other sport, when it reaches the "chips-down" stages is as unpredictable as the feminine mind.

The Marines tucked the series away via fine pitching efforts by the "Bearcat," Al Adams, and Tommy Thompson. The "Bearcat", who shrugs off three years of mothballs from his not-so-ancient carcass this spring, came up with an outstanding effort to cop the first tilt and Thompson buzz-balled his finest performance of the season to blank the Shoemen in the second.

Add to this some fine clutch-clouting by the "Hookers" and you have the reason for their semi-finals success.

Whether their series victories were flash-in-the-pan performance will be, or should be, proven next week when they clash with the Temple Cats. The first game of the best-of-five shutter is slated for the CNRA Recreation Park Monday night, with the second and third games there on Wednesday and Friday nights respectively. Fourth and fifth tilts, if necessary, will be played the following Monday and Wednesday nights.

And remember, all games start at 6.30. Secretary Don Gavey announced the new time yesterday, and stated that the games will start sharp at the time designated — or else. Two evenings are getting somewhat cool it is only fair to both teams that a full nine innings be played.

And Marse Bob Temple's Cats with their claws sharpened the last week or so, do not intend being any push-overs for the jolly old Marines. Temple will use some of the most defunct Belleville Mercantile squad, including Wiener Brown and Floyd Crawford and as Marse Robert says: "with a new spirit in the club we are going to give the Marines the battles of their lives."

Phil Lott's Ox Pointers (this name written prior to last night's Point-Anne-Trenton Juniors deciding tilt) now know that it doesn't pay to lapse even the slightest when the "money" games are at stake. They came up with a more or less creditable performance in the opening night game against the Trenton youngsters and that crew of young opportunists were quick to take advantage of any lapses on the part of the Pointers, or any other breaks which came their way.

But in their anxiety to clinch the bill, the Drake younkers nearly tossed away what looked at the moment like certain victory. Up 6-4 they flipped their fielding ills temporarily and a couple of costly errors enabled the Pointers to square matters. However, a slight let-down in Ox Point managerial policy gave them another chance and they grabbed it—or rather their pitcher was given them. An earlier stance on the mound might have ended in last night's game being unnecessary.

Regardless of which team won last night's important fray there has been no dates scheduled at this time of writing for the league championship series, likely a best-of-five. The Marines, with a trio of tussles scheduled for next week with the Bobcats, won't likely assent to city league finals being sandwiches between OASA dates — that is too much on the batters, and besides they haven't sufficient to make the rounds.

So that being said and done, go have yourself a good holiday. And remember, there are a number of people, if this holiday weekend exacts the usual toll of fatalities, who are laughing and living today, but on Tuesday will be cold and unsmiling.

If you're driving, swimming, in fact whatever you are doing this Civic Holiday weekend, remember, a little care exercised at all times may save a life. And it could be your own.

And if you are tempted to pass that speeding car in front of you on a congested highway, just recall the sign which a florist placed on the rear of his delivery truck.

It read: "Go ahead and pass me, brother. My next load could be for you."

If you city-marooned holiday makers desire something different from television entertainment on Monday, you can take in the Corbin Gold Cup Bowling tournament, or thrill to the staccatoes of motorcycle racing at the Fair Grounds. In the evening you can take in what should be a thrilling softball classic at the CNRA park when the Cats and Marines hook up in their initial OASA playoff playoff encounter. And lest you forget, the new starting time is 6.30.

Argonauts Cut Five Players

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Hamp Pool of Toronto Argonauts cut five players, including one American, as the Big Four football club resumed practices Friday following their 30-9 defeat by Saskatchewan Roughriders in an exhibition game Wednesday night.

Dropped were backfielders Ron King from Florida State and Don Hollingworth, last season with British Columbia Lions, and linemen Walt Nichols and Jim Christ... from junior ranks, and ... with Toronto.

... Argos' roster now ... including 25 Americans. Two of the imports, tackle Chuck Weeks from University of California and guard Bert Delevan from Chicago Cardinals are on the injured list and probably will be lost for the season.

U.S. WINS SINGLES

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia had a comparatively easy time scoring straight-set victory over Carlo Sembrina, N.J., champions of the United States a clean sweep of the two opening singles matches of the American zone Davis Cup finals Friday. The scores were 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

In the opening match Sammy Giammalva, Houston, Tex., defeated Armando Vieira, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

Trio Sparks Win Over Giants As Cards, Braves Shade Foes; Mick, Mac Homers Nip Tribe

The sublime and the slightly ridiculous were both on display in the American League Friday night. New York Yankees extended their first-place lead to five games with a 3-2 win over Cleveland, while at the other end of the standings Kansas City Athletics dropped into the cellar by losing a bizarre double bill to Baltimore Orioles.

Second-place Chicago lost 5-4 to Boston and Washington skipped from the cellar by downing Detroit 2-1.

Cleveland's Don Mossi held the Yanks hitless for 6 1-3 innings. Then Gil McDougald and Mickey Mantle reached him for back-to-back home runs which gave the Bombers a 2-2 tie. A walk and singles by Tony Kubek and pinch-hitter Harry Simpson won it for New York in the eighth. Thanks to two Cleveland runners being nipped at the plate, Tom Sturdivant emerged as winner.

ROOKIE LAID LOW

At Baltimore, the Orioles won a weird doubleheader which ended on a sombre note after the Orioles' third baseman, Brooks Robinson, was beaned for 10 stitches in the second contest. The 20-year-old rookie from Little Rock, Ark. apparently escaped without a fracture.

The unusual evening saw lefty Mickey McDermott make his debut as Kansas City first baseman after 10 years as a major league pitcher; the Orioles pull a rare double play, pitcher to third baseman to shortstop to third baseman to center fielder; and Hector Lopez, A's third baseman, tie a major league record by accepting 12 chances.

McDermott had a hit in his only plate appearance in the first game, before being relieved, and has one hit in three trips in the nightcap. He booted the first grounder hit to him, costing his team a run. The unusual double play was on a rundown in which center fielder Jim Busby guarded second base to catch the second runner.

HERE FOR WILLIAMS

A bases-loaded single by Jackie Jensen won for Boston, which blew an early lead set up by Ted Williams' three-run homer, his 20th. Rookie Bill Fischer lost in relief with George Susce the winner in relief.

Washburn, in eighth Since April 26, scored on Julio Becquer's single to help Washington to beat Detroit's Paul Foytack. Camilio Pascual was the losing Sievers tied it 1-1 with his 29th home run.

FART SUMMER SKIING

MIDLAND (CP)—Canada's first summer ski jumping competition opens here today with 30 skiers from Canada and the United States taking part.

Among the list of entries are Jacques Charland of Trois-Rivieres, Que., and Art Tokle of Lansdowne, N.J., champions of their respective countries.

The jump surfaces are covered with hay and chicken wire and two machines will cover this with water three times. It is expected 200 tons of ice will be used during the three-day meet with another 30 tons being held in reserve in case the weather turns unusually warm.

Rough Riders Beat Stampeders By 23-14 Count

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Just when some folks were about ready to scratch Cincinnati from that squirrel cage race in the National League, the Redlegs suddenly took robust epsom, complete with late-inning home runs.

After slipping from first to fifth with a terrible July run (13-14), the Redlegs are on the way back, winning 'em late—but winning.

Ted Kluszewski and Wally Post, two of last season's big guns, and Smoky Burgess were back in business Friday night for a 9-5 victory over New York Giants, Klu belted a two-run homer for a first-inning lead, Burgess smacked a two-run shot to regain the edge in the eighth, and Post started a three-run drive to win it in the ninth.

BRAVES' CONLEY STARS

The victory put the fourth-place Reds within one game of Brooklyn, after Gene Conley four-hit the Dodgers and lined a run-scoring single in a 1-0 Milwaukee victory that kept the second-place Braves just two points shy of St. Louis. Brooklyn is 2 ½ games behind.

The Cardinals won their seventh in a row, nailing fifth-place Philadelphia 5-4 in 10 innings as Stan Musial doubled home the clincher. Musial had three hits, all for extra bases, and appears to regain the batting lead at .339 from Milwaukee's Hank Aaron, who was 0-for-3 and slipped to .337.

Chicago Cubs, without one earned run, downed Pittsburgh 5-4 in the other National League game. It was the sixth straight loss for the second-place Pirates, leading to manager Bobby Bragan's dismissal today. Coach Danny Murtaugh took his place.

New York Giants, losing six in a row, made a fight of it against Cincinnati with three runs by Bobby Thomson and Willie Mays and a tying run in the top of the 10th on Danny O'Connell's single. Hersh Freeman won it, with Al Worthington the relief loser.

Willard Schmidt, with a two-hit relief job over four innings for his 10th in a row for St. Louis for a 10-1 record. The Cards garnered all four runs in the first inning, starting with 13-game winner Jack Sanford and ending one batter later with Miller. Stan Lopata and Anderson homered for the Phils.

Conley bested Jeff Pfeffer, who had won six on the road, when Milwaukee scored its only runs in the fifth. Johnny Logan, with half of Milwaukee's hits, got on base in each but was left went to second on Pee Wee Reese's throwing error. Conley singled Logan home.

Rough Riders Beat Stampeders By 23-14 Count

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders, intercepting six enemy passes, took a 23-14 victory over Calgary Stampeders Friday night in an exhibition football game.

Quarterback Hal Ledyard, end Bobby Simpson and end Tom Adams scored the Ottawa touchdowns. Gary Schreiber converted all three of the Big Four team's TDs.

Calgary's first point came in the second quarter when Don Pinhey recovered a single on a kick by Art Duncan. The Western Interprovincial Union team didn't score again until the final quarter when Jim Morse, formerly of Notre Dame, and Al Pollard scored touchdowns. Pollard converted Morse's but missed on his own.

Calgary threw 35 passes, completed 12 for 241 yards. Ottawa signal callers heaved 34, completing five for 179 yards.

TWO TOSSED OUT

Late in the final quarter, Joe Stracina of Ottawa and Joe Geary of the Stampeders were thumbed out of the game engaging in a brief boxing affair.

Officials called 21 penalties, a dozen against the Riders that cost them 145 yards.

Stracina, before he was chucked out, caught Calgary quarter Jim Walker in the endzone for the clincher late for a safety touch and Ottawa's first two points.

Ledyard, in his second year with Riders, spearheaded their attack.

When You Gotter Go...

Yukon, Farmer Have No Luck Gotter Just Forgot to Duck

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

They should pass a law forcing wrestlers to instal directional lights — or referees to superintend the calisthenics from within iron cages.

Had these ideas been in vogue last night, Yukon Eric and Farmer Boy would have worn the iron overcoat and wreath instead of the man mountain Millers.

Sammy Gotter, the man in white who was pygmied by the quartet of Brobdignagians under his supervision — or rather over it — got in the way of one of Farmer Boy's straight pitches and flattened out like a six-day pancake.

At the moment the carolling Carolinian was using 323-pound Ed Miller as a beach-ball and enjoying himself bouncing the guy off the ropes, and corner posts.

He uncorked his Sunday pitch and Big Ed whirled for the corner. He did not sound his horn and Sammy was straight in the path of the human torpedo. Miller crashed, Sammy amidships and both went down and slightly out.

Sammy recovered his five-foot three stance and some of his dignity. And nearly 1,500 peewees roared their disapproval when the little guy rammed the dazed Miller's paw in token of victory.

Yukon Eric and pal had far the best of the bout after spilling Gotter out of the first two workouts. They appeared headed for victory when the climax climaxed — and they did not approve of Mr. Gotter's departure.

So much so they chased the Miller frere back to the boudoirs and the last thing these reportorial optics visioned was the Yuke and Farmer belaboring the bejabors out of the Miller in the dressing room corridor.

The Millers showed a whole-some respect for the Yuke, his massive torso and his roguish-eyed stare-strength. Farmer Boy staged one of the best assist performances seen here this season.

The Yuke won the first fall when Big Ed tried to fasten his back-breaker hold on the Alaskan. Eric wriggled quickly and reversed the hold, hoisting over 300 pounds of Miller beef aloft and applied his famous Kodiak Krunch. That was enough.

The Millers took the second fall in nine minutes after applying the eye and rope treatment to Eric who was flattened for the fall by solid body smashes.

It was alleged an irate fan hurled a bottle at one of the Millers and this brought the announcement that the bout would be cancelled if similar occurrences took place.

The final chukkah was going very nicely for the Yuke and Farmer. The former used a leg hold that had the Millers sir-cluching. The Yuke used his barrel-chest to bounce the Millers back into space. On one occasion he was in the middle when the brothers charged from opposite directions. The Yuke stood like a rock as the boys bounced back into opposite corners.

Then the Farmer took over and started his pitching show. Came the rise and fall of Sammy Gotter and the fun was over.

Fred Atkins and Vic Christie staged an exciting bout which ended with both slugging it out on the main floor while M'sieu Gotter was counting inside the ropes. They failed to return in time and both were tossed out.

Pasco Flanagan and Jack Yansky battled in the preliminary with Flanagan winning after 10 minutes of brawling.

Pirates Plank-Walk Bragan For 'General Good' of Club

CHICAGO (AP)— Brash Bobby Bragan was fired as manager of Pittsburgh Pirates, Coach Danny Murtaugh was named to succeed him and the balance of the season.

Pirate general manager Joe L. Brown said Bragan, in his second season, was dismissed for the "general welfare" of the club. He did not elaborate.

A club spokesman said Clyde Sukeforth, veteran Pirate coach, was first offered the job but declined it down in Murtaugh's favor.

The spokesman said Murtaugh accepted with the "full understanding" that it was only to be temporary.

Murtaugh, 39, became a Pirate coach in 1956 after four years of managing in the minor leagues. He broke into the major leagues with an infielder with Philadelphia Phillies in 1941, spent part of the season with Boston Braves and then was traded to the Pirates.

GRACEFUL BOW-OUT

Brown said Bragan's dismissal was "by far the most difficult decision" he had to make. And he said Bragan accepted it gracefully, in a manner that showed he was a "big man."

The announcement confirmed speculation of the impending firing in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

The newspaper said it was believed the dismissal came about for two reasons:

"1. The Pirates' failure to improve over their 1956 showing. They finished seventh in 1956 and currently are in the same spot with a six-game losing streak.)

"2. Bragan's frequent outspoken criticism of the front office policies."

UMPIRES NOT FACTOR

Bragan's clashes with umpires this season "are not believed to have anything to do with the club's decision to let him go," the newspaper said.

National league president Warren Giles fined Bragan $100 Thursday and told him he faced indefinite suspension if he repeated his clowning of Wednesday night in Milwaukee.

That incident Bragan, who had been banished from the game, walked onto the field carrying an orange drink and offered some to the umpires.

Brown named Bragan manager in November, 1955, just after he himself became general manager, succeeding Branch Rickey Sr.

Ladies Golf

Marlene Overcomes Big Lead Tops Field by Two Strokes

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Thoroughly subdued and stricken by a sudden malady of overpar, a wobbly field set out today in a final effort to overhaul champion Marlene Stewart in the Canadian ladies' close golf championship.

The diminutive Hillsdaler from Penfield, Ont., went into today's final 18-hole round with a 36-hole total of 157, two strokes better than Rae Milligan of Calgary, runner-up in the last two years.

It was Marlene's day. Friday with a one-under-par 76. She stuck to her steady game and let the others beat themselves.

JUDY DARLING FADES

Marlene not only overcame a four-stroke deficit to set up in the first round by little Judy Darling of Montreal but also held the lead while most of the hopeful first-round challengers faltered.

Judy struck trouble from Marlene's 157 were Mary Ellen Driscoll of Galt, Ont., and Judy Darling.

Janet MacWha of nearby St. Lambert was next with 159 and Betty Stanhope of Edmonton followed with 161.

When she finished, with a deft five-foot putt for a 76 that left her the 18th, Marlene said she thought the Royal Montreal course was more difficult—probably because of the wind—than in Thursday's opening round.

ROUGH ON CHALLENGERS

Nearly all the challengers "just couldn't do anything right."

The two who matched Marlene's pace, 77 Thursday found themselves dropped back. Miss Driscoll and Miss MacWha suffered least.

Donna Patton of Winnipeg zoomed to an 88 for 165. Betty Stanhope of Edmonton had a 90 with 78, finished with 83.

Ruth Streit was the scorers itself on Friday round. She shot a one-under-par 37 on the front nine and came home with 39. After one over-par hole she lost the first time in recovering with a birdie.

TERRIBLE START

Rae Milligan, knocking on the championship door since more than one thought it was sealed forever when she counted 14 strokes for the first two holes against a total par of nine. But she settled down to make the turn in 43, four over, and come roaring down the back nine with a 36 that put her in the running.

Judy Darling, pale and apparently quite ill, but smiling pluckily when she finished, had no excuses.

"I was in trouble nearly all the way," she said. Judy had nines of 39 and 37 to go her first round on the back nine.

Except for the juniors, the team competition was inconclusive. The senior division ran into an unprecedented tie and a committee of the Canadian ladies golf union decided that today's final round of the close championship will decide the issue between Ontario and Quebec. If that is sudden-death holes will be played.

LAST-STROKE TIE

Ontario, the defending champion, finished with an aggregate medal score of 661 for the required 36 holes. Quebec pulled into a tie at the last stroke — Teddy Bersbe of Montreal running down a five-foot putt for a par at the 18th after a miserable par six 7Th where she took an eight.

The Ontario team's scores were

"Of course it's mine! I'm the only man using sardines dipped in imported cheese they can't resist!"

Mrs. Streit 153; Rosna Neundorf, Toronto, 166; Mrs. D. Sharpe, Font hill, 169; Mrs. J. B. Seawright, Toronto, 172.

Ontario won the interprovincial junior team title with a net score of 318. Net governs for the title in the two-member junior team event. Charles Worrall 73 Thursday, Lou Evans of Toronto were the winning pair. New Brunswick was second and Quebec third.

Miss Driscoll held a three-stroke lead among junior individual competitors. This is decided on the basis of the second and third rounds of the ladies' close. Miss Driscoll had an 80 Friday. Miss Patricia Price of Kitchener shot a 102-Friday to make her two-day total 196.

Miss Price of Kitchener shot a 102-Friday to make her two-day total 196.

Royals, Jets Knock off Richmond, Leafs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first-place Buffalo Bisons, thanks to an assist from Columbus and Montreal, have opened up a six-game room in the International League.

The Royals and Jets, fighting for seventh place, knocked off second-place Richmond and third-place Toronto respectively Friday night. Montreal backed by Billy Harris' six - hit pitching shut out the Virginians 5-0. The Jets notched the four-hit hurling of former major leaguer Bob Kuzava defeated the Maple Leafs 6-2. The Bisons, meanwhile, opened up a two-game edge over the runner-up Vees and five over Toronto by whipping the Cougar Kings 5-3.

In a doubleheader, Rochester and Wings bounced back from a 5-0 twilight shutout to wallop Miami Marlins in the nightcap 13-2.

Montreal, playing the fourth of a seven - game series at Quebec, pounded Richmond starter Bob Wiesler around for four runs in the first eight fills. All the Royals runs were batted in by Harry Schwegman and Larry Drake. Drake put the game far out of reach with a three-run blast in the closing homer. Wiesler lasted seven innings, gave up six of Montreal's eight hits, struck out six and walked four. Harris, who didn't allow a Richmond player past second, picked up his 10th victory in 19 decisions.

HIS FIFTH

Kuzava picked up his fifth victory without a defeat. The Jets tory without a defeat. The Jets jumped on Toronto starter Johnny Schmitz for a run in the first inning and added another in the third on Dick Barnett's home run. In the fourth the Jets exploded for four runs on three singles a triple and two bases on balls. Reliefer Rodriguez drove in both Toronto runs with a third-inning double.

Bill Stewart's three-run homer and Roy Herbert's six-hitter pitching featured Buffalo's attack. Herbert turned in his ninth victory while allowing Havana only one earned run. The Bisons came from behind on Stewart's fourth inning blast. Havana had held a 2-0 lead until then. Jerry Lane suffered his 11th setback for Havana.

Argentine Tops Starry Field in All-American

CHICAGO (AP) — Roberto de Vicenzo was the man to catch today as he sought to become the first foreign winner of the All American golf tournament since Roberto DeVicenzo did it 15 years ago.

Vicenzo, a 220-pound professional from Argentina who now plays out of Mexico City, had a two-stroke edge over the third round of the $25,000 All American after rolling in a 30-foot O'Shanter's Diamond with a 64 Friday.

This sparkling performance that included seven birdies and only one stroke gave the 34-year-old Argentinian an 11-under-par total of 205 holes.

Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., was tied for the lead over other players at 141 after hitting 71-70 for a total of 141. Al Balding of Toronto had a 143 total with rounds of 74 and 69.

HOT IN PURSUIT

De Vicenzo could not be thrown easily for two younger pros were hot in pursuit. Art Wall, Jr., of Bonita, Calif., 26, fourth leading money winner on the golf circuit, carved a 68 for 135 and 28-year-old Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., tumbled to the All American-leading round, fashioned a 67 for 136.

Jimmy Demaret carried the hopes of the so-called old guard with a 72 for 142. Demaret, a 138 were Tommy Bolt, Don Fairfield, Doug Ford and Bob Rosburg.

Porky Oliver, the first round pacesetter, went from a 66 to a 76 and a 142 total.

The men's pro field was cut in half for the final 36 holes and it took a 148 or better to make it. It $3,500.

Tennis Open Starts Today

TORONTO (CP)—Play opens today in the Ontario open tennis championships, and meet officials say the top of the division is the strongest since the end of the Second World War.

Toronto's Don Fontana, Armando Vieira, playing captain of the Brazilian Davis Cup team, Paul Willey of Vancouver and Henri Rochon of Montreal are the top seeded in that order.

Bob Bedard of Peterborough, Que., is not defending his singles crown, but Mrs. Louis Brown of Toronto is expected to repeat in the women's championship. Play continues Monday.

Pt. Anne Eliminates Trenton 6-0 Meet Marines for Championship

Phil Lott's Ox Pointers will take on Tom Hosking's Goyer Marines for the championship of the Belleville District Softball League.

This was settled quite definitely at Point Anne last night when the Pointers took the measure of the Trenton Legion Juniors by 6-0 count in the third and deciding game of the semi-finals series.

Pat Marsden the Ox Point ace returned to the mound wars and got himself a neat three-hitter. He struck out seven and issued nary a walk.

The game practically won and lost in the first innings. The Trenton manager started Maroney at rightfielder, and the Ox Point bats took very kindly to his slants. Before the dust of their attack had settled, three hits has had rattled off his offerings, four runs had crossed the plate one man was out and Maroney headed for the showers.

Howard Cole was rushed into the breach but put the fire out, the first batter he faced.

But the damage was done. The Trenton bats could do little or nothing with Marsden's slow ones after that, although they threatened in the second when two fielders errors set a couple of runs loaded the sacks. Marsden got out of that one with no trouble.

The Pointers added another run in the second on an error, a walk and a single but put the game beyond and Davy Jones. Their sixth run was a repetition of the fifth with Trenton bobbling. Cole issuing a walk and Doug Hull and Peter Green slamming out singles.

Cole pitched only six hits and two runs in seven and two thirds innings. He struck out one and issued four walks.

Trenton threatened seriously only once after the second inning. In the eighth with two out Drake reached first on Davy Jones' error. Gilmour followed on a single. Drake going to second, but both runners died on bases when Cole hoisted a fly to right field.

Burns hit the only extra base hit Hull, Gleason and Davy Jones accounted for the rest of the Pointers' nine-hit quota.

The teams:

Trenton: Austin, Drake, Alexander, H. Cole, Goyer, M. Kennedy, L. Wannamaker, Burns, Maroney, S. Cole.

Point Anne: Bobby Hull, Verbrugh, D. Hull, Green, Gilmour, Elliott, Carr, Jones, Maracle.

Scores:

Trenton . . . 000 000 000—0 3 0
Point Anne 410 001 00x—6 9 0

Maroney, Cole (1) and Kennedy; Maracle and Green.

Boxing Brass Suggests Halt Patterson-Rademacher Bout

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)— Floyd Stevens, National Boxing Association president, Friday asked the Washington state boxing commission to reconsider its approval of a world heavyweight title match between amateur Pete Rademacher and champion Floyd Patterson Aug. 22 at Seattle.

Rademacher has the more than 100 three-round fights, but never has fought professionally. He won recently in the Olympic and U.S. Golden Gloves champion.

At Tacoma, Wash., the chairman of the Washington state athletic commission, Charles P. Larson, said Stevens request was "ridiculous."

Larson said:

"We have sanctioned the world heavyweight title bout in Seattle, have reaffirmed our decision under the laws governing boxing by Stevens, and there is no possible way we could stop the fight now.

"Stevens should know that. And I'm sure he does."

Larson said he is convinced Rademacher has had enough experience to give a good account of himself.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — Hugh McLean, knocked unconscious in a fall from a fully Thursday night climbed behind his 10-year - old trotter La Salle in the first trot at Old Woodbine Friday night and won.

Directed by truck physician Dr. J. R. McRae to spend a night in hospital for observation after the spill, McLean refused.

La Salle, in a photo finish, paid $10. Lindy Herbert, winner of the second race, for a $124.90 daily double.

After two straight defeats, Argyle Sam got back into winning stride for owner - driver Dunc McCambridge in the third heat of class C pace. In a four - horse charge to the wire, Campbell got Sam's nose there a split second ahead of Bill Simmons driving the veteran Malcolm Hanover.

Minor Baseball

Rollins Construction edged the Y's Men youngsters 4-3 in a Belleville baseball game.

Nolan went the route for the winners, picked up three hits for as many runs.

Wilson started for the Y's Men and gave up two runs, walking six. Latchford took over in the fourth inning and walked four. Errors allowed two runs.

Nolan drove in the winning and tying runs for Rollins with Lloyd and Skinner also getting singles.

Latchford took the Lewis hit safely for the losers.

SETS RACE DATE

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Garden State Park Friday set Oct. 26 as the date for the fifth running of the $100,000-added Garden State Stakes, world's richest horse race for two-year-olds who won last fall by Calumet Farm's Bardstown who collected a net purse of $169,420 from the record gross of $319,420.

Queen Leads Winning Owners In Britain

LONDON (AP) — While some people may carp at her horse racing activities, Queen Elizabeth goes steadily about the business of picking up the prize money of British tracks.

She has won $41,034 of the first four months of the British flat season. That's a record for any royal owner and puts the Queen at the top of the winning owners in Britain.

Her regular attendance at horse race meets have brought some public criticism. There was a public assertion April 28 in The Sunday Pictorial that the Queen goes too often to the races.

But the attacks make little difference to the Queen's pursuit of her favorite hobby.

The Queen never bets. But she knows when horses inside out, talks to stable boys about feeding and exercise and chats with blacksmiths about shoeing. She's a fine horsewoman herself.

The Queen has about 20 thoroughbreds in training and often takes a look at them as they exercise.

Fine Weather Warm Water Greet Swimmers

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Fine weather and warm water were predicted today for Canada's 15-mile marathon swim being held in connection with Owen Sound's centennial celebrations.

Organizers expected a crowd of about 20,000 to watch the start of the swim.

The 34 entrants—eight of them women—will endeavor to do three laps around the triangular circuit of Owen Sound Bay.

Prize money totals $12,000—$5,000 for first place and $2,000 to the first woman—$7,000 in all if she is first to finish. There are six additional prizes and four extras for women.

The weatherman promised early morning thunderstorms to clear by 9 a.m., when Marilyn Bell of Toronto, first woman to swim Lake Ontario, was to start the swimmers off officially.

PARK, LUMSDEN Win

Tom Parks of Belleflower, Calif., Cliff Lumsdon of Toronto and Marilyn Park of Long Beach, Calif., were pre-race favorites. Park predicted Miss Bell would be third in the race.

Fifteen-year-old Aloma Keen of Montreal, the youngest entrant, arrived without a coach but signed up old-time hockey star Howie Morenz (Sun) Whyte to stay with her.

Water temperature should be in the high 60s, officials said.

Eskimos Twist BC Lions' Tail

PORTLAND, Ore. (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos defeated British Columbia Lions 26-6 Friday night in an exhibition football game and showed United States fans some of the tough talent that has brought them three consecutive Grey Cup championships.

Edmonton halfbacks Rollie Miles and Jackie Parker led the 19,381 fans in Multnomah Stadium on their seats in the fourth quarter as the 105-pound Miles scored twice.

Parker had caught a Lions kick two yards into the Edmonton end zone, then ran it back eight yards into Edmonton territory, then received keeper on the next play 52 yards for a touchdown.

The U.S. fans, who first seethed with disgust by the three downs instead of four, the five backs instead of four and the kicking on first which the plays were run off, seemed keen on the 52-yard run.

Many same teams play another exhibition next weekend in San Francisco.

Boyd Verdicts Willie Vaughn; Wants Giardello

NEW YORK (AP)—Bobby Boyd let it be known today after defeating Willie Vaughn for his fifth straight victory that he wants Giardello and nobody else for his next fight.

Boyd, not Giardello who shattered the Chicago middleweight's string at that title at September, was turning in his second straight 10-round split decision victory.

Referee Harry Kessler and judge Arthur Aidala each gave Boyd nine rounds to seven. Frank Fullam had each fighter winning five rounds with the same number of points for a draw. The Associated Press scored it 5-4-1 for Boyd.

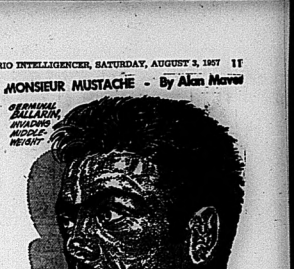
There were no knockdowns in the dimly - closely fought bout. Boyd's sharper punching paid off.

Timbermen Nip Hamilton 5-3

PETERBOROUGH, (CP)—Peterborough Timbermen rallied for three goals in the fifth period to grab a 5-3 victory over Hamilton Burmers in Ontario Lacrosse Association senior play Friday night.

The win kept Petes within a game of the leading Long Branch Pontiacs, with Hamilton third.

Gord Hunt led the victors with two goals. Bud Leeming, Rock Bailey and Carl Brioux got one each. Hamilton scorers were Jim McKinnon and Jerry Fitzgerald.



Don't Let That Fish Outsmart You

When anglers gather and conamong themselves about fish and fishing, it is not uncommon case of them mention "a smart old brown trout" or "a smart old bass" or a smart anything or other. Believe me, no fish is smart. If a fish had any degree of common sense, we simply could not catch him with the lures we use.

For several years I lived in Florida and in the winter time winters I have fished in the Florida Keys for periods ranging from three to six weeks each year. It naturally follows that I have done a great deal of fishing in Florida waters.

The animal which most closely resembles a fish, both in appearance and behavior, is the porpoise. These animals are quite common in Southern waters and frequently follow boats and ships in all sorts certainly to not less than 100 of them. To be sure, once in a while they will pause to inspect a lure but never do any of them offer to take one of them. So far as I know a porpoise has never been hooked on an angling lure of any sort.

While fish can in no sense be classed as intelligent, there are some varieties which do seem to have more sense than others. Take bass, for example. It has been my experience that adult smallmouth bass are far more difficult to catch than, are adult largemouth bass.

TARPON IS DUMB

Of all the game fish that swim in the shallow waters of Florida Bay, bonefish headquarters of the Florida Keys, the tarpon is the dumb-bell of the lot. Perhaps the fact that he is the largest fish has few natural enemies has something to do with his lack of caution. The fact remains that anything that is colorful or flashy is regarded as his personal dish. While landing him is somewhat on the difficult side, the fact remains that he certainly is easy to hook.

The bonefish has the reputation of being smart and wary. Don't you believe it. A bonefish in deep water will be taken in time by a feeding on the shallow sand flats he does become alert. But it does expose to the natural enemies and the least thing, such as the shadow of a passing bird, will start him flying for sanctuary in deep water.

Conversely, the smallmouth bass show more comparative sagacity than the other game fish in the shallow waters. Where he has been subjected to fishing pressure he has begun to entrise his fancy he seems to possess an awareness that is lacking elsewhere. Adult bass are found in my home waters west of the lot.

In our trout water streams, the brook trout is just about the easiest trout to catch. He will take almost anything that looks like a fish. A respecting brown trout wouldn't even consider. Rainbow trout are almost as stupid although he does acquire a certain amount of selfconfidence after he has been in the stream for awhile and has attained some size.

BROWN TROUT SMARTEST

But for my money, the brown trout tops the list when it comes to anything anything approaching intelligence. To be sure, he will take artificial flies, but he is a bit more particular about his selections than are the other varieties. If he had any actual intelligence he surely could determine that anything obviously m a d e of feathers, wool, tinsel, etc., and with a hook protruding from the stiffestich couldn't possibly be edible, but, as I say, such intelligence is only conjectural. Thus, hp does take artificial flies now and then.

When a trout is first stocked from the hatchery, naturally he must acclimate himself to his new surroundings. It takes brook and rainbow trout some time to do this, but a brown trout does so in a smart. If a fish had any degree of common sense, we simply could not catch him with the lures we use.

For several years I lived in Florida and in the winter time winters I have fished in the Florida Keys for periods ranging from three to six weeks each year. It naturally follows that I have done a great deal of fishing in Florida waters.

The animal which most closely resembles a fish, both in appearance and behavior, is the porpoise. These animals are quite common in Southern waters and frequently follow boats and ships in all sorts certainly to not less than 100 of them. To be sure, once in a while they will pause to inspect a lure but never do any of them offer to take one of them. So far as I know a porpoise has never been hooked on an angling lure of any sort.

While fish can in no sense be classed as intelligent, there are some varieties which do seem to have more sense than others. Take bass, for example. It has been my experience that adult smallmouth bass are far more difficult to catch than, are adult largemouth bass.

TARPON IS DUMB

Of all the game fish that swim in the shallow waters of Florida Bay, bonefish headquarters of the Florida Keys, the tarpon is the dumb-bell of the lot. Perhaps the fact that he is the largest fish has few natural enemies has something to do with his lack of caution. The fact remains that anything that is colorful or flashy is regarded as his personal dish. While landing him is somewhat on the difficult side, the fact remains that he certainly is easy to hook.

The bonefish has the reputation of being smart and wary. Don't you believe it. A bonefish in deep water will be taken in time by a feeding on the shallow sand flats he does become alert. But it does expose to the natural enemies and the least thing, such as the shadow of a passing bird, will start him flying for sanctuary in deep water.

Conversely, the smallmouth bass show more comparative sagacity than the other game fish in the shallow waters. Where he has been subjected to fishing pressure he has begun to entrise his fancy he seems to possess an awareness that is lacking elsewhere. Adult bass are found in my home waters west of the lot.

In our trout water streams, the brook trout is just about the easiest trout to catch. He will take almost anything that looks like a fish. A respecting brown trout wouldn't even consider. Rainbow trout are almost as stupid although he does acquire a certain amount of self-confidence after he has been in the stream for awhile and has attained some size.

BREAK EVEN

BRUSSELS (AP)—Italy and Belgium broke even Friday in the opening singles matches of the final round European zone Davis Cup competition.

Nicola Pietrangeli of Italy massacred Jacques Brichant in the first match, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3 but Belgium's Philippe Washer even with Giuseppe Merlo 6-2, 6-2 in the second.

St. Kitts Upset Pontiacs 17-12

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Athletics weathered a third-period scoring spell and held on the league - leading Long Branch Pontiacs 17-12 in Ontario senior lacrosse action here play Friday night.

Pontiacs took advantage of a five-minute slashing penalty to Doug Smith in the third to pump in four goals to tie St. Catharines answered with five goals. Ron Hall, special man, blasted three of his total in the last five minutes. Bill Allen and Doug Smith added singles.

Larry Ruse and Polly Henderson led Long Branch with four goals each.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the star.

For Monday, August 5, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Arius) — A mixed day, with unusual (if sound) matters favored. You may have to work harder in the more delicate and artistic things, also at menial work but don't give up — you'll win.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — No unfriendly influences, but neither are they overly generous, especially where artistry and keen judgment are concerned. Be thoughtful, duly concerned in legal matters. Unique activities, hard work under good aspects.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Be patient, conscientious, and you will avoid mistakes. Day has some tricky periods for the careless. Be your keen, smart self; you can earn many benefits. Hard work pays.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Dealers in lumber, metal materials; shoemakers, gardeners, etc. under fine Saturn rays. The unique and creative in entertainment, new ideas for bettering things generally also favored.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Unusually good influences. Organizing, promoting worthwhile matters, electronics, handling chemicals, other products highly favored. A day to encourage your talents.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Try out new ideas, difficult projects. A day for experimenting, increasing benefits and credits, for taking progressive measures.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Constructive influences. You can benefit by them by capitalizing on your fine knowledge and accenting your efficiency. Show your skill at all tasks.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Annoying incidents not likely now. Help keep it a good day. Fine rays for planning for the future and laying the groundwork for this week's work especially.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Needed changes and improvements can be made to advantage. Help others to look brightly ahead by being pleasant. Not all activities are stimulated but day is mostly auspicious.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You have common sense in abundance so keep your good humor and patience and you can do wonders in your field, and other endeavors, too. Add new twists, new designs to improve your work.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Your Uranus and Saturn in best positions of all now. Unless on vacation, make the most of this truly advantageous period to advance your work, increase income, etc.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Aim for a better record in what you are doing; add to income even if by saving more wisely. But don't stint where health or family happiness require some expense.

You born today are interesting, usually high-spirited, ambitious, ever ready to take on new interests. You also have some faults, harmful if permitted the upperhand. Take to heart head advice, sound suggestions of those who [illegible] improve every day. You can have success late in life. Birthdate: Guy de Maupassant, Fr. novelist, poet.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A splendid day for most lines of business, trades, manufacturing, taking stock, handling produce, personal affairs. Jupiter's aspect, however, warns against extravagance, foolish financial transactions. Common sense!

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Strong benefic aspects from Venus, the Sun, Mars and the Moon highly favor personal interests; sound business ventures; seeking, granting requests.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — All worthwhile activities are governed by fine aspects, but your Mercury warns against partial errors in reaching for unusuals; don't fret if you don't tops today. Enjoy relaxation.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A most encouraging and helpful day; you should make the most of every sound opportunity and suggestion. Maintain your sense of humor. You should make at least some gain now.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Fine influences for industry, trades, building, railroading, science and all worthwhile endeavors. Try to improve the quality of your work, making advancement wherever you can.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Without wearing yourself out, you can and should, keep pace with a worthwhile program. So many diversified and interesting activities are sponsored that you should gain much.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Influences are very generous for important research, inventions, improvements in everyday work, trades; plan for seeking earned advancement, favors. All wholesome interests, home duties favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Be advised not to be foolishly extravagant or at all careless with money, etc. Otherwise, you have the go sign for all worthwhile activities. A day for gain, achievement, getting ahead.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Jupiter's aspect advises against careless handling of money, investments, etc. But the Sun and other planets are auspicious and encourage all sound matters, work, healthy pastimes.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Many benefic influences. Follow up on your good ideas and intentions. You have some bright prospects ahead. There's no need to worry or fret; step out with faith — get achieved.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Your aspects warn against ill-timed action or unwarranted changes. Otherwise, it is a grand day for earnest and intelligent plans, management. Don't be complacent; strive to excel.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — All good intentions and fine work will lead to some achievement this fine day. You can find many opportunities for all of you, so you can do it to-and advantages so don't lose out because of inattention. A fine period for recreation.

You Born Today are bright, engaging in manner, capable; can do wonders with your diversified talents when you put them to good use. Forget irritations; you are too big and broadminded to bother with petty matters. Keep improving your education and the quality of your work. Heed sound suggestions; confer with those who can assist you in bettering yourself.

Little Benny's Notebook

Me and Puds Simkins and Glasses Magee was sitting on Puds's front steps getting our breths and talking about diffrent things such as whether we could live happy without money. Glasses saying it might be possible on a desert island where there was nothing to spend it on but to just buy it, and I said, I wish I knew some good easy way to make money during recession.

So do I, Puds said, and Glasses said, Oh boy, me too.

Which is just then something happened seeming like a miracle, being old lady Hinkle coming up and saying, Would any of you boys like to earn a little money?

Sure, G, I would, sure, I would, sure, we all said, and Puds said, I said it first.

Like fun you did, I said it first, I said, and Glasses said, Go on, I said it away ahead of either of you.

Well now there's no need to quarrel over it, boys, old lady Hinkle said. There's enough work for all of you, so you can do it together and keep each other company and I'll pay you each a dime. My flower garden is just full of weeds, and I'm sure if you all pitch in it wont take you more than a couple of hours, she said.

Me thinking, Heck, and I said, G, I just remembered. My mother warned me to be reddy when she calls me for something. I said and Puds said, I'm supose to be going a errand right now, heck, I better get started.

Gosh, that reminds me, I'm needed for something, Glasses said.

The result being old lady Hinkle went away partly mad, and proving there's no sutch thing as good easy work if you expect to get paid for it.

PIGS MENACE

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters) — Wild pigs rampaging through farming areas of Queensland have caused heavy losses to crops and farm animals, besides destroying fences.

ANCIENT LOOT

PEIPING (Reuters)—Archaeological bandits have been making profits in Chekiang province. They still find a good market in Shanghai for relics stolen from tombs and ancient temples.

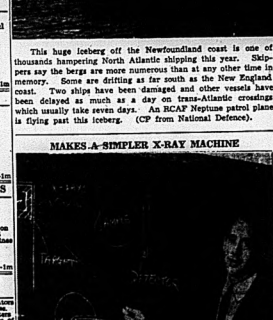
ICEBERG MENACE

This huge iceberg off the Newfoundland coast is one of thousands hampering North Atlantic shipping this year. Skippers say the bergs are more numerous than at any other time in memory. Some are drifting as far south as the New England coast. Two ships have been damaged and other vessels have been delayed as much as a day on trans-Atlantic crossings which usually take seven days. An RCAF Neptune patrol plane is flying past this iceberg. (CP from National Defence).

MAKES A SIMPLER X-RAY MACHINE



The latest scientific wonder, a new X-ray machine, is demonstrated by its developer, Dr. Leonard Reiffel, a Chicago physicist. The rod Dr. Reiffel holds is designed by inserting it into the sphere. The rod can then be waved over the portion of the body to be X-rayed. The rays from the rod are registered on a plate behind the patient. Dr. Reiffel says general practitioners will probably use the sphere instead of the rod. Removal of a cap from the sphere permits the rays to be emitted toward the patient. The conventional X-ray tube is a complex, bulky, and expensive vacuum lamp, operating under high voltage.

4th Thurlow

4TH THURLOW — Miss Lena Sills, of Toronto, was an overnight guest on Friday of Mr. and Mrs. George Sills.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Sills, of Peterborough, spent Monday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Sills.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilles Charlton and son, Mark, of Mason, Quebec, arrived on Saturday, to spend a few days with Mrs. Fred Garrison and family.

Mrs. Clare Sills and Nancy spent a couple of days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Sills, of Peterborough.

Mr. J. Gibson, of Brockville, occupied the pulpit at Bethany, on Sunday in the absence of Rev. R. J. McCrea and had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. George Sills and tea with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ritz.

Mr. Roscoe Garrison, Miss Carol Garrison and Mr. Ken Howe, of Belleville, left on Tuesday and are holidaying in Buckingham, Ottawa, and New York.

Masters Ronnie, John and Allan Treverton, of Madoc, are holidaying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Treverton and Mrs. S. C. Cooley.

Master Ronnie, John and Allan Treverton, of Madoc, are holidaying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Treverton and Mrs. S. C. Cooley.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sills attended the funeral of Mrs. Hiram Adams, of Redmerville, on Saturday afternoon.

Hubble Clan Holds Reunion, Elects Officers

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

The 8th annual Hubble reunion picnic was held July 28 at Frankford Memorial Hall with approximately 90 members of the clan in attendance.

Reeve H. W. Rose of Frankford extended a civic welcome to the group, inviting members to attend the special decoration service held at the cenotaph that afternoon under the direction of Frankford Branch No. 387 of the Canadian Legion.

The group gathered in the dining hall for a brief program, under the direction of the president, Mr. Cecil Hubble, Foxboro. A period of silence was observed for three members who died since the last reunion — namely Westcott, William Montgomery and Mrs. Lily Rodgers.

Mrs. Russell Fryer gave a resume of the business. Brief addresses were given by Mrs. Ina Hoplana, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mrs. Russel Hubel and Mrs. Don Terry. Members heard tentative plans for publishing the Hubble history early in 1958. It is hoped that pictures of the family of the pioneer Nehemiah may be found in old photo albums, to be used in the book.

Prizes awarded during the afternoon were as follows: family travelling the greatest distance — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hay, Chatham; largest family in attendance — Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hubble, Glen Ross, with 17 children and grandchildren; the youngest couple — Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hubble, Foxboro, 50 years; youngest married couple — Mr. and Mrs. Keith Terry, Dunbarton, married June 8, 1957; oldest person in attendance — Edward Montgomery, Foxboro, who was 91 years old in May; and the youngest child — Daphne Hubble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hubble, Kingston, born in February, 1957.

Mrs. Percy Hubble, Stockdale, conducted the election of officers. She moved a vote of thanks to the officers and historians for their work during the year. Mrs. Percy MacMullen for her work in connection with the Hubble history. Mrs. Hubel moved Mount Pleasant Rawdon.

Mrs. Lorne Hubble was tendered a special ovation as she was celebrating her 70th birthday anniversary.

Newly-elected officers are: president, Cecil Hubble, Foxboro; first vice-president, Everett Hubble, Belleville R.R. 5; second vice-president, Ken Campbellford; secretary, Mrs. Russell Fryer, Stirling; corresponding secretaries, Mrs. Selbourne Westover and Mrs. Everett Hubble, Belleville; sports committee, Burton Hubble, Belleville, and John Howard, Stockdale; auditor, 2-in-one committee, Mrs. John McColl, Wooler; and historical committee, Mrs. Don Terry, Mrs. Russel Hubel and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Members of the ways and means committee are Clifford Hubble, Glen Ross, chairman; Ross Hubble, Mrs. Clarence Hay, Cecil Hubble, Mrs. Don Terry and Mrs. Percy Hubble.

Guests were present from Shannonville, Belleville, Foxboro, Stirling, Springbrook, Marmora, Deseronto, Bancroft, Chatham, Carmel, Glen Ross, River Valley, Frankford, Stockdale, Dunbarton, Tweed, Chesham, Whitby and other points in the area.

The 1958 reunion will be held in the Frankford Memorial Hall on the fourth Sunday in July.

91 Accidental Deaths During Holiday Weekend

Traffic Accidents Take 52 Lives Across Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hot weather and the civic holiday combined to raise Canada's accidental death toll to 91 during the weekend, a Canadian Press survey to midnight local time Monday showed.

Traffic accidents accounted for 52 lives, 31 were drowned and eight met death in other mishaps. The Canadian Highway Safety Conference last week predicted a total of 50 traffic deaths.

The survey started at 6 p.m. local time Friday. Monday was a civic holiday in Ontario and some other communities throughout the country.

Ontario led the provinces with 36 deaths—21 on the highways, 10 drownings and five miscellaneous.

QUEBEC RUNS SECOND

Quebec followed with 31—20 traffic and 11 drownings. Alberta, which also observed the holiday, reported seven, Saskatchewan five, British Columbia and Nova Scotia four each and New Brunswick and Manitoba two each. Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland reported no fatalities.

In Quebec a mother and three children were drowned at Thetford Mines when they were swept by floods from the family car's automobile where they had been trapped in a heavy rainstorm.

At Kitchener, Ont., a student pilot died when his light plane crashed into a farmer's field.

Ontario deaths:

Robert Maloney, 47, of Hull, Que., died in hospital in Pembroke Friday night from injuries suffered in a two - car crash shortly before.

George Billinger, 29, of Toronto died in hospital Saturday after he fell from a boat while crossing a street in Toronto.

Rosaire Baker, 18, of Preston was killed Sunday in a head-on collision on Highway 2 near Brockville. Six others were taken to hospital.

Cuban Rebels Are Now Staging War of Nerves

HAVANA (AP)—Rebel leader Fidel Castro has opened a war of nerves against the government of President Fulgencio Batista.

Apparently beaten in an attempt to topple Batista through a country-wide strike, Castro's followers broke in on private telephone conversations throughout Havana Monday, shouting:

"We have taken the presidential palace." "Long live Fidel Castro."

Meanwhile, Castro's rebel radio broadcast appeals for workers to stay away from their jobs and gave them instructions on how to make Molotov cocktail bombs. Elsewhere, rebel supporters spread rumors that Batista had been ousted.

SITUATION NORMAL

Government reports from all the provinces on this island republic said everything was normal.

Batista ordered a crackdown on strike agitation and saboteurs Sunday and decreed workers not back on their jobs by today would lose their jobs permanently. Officials said there was a general back-to-work movement.

Batista's opponents, who call him a dictator, had hoped a general strike would win the support of the Cuban Confederation of Labor. They figured the strike would cause so much trouble Batista's army, or at least part of it, would desert him.

Eusebio Mujal, the confederation's secretary-general, said the rebel combat call was a total failure. Most workers stayed on the job.

Diefenbaker Will Announce New Ministers

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today he will announce appointments to some new cabinet members and parliamentary assistants Wednesday.

Mr. Diefenbaker, talking to reporters, refused to say how many in each category would be named. He would say only that there would be "some" of each.

There are five cabinet vacancies and the number has 16 ministers besides himself. He holds temporarily the veterans affairs portfolio.

The ministerial vacancies are agriculture, defence production, health and welfare, citizenship and immigration and mines and technical surveys.

It is expected that one of the appointments will be to the agriculture portfolio, now held by Resources Minister Harkness.

The parliamentary assistants will be the first appointed by Mr. Diefenbaker since his government took office June 21. The preceding federal government had up to about 15 assistants at various times.

A prominent businessman was asked to describe an expert. "An expert," he said, "is a man wearing a tie and an important look on his face, and he knows how to complicate simplicity."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The cool air which brushed across Ontario over the weekend now covers most of Eastern Canada. Temperatures tonight to near 50 in southern Ontario this morning and down into the low 30s in the north country. Skies will be partly cloudy today across the province. Temperatures will be about five degrees warmer than Monday, ranging from 65 to 75 this afternoon.

Sunny and warmer weather is forecast for Wednesday.

Legion's Speaking Winners Announced

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Finals of the Canadian Legion Oratorio command public speaking contests were run off at the 38th biennial convention Monday and Tuesday.

The results: Cindy Shanotz, Port Colborne, junior elementary; Carol Ann Fershbach, 14, Kitchener, senior elementary; Ann Hershburg, junior secondary; John Dick, 19, Kitchener, senior secondary.

EXCUSE NO GOOD

DETROIT (AP) — A plea of technological unemployment by a man charged with vagrancy didn't impress Judge Clement A. Brosnahan Monday. The man made his plea in remarks about the need to be a bowling pinsetter but the alleys where he worked now have mechanical setters. He got 30 days.

Young Peer's Criticism of Queen's Speech Sparks Heated Controversy

LONDON (CP) — The controversy over the Queen's speech continued unabated today both at home and overseas. Her defendants were prepared to outnumber those of the 33-year-old peer who started it all.

Most British newspapers have attacked Lord Altrincham for his "impertinent remarks about the monarch—remarks which were published around the world during the weekend. And today both at home and overseas. Her defendants were prepared to outnumber those of the 33-year-old peer who started it all.

Most British newspapers have attacked Lord Altrincham for his "impertinent remarks about the monarch—remarks which were published around the world during the weekend. And today both at home and overseas. Her defendants were prepared to outnumber those of the 33-year-old peer who started it all.

But some papers—notably one in Western Australia—think Altrincham's comments may have some value if they lead to a shakeup in court protocol which they claim cuts off the Royal Family from modern life.

Lord Altrincham, who describes himself as a "radical Tory," is editor of a small-circulation periodical called The National and English Review. In an outspoken article—in the issue which appeared late last week he described the Queen's manner of speaking from the throne in the past and her utterances as those of a "priggish schoolgirl."

He also called for a "truly classless and Commonwealth court" to replace the present Buckingham Palace entourage of "people of the tweedy sort."

A Conservative paper, the Yorkshire Post, summed up the pro and con side rather typically when it said there may be a case for modernizing the court but that Altrincham's personal comments on the Queen were in "execrable bad taste."

ARAB COUNTRIES MUST REFORM SOCIAL SYSTEMS

Conference Told All Are Obsolete

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—An Arab states spokesman said today the Arab League countries must abolish or drastically reform their obsolete social systems before they can become prosperous, democratic states.

Dr. Fayez A. Sayegh, acting director of the Arab states delegation office in New York City said quasi-feudal systems of land holding, curtailment of women's rights and indifference to oppressive uses of government power are the roots of Arab progress.

He spoke at the Couchiching conference on international affairs on Lake Couchiching near Orillia.

STRONGEST URGE

Dr. Marshal McLuhan of St. Michael's College, University of Toronto, said that Canadianism consists of an "untaught and spontaneous habit of appraisal of other cultures and other scenes than our own."

Texts of both speeches were released to the press before delivery.

Dr. Sayegh said his peoples' strongest urge is to "attain or to regain their freedom, and better our lives."

Resources development and creation of economic and democratic societies in the Middle East depended on "rapid stabilization or the essential modification of obsolete institutions, systems and outlooks."

IDENTITY WILL DEVELOP

Dr. McLuhan said Canadianism would "never be found in the search for an elusive national psyche." The country's national and literary identity would develop as each became more aware of the influence which "have so long postponed the development of this unique egotism."

Angus Maude, Conservative member of the British House of Commons, said Monday night that Russia's penetration into the Middle East had created a situation of continuing danger.

Mr. Maude examined this danger by indirectly provoking the threat of American military counter-action in the Middle East. This has patently increased the risk of a third world war," he said.

Josef Korbel, professor of international relations at Denver University, said that the current twist of history the Western powers cannot afford the "colonial stigma" while Russia is hailed as a champion of nationalism.

Federal Election Predicted Before Next July

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Public Works Minister Howard Green says a federal election will be called "before next July."

He stressed he was expressing a personal opinion and was not speaking officially.

Mr. Green, MP for Vancouver Quadra, said Sunday he personally believes there would have been an election this fall had it not been for Queen Elizabeth's decision to visit Canada and open Parliament.

The proposals came Monday night in an impassioned speech by Archbishop Ildebrando Sante Uberto Barbieri of Argentina, who said religious minorities are oppressed "wherever the Roman Catholic Church is dominant."

He termed the Roman Catholic Church a "totalitarian power" and said it forces itself on populations "not by the grandness of the gospel of Jesus Christ but by political means and treachery."

The Roman Catholic Church does not belong to the world council, which is made up of 165 Protestant and Orthodox churches in 50 countries.

Dr. Barbieri spoke over a prepared resolution saying Protestants in Columbia have suffered "grave disabilities" and expressing hope that "the new government there will restore religious freedom." It did not mention the Roman Catholic Church.

Rev. K. Block of Columbia called the statement "timid and tepid," and theologian H. C. W. d'Espine of Geneva also said it was inadequate.

The Anglican Bishop of Chichester, England, Most Rev. George K. A. Bell, said Bishop

INVENTION FOR A LAZY MAN

David W. Howell, 18, of Whittier, Calif., is a lazy young man who has wearied of watching suburbanites chasing lawnmowers over lawns. Believing that grass cutting should not interfere with one's week-end leisure, he devised the "Mighty Mow," a remote-controlled device which he demonstrates here in Central Park, New York. New Jobs for Khrushchev, Bulganin Seen by Diplomats

WASHINGTON (AP)—Western diplomatic officials speculated today that new jobs may be in the offing for Russia's Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Defence Minister Georgi Zhukov.

The speculation about another Kremlin shakeup was inspired by the circumstances surrounding party chief Nikita Khrushchev's rendezvous in Romania last Thursday and Friday with President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Bulganin missed those talks and also was omitted from the list of officials joining Khrushchev in a scheduled visit this week to East Germany.

Speculating on new Kremlin moves in an uncertain business at best, the Western diplomats concede, but they hazard guesses that:

1. Bulganin, noticeably shrinking in prominence since Khrushchev launched an attack on his leadership last June, might be kicked upstairs to the presidency. This powerless post now is held by the aged Klementi Voroshilov.

2. Zhukov, President Eisenhower's Second World War comrade, might succeed Bulganin as premier, giving Khrushchev a chance to cash in on Zhukov's high personal popularity with the Russian people and making official a general belief that Zhukov now rates second only to Khrushchev in Russian power.

But there has been speculation about that the premiership might go instead to Anastas Mikoyan, the deputy premier and economic expert named to accompany Khrushchev to East Germany.

There are three main points in the speculation that Voroshilov is a pre-Stalin antiquity ready for retirement, that Bulganin's record has support of Khrushchev and no longer is considered worthy of his post, and that Zhukov would be a popular choice to replace him as premier.

Bulganin is widely reported to have sided with the deposed leaders Georgi Malenkov and V. M. Molotov during the fateful central committee struggle in June. Bulganin has taken a conspicuous back seat ever since.

Zhukov, on the other hand, is reported to have helped Khrushchev win in the struggle for power, and apparently has gained stature since.

Soviet spokesmen in East Berlin denied Monday that Bulganin was ailing during his East Germany because of illness. They said Mikoyan was going along because economic matters would be discussed, and he is an economic expert. In the despatch that Bulganin was ill, the spokesmen neither confirmed nor denied that he was in trouble politically.

Moscow radio said Bulganin, along with Khrushchev, Zhukov and other Soviet leaders, attended a reception given Monday by a visiting Syrian delegation. He also was present with them at a World Youth Festival party in the Kremlin Monday night.

Church Meet Likely to Drop Motion Assailing Catholics

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A report that the World Council of Churches pass a resolution branding the Roman Catholic Church as dangerous to religious liberties in some countries appears likely to be dropped.

Officials, assessing sentiment at a meeting of the council's policy-making central committee here, predicted this outcome today.

The proposals came Monday night in an impassioned speech by Archbishop Ildebrando Sante Uberto Barbieri of Argentina, who said religious minorities are oppressed "wherever the Roman Catholic Church is dominant."

He termed the Roman Catholic Church a "totalitarian power" and said it forces itself on populations "not by the grandness of the gospel of Jesus Christ but by political means and treachery."

The Roman Catholic Church does not belong to the world council, which is made up of 165 Protestant and Orthodox churches in 50 countries.

Dr. Barbieri spoke over a prepared resolution saying Protestants in Columbia have suffered "grave disabilities" and expressing hope that "the new government there will restore religious freedom." It did not mention the Roman Catholic Church.

Rev. K. Block of Columbia called the statement "timid and tepid," and theologian H. C. W. d'Espine of Geneva also said it was inadequate.

The Anglican Bishop of Chichester, England, Most Rev. George K. A. Bell, said Bishop Barbieri's proposal "goes into deeper and bigger questions" than the council is prepared to discuss at this time.

He moved that the statement on Columbia be withdrawn and the meeting so voted. But officials said a general statement on religious liberty will be issued later.

Earlier Monday, the church leaders urged governments to halt nuclear bomb tests as a trial bid for peace. Nations should take the step alone if necessary and to break up the atomic arms race.

In a major, long-deliberated action, the council said a moratorium of tests by any government conducting them would pave the way for international agreements banning the bomb.

Such mass destruction weapons "inevitably involve spiritual degradation for any nation that uses them," and their continued production raises parallel moral issues, the statement said.

Council officers were authorized to present the recommendation to the governments concerned. This would include Russia, the United States and Britain, the only three carrying on atomic tests.

WAS LAKE SKIPPER

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — Captain A. N. Hogue, 74, of Owen Sound, for half a century a Great Lakes pilot and captain, died here Saturday at her home for seven seasons. Survivors include a brother, Captain A. J. Hogue of Toronto, and a sister, Mrs. Willard Christie of Owen Sound.

NEW YORK PUTS ROOKIE POLICE OUT ON BEATS

Juvenile Crime Wave Treated as Emergency

NEW YORK (AP)—New York City's 600 student policemen start pounding beats tonight on shadowy streets where youth gangs is most likely to erupt.

The emergency move was ordered Monday after a hastily called meeting of city and state officials. They met to plan a counter-attack against a recent rash of juvenile crime which has seen three killings and a series of beatings and brawls involving teen-agers in the last 11 days.

The young rookies will be armed with nightsticks and pistols. Each rookie's beat will be linked with two others manned by experienced policemen.

The city's 23,000-man regular police force is under a special alert against outbreaks of juvenile crime. Teams of detectives have been assigned to areas where youth gangsterism occurred recently.

The department also has ordered a special watch on taverns that may be selling liquor or beer to youths under 18.

UP TO PARENTS

Monday's meeting brought together the state youth commission, the city youth board and police department youth crime experts.

After the meeting, William R. Peer, executive secretary to Mayor Robert F. Wagner, made the announcement about the rookie patrolmen. He added however:

"This does not mean that more police is the complete answer to curing juvenile crime. As a matter of fact, the area in which the Brownsville slaying of a 15-year-old was one of the (police) saturation precincts."

He referred to the Friday night killing of George Marshall, 15-year-old Brooklyn Negro.

The "responsibility for keeping kids out of trouble goes back to the parents," Peer said. "They should know where their children are, especially at night."

There were 29 deaths from juvenile violence in the city in 1956. The count this year already is 22.

Victoria Paper Says BC Govt. Knows of Visit

VICTORIA (CP)—The Colonist says the provincial government "has known for some months" that Princess Margaret will visit British Columbia next year.

The newspaper says the British Columbia government was officially informed that Princess Margaret and her husband Antony Armstrong-Jones would visit the province "at least a year ago."

It says no, protocol-conscious officials hurried to deny the story that the princess had officially been told.

Buckingham Palace has denied reports that Queen Elizabeth's minister Bennett would neither confirm nor deny the rumor.

But the Queen's prime minister in this province I make it a rule to never comment on newspaper story about the Royal Family," Mr. Bennett said.

Earlier visit would be made in connection with B.C.'s 100th birthday celebration next year.

Last Word Not Enough, Wife Demolishes Car to Prove Point

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Robert Smallfields are divorced but ex-wife Wilma doesn't appreciate it.

Smallfield said that when Mrs. Smallfield spotted him, she was in her big 1949 model.

"She made a U-turn and came at me, and I knew she was out for blood," he told officers. "I took off."

She overtook him in traffic, rammed his 1957 hardtop model from behind, caught up with him again at another section and let her car bed it from an angle.

After several more swipes, Smallfield, a mechanic, retreated to his place of business, and while he was trying to get to a telephone to call police, he said, Mrs. Smallfield tried to pin him against a wall. Failing in that, she grabbed a board and took out after him. He jumped in his car and fled.

The Smallfields, married 12 years, were divorced last February. Both are 42. He is under order to pay her $60 monthly. He told police he has been renting room from his former mate for $12 a week, but figures he had better move.

British Troops Ready To Strike Against Rebels

Arab League Seeks Help From 20 Afro-Asian States

MANAMA, Bahrin (Reuters) — British ground forces which have been moved into Oman now are ready to start counter-attacks against rebel tribesmen, an official communique said today.

As the British troops made last-minute preparations, representatives of the Arab League met in Cairo to formulate a unitary plan of aid for Oman in its "struggle against the British."

The league already has called on Communist China and 19 other Afro-Asian states, as well as its own members, to intervene in the fighting between the rebellious Imam of Oman and the pro-British sultan. The imam's representative in Cairo has asked the United States and Russia to join the fight.

FOLLOW RAF STRIKES

Preparations for British ground moves followed numerous RAF strikes by rocket-firing jet fighters against large stone and mud forts controlled by the imam.

An official British spokesman in Bahrin announced that work completed of British troops, plus British - led Arab Legion troops loyal to the sultan of Muscat and Oman.

Cairo has been confused reports that the area of rebel influence has been expanded.

The rebels were said to have advanced about 60 miles south of Ibki, hitherto the easternmost point of rebel-held territory. But it was not certain whether intervening territory also was affected.

NEAR CONCENTRATIONS

Ibki is about 100 miles east of Ibri, where British forces have been concentrating for months.

In Cairo, an Arab League spokesman said eight league envoys discussed submitting the case for Oman to United Nations Security Council. They will report on their findings to their governments.

Jordan was not represented at today's league meeting. It withdrew its representative from Cairo last month in protest over representatives of Egypt, Iraq, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Yemen, Libya and the Sudan.

No Visit Planned

LONDON (AP) — A Buckingham Palace spokesman says there is no visit planned for Princess Margaret's agenda.

The News of the World reported Sunday that the princess would pay her first visit to Canada next year to attend official ceremonies for the province of British Columbia.

The palace spokesman said: "No plans are at present being made for Princess Margaret to visit Canada."

FINDS RADIOACTIVE DUST

TOKYO (Reuters) — Tadayoshi Doke, assistant professor at Kyoto University, announced today he has detected the radioactive isotope plutonium 239 in ground level dust. He said it came from nuclear test fall-out, and was the first time that the existence of plutonium in dust had been confirmed as a result of chemical analysis.

82nd Birthday Of Icelandic Town Observed

GIMLI, Man. (CP)—Thousands of persons took part Monday in the 82nd annual celebration of Islendingadagurinn — Iceland Day —and the 82nd birthday of this small Icelandic community.

The celebrations commemorate the granting of a separate constitution and home rule to Iceland, Aug. 2, 1874, by the king of Denmark. Previously the country was a dependent and subject to Danish laws.

But to the many persons of Icelandic descent here the celebration brought back the history of Gimli, which on Oct. 21, 1875 became the first settlement of Icelandic settlement in North America.

On that day 285 Icelandic settlers arrived here, headed by Sigtryggur Jonasson.

Icelandic colonization in Canada began with the arrival in Quebec, Sept. 13, 1872 of Jonasson. The following year about 200 more settlers arrived and settled in the Halliburton and Muskoka districts of Ontario.

But lack of suitable land for a separate colony prompted the first arrivals to seek another home in western Canada.

Mrs. Eisenhower Undergoes Minor Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Mamie D. Eisenhower underwent an operation today for a "benign" condition. The White House said the operation was "not serious."

The first lady, 60, was reported to be in good condition following the surgery.

The peration was performed at Walter Reed Army Hospital by army gynecologist, Dr. Humbert E. Riva.

The presidential press secretary, James Hagerty, said Mrs. Eisenhower entered the hospital room about 8 a.m. and the surgery was concluded two hours later.

While the operation was in progress, the president was meeting at the White House with Republican congressional leaders.

NOT A TUMOR

Hagerty said he was not able to describe the actual nature of the operation beyond saying it was for a "benign" condition and that it was not a tumor.

Hagerty said it has been known for "quite a little time" that she would require surgery. He added that it was not an emergency operation and that Mrs. Eisenhower had not been in pain.

Hagerty said he does not plan to issue any medical bulletins on her condition.

The spokesman said Mrs. Eisenhower's health is not so robust as might be wished and she has led a somewhat less active life in the White House than have most presidents' wives. But on various times she has rested in bed for several days.

She is known to have suffered some impairment of the heart as the result of an undiagnosed illness many years ago.

ARRESTED IN ACCIDENT

TILLSONBURG (CP)—Edward R. Breen, 29, of Scheberg district, was arrested during the weekend and charged with failing to report an accident. Syd Autrey of Orillia said his car was struck by a car which failed to stop, and overtook it on highway 19.

YOUNGSTER BOATS 16-LB. PIKE

George Campbell, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Campbell, 51 Murney Street, is a happy youngster today for on the holiday, while fishing with his father at Consecon Lake, he hooked a ten-pound pike and boated the fish all by himself. The fish measured 36 1-2 inches and had a large girth. The boy stated that the fish gave him quite a tussle before it was pulled in.

ANONYMOUS CALL ASSISTS POLICE IN ARRESTING TWO

"I was trying to get him to go in," one man said of his partner as police apprehended two drunks at the rear of Calvary Temple Sunday afternoon.

Police received an anonymous call to the effect that two "hard looking customers" were loitering outside the Calvary Temple shortly before service time.

Police said the men had a bottle of rubbing alcohol in their possession when apprehended.

AMBULANCE, NURSING SISTERS ON STANDBY GROUNDS

All precautions were taken on the holiday at the fairgrounds to protect anyone injured, while motorcycle races were being held. The Thomas C. Thompson ambulance was on the grounds, while Provincial Constable Nursing, and Mrs. C. D. Ashley and Superintendent Nursing Cadet, Mrs. H. Read of the St. John Ambulance Corps were also in attendance. The meet was carried out without serious injury to either the riders or the spectators.

PIANO TECHNICIAN ATTENDS CONVENTION

Mr. Bruce C. Sills of 5 Holloway St., Belleville, has just returned home from the 10th annual convention of the American Society of Piano Technicians and Auxiliary, held at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, where all the new styles and colors of the new pianos are shown and illustrated, also the tools for working on them. The manufacturers, the salesmen, the tradesmen, get together and work the new styles, new colors, and the technician tells them the poor points of their pianos, so the manufacturer can correct the weak spots, thus giving the public a small, but a piano of superior quality and style. The new player piano is not only simplified, but is small and beautiful in style, with an orchestral attachment added, free of trouble, and priced very reasonably. The player rolls can be bought again. Some makes have piano and organ combined in one case and can be used together or as separate units. They are electronic. Mr. Sills is a craftsman member of this society.

Want to Beat Wife Fishing? Let Her Row

For over six years Vic White, 603 Albert Street, was the undisputed champion of the family—as far as fishing was concerned, that is.

Back in 1949 Mrs. White, who is mighty handy with rod and reel, hauled in a 5½-pound bass during a vacation trip.

Vic silently determined to put the family fishing crown where he thought it rightfully belonged.

Now he is happy. Now, when fishing becomes the family topic, or wherever men gather, Vic holds his head high and struts. The crown is back. Vic is king of the family anglers.

For the other days while on a northland vacation, Victor hauled in a black beauty that tipped the scales at six pounds flat. Just four ounces over argument weight.

Son Jimmy was not far behind. Already, being the son of Jim Ingram and the lady Rose Anne Meagher and had lived at Stirling for the past nine years. He was a construction worker with the H. J. McFarland Construction Company and was a member of St. James the Minor Church at Stirling.

Besides his father, he is survived by his wife, the former Helen Bailey, one daughter, Mrs. Samuel (Beverley) Mumby, of Trenton, and one son, Barney, of Bancroft.

Highlights of the boys activity today in the fathers vs. Sons softball game.

Wednesday features the mothers' tea. The small fry will act as hostesses and serve cookies, sandwiches and of course a substituted cold soft drink in place of the tea.

While parents are on the playground they will see craft sessions, skits, singing games and in general, how the children spend their leisure time on the playgrounds.

Trinity College Provost Dies At Trenton

TRENTON (CP) — Very Rev. R. S. K. Seeley, provost of Trinity College, Toronto, died in hospital here Saturday of injuries he suffered in a car accident several weeks ago. He was 49.

The Anglican clergyman, an outspoken defender of minority rights and a critic of 20th century materialism, had been provost of the college since 1945.

A graduate of Cambridge University, he came to Canada in 1938 as professor of exegetical theology at St. John's College, Winnipeg, and canon of St. John's Cathedral. In 1941 he was appointed warden of the college.

Two years later he became rector of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, and dean of the diocese of Ontario.

His wife, Mrs. Marjorie Seeley, survives.

HARRY INGRAM

Harry Ingram, Stirling, Drowns At Oak Lake

Fourth member of his family to die violently in little more than three years, Harry Ingram, 51, of Stirling, was drowned in Oak Lake shortly before noon on Sunday.

His body was recovered in about ten minutes by two Americans holidaying at the lake but artificial respiration for almost an hour by Belleville firemen and others failed to revive him.

Mr. Ingram, a former hockey star during the heyday of the Trent Valley League nearly 30 years ago, had taken two Stirling boys to the lake to swim. He was swimming alone when he disappeared beneath the water, his body being recovered in about 10 minutes in five feet of water about 75 feet from shore at Bird's Beach.

A daughter of the drowned man, Sheila, died in an auto accident at Stirling three years ago, while less than two months ago a son, Robert, was killed when the car in which he was riding, turned over on No. 14 Highway, north of Stirling.

Mr. Ingram was born at Campbellford, being the son of John Ingram and the late Rose Anne Meagher and had lived at Stirling for the past nine years. He was a construction worker with the H. J. McFarland Construction Company and was a member of St. James the Minor Church at Stirling.

Besides his father, he is survived by his wife, the former Helen Bailey, one daughter, Mrs. Samuel (Beverley) Mumby, of Trenton, and one son, Barney, of Bancroft.

Police Blotter

Three break-ins which netted burglars close to $90 in cash, and cigarets, were reported to city police over the weekend.

One of the break-ins was at Tedi's Restaurant, where late last week burglars entered and ransacked cabinets. The break-in had been reported earlier but $50 in coin was later found to have been taken.

At the swimming pool on Dundas Street about $30 worth of assorted cigarets were reported missing from the canteen where a door was found to have been forced.

And at Burkholder's Bakery in Sinclair Street, about $8.50 in silver was said missing from drivers' purses.

Borden Lucas, Hillcrest, reported articles missing from his boat anchored at Victoria Park, while a car radio was said stolen from a used car on Trudeau's Station St. lot.

Several minor motor accidents were reported, one of them on Doctor's Hotel lot on Station St., resulting in about $400 damage to two vehicles.

Police said that Joseph Nogy, 23, of Russell Street, driving on a temporary permit, drove into the hotel lot, struck one parked auto and then bumped into a taxi.

Tourist Drowned In Bob's Lake North of Kingston

An American holidayer, Chas. Jacob Ringley, 54, of Mattitan, Ohio, was drowned in Bob's Lake in the Sharbot Lake district Monday afternoon when he was thrown from his motorboat while fishing.

The Ohio man was said to have been still fishing and apparently stood up to start his outboard motor without unstalling his anchor was still down.

The 10-horsepower motor shot the boat forward and then the craft was snubbed short by the anchor line, throwing Mr. Ringley into the water. The man's body has been recovered.

Eight Cows Killed by Bolt Of Lightning

IVANHOE (Special) — Eight milch cows owned by Ted Pollock, were killed Saturday afternoon when they were struck by lightning while huddled under a small tree in a severe electrical storm, which visited the district.

Lightning also struck and demolished the house and outbuildings of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Radnor, Crookston. Mr. and Mrs. Radnor were not at home when the storm struck, but returned to find only the chimney still standing and the contents lost in the blaze. They are now living in a house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stevenson of Detroit.

Playground Week Opens With Program

Today marks the opening of Playground Week in the City of Belleville, the 3rd annual affair sponsored by the Belleville Recreation Committee.

The highlights of today's activities for the girls will be the choosing of a Miss Playground on each of the 13 city playgrounds. The 13 younsters in ages from 3 to 6 will compete for Miss Penny Carnival Friday evening during the Penny Carnival Fair at the East Hill Playground.

Highlights of the boys activity today is the fathers vs. Sons softball game.

Wednesday features the mothers' tea. The small fry will act as hostesses and serve cookies, sandwiches and of course a substituted cold soft drink in place of the tea.

While parents are on the playground they will see craft sessions, skits, singing games and in general, how the children spend their leisure time on the playgrounds.

The funeral was held from St. Patrick's Church, Napanee, on July 22nd.

The Most Reverend E. M. Walsh read the funeral Mass. Interment was in St. Patrick's cemetery.

The bearers were Mike Grady, Vincent Brady, C. Doering, Reuben Brennan, A. J. Walsh and Michael Hanley.

Tenant House Roof Burned

Fire, said to have started in the outhouse, Sunday afternoon burned the roof off a two-storey tenant house on the farm of Jack Sargent, 2nd concession of Sidney township, and badly gutted the upstairs.

Furniture owned by two tenants, Fred Vesterfelt, and Bob McCoy, was all removed by volunteers before the fire gained much headway.

Belleville firemen answered the alarm and succeeded in extinguishing the blaze, using water from two pumpers trucks and a booster well.

The blaze is said to have spread from the outhouse, running at the rear of the dwelling where it caught in the roof.

SEEK TOBACCO JOBS

CHICOUTIMI (CP)—About 250 men and women left Chicoutimi Sunday for the western Ontario tobacco fields, the national unemployment commission office in this Saguenay Valley municipality announced. The workers are headed for Simcoe, Ont., to help fill the demand for extra help during the tobacco harvesting season.

Union to Request Council To Grant Distributor Licence

TRENTON (Special) — The Trenton council would consider the granting of a milk distributors' licence to Local 647 of the Milk Drivers' and Dairy Employees' Union in a public meeting here in the municipal office tonight.

Bernie Whyte, president of the local, applied for the licence to deliver milk in Trenton the day the union brought 6,000 cartons from Oakville for distribution in town one day last week. Mr. Whyte said the union took this action to counteract the dairies providing people with cash and carry service. He said the union was prepared to buy a dairy if the housewives' appeals for home delivery were not answered.

Last Saturday a number of mothers with children joined the Trenton picket line outside the Riverside Dairy. One housewife came in a wheelchair and filed along with the men walking up and down the sidewalk in front of the dairy premises. The men drivers at Riverside Dairy in Trenton and Reid's Dairy in Belleville walked off the job on orders from the president of the local union. At the time of the strike-out the other four dairies in both places were locked when the drivers left, but some arrived for work. The strike came one year after negotiations between the dairies and the drivers failed to result in mutual agreement. The drivers want higher wages, a five-day work week with a six-day dairy operation, and other benefits.

At the meeting tonight delegations from other union locals are expected to make formal requests for re-establishment of home delivery.

Nehru Obtains Anti-Strike Law

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Hundreds of police guarded the Parliament Buildings at 2200 civil servants demonstrated Monday against the approval of an anti-strike bill.

The lower house in a first reading voted 208 to 54 for the bill with 15 abstentions. The bill will receive its final reading today.

Through it, the government of Prime Minister Nehru seeks specific powers to declare illegal all strikes in essential services, with imprisonment and a fine for any one organizing or taking part in them.

The bill is prompted by a threatened strike for more pay of some 500,000 civil servants, including post office, telegraph, telephone and civil aviation employees, due to start Thursday midnight.

Bayview Dairy Hit by Lightning No One Injured

TRENTON (Special) — There was no one hurt when lightning hit the Bayview Dairy here on Saturday, although five employees, including the owner, Bill Wilkinson were in the plant at the time. The bolt, striking with tremendous force, knocked part of the chimney down and tore several holes in the roof. One of the holes measures nine inches across, according to Fire Chief Clarence Orser. He said he believed the lightning followed the chimney hole down inside the building because the inside of the dairy was covered with soot. Damage was done to clean up the mess before processing and bottling could be continued.

Firemen with equipment called to the scene wormed through the long lines of automobile traffic that piled up for several miles either side of the Trent River bridge. It was one of the most irritating jam-ups in months, said a bystander who wondered what would happen if a critically injured person on the east side of town needed treatment at the hospital on the west side when the only bridge in town was virtually closed off by a glut of trucks and cars.

Fire Chief Orser said it was lucky a serious fire didn't start here after the lightning hit. He found shattered bricks strewn over the grounds at the rear of the plant.

Police Court

Cecil Ernest Crawford, in his sixties, of Belleville, appeared in Magistrate's Court this morning, pleaded guilty to driving a truck last Saturday while his ability was impaired and was remanded to seven days in the common jail by Magistrate T. F. Wills. His sentence dates from Saturday.

Four men appeared before the magistrate charged with being intoxicated in public places. Each was found guilty on his plea and all but one were fined $13 or given a choice of going to jail for a week. The exception to the rule it was his third conviction on the W.C.A. charge, was fined $100 and assessed costs of $3, with the option of spending three months in jail.

DAIRY INSPECTOR DIES

TORONTO (CP) — Sydney R. Howe, 56, associate chief of inspection services for the federal products division, died Monday at Brighton, England, it was reported here. A resident of Ottawa, Mr. Howe was on a visit to his native England with his wife and son John. Other survivors include a daughter, Barbara, on the library staff at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Two Hitchhiking Women Robbed

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Police charged three Peterborough men with armed robbery early today after two women hitchhikers told police they were robbed of $10 at gunpoint in a car and then left stranded on a side road.

Charged were Alvin Galloway, 17, James Gerard Avery, 22, and Robert Byrd, 24.

The women, Delphine Kazenelall, 21, and Helen Lasin, 25, both of Kitchener, said they entered the car at Wasaga Beach after the men offered to drive them home.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market took a downward stride today in moderate morning trading.

Trading was faster than most of last week's sessions with an 11 a.m. volume of 649,000 shares compared with Friday's 439,000, the highest in three years.

Industrial price changes, with the exception of Aluminium which lost 3⅛ points at 42¾, were fractional with lopsres holding an edge. Key issues such as B-A Oil, CPR, Seagram's, Ford A and Interprovincial Pipe Line, were off between ¼ and a point. Stelco gained ¾ at 66.

Hudson Bay lost 1¼ points at a new low of 57¾ among senior base metals. International Nickel, Steep Rock and Aconic were off fractions among other issues while Noranda gained a point at 46. Ventures lost 2¼ points at 33¾ among other high-priced mines.

Pacific Pete led senior western oils lower with a 1¾-point loss to 31¼. Other services were off marginal fractions. Most lower-priced issues lost ground in narrow-range trading.

CLC Calls for Suspension of Engineers' Union

OTTAWA (CP)—The executive council of the Canadian Labor Congress, unable to reach a workable no-raiding pact with its big operating engineers affiliate, has advised provincial and local labor bodies to suspend the union.

The International Union of Operating Engineers, with about 10,000 members in Canada, was suspended from the congress earlier this year for raiding other CLC unions.

The 15-man CLC council, opening a three-day meeting Monday, decided following a hearing to call on CLC provincial labor federations and local labor councils to take suspension action too.

Claude Jodoin, president of the 1,000,000-member congress, said in an interview that provincial and local groups were advised to suspend the engineers by Sept. 1.

He said he hoped an understanding could be worked out but the engineers' attitude toward the no-raiding position of the congress was "not satisfactory."

PROMISES NOT KEPT

Mr. Jodoin said that commitments made earlier by Bowlend Hill of Toronto, Canadian head of the operating engineers, were not carried out.

4 Oshawa Boys Held in Regina

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP) Four Oshawa youths, held in connection with a $35 robbery at a shoe store Saturday in this south western Saskatchewan city, were remanded Monday to Aug. 13 on vagrancy charges.

Raymond A. Wood, Grant Bernard, Donald Wood and Blake Bernard Hollingsworth later taken to jail in Regina, where they are to appear next in court.

In a lunchtime robbery Saturday, storeowner Roy Yee was bound, gagged and hit over the head with a gun. He suffered head cuts but was released from hospital Monday.

The youths were picked up while driving a car north of the city, shortly after the robbery.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged today.

The egg market was quiet with receipts in excess of light demand.

Country dealers are quoted on graded eggs delivered here in fibre cases: A large 46; A medium 43; A small 32; B 30; C 22. Wholesale to retail: A large 53; A medium 48; A small 37; B 35; C 27.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario current make 60½-60¾ (nominal); western 61-61¼ (nominal).

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 5 3-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Monday's rate was 94¼ cents. Pound sterling $2.63¾, down ¼.

Tenth of Tobacco Crop Destroyed By Hail Storms

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP)—Federal agriculture estimates of damage caused by three weekend hailstorms to southern Ontario's tobacco crop indicated Monday that one-tenth of the crop area, or 115,000 acres, had been destroyed.

Growers' estimates placed the monetary damage at $5,000,000 and loss of work for 5,000 workers flocking to the area to help in the harvest.

L. S. Vickery of the federal agriculture department's tobacco research station at nearby Delhi said, "No single hailstorm in the past has caused so much damage."

Chairman Jesse Gray of the Ontario Tobacco Marketing Association said the storms, which levelled a strip four miles wide and 25 miles long, from north of Tillsonburg north to Simcoe, ruined 10-12,000,000 pounds of tobacco.

Mr. Gray said the loss may upset plans made to import United States tobacco growers to ease what looked like a shortage of experienced hands. Hundreds of workers who arrived from the U.S. Sunday had found their jobs wiped out by Saturday's storms.

Soviet Embassy Bombed With Aim to Start War

JERUSALEM (AP)—An Israeli official has testified in a preliminary investigation in the case of Heruti, an alleged terrorist, bombed the Soviet Embassy here in 1953 in the aim of provoking Soviet and United States intervention in Israel.

Such intervention presumably would have touched off a Middle East war.

A Tel Aviv district court probably will decide next week whether Heruti will be released on bail before his trial starts later this year.

An Israeli official connected with the security services, whose name is not allowed to be published, has testified that the organization allegedly headed by Heruti carried out an "attack on the Soviet Embassy in the hope of causing Soviet retaliation and American intervention. . . . In the course of which Israel might benefit."

Other plans of the same organization, this official said, included the killing of British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Eric Johnston, formerly President's special envoy in the Jordan River development. Wholesale to retail: A large 53; A medium 48; A small 37; B 35; C 27.

Heruti says he is the leader of the national youth front, which aims at overthrowing Socialism of the kingdom of Israel in its ancient glory."

NASSER IS A NAVY MAN NOW

Part of the celebration of the 5th anniversary of the overthrow of King Farouk of Egypt was a naval review, held off Alexandria for the benefit of President Gamal Abdel Nasser. On the bridge of the destroyer "Nasser," one of the naval craft, supplied to Egypt by Russia, Nasser (dark glasses) talks to Maj-Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, commander in chief of Egypt's armed forces. Russia has given Egypt a submarine as well as several surface vessels.

Toronto Man Charged in Death Of Son, Aged 5

TORONTO (CP)—Marcel Lloyd Bezeau, 29, of Toronto today was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of his five-year-old son, Richard.

The boy, severely bruised, was pronounced dead Monday night on arrival at hospital.

Bezeau and his wife, Greta, 21, told police Richard received the injuries in a fall down the cellar stairs in their dilapidated two-room home.

Inspector Harold Hodgson said some of the bruises on the boy's body did not appear to be consistent with an accidental fall.

An autopsy was scheduled for today.

The Children's Aid Society is looking after the other Bezeau children, aged three, two and two months.

Police said Mr. and Mrs. Bezeau got a neighbor to drive them with their son to hospital. They said the family has been on relief for some time.

STRAP SEIZED

Police have seized a strap alleged to have been used in whipping the boy.

The hospital reported the, boy had multiple bruises on the lower abdomen and cuts on other parts of his body.

A neighbor, Don Jorgensen, 23, told police that when he came into the house Bezeau was giving Richard artificial respiration. He said the boy was wearing only shorts.

Picton Man Seriously Hurt By Stepping in Front of Car

The Bay of Quinte district escaped without any highway fatalities over the long holiday weekend, but in two instances persons were sent to hospital with injuries following motor mishaps.

At Prince Edward County Hospital, Gerald Lott, 24, of Picton, is in critical condition with fractures of both ankles and shoulders, a broken left leg and fractured skull suffered when he was struck by a car on the West Lake Road, two miles south of Bloomfield.

The accident occurred at 12.30 Sunday morning as Mr. Lott was walking west on the county road. He is said to have stepped in front of an eastbound vehicle driven by Chas. E. Lancaster, of 66 Mikel Ave., Belleville.

The driver of the car slowed down when he saw the pedestrian approaching in the middle of the road but just as he was about to pass the man stepped in front of the car.

Two accidents occurred on No. 37 Highway north of Belleville, one of the mishaps sending two women to hospital, while the other shaking up five passengers, when the vehicle missed a curve and struck a guy, a telephone and hydro pole, cutting off power in the Canniffon area for two hours.

Taken to hospital by Pinkston and Lancaster Ambulance, were Mrs. Vivian Foster, 28, of 147 Pinnacle Street, driver of one of the cars in the first noted accident. She suffered lacerations to her head, chest and hip injuries, while a passenger, Kathleen Leavitt, same address, suffered lacerations.

TWO WOMEN INJURED

The two women were injured when their northbound auto was in collision with a southbound auto driven by Michael Birchford, Toronto, near a curve a short distance north of College street. Provincial Constable R. Rice investigated.

Four persons were shaken up shortly after midnight Sun. when their car went out of control on a curve at the south end of Cannifton and toppled a telephone and hydro pole across the highway.

Shaken up in the mishap were three Quinte hikers, Bill Foster, Jack Stark and Art Culloden, all of Belleville, and Mrs. Melville Armstrong, Brockville, wife of the driver.

The car, a 1957 model rented from a drive yourself agency, was damaged to the extent of about $1,500. Provincial Constable Gordon Oliver investigated the accident.

In still another mishap, this time on No. 2 highway in front of the Hastings county home, a rear-end collision shook up a female passenger in the second vehicle.

A pickup truck driven by Lowell York, 16, Sidney township, was waiting to make a left hand turn into the county home when struck in the rear by another vehicle driven by Percy Chambers, 35 Mikel Ave., Belleville.

Mrs. Chambers was shaken up and was treated at the scene by the passing physician Dr. A. Moguchi, of Kingston Military Hospital.

Provincial Constable R. Rice said damage to both vehicles was about $450.

KEPT IN CAGE

FRANKFURT, West Germany (Reuters)—The "man in the glass cage," Erich Egli, was sentenced Tuesday to life imprisonment for the sadistic strangling of a 10-year-old boy. Egli, 29, who suffers from tuberculosis, accepted his nickname when he was kept in a glass cage throughout the trial to protect others in court from catching the disease.

CUSTOMER IS THE BEST SALESMAN

"German Housewives Mail-Order Happy" reads a headline in a Vancouver paper.

The story beneath the headline did not quite live up to advance notice. The headline suggested that German women were on a buying binge from mail-order houses. Actually it related that for the first time since before the war Germans could place orders up to $24 with foreign mail-order firms.

The headline, though, served to remind us that buying habits of Canadians, too, have been changing in the post-war years. There was a time when some local merchants feared that mail-order houses would practically put them out of business. The mail-order firms had certain obvious advantages, not merely the fact that their turnover was large but also the additional fact that their sales could be made from warehoused stock, without the expense of displaying it and showing it to customers. But the opportunity to inspect goods and to have their advantages explained by salesmen was exactly what many customers wanted above all else. That, at least, seems the most reasonable explanation for the fact that such large mail-order firms as Eaton's and Simpson's now have branch stores in many centres, including Belleville.

Exactly the same yen by customers to see what they are buying seems to us to explain the rise of the super-market in the grocery business. The independent grocer made many of his sales over the telephone, the customer entering the store only occasionally. But when the chain stores started to display their merchandise in self-service style, many housewives, attracted at first by low prices, soon decided that the opportunity to select their needs from a wide variety of merchandise more than offset the inconvenience of shopping in person instead of by telephone.

Self-service must have shocked many sales experts when it was first introduced. How could sales be stimulated with no clerk to suggest and remind? But housewives, wandering down the aisles loaded with every conceivable type of food, soon proved that the customer is the best salesman.

Some of the more extravagant advertisements sometimes assert that some gadget will "sell on sight." If it does not, it almost certainly will not sell at all. Seeing is a necessary prelude to a sale for a wide variety of articles, from automobiles to earrings.

SUMMATION FOR A JURY

A five-man coroner's jury in Montreal has absolved Constable Claude Rocheleau of "all criminal responsibility" in the fatal shooting of Rene Quinn, an unemployed laborer, whom Constable Rocheleau found trying to sell an electric razor by workmen at a sewer excavation project who wished him he ran away.

The verdict evidently coincided with the wishes of the presiding coroner, Dr. A. B. Clement. It was at least as reasonable as Dr. Clement's summation for the jury, if we are to accept the Montreal Gazette's version of Dr. Clement's remarks. The Gazette quotes Dr. Clement as saying: "There is nothing in the Criminal Code to indicate that a police officer must fire warning shots before questioning or arresting a person who is trying to run away." A good thing, too. Think of the fusillades if the police had to fire warning shots before making any arrests!

Now we are greatly impressed with Constable Rocheleau's explanation of why a bullet, which he said was intended to hit Quinn in the legs, went high and struck him in the head. "He was running downhill at the time I shot," says Constable Rocheleau. Admitting that we are no ballistic expert, it appears to us that the hill must have been very steep. Quinn very fast and the velocity of the bullet very slow to account for the difference in height between's a man's head and a man's legs. There is always an alternative explanation, however. Perhaps Constable Rocheleau is a bad shot. Which brings up the question of whether police officers who are bad shots should be encouraged to use their guns, even on unemployed laborers running away after trying to sell electric razors, regardless of what the Criminal Code, and coroners interpreting it to juries, have to say on the subject.

English is one of a mere handful of "world languages," tongues which, because of their widespread use, are studied throughout the civilized world.

Sometimes, though, we tend to forget that the "English" of world use is not the North American variety. This is brought forcibly to the attention when editing releases by the United Nations Education Scientific and Cultural Organization. It brings realization that most of the world recognizes the correct form of "generalize" to be "generalise." This realization of the world recognising "generalise" as the correct form of "generalize" shows that UNESCO English is English English.

Whenever my grandmother cuts
The cake,
The biggest piece always she gives
To me.
If ever she's heard of the stomach ache,
Never a word of such pain says she.

The biggest piece of the pie I get,
And she says, when mother so much would ban:
"Pie hasn't hurt any youngster yet,
So let him enjoy it while he can."

Sitting Is for Kings

Scientific American Bulletin

Is the easy chair always the easiest on your body? No, according to Dr. Gordon W. Hewes, assistant professor of anthropology at the University of Colorado.

The human body is capable of myriad postures, Dr. Hewes tells us, but that Europeans and Americans cheat themselves by overusing the chair sitting. He has challenged fellow scientists to look into the matter of posture, with the objective of making life easier for western man.

"It seems quite clear," declared Dr. Hewes, "that a better knowledge and understanding of postural habits could benefit us in many ways. At present nearly all our complex tools, instrument panels, control boards, benches, tables and so on have been planned for the use of people accustomed to western culture. Many of these devices might profitably consider a wider range of postures in planning for working or resting space requirements, not only because of the postural benefits that may be less efficient than those enjoyed by chair sitting people, but also because it might be easier to train our people to use a greater range of postures or to keep on trying to fit furniture designed for chair rooms, throne-rooms or banquet halls into crowded quarters."

Chair-sitting, Dr. Hewes explained, evolved from the postural practices of exalted personages—kings, priests and so on. Commoners of younger sat on the floor or on stools or benches. The climber, he says, came to use chairs only late in their history. Previously, like the Japanese of today, they squatted on the floor.

"The human body," he said, "is capable of assuming something on the order of 1,000 different steady postures. By 'steady' I mean a static position which can be maintained comfortably for some length. Custom and training have accustomed millions of people in the world to sit restfully in postures which to western chair sitters would seem not only awkward but extremely uncomfortable. At least a fourth of mankind, for example, habitually takes the load off its feet by crouching in a deep squat, both at rest and at work.

"Ranking slightly behind chair sitting and the deep squat is the cross-legged sitting posture which we call sitting 'Turkish' or 'tailor fashion.' This is the predominant way of sitting among peoples in the great are from North Africa through the Middle East of India Southeast of Asia and Indonesia, with outliers in central Asia, Korea, Japan, Micronesia and Polynesia. The position with one foot tucked under the knee of the opposite leg (the 'propped' position) but there are eight or 10 distinct variations of the cross legged position.

"All such variations should be investigated as possible application to modern living in the west. Some work has been done already in the adjustment of the body to travel in very fast moving airplanes (the prone position has been found the best). But we ought to go much further and explore the possibilities of fulness to us of the various cross legged, squatting and kneeling and other postures which so many millions of people outside the orbit of western civilization have found convenient for their daily work."

Mounties Hate 'Tourist Duty'

Vancouver Province

With a sinking feeling in the pit of their athletically flat stomachs, the youngest and better looking members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police must be muttering: "Here we go again."

The force has announced that a handsome six-footer, complete with scarlet tunic, riding boots and spurs, is to be stationed at the Winnipeg barracks for the summer of standing, taking by tourists, and there is a hint of something similar in Vancouver.

Tourist duty," whether on Ottawa's Parliament Hill, at Banff or, for the course of a lifetime, behind the door of the Canadian embassy in Washington, is not exactly popular with the Mounties.

For one thing there is the matter of standing, or even sitting a horse — smartly in a sweltering heat while encased up to the ears in thick red serge.

For another thing, there is the problem — shared by the cuirassed Horse Guards in London, Whitehall and the bearskinned sentries at the gates of Buckingham Palace — of preserving a suitable dignity while being ogled, snickered at and generally harried by a heterogeneous collection of wives, children, grandparents and girl-friends for the benefit of Hawaiian-shirted husbands peering through a camera viewfinder.

For a third and over-riding thing, there is boredom.

If there's something about a soldier, there's apparently more than something, in that sense, about a Mountie.

He has been a fairly general experience that young buck Mounties, subjected to a few months of tourist duty spend the rest of their lives as confirmed photographists.

QUALITY OF TRUE RELIGION

What is your religion—a movement or a monument? Is it a movement, a spiritual power, designed to make you into a new person and designed to sweep out into the lives of the world and change it from evil to good? Or is it simply a monument—a commemoration of the piety of your forefathers?

Many people love to tell what religious people their grandparents were. They often speak with pride of the strict religious upbringing they had. Yet it never seems to influence that in departing from that strict upbringing and living a complacent life, they have been guilty of spiritual treason. Religion is designed to do something for us, to us, and with us. It is designed to be a pious custom which we follow because our ancestors followed such customs. Then we are guilty of the sin of worshipping words of God to rest upon us and upon our religious observances.

Religion a monument—commemorizing something which has gone before. That is the only religion some people have. But religion a movement—transforming the inner life and sweeping one out into the world to do valiant service for God; this is religion as God intended us to have it and cherish it. Religion to be real must be vital. It must get us going toward heavenly objectives. It must be a movement—one of the term, be it treason. Religion is designed to do

McArthur of this division who was on the train, that about five hundred people were assembled at the Belleville station and he ordered the train to proceed here for five minutes. However, there was no sign of the Prince or of any members of his party, but the crowd had an opportunity to examine the interior of the train which was especially designed for the use of royalty and is owned by the C.P.R. The Prince was travelling in the car "Mount Stephen." The engine was manned by Norman Kerr, Wilfred Muir and Robert Milne all of this city. A guide engine passed through here an hour ahead of the royal train. The guide engine was brought as far as Belleville by engineer George Adams and fireman Arthur Jackson of this city. Engineer Hugh Carter and fireman A. Jordan boarded the engine here and had charge to Toronto.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SUNSET SERENITY

I will never tire of sunsets, no matter where I may cast my eyes upon them. They inspire and reverently bless my immortal soul. "Sunset, and evening, star" were the words of Tennyson as he contemplated his earthly end. I have seen many recently as I looked upon a beautiful sunset and later upon a brilliant single star in the west.

There is a serenity that fills the mind and soul as the beauty of a sunset creeps into one's consciousness. Each sunset there is a new masterpiece presented by the greatest painter of all — God in His Heaven — whispering to us to be of good cheer and to fight on courageously and unafraid. I am lucky to be vacationing where I can view matchless sunsets and note the reflected colors creep across the water of a beautiful lake. How peaceful each is, how full of hope and love is the last!

Sunsets fill us with serenity and hope. They melt all worries away and build assurance within us. I love the sunsets in paint, by Blakelock and George Inness. There is a spiritual note in them all. But to enjoy the original canvas in the sky is a spiritual experience. We look upon it as perfect painting, one with many soothing changes, until finally it slips noiselessly into its slumber of the night.

Nature is a storehouse of natural devices that bring serenity to the mind and heart. Once acquainted with them, each time we look upon God's explanation of them, and carry them with us through the means of memory. I still carry with me, through the memory, the picture of one of the most beautiful sunsets — one in Oklahoma. Another in San Francisco Bay.

Well, He Made Right Reply

The middle-aged couple boarded the crowded bus after a long trip back home and found the only seat available was the rather cramped one behind the driver.

Later at a rest stop the woman left the bus and upon returning found that a double seat had been vacated a little further back in the bus. So she touched her reading husband lightly on the shoulder and asked: "Do you want to come back here with me dear?"

To which the drowsing man replied: "No, I'll just stay here with my wife."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

The Answer Session

"My dad never used a toothbrush, never had a cavity and never lost a tooth. He never ate sweets. (Mrs. M.J.)

The fact that he never used a toothbrush is merely negative. Use of a toothbrush has nothing to do with prevention of tooth decay as has been pretty well shown by the millions of Americans who use toothbrushes more than any other people and have more tooth decay than any other people. On the other hand it is notable that the civilized people who have the least tooth decay never brush their teeth at all. I refer to the inhabitants of Tristan da Conha as they were prior to 1949.

The fact that your father never ate sweets is negative too. It would be more instructive to know that he did eat.

I think the notion that sweets favor decay of the teeth and therefore children should not have such food or should have very little of it is silly, but I'm willing to let the authorities answer and the candy makers fight it out.

"Clinical observations clearly indicate that the rate and the extent of dental caries" (decay, to you) "is greatly reduced in unrelated to the degree of mouth cleanliness. Relatively clean mouths may be remarkably resistant and filthy mouths may be without decay." (Mrs. Hambly, to Russell W. Bunting, D.D.Sc., Prof. of Oral Pathology, University of Michigan School of Dentistry) Dr. Bunting further asserts that "Excess calories carried to an extreme and impractical degree is the best measure" (tooth brushing etc) "have failed to give any high degree of protection against dental diseases" (dental caries, cavity formation, tooth decay).

Believing as I do that the condition of the teeth is determined by heredity, I'm not impressed by the fact that your father never ate sweets. I do that the condition of the teeth is determined by heredity, I'm not impressed by the fact that your father never ate sweets. I hope, that I don't believe brushing the teeth does any harm. A toothbrush, especially a used toothbrush, is repellent to the sense of cleanliness, so I prefer to discuss my mouth after eating with plain soap and water, when I can conveniently do so.

MAYBE THE DOCTOR KNOWS NO BETTER

"My husband and I have read with interest the articles about the husband remaining with his wife when the baby is being born. However, I asked the doctor about it he said "No!" He said it is a hazard of health rule, and that no first class doctor or hospital would allow it. . . I'm refused to discuss the matter further. I want my husband to be interest when our baby is born, and he wants to be there. What shall we do?

(Mrs. W.D.R.)"

Doctors, health officers and hospitals get away with some weird "rules and regulations", but in this instance no hospital or health officer or health board is named, so I imagine your doctor was talking through his hat.

Doctors or hospital officials who imply infection to the husband would be infected from the delivery room are covering up the real purpose of the "regulation", which is to make sure what happens in there shall remain a secret.

There are good hospitals in most cities who not only permit the husband to be present but who ask him to do so. They have nothing to hide.

Caring-in situations where timid husbands wait alone in the hospital while their wives go through what should be the great miracle of life are conducted privately from the point of view of doctors on the staff. Sometimes when I look at them I wonder how will arrive before the doctor does. a nurse or other attendant will go so far as to hold the husband's hand regardless of the welfare of the doctor's gown until the doctor can get there and complete the delivery. Such malpractice would be great deal more perilous if the husband were present — that is, if the doctor knew the instruction which every expectant husband should receive.

I can't advise and am not in a position to give directory service. If the doctors in your community are not all like the one who told you the board of health will not allow it, then (a) let the husband stay with wife, (b) attend confinement lectures or (c) practise natural childbirth.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

For several years past, on the highway that leads to my sufmer cabin, there has been a neat and tidy little estate, surrounded by a picket fences and thorn hedges, which has been remarkable for the number and variety of keep-off signs which adorned it.

"Trespass will be prosecuted." "Beware of savage dog." "Absolutely no admission." From year to year, I noticed that the signs were often new, or changed. Each change increased the sternness of the warnings.

It was an immaculate little estate, with beautiful lawns, and little ornamental evergreens about it. But I never saw anybody around the place, in all the years its prohibitive signs caught my eye, and sometimes I wondered me. Trip after trip, the impression grew in my mind that if there was any place in the world I did not want to visit, it was that one.

A year ago, a new double lane highway was constructed at this junction of the road, and a spacesaving curve was introduced that cut this house of the signs altogether. It now stands back several hundred yards from the new highway, on what is a quiet and rather lonely bit of by-passed road. Therefore it the other day I could not help but glance at it, thinking that by now the owners must be to be free of the menace of intrusion. I noticed that a fresh new sign on its fence, and I could not resist turning off onto the side-road to read the message.

It said "For Sale. Enquire within."

I did not enquire within, but stopped at the next house a quarter mile or two up the road.

"Yep," said the operator.

"They're selling out. It's no pleasure to them to live on a cutoff, with nobody to keep off."

"Get another key," suggested. "Who are they?"

"A middle-aged couple," he replied. "No children. A couple of sourpusses, without a friend in the district. Expected every being friendless. They take a big risk of getting shot if anybody leaves the local minister had the door slammed on him, four years ago."

"I'd say they've had a little touched?" I suggested.

"Not a mite," said the service station man. "They're just mean, and they revel in it. I hear they're buying a hundred fifty miles north of here on the highway after a couple of videos they can snoot people with those signs on their fences."

RECEDING WATER REVEALS DAMAGE

Here is a general view of the centre of the city of Isehaya in western Kyushu Island, Japan, after the receding flood waters left huge piles of debris on the streets. The Japanese government allocated nearly $200,000 for the relief of the flood-devastated island as the official casualty toll rose to 1,000 persons dead or missing and 3,683 injured. The disaster was triggered by torrential rains.

YOUNG PEER'S

The Liberal newspaper Manchester Guardian thought the kind of court Altrincham wants "is something to be achieved by gradual transition." It thought little notice would have been taken of the article "if there was not in many people's minds a notion that any criticism of the Royal Family is a sort of sacrilege."

Other comments on the article ranged from "schoolboyish" to "refreshing." Some personal reflections ranged as far as muttered threats that Altrincham ought to be shot.

AUSTRALIAN APPLAUDS

But in Perth, Australia, the newspaper West Australian says: "The blood may boil in England and aristocratic heads toy with horsewhips, but among the wild colonial boys of Western Australia the outspoken Lord Altrincham would cheerfully win a popular peer competition hands down."

"The feeling is now that a chink has been forced in the . . . curtain of snobbishness and hypocrisy which has surrounded royalty, the air can be cleared for a frank discussion."

The New York correspondent of the London Evening News writes that with the royal visit only weeks away, the criticism of the Queen "could hardly have come at a time more damaging to Britain."

"The plain fact is that American cans are troubled when we take jibes at the Royal Family—it seems to them damnably un-British."

Canadian Legion Sponsors Shirt Tail Parade

TWEED — The annual shirt-tail parade at 12.01 o'clock on Sunday night (midnight) was quite a success as usual, with the sounding of car horns and the hooting of participants in the parade itself. As the townsfolk were unable to slumber, they most all turned out to view the many arts of the young and old who went to such work to make a get-up different from his neighbor.

The prizes were selected as follows, by the judges, Mrs. Jim Halpenny, Mr. Guy Hughes and Mr. T. A. Thompson — 1st. prize float went to the Tweed Teen-Age Club, with a float of the replica of Robinson Crusoe, his man Friday and all the rest of the important things that go to make a wonderful effect. This called for a lot of thought and also a lot of hard work. Ron Moon was the bewhiskered Robinson Crusoe. It was an artist's work, indeed. 2nd prize went to Stoco Lake Hotel, (Harvey Austin) with a silver boat and the lads within sending out the dreamy music of the day. The boat was on a trailer and was lovely to see. The third prize went to Clarence Prevost. Unfortunately the extent of his efforts and his float seem to be unobtainable at this time.

The Walking Prizes: 1st prize went to two small boys as a combined prize, Terry LeSage and Teddy Lamont. Ernest LeSage and Teddy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Leveck. 2nd prize to Leo Derouchie, and the 3rd prize went to Doug Mayers. (One of the owners and builders of "The Salvage Queen.")

The dance followed at the Tweed Park Pavilion and reports are that over 600 persons were present. A dance for the Legion was also held on Saturday evening and there was one on Monday night.

There was a trophy donated by Mr. Jim Crawford, of town, and it was presented to the Teen-Age High School Band which also participated in the parade with fine music while the parade was in progress. This was also a fine float and deserves kind mention.

It was unfortunate that the weatherman did do such nasty things for the big weekend; it was a pity that the visitors were almost perished waiting for the big moment near midnight. It is continued cold and blowy and curtailed some of the activities which were planned for much warmer climes.

SNAKE IN THE GAS

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Truck driver Michael Schoeman stopped because of engine trouble, looked at his engine and found a 10-foot python curled around it. Two hours later, natives pulled it off with a rope.

SAYS HE SAW FLYING SAUCER FOR 45 MINUTES

Jack Stephenson says he saw a flying saucer and no one can convince him to the contrary. He says he saw the saucer hover within two feet of the ground as he was walking four miles outside Galt, Ont. The saucer, he says, had a "round spinning body" and the top was "bright and did not revolve." He watched it for 45 minutes as it hovered like a helicopter then it "just climbed away without a sound, then zoomed over the lake and away. It vanished entirely." He said the area where the saucer came closest to the ground was charred and showed prints of huge feet.

Search Resumed For Missing Jet At Sept-Iles

HALIFAX (CP)—With a promise of good weather, the ground, and sea search for a missing CF-100 jet interceptor was scheduled to resume at dawn today over a 40-mile radius in the Sept-Iles area of Quebec.

The jet disappeared in a cloud layer Sept-Iles last Thursday en route to Europe with the RCAF's 419 Squadron. Missing aboard the aircraft are F/O William Wilding, 20, of Kingston, Ont., and Flt. Lt. Kevin McNulty, 32, of Thorold, Ont.

RCAF officials would not say whether an open parachute, parachute harness and airman's boot found by ground searchers during the weekend indicated the airmen had bailed out. Monitoring planes in the area failed to receive any signals although the airmen carried lightweight portable transmitters which would enable them to signal aircraft.

Until Monday when weather conditions were ideal, fog had hampered searchers. A searching helicopter from Greenwood, N.S., was forced down Saturday on the banks of the Moisie River near Sept-Iles with engine trouble.

A replacement helicopter from the Trenton, Ont., air station joined five other RCAF aircraft Monday in the five-day-old hunt.

Ground search parties and an RCMP launch are also in the search.

Midnight Storm Forces Scouts To Evacuate Tents at Camp

SUTTON PARK, England (CP)—A midnight storm forced hundreds of boy scouts to evacuate their tents in this world jamboree camp, but camp life was quickly getting back to normal today.

Upwards of 600 scouts, including a small segment of the 1,500-strong Canadian contingent, sought temporary shelter under marquees, the camp theatre and in private homes.

Camp officials said there was "no panic" among the 35,000 scouts from 84 countries. An inch of rain fell on the 750-acre campsite in less than an hour, covering low-lying ground and washing out some telephone lines.

Eli Boyaner of Saint John, N.B., leader of the Canadian group, said the morale of Canadian scouts is high.

"I am very impressed with the way our Canadian scouts are tackling the job of getting straightened around," he said.

At Camp Copenhagen, one of the hardest-hit sub-camps, a troop from London, Ont., had a huge fire going to dry out their clothes. Some Canadians turned out in the rain to dig trenches around the cakmp hospital tents to keep rain from seeping into the sick quarters.

Jamboree officials called a press conference to ease the minds of parents around the world. Officials said earlier reports that 1,000 scouts had to be evacuated to private homes, schools and public halls.

"The facts are that certain parts of the camp did suffer unpleasant conditions, but these were quickly handled by the boys themselves," said an official statement from jamboree headquarters.

Tents were flattened and camp equipment damaged, but officials said the full program will be continued unaltered.

"After all, we are boy scouts," one official commented.

FLU HITS MICHIGAN

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) The first cases of Asian flu in Michigan were reported Monday by the Calhoun county health department. Melbourne T. Worfel, laboratory director of the department, said 12 Mexican migrant workers had been stricken by the disease. They apparently caught the flu in Mexico and arrived during the incubation period, Worfel said.

Weddings

MANION — CHAMPAGNE

A very pretty double-ring summer wedding was solemnized in St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, on Saturday, July 27, at 10.30 a.m. by the Reverend Dean J. Shannon, when Donna Champagne, of Tweed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Champagne, became the bride of Donald Gerald Manion, son of Mrs. Frontis Manion, Pink and White gladioli adorned the sanctuary.

The traditional wedding music was rendered by the organist, the Reverend Sister Mary Joan of Arc, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. Ronald Cassidy, in his rendition of "Panis Angelicus" and Schubert's "Ave Maria."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Norman Champagne, was lovely in her full-length bridal gown of imported white Chantilly lace over satin, styled with bateau neckline trimmed with tiny seed pearls and sequins, and long fitted sleeves ending in points over the wrists. The widely bouffant skirt of silk tulle over satin fell in graceful folds. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was gathered to a headdress studded with seed pearls and iridescent sequins, and she carried a semi-cascade of pink Sounitrat roses mingled with baby's breath and trailing ivy.

Miss Pauline Champagne, attended the bride as maid of honor, while Mrs. Laverne Monaghan, (Eileen) and Miss Kathryn Quinn were bridesmaids. All three attendants were gowned alike in frosted apple-pink ballerina length nylon with white velva ray applique. The strapless bodices were topped by bolero jackets and their headdresses were of silk organza with attached shoulder-length veils in apple-blossom pink. They carried semi-cascade bouquets of white, feathered carnations with pink lacelon ribbon streamers.

Mr. William (Bill) Manion, of Tweed, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and Messrs Ronald Way, and Edwin Champagne, brother of the bride were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Hotel Tweedsmuir, for 65 guests. The bride's mother received wearing dusty-rose Chantilly lace over taffeta with white accessories, and corsage of white 'mums. The bridegroom's mother, who assisted in the receiving line, was attired in aqua, with beige accessories, and corsage of yellow 'mums.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with pastel-tinted sweetpeas, and candles, as were the guest tables.

For travelling to Niagara Falls, and the northern United States, the bride wore a pale-blue silk shaunting suit, with white accessories, and corsage of pink, bountiful roses.

Out-of-town guests attended from Kirkland Lake, Toronto, Peterborough, Sarnia, Belleville, Smith Falls, Claremount and Kingston.

FRASER — KETCHESON

Miss Helen Victoria Ketcheson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hampton Ketcheson, Belleville, Ontario, and Mr. Robin William Wright Fraser, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fraser, Bethlehem, Ontario, were married quietly in Toronto on Friday, August 2nd with the bride and bridegroom's parents and the bride's brother, Ward Ketcheson, present.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white Swiss linen gown, hand embroidered in pale pink, and carried a cascade of white gardenias, carnations, roses and gladioli.

The bridal reception was held at the Hotel Quinte, Belleville, the mother of the bride receiving in a gown of rosewood organza and wearing a corsage of Sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother was attired in navy blue with a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

The dining room was decorated with large white gladioli and pine, with many small bouquets of white and pink flowers on the guest tables.

The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake and twin bouquets of white Shasta chrysanthemums. Carnations and gypsophilia on an overcloth of white hand embroidered linen.

After the reception, the bridal couple left for their wedding trip to St. Pierre and Miquelon, the bride wearing a beige costume with matching accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser will reside at 2 Chicora Avenue, Toronto.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto; Saskatoon; Ottawa; Kingston; Gananoque; Hamilton; Oakville; Montreal; Salmon Lake, and Belleville.

Before their marriage, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A Pringle Trent Rd., Belleville. They were entertained in Toronto by Mr. and Mrs. John Dashood; Mr. and Mrs. Ron Gardner; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Giles and Mr. John Pettigrew. Also an office party and presentation was given by the Gairdner and Company and many others.

GOOD-LUCK KISS FROM MARILYN

Before plunging into the water at Owen Sound for a 15-mile contest against some of the world's best swimmers, Cliff Lumsdon of Toronto, the pre-race favorite, receives a good-luck kiss from Marilyn Bell, conqueror of Lake Ontario, who fired the starting gun for the Owen Sound marathon. Cliff, who has won more marathons than any of the other entrants, weighed 198, 12 pounds less than his usual swimming peak.

GIRL SAVES FIVE THIS SEASON

Wendy Urquhart, second from left, holds three-year-old Larry Doyle, the fifth person she has saved from drowning this year. Larry had walked out in Lake Ontario off Hamilton's Burlington Beach and was swept a quarter of a mile into deep water before Wendy caught him, swam with him to shore and applied artificial respiration immediately. The four others that Wendy, 15, has saved as Barbara Ziendenburg, 14, rescued from Burlington canal; Sharon Chiswell, 14, rescued after she sank ten feet into Lake Ontario; Wendy's sister, Janet, eight, and Bonnie Aiken, 16, who was fighting a losing battle to reach the Burlington shore when Wendy came to her aid.

Sunday School Picnics

UNITED CHURCH S.S.

WALLBRIDGE — Wallbridge United Church Sunday School held its annual picnic at Tweed Park on Saturday, July 27th.

At 12.30 a good number of parents and children sat down to refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, cheese, cookies and freshies, and the Sunday school provided ice cream for all, and enough to treat again before coming home.

After the repast, races were as follows:

Kindergarten boys and girls, Terry Shorey, Jane Donaldson; beginners, boys and girls, Brenda Fisher, Bonnie Carleton; primary boys and girls, Linda Fisher, Donna Shorey; junior boys and girls, Bill Donaldson, Peter McNaught; intermediate girls, Annabel McNaught, Marjorie Wannamaker; intermediate wheelbarrow, Patsy Sherry and Annabel McNaught, Shirley Wannamaker and Sharon Donaldson; senior boys, Alex McNaught, Roy Sine.

Adults:

Needle and thread, Mrs. Hudson Ketcheson, Mr. Alvin Donaldson; ladies' shoe race, Mrs. Arthur Carleton, Mrs. N. Shorey; men's shoe race, Mr. Hudson Ketcheson, Rev. McMullen; grandmothers' race, Mrs. Hudson Ketcheson, Mrs. Barton Hinchliffe, Mrs. Wescott.

After the races were all enjoyed another swim. All returned to their homes feeling that a most enjoyable time had been spent. Thanks to all committees for a successful and pleasant outing.

EASED ELEGANCE

By GRACE THORNCLIFF

The Paris look, smartly casual, expressed in easy, unfitted or semi-fitted lines, is everywhere this fall. It lends itself especially well to the tweed suits of autumn, of which this is a smart example. The jacket and slim skirt are of oatmeal beige tweed with an easy fit. The scooped out neckline reveals the bow of an orange colored silk blouse. Slim skirt has a kick pleat in back.

At Last! THE CREAM HOME PERMANENT!

Crest

Just squeeze it on!

Shining waves-perfumed too!

SQUEEZE it on!
No drenching with strong-smelling waving lotion! Just squeeze a ribbon of cream onto your hair . . .

COMB it in!
Comb cream into the hair . . .

WIND it up!
Wind up on the curler. Couldn't be simpler.

Crest is sensational and so easy to use!

No drippy lotion—No muss—No fuss! You just squeeze a ribbon of the pleasantly perfumed cream onto your hair—comb it in—and wind up with plastic curlers on the end papers supplied.

And when you see the result in your mirror—your hair will be glossy, neat, and controllable, right from the start. None of that frizzy, "unnatural" look.

Whatever type of hair—dry, fine, normal, or dyed—the Crest waving cream will curl it, condition it, control it!

Each strand of hair gently absorbs the cream which, as it curls, makes the hair more supple, too.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

Cologne, kept cool in the refrigerator, is a boon to the busy homemaker.

By MME. QUI VIVE

MAKE COLOGNE YOUR SUMMER STAND-BY

That old saw to the effect that man complains about the weather but doesn't do anything about it, just doesn't apply any more. What with this air-conditioning, electric fans, foam rubber bed pillows and upholstering, cool plastics in every living area and a thousand other devices to keep us cool when the temperature soars, muggy days seem to be doing a lot about Old Man Weather. And woman can, too.

No matter how harried she may be . . . home-maker or office worker . . . there are many beauty aids which help her to keep cool. And one of the list we would say, is the lavish use of cologne. Nothing is so refreshing so uplifting to the morale. Select yours in the same fragrance as your favorite perfume. If you can't obtain powder, talc, soap and all other fragrance accessories in the same scent. Use them all frequently during the day and you'll use only feel cooler, but you'll be surrounded by an aura of glamour that will make you forget about how high the mercury has risen.

But to get back to cologne, especially, keep it cool. If you're a homemaker, keep yours in the refrigerator. After heavy chores, splash it over your face, neck and arms—particularly at the nape of the neck, the forehead and the wrists. In practically no time you will be ready to tackle the next job—and willingly. If you're an office-worker, don't keep your cologne bottle in your desk drawer if you don't have to. Try to find a cool spot on a window sill or near an air-conditioner. If there's no available cool spot, then keep it in your drawer, but, before you use it, hold the bottle under cold running water for a few moments before using. Apply it as the homemaker does . . . over face, wrists and, most important, the nape of the neck. You'll find it has a most revitalizing effect.

In fact, such a tonic to frayed nerves and wilting bodies has colognes been found—that we know of one famous writer who, when the Muse proves elusive, opens a bottle and leaves it on his desk and, lo and behold, the refreshing fragrance, nine times out of ten, he says, makes him forget the heat and carry on. Which reminds us, that the man in your life will like his colognes, too. Keep them cool and handy for him.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BETTER START DECLINING SOME OF HIS INVITATIONS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

A man of 45, whom I've known ever since childhood, became a widower about 18 months ago.

I'm 43, and because I'm unmarried and so am free to spend time with him this man has been coming to see me and taking me out, sometimes as often as three or four times a week, since not long after his wife died. I know he doesn't go out with any other women, and he has told me more than once how fond he is of me and that I'm a perfect companion. But it seems to me all this puts me in a rather peculiar position. Also, I'm as important to him as he tries to make me believe, why doesn't he ask me to marry him? — Miss W.

Dear Miss W.:

It sounds to me as though this man, having had a taste of freedom, likes it so much that he's in no hurry to take on the responsibilities of married life again. It's not at all unusual to find a man who is quite satisfied with a bachelor existence, after years of married life, particularly if he has a woman friend who is willing to be a platonic companion to him.

Few women, however, are likely to be content with such a role indefinitely, unless it comes under the heading of the familiar saying: "Half a loaf is better than no bread." If, in other words you prefer platonic companionship to none at all, then you're going to have to accept its limitations as philosophically as possible.

There's always the chance, of course, that if this man gets the idea he might lose you, it may start him thinking. This is something you might work on by declining some of his invitations now and then and see how he reacts.

YOU'D BE SILLY TO KEEP WAITING

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I was going out with a boy who said he loved me very much and I'm sure I love him. Then we broke up, and each of us started going with someone else, although we still went out together occasionally. Then not long ago I started going steady with another girl, and then I didn't go out with him at all.

After awhile, though, I couldn't stand it, and neither could he, so he asked me to wait for him until he broke up with the girl he was going steady with. I said I'd wait for him, but I waited two months before he broke up with her. During this time he kept assuring me of his love for me and I was still sure I loved him.

Now that he's broken up with the other girl, I hear that he wants to go with still another one. It's been about ten months, now, since we were first going together, so he's matured a lot, I thought as well as actions. But I'm not sure whether I should go on waiting for him any longer, now that I know he's been seeing this other girl.

What would you advise?

— M.U.

Dear M.U.:

What do you mean this chap has matured? He sounds very immature indeed to me.

And how many girls are you going to wait for him to break off with before you'll decide whether he's worth waiting for or not? Hasn't he made it pretty plain, by picking up another girl just after he had broken off with me first, that he wasn't very serious when he first asked you to wait?

Better get busy and find yourself a new boy friend. If you do, I'm certain it won't be long before this boy will mean no more to you than you evidently mean to him — which would be all to the good.

Readers Send Requested 3-Day Bun Recipe

As Conducted by Mary Moore

On July 13 in this column I gave a recipe for Refrigerator Rolls for Anne K. She had asked for the recipe for 3-day buns. Since I did not have it I appealed to our readers and, bless them, they responded.

I have letters from Mrs. Brocklebank in Regina; Adelaide Sanford in Leamington; Mrs. Jackson in Medicine Hat; and Mrs. Crampton in Swift Current. All give the recipe for old-fashioned 3-day buns, but differ somewhat. I want to thank them all and hope to goodness Anne K. sees this.

THREE-DAY BUNS (Mrs. Brocklebank) At noon put one-third cup water (warm) and one pinch in pint bowl and on it sprinkle 2 packages of quick yeast. Do not stir. When dissolved add ½ cup flour to make light sponge. At bedtime transfer sponge to large bowl and mix in 1 cup sugar, ½ cup cool melted lard, 2 cups cold water (potato or plain) and from 5 to 5½ cups flour. No salt. Mix and mold the mass and put it into very large greased bowl to rise overnight. A 3-gallon crock is ideal. Next morning and again in the afternoon punch down the dough and leave to rise till bedtime. Then with well-greased hands mold the buns or rolls and space them on greased pans. That should make 95 or 50. Cover and let rise overnight. First thing in the morning heat the oven to 400 deg. and bake buns for 12 minutes more or less, all ready for breakfast. (Doesn't it sound wonderful?)

ADELAIDE SANFORD'S 3-Day BUN RECIPE (1917)

Noon: ½ cup cold water, 1 yeast cake (hard kind). Night: Make sponge of the following: 2 cups cold water, 1 cup sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, ½ cup lard (crisco today), 2 or 3 cups flour. Lets stand covered with cover of bowl. Morn: Knead into loaf. Knead again at noon; again at night; then make in buns and put in your pans 2 or 3 in. apart. Let rise all night. Bake in morn — as we always had them for Sunday company breakfast.

THREE DAY BUNS (Mrs. Jackson) At noon dissolve one yeast cake in ½ cup cold water. Let stand till night, then add 2 cups cold water, 1 cup flour and beat a little. In the morning add 1 egg, ½ cup butter, lard or shortening and 1 cup sugar, and flour to knead fairly stiff. Let rise all day. At night put in small buns the size of walnuts, quite a space apart. Let rise all night and bake first thing in the morning.

3 DAY BUNS (Mrs. Crampton) Mix well 4 tablespoons lard or shortening and 3 tablespoons flour then add 2 cups boiling water and mix until smooth. Let cool. Soak in warm water 1 envelope fast-rising yeast, 1 teaspoon sugar.

When first mixture is cool and yeast mixture is ready, combine add 2 cups sugar, 2 eggs lightly beaten, 1 teaspoon salt. Mix in enough flour just to make a soft not stick to hands. Set in cool place but do not freeze. Punch dough down twice a day. The third day bake. Can be used second day by adding more flour to dough.

This has started a 3-day bun craze in this house. Thanks to donors from Mary.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — A farewell party was held on Friday evening in the new canteen at the plant of the Canada Cement Company in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John McConnell, who have left this community to live in Belleville.

The evening was spent by playing euchre; favors going to Mrs. John McConnell, Mrs. William Horwood, Mrs. Jack Whitehead; lone hand to Mrs. W. Horwood, men's to Lloyd Maracle, James Gannon and George Hutchinson.

After euchre, the chairman called guests to take special chairs and an address was read, followed by the presentation of a chrome table and chairs, for which they voiced their appreciation for the lovely gifts.

The singing of "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" and refreshments brought this happy gathering to a close.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. SEECKMAN

WANTS TO SEE INVALID FRIEND WHILE ON VISIT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know it would not be good manners for me, when I am spending a long weekend soon with some friends of mine who don't have a house in the country for the summer, to ask if I might go to see some people who live nearby. But my question applies to a special case. I have a dear and long-time friend who lives in the town where I will be visiting, and recently she fell and broke her hip. Of course I would very much like to get to see her while I am there, and I am sure she would be delighted if I could arrange this. Would you think it would be at all permissible for me to explain the situation to my hosts, and find out if this call on my friend would be convenient with their plans? They are extremely conservative people, my hosts, and I would not want to offend in any way. — W.

I am positive that your hostess would completely understand your wish and your position . . . but she just couldn't be so conservative that she wouldn't be human enough to make plans for your going to see your invalid friend when it would be convenient for her to have you come.

SHOULD INCLUDE FRIEND'S WIDOWED MOTHER IN THE INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I expect friends of ours, a couple and their little girl, to come to our town to visit. They will be staying with the husband's widowed mother. We would like to entertain them by taking them to dinner at a very attractive place, a few miles away. Should we include the mother in our invitation? I think it would be a breach of etiquette not to include her in our invitation, since she is the hostess of our friends and lives alone. Am I right or wrong? — "Jackie"

Right you are, so completely right in your idea. For you and your husband not to include the hostess of your friends, the husband's widowed mother, would be most discourteous, and I should think might indeed border on cruelty.

HUSBAND NEED NOT BRING A GUEST PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have had considerable experience in visiting, but now we have received a very attractive invitation for a week's weekend soon. I have planned to take a present to the hostess, but my husband says he should also take a present, but now that he has brought up the question, I am wondering what is the proper thing for him to do. — H.S.

It is certainly not the wife's job . . . husbands need not bring presents.

HOW TO WEAR FLOWERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me the correct way to wear a corsage. Should it be worn with the flowers pointing downward, or upward as the flowers grow? — N.R.

The flowers in a corsage should be arranged so that they will be worn with the blossoms up, the way they grow.

PARSON'S VIEW

EATON BRAY, England (CP) — Rev. Peter Graham, vicar of this Bedfordshire community, says parsons would not go beging if parishioners were more generous at collection time. He said anyone who gives "less than 2s 6d a week . . . is failing to pull his weight."

HOSPITALITY

COOPER

111 Attend Rollins Family Reunion Picnic

COOPER — The annual picnic reunion of the Rollins clan was held in Mikell's Park, Peterborough, recently.

Dinner was served to 111 guests. The president, Percy Rollins, acted as chairman after the meal. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $46.67. Discussion as to time and place of next year's picnic took place. It was decided to hold it on the fourth Saturday of July, 1958, at Tweed Memorial Park. A showing of hands indicated there were 30 members present who were at the first picnic in 1925.

A family tree-book has been in the making since 1945 and about 1,000 names are already listed. Much more is to be added. It will be shown at the 1958 picnic.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Newly-elected officers are as follows: honorary president — Percy Rollins; president — Roy Rollins; vice-president — Arthur Parks; secretary — Martha Harris, and treasurer — Jessie French.

The executive committee consists of John Thompson, Lottie Parks; George Harris; Herb Rollins; Lily Hubbell, and Phyllis Rollins. The sports committee includes Ron Runnalls; Carl Rollins; Doug and Glen Rollins; Marlyn Hollinger; Sadie Holmes; June Dickens; Vera Hill, and Lois Cook.

An address of welcome was given by W. J. Rollins, expressing his pleasure at having the gathering in Peterborough. A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rollins for making preparations and arrangements so efficiently and for their splendid hospitality toward the gathering. Short addresses were given by Mrs. Murray Rollins; Harper Rollins, and Joe Rollins. Mrs. Lottie Parks conducted the memorial service.

A vote of thanks was moved to be sent to the city of Peterborough for the use of their park, on behalf of the Rollins reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rollins, Plainfield, were the oldest married couple present. Mr. John Rollins received the prize for being the oldest man present, while Mrs. Maggie Johnston was the oldest woman.

The youngest child was Paul Rollins son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rollins Queensboro, Mrs. Murray Rollins, Manitoba, won the prize for coming the greatest distance, and Lionel McAdam, Cayuga, won the prize for the men. Costan Parenzin had the largest family. The most recent newly married couple was Mr. and Mrs. Sweeting of Peterborough.

The gathering voiced appreciation to all retiring officers for their services. Much of the success of the picnic was due to the untiring efforts of Don Runnalls, convener of sports. A full line of races and games was run off for the children. Many amusing contests for the adults were also held. A ball game closed a happy and well-planned picnic.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wilkinson, of Rochester, New York, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard MacDonald and family.

Mr. Gerald Jessome, of Florence, Nova Scotia, is visiting his sister, Colleen Jessome, also Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Biggs.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Upton, of Toronto, spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Upton.

Mr. Harley MacDonald, of Oshawa, is spending part of his vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence MacDonald.

Master Jerry Gilmore, of Oshawa and Master James Gilmore of Palmfield, Ontario, are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gilmore.

Miss Pauline Cox is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wilson, also Mr. and Mrs. E. Wells are holidaying at Beaver Lake, Ontario.

Miss Agnes McAvoy, Oshawa, is holidaying at her home here.

Johnstown

Johnstown — Mr. and Mrs. Ted Trice and Stephen and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers on Saturday night.

Many of the ladies of this neighborhood are so busy with canning and tending to boarders from the 401 highway that they don't have much time to go places so the news suffers. Threshing wheat is the order of the day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Noe, of Ingersoll, were guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Brunt, on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chambers of Eldorado were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Harry, Sunday night.

Little David Boate of Belleville is spending some holiday time with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sickle.

Mr. Norman Long and Douglas spent Saturday night and part of Sunday with Mrs. W. Vandervoort and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Vandervoort.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harry and Mr. and Mrs. Maitland Harder motored to Algonquin Park on Sunday and then on to Malone airport where they met Miss Rita Harder, who had been spending some holidays at Edmonton.

Church will be held on Sundays at Johnstown at 8 p.m. during August with Sunday School at 7.30 p.m.

Must Assess Crown Land

KINCARDINE (CP) — Crown-owned land in Kincardine, on which cottages have been built, must be assessed, Reeve county assessor Everett Finnegan has told Kincardine town council. For some years the town has been leasing cottage lots for $1 annually, and assessing only the buildings thereon.

Council endorsed a Fort Erie resolution recommending that the cost of holding votes under the Liquor Licence Act for sale of liquor be charged against the petitioners, the liquor control board or municipal agency, rather than against the municipalities that voted.

MILD — COOL — EVEN BURNING

Gold Standard For United States Long Way Off

WASHINGTON (AP)—W. Randolph Burgess, undersecretary of the treasury, said Saturday the United States "ought to be heading toward a gold standard." But he said "we can't do it now with the world so unstable."

Burgess' views on the gold standard question appeared to go somewhat beyond those expressed by former treasury secretary George Humphrey earlier in the Senate finance committee's investigation of the U.S. financial condition.

A country is on the gold standard when its money, including paper bills, and silver coins, is redeemable on demand at a fixed weight of fine gold for each monetary unit. The United States has been off the gold standard since the 1933 banking holiday early in the first administration of the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt. Most of the U.S. gold now is in federal government hands.

The undersecretary, who soon will leave the treasury for a post on the NATO council, was asked about his views on the gold standard by Senator George Malone (Rep. Nev.), who had questioned Humphrey along similar lines.

Malone and Burgess agreed going back on the gold standard may be the only way to stop inflation.

But, Burgess maintained "We ought to keep running your money the way we are now."

"But get on the gold standard as soon as possible?" queried Malone.

"Yes," Burgess said.

Cliff Lumsdon Swim Winner Danish Beauty Defeats Park

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

O… SOUND (CP) — Cliff …, tireless 26-year-old Tor… swimmer, won the 15-mile open Sound international swim Saturday but he showed far more excitement watching the tense battle for second place than in taking the $5,000 first prize.

Twenty minutes after Lumsdon stepped from the waters of Owen Sound harbor, having completed the course in a surprisingly fast six hours and 25 minutes, he heard an announcement that Greta Andersen, 29-year-old Dane born swimmer from Long Beach, Calif., was making a courageous bid to overtake Tom Park, 33-year-old veteran from Windflower, Calif.

"I've got to see this," said Lumsdon as he hurried out to watch the finish. He saw Miss Andersen, trailing Park by about two yards with 50 yards to go, put on a dogpaddling spurt to pass Park with about 10 yards and capture the second spot by about 30 seconds.

FRESH AT FINISH

Greta, who finished 20 minutes behind Lumsdon, appeared as fresh at the end as she had at the start and refused to be rowed ashore, preferring to swim in by placing second among all finishers.

Park, who had raced head and head with Lumsdon over the first 12 miles before fading slightly, was clearly stroking of the powerful swimmer, received before the race Park said he planned to quit marathon swimming except for events in which sponsors would agree to pay his expenses.

CREDITS PACER

Lumsdon gave some of the credit for his fast time to John Descourtieres, 21, of Montreal who is what Cliff described as "a very fast pace" during most of the first seven miles.

Descourtieres was overtaken by Park and Lumsdon around the 12-mile mark and finished fourth, to win $500.

Helgi Jensen, 30-year-old native of Denmark now living in Midland, Ont., finished fifth and won $… Don Sabath, 32, of Levittown, Pa., was sixth and received $… and Dr. Paul Desrulsseaux, 24-year-old intern from Quebec City, finished seventh and got $…

FINISHERS

Eight swimmers started but only 12, five of them girls, finished. Second among the women and ninth generally, was Muriel Ferguson of Toronto who won the race was followed by Lise Ann Jamicky, 28-year-old Dutch girl from Montreal, $200; 17-year-old Doreen George of Toronto, $… and Aloma Keen, 15-year-old Montreal girl and the youngest swimmer in the race, $…

Golfers Gird For Game's Richest Event

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Virtually all of the top name golf pros were girding themselves today for the start of the game's richest event —the $101,300 "world" championship.

While they waited for practice rounds on the Tam O'Shanter course where the battle for a $50,000 first prize and $50,000 exhibition tour contract begins a 72-hole medal play test, talk centered on Gene Littler.

Littler's course record - matching 64 Monday all but overshadowed the fact that Roberto de Vicenzo won the All-American title.

It was Littler's fast round effort that drew the applause, and not de Vicenzo's final 70 which gave the hefty Argentine, now a club pro in Mexico City, a 72-hole tally of 273—15 under par—and the $5,500 first prize.

Littler's final round equalling Lloyd Mangrum's mark set in 1948, ballooned him to second place with 277, worth $2,300.

Sam Snead was third with 278. Then followed Paul Harney with 279, and Art Wall Jr., Dow Finsterwald, Fred Hawkins and Bob Rosburg at 281.

Stan Leonard of Lachute, Que., and Vancouver shot a 60 and finished in sixth-place in the with 71-70-74-69—284, earning $775.

The other All - American winners:

Men's amateur — crooner Don Cherry with 295.

Women's pros—Patty Berg for the fifth time with 302, a two-stroke edge over Jackie Pung in winning the $1,500 top prize.

Women amateurs—Clifford Ann Creed, 18-year-old Opelousas, La., player with 320.

Riders Release Import Back

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders Monday released halfback Bobby Wolfenden of Whytheville, Va., who had been trying for a berth on the Big Four football club. He played formerly for Virginia Tech.

Meanwhile club physician Dr. W. H. Caven said that another halfback from the United States, Jim Roseboro, may be able to return to action in about three weeks.

Roseboro suffered partially torn ligaments in his right knee in a Friday night exhibition against Calgary Stampeders. He will be in hospital for a week but Dr. Caven said he likely will be able to get by without surgery.

Tennis Tops Easy Winners in Canadian Open

By TOM VIRANY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Top-ranking players in the Ontario Open tennis championships — including late arrival Henri Rochon of Montreal—had no trouble Monday winding up the third day of play with handy victories.

Rochon, ranked seventh in Canada, arrived late from Montreal. After driving 20 miles from an overnight stop, he easily defeated L. St. Pierre of Toronto 6-1, 6-1 and W. Warren of Toronto 6-1, 6-0.

He exasperated his opponents and amused the 200 spectators with a succession of long shots to the baseline and short, vicious slices just behind the net.

The weather was cool, with a strong wind blowing in from Lake Ontario on the Toronto's elegant Boulevard Club.

EASY WIN

Don Fontana, ranked second in Canada, polished off his clubmate Phil Cate 6-3, 6-1 without even trying. He picked up balls easily within inches of hitting the ground and placed them close to the lines, just behind the net.

Youthful Prue Smith of Toronto went down to defeat at the hands of Toronto's Mrs. Penny Sparling despite a textbook-perfect style that couldn't match her opponent's play. Their score was 6-3, 6-2.

Mrs. Sparling later was defeated by a seeded Toronto entry, Mrs. Helen Boyd, in a close, long game that finished 6-1, 2-6, 6-3.

Of the six games scheduled for the morning three went by default. Among them was Donna Doddrell of Oshawa, a seeded player formerly from Germany, who won by default from Marie Vanspange of Toronto.

Ibbotson Wins Two-Mile Event For Home Record

LONDON (AP)—Derek Ibbotson of Britain, the world's fastest miler, won a special invitation two-mile event Monday in eight minutes, 44 seconds despite a blistered foot.

Ibbotson didn't seriously challenge the two-mile mark of 8:39.4 set by Sandor Iharos of Hungary here in 1955.

The British distance star beat K. Zimny of Poland, who was second in 8:48.8, and V. Mugosa of Yugoslavia, who was third in 8:52.8.

Ibbotson's mile clocking of three minutes, 57.2 seconds was officially recognized Monday as a British record.

The British Amateur Athletic Board also agreed to submit the time to the international federation as a world record. Ibbotson ran his record mile July 19 with three others also breaking four minutes in the race.

Flying Eggs, Pigeons, Chairs Feature Gotham Ring Brawl

NEW YORK (AP)—Storm flags were flying at old St. Nicholas Arena. Pigeons flew through the smoky air, raw eggs splashed into the ring and bloody spectators went to the hospital.

In the ring Danny Russo of Brooklyn was punching out a blistered head on trouble Monday winding up the third day of play with handy victories.

Rochon, ranked seventh in Canada, arrived late from Montreal. After driving 20 miles from an overnight stop, he easily defeated L. St. Pierre of Toronto 6-1, 6-1 and W. Warren of Toronto 6-1, 6-0.

Weslock Wins Kawartha Lakes Golf Tourney

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Nick Weslock of Windsor Sunday fired a birdie in an extra-hole playoff to defeat Phil Farley of Toronto Scarboro and win the 12th annual Kawartha Lakes amateur golf tournament.

Weslock and Farley were deadlocked at a par 213 after 54 holes. Weslock had carded a one-over par 72 in the final round to gain the tie with Farley, who shot a 73.

Third place went to Gary Cowan of Kitchener Rockway, who posted a seven-over-par 220. He tied with Blago Watson of Windsor but won in the extra-hole playoff.

The third playoff of the afternoon saw Doug McKellar of Toronto Scarboro win the extra hole and fifth place over Woodstock's Bill Park.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

You couldn't complain too much about the Civic Holiday weather unless you were too lazy to chuck some coal in the furnace or throw the oil-burner thermostat into "mercury high gear.

Some people would kick playing football, and speaking of that, the weather dished up by the "cool Canadian air" was more conducive to gridiron antics than blacksnaking at the cottage or on the front lawn.

With a nip of fall in the air, it perhaps wasn't too comfortable inhaling a picnic lunch at watering places or roadside tables, but sports-speaking there was not too much to gripe about.

That residents of the city and district have not lost their yen for sports thrills, despite the lack of them the past few years, was evidenced at the motorcycle races at the Fair Grounds yesterday. A large crowd packed the grandstand and spilled over into the bleachers as the "piston-pushers" put on a spine-tingling show.

Not too far away in an atmosphere that was far from the hustle, dust and vociferous excitement of the snorting "putt-putts" the cream of the province's lawn bowlers vied for the famous Corbin Gold Trophy. Some 264 keepers sported up the trim greens of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club in the colorful annual event, and Kingston's Dick Sidney, no stranger to tournament top prizes, won the coveted award.

But Sidney's rink was pushed to the figurative wire by a stout Belleville four skipped by Gordon Watkin, 1956 winners of the Corbin Trophy. Watkin's rink lost by the proverbial whisker, one point to be exact, to win the Calvert Trophy, while another Belleville rink, skipped by Walter Elliott, took the handsome Belleville Hoteliers' Association trophy and accompanying prizes home.

It was one of the best tournaments held in the history of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club and to general chairman Gerald Hyde and his hard-working committee goes a lot of credit.

Up at the CNRA Recreation Park the Goyer Marines cut the first notch in their OASA "AA" playoff pistol grips, nosing out the Bobcats in the opening tilt of their best of five series. Both teams have another and can play a better brand of the pastime and tomorrow night when the teams meet in the second tussle of the series, should see something of a thriller.

The Marines are confident they can make it two in a row while Nurse Robert Temple, not the least discouraged by the turn of events Monday night feels his Cats can square the series and make it a new one come Friday evening.

However the Marines point to their pitching, figuring "Shearer" Al Adams, Lum Carson and Tommy Thompson can carry the mound weight. Lum came through with a neat eight-hitter last night, albeit he was tagged for a towering homer when he shot a gopher pitch at the Bobcats' Bert Faulkner.

Garcia Clips Bomber String But Stengeleers Lead by Six; 'Road' May Decide National

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

With less than eight weeks remaining, that bristling National League pennant race may have a strange wind-up. The honored home advantage may prove to be like Jonah and the whale — it ain't necessarily so.

St. Louis, in first place by a half game, has more games remaining on the road (29) than at home (22). But the Cards are tops in the league with a 30-18 road mark for a .625 percentage.

Second-place Milwaukee has 28 left at home, 25 left on the road —but it shouldn't matter either way. The Braves are exactly the same at home (31-21) as away.

Brooklyn's third-place Dodgers are best at home with a 33-20 record and play 26 of their remaining 50 at Ebbets Field. But their home tally is matched with a 19-4 record against the tailenders and the remaining 28 games the Bolts are split evenly among contenders and the three-team second division.

REMAINDER SPLIT

Cincinnati splits its remaining 56 at home and away, with a 28-22 record at Crosley field and a 26-24 mark elsewhere. Philadelphia has 29 remaining at home, 23 away, but the Phillies have been only slightly better on the road. Mack Stadium (22-32) than on the road (22-35).

The Dodgers added to their "get fat" trick against the little three with a 3-2 victory over New York's Giants Monday night in the only league game scheduled.

The Brooks, now 2½ games out of first, broke a 2-2 tie with a fifth-inning run scored without a hit, then added two more in the seventh to overcome Willie Mays' one-man show for the Giants. The Dodgers couldn't stop Mays, who had four singles, a two-run homer good for two runs, until they had to.

GROUNDS OUT

Mays came up with two out and two on in the ninth and Dodger Stabler retired Don Drysdale to nail Willie on an infield grounder.

Ray Crone lost it, with the Brooks taking the lead as Junior Gilliam walked, stole second and moved around on a long fly and Elmer Valo's infield chopper.

Sunday St. Louis split a double-header with Philadelphia, losing the 11-inning opener 5-4 on the brilliant relief pitching of Harvey Haddix and winning the second 4-1 on Lindy McDaniel's nine-hitter.

Homers by Eddie Mathews, Del Rice, Johnny Logan and Hank Aaron powered Milwaukee to a 9-3 victory over Brooklyn.

Cincinnati split a pair with New York, losing the first 7-6 when Mays hit two homers and a triple and winning the second 3-2 on a six-hitter by rookie Vicente Amor.

SWEEP DOUBLEHEADER

Chicago took two from Pittsburgh, winning 6-0 behind Moe Drabowsky and 9-2 on Jack Litrenta's two-run double in the 11th.

St. Louis beat Philadelphia 3-1 in the 10-inning opener with Don Daniel won his sixth game with help from Billy Muffett who hurled four shutout innings in relief.

Brooklyn thumped Milwaukee 7-1, picking up four runs in the eighth and two in the ninth to give the win to reliever Ed Roebuck, his fourth against one loss.

Pitcher Art Ditmar notched his 11th-inning homer for New York's 5-4 victory over Cincinnati after Mays' two homers had pulled the Giants even. The Pittsburgh-Chicago game was rained out.

Leafs Take Back-to-Back Doubleheaders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs are marching in double time back into a contending position in the International League pennant race.

Two back-to-back doubleheader sweeps of Columbus Jets within little more than 24 hours have boosted Leafs to within four games of first-place Buffalo Bisons and just two behind second-place Richmond Vees.

Leafs and Jets had league play all to themselves Monday while the six other clubs were idle and Leafs took full advantage, rallying to win the second game 6-3 after romping 5-1 behind Don Johnson last to remain winless against Cleveland in his career.

Mickey Mantle walked four times and fanned once for Yankees who still hold a six-game bulge over second-place Chicago White Sox.

PACED BY VETERAN

On Sunday, Yankees beat Cleveland twice, Enos Slaughter, 41-year-old "country boy," pacing the champions with five hits. Slaughter's single tied the score and Mickey Mantle's run-off rookie Johnny Gray sewed up the 2-1 game for Ford. In the second he looped a single to centre in the ninth to score the winning run in the 5-3 verdict.

White Sox played a single game Sunday, battering Boston pitching for 19 hits and an 11-6 decision as Dick Donovan went all the way for his 12th win and Larry Doby connected three times for Chicago.

Washington's Roy Sievers, who had hit homers in six successive games missed out by the American League record in that department although Senators beat Detroit 8-4. The two clubs set a Griffith Stadium record with a total of seven homers.

CLANKS ATHLETICS

Billy Loes hurled a five-hitter as Baltimore beat Kansas City 5-0.

Bob Grim rescued Johnny Kucks in both a ninth - inning Cleveland rally and preserve a 5-3 triumph for New York Saturday.

Boston came up with five runs in the eighth to edge Chicago 6-5.

Sievers hit his 30th homer in the 17th inning to give Washington a 4-3 win over Detroit.

Reliever Ken Lehman halted a three-run Kansas City uprising in the top of the ninth to save a 7-6 win for Baltimore.

Dick Edney's Kingston Four Wins Corbin Gold Trophy; Belleville Rinks Take 2nd, 3rd

By CLAUDE D. TICE

Under ideal weather conditions and with a full complement of rinks, gathered from every part of the province, the 15th annual Corbin Good Cup tournament on the Belleville Bowling Club greens on Civic Holiday was an outstanding success. The bowlers, their wives, sweethearts and guests were welcomed on behalf of the city by Ald. Gerald B. Hyde, who also was the general chairman of the tournament. Mr. Hyde thanked the various rinks for their attendance, hoped their day would be one of enjoyment and that next year they would be back by Sunday past a beautiful holiday at their favorite pastime.

After the firing, the draw was made and the ditch-weight shots were all delivered, Dick Edney, a perennial bowling winner around these parts captured the beautiful Corbin Gold Cup and the accompanying prizes of four transistor radios. This rink which included Doug Duncan, William Duncan Jr., William Duncan Sr., and Dick Edney of Kingston, edged out Bert Wilson of Belleville last year, Gordon Watkin with a rink of Ken Laird, Bill Wrixon, Bruce Miller and Gordon Watkin by one point. The second rink was the winner of the Gold Cup trophy, which was presented by Larry Murphy, representative of the firm in this district. The winners received four sets of silver trays with all the accompaniments.

HANDSOME PRIZES

The Hotelkeepers' Association trophy and the four beautiful leather bags that accompanied it was won by John Shaw, Doug Sim, Jim Hanna and Walter Bell at the helm. The fourth prize donated by the Bowling Club of Sunbeam electric blankets was won by Cliff Boundy, V. Foxall, A. Cooper and Morris Booth of Cobourg. Sid Elsden of Lindsay with A. Jeffries, H. Dickey and J. Hanna won electric trappans sponsored by the Bata Shoe Company of Canada. The sixth prize was won by J. Whitley, Dr. W. Grant, T. Stewart and W. Wert of Ottawa, which got four table lamps, donated by the Stephen A. Adams, which Fleur Grenfell jackets, donated by Deacon Brothers, and presented by William Vant, sales representative, were won by D. Bearss, J. Whyte, F. Liddle and Sam Netley of Brighton.

The four utility cases, donated by Dr. Ferguson, Optometrist were won by R. Stephens, Gordon MacMillan, Stewart Carswell and S. MacMillan of Oshawa. The first two-game winner was C. Nicholls, L. Veal, H. Stafford and W. Robson of Toronto Beaconsfield Club and their prizes were four silver cake servers plates sponsored by the Mead Johnson Company of Canada. The four Bakelite thermojugs, donated by the firm of the same name were won by J. Lake, T. Scott, Ken Bain and Bert Wilson of Belleville. Belleville rink of Ken Bulford, Wilbur Fox, "Skit" Vandervoort and "Art" Wonnacott won the sport pants donated by Tip Top Tailors. Four motor cups, sponsored by the Elliott Motor Car Company were won by E. Wagner, H. W. Green, G. E. Cox and Ben Dailyn of Brockville.

The first one-game winners were R. Dougall, C. Todd, J. Rutherford, and Charles Smart of Kingston won the four lantern lanterns sponsored by the Ever Ready Company. The four garden chairs, donated by the McFarlane Gendron Company were won by F. Coleman, Archer, Ernie Sloggett and Doug Brennan of Campbellford. The four carafes, donated by the Belleville Coal merchants were won by C. Williamson, Bill Kay, A. Mandey and M. Fletcher of Peterborough, while a fine order the name of Charles Buskard of Deloro won the Blackstone cheese.

LADIES DID FINE JOB

During the afternoon and evening a large gallery comfortably seated on the lawns overlooking the greens, followed the play of their favorite rink. The ladies committee of the club, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harry Colling, who is also president, tendered to the wants of the inner man and they did a wonderful job. The thanks of the club for the attendance at this tournament were extended by Austin Watkin, president of the club. The greens were in excellent condition and although they took a terrific beating throughout the day stood up well under the pounding. Jack Bell, the local greenskeeper had them in wonderful shape. As usual the tournament was a great success from every angle and the committee in charge is to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which it was carried out.

Kwong Leads Eskys to Win

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fullback Norman Kwong scored over for a four-quarter touchdown Monday night to give Vancouver Eskimos a 14-11 victory Monday night in an exhibition contest against Britannia Beach. Veal, 14,219 fans watched the game between the two Western Interprovincial Football Union clubs.

NHL Players Brass Discuss Various Points

MONTREAL (CP) — Solicitors of the National Hockey League players and the NHL Players Association have met to discuss a list of points raised by the association, league president Clarence Campbell said Monday.

"The meeting has gone no farther," Campbell said. He was amplifying on his statement last week that a submission by the association had been circulated among the clubs by mid-June.

"The points were in the form of a private letter to all the NHL clubs," Campbell said. "It was decided to have the solicitors of the two groups meet to discuss the points raised by the players."

He did not list the details involved. The association was formed earlier this year. Campbell said last week that the question of compensation for the association has not arisen yet.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP)—Pink Velvet, a filly owned by William R. Peasley of Toronto, scored her seventh victory of the Canadian racing season and shattered the track record for 6½ furlongs as she won the $5,000 Fury Stakes at Fort Erie racetrack Monday. The filly scampered the distance in 1:17 1-5 to finish four lengths ahead of Kitty Girl.

Pink Velvet boosted her season's earnings to approximately $35,000 as Pat Remillard guided her to an easy triumph.

Defiadae finished third after a slow start.

On Saturday Mister Nick owned by the E/s Stable of Toronto, won the $7,500 Canadian Stakes Handicap establishing a new track record of 1:44 for one mile and one sixteenth over the grass course.

Mister Nick, also ridden by Remillard, caught the pace setting Ontario in the final sixteenth of a mile and won by two lengths. Jamestown Lad was third.

The Ontario racing season's richest largest daily double of $1,022.80 was recorded when Air Support and Frank's Gift won the first two races.

Jockey Ralph Blamonte won both ends of the double and also rode Daring Spirit, winner of the third race. He had a perfect day as they were his only three mounts of the program.

Marlene Wins 'Close' Title Sets Sights on Ladies' Open

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit, Canada's No. 1 woman golfer, started out today in defence of her Canadian Ladies' Open amateur title against 31 challengers.

A big, hopeful field of more than 100 was shaken down Monday in a tough qualifying round to 72 Canadian girls and four Americans—plus the poker-faced little champion from Foothills of the perilous, two-elimination match play competition.

The first round draw indicated no particular worries for Marlene or for the small but highly ranked American delegation. But the Canadian girls, otherwise, there were cut-throat matches galore.

Marlene is gunning for her fifth Open title next Saturday she won the Canadian Ladies' Close championship for the seventh straight time. In the six years she has won the Open four times.

QUALIFIES EASILY

From the way she waltzed through her qualifying round on Monday over the 6,000-yard-par 72, she will take a lot of beating even at match play.

If it's now there is no weak opposition from the Americans, three challengers from south of the border were next in line behind Marlene in the qualifying scores.

Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, Md., eight times state champion of Maryland, shot a par 79 in her second trip around the course. Her only previous look at it was Sunday in a practice round.

Marjorie Burns, from Greensboro, N. C., runner-up in the Southern Amateur this year, shot 78. Mrs. C. F. Spalding of Greenwich, Conn., shot 79 and Mrs. Norma Woolworth of New Canaan Conn., qualified with 80.

Two Cleveland girls disappearing from the championship picture. Jean Bell's 93 missed qualifying and Kathy Newton lost out on a playoff for the last qualifying spot. The playoff was for scores of 90.

Mrs. Murray of Calgary took the last playoff place at the third extra hole. Miss Newton also got at the first where she took a six to Miss Murray's par five and another par by Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Montreal. At the third hole the Calgary girl won with a par three. Mrs. Pyke three-putted the green.

Mrs. Streit today meets Mrs. R. D. Bagley of Winnipeg, who shot 84 in her qualifying round. Miss Burns meets Mrs. H. L. Mussels of Montreal: Mrs. Glick meets another Montrealer, Teddy Berube; Mrs. Woolworth is drawn against Mrs. H. P. Conner of Halifax, and Mrs. Spalding plays Donna Patton of Winnipeg.

The Canadian representation is a cross-country challenging field, including Hever-dale Thackeray of Toronto who qualified with an 83.

Closest Canadians to Marlene were Janet Hawkins of suburban Montreal and Kay Hellevar of Woodbridge, Ont., with 81s.

THREE ALBERTANS

Judy Darling, 19-year-old Montreal girl who won the junior Canadian title Saturday, was in the 82 group with Roma Noundorf of Toronto and three Alberta girls — Rae Milligan and Mary Lou of Calgary and Betty Shannope of Edmonton.

Champion Marlene headed the qualifying field seemingly without the slightest difficulty. She was three under par 35 going out and 38, one under, coming home, missing par at only one hole.

Marlene also shot a 73 Saturday in winning the Close and finishing the 54-hole three-day journey with 228, five under par for the full distance.

She started the tournament Thursday with par 77 and clipped it to 76 Friday.

Rae Milligan was erratic but finished second at 232, eight strokes behind the perennial champion.

Lois Miss Darling, winner of a sudden death playoff with Mary Ellen Driscoll of Saint John, N.B., for the junior crown, finished third with 236. Mary Ellen was fourth with 240 and Betty Stanhope fifth with 244.

Marlene, now 23 years old and married since her last win, started her string of seven victories in 1951 at the nearby Lavalsur-le-Lac Club.

Curley Alberico Stricken, Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Edward (Curley) Alberico, one of Peterborough's best-known sportsmen, died Sunday in St. Michael's Hospital.

He was stricken while attending a hockey game at Dixie Arena on April 3 and never regained consciousness.

He was director of Stoney's Junior Petes hockey club and had been connected with sports for 19 years.

Bucs' Murtaugh Gets Off To Bad Start

CHICAGO (AP)—Danny Murtaugh, Pittsburgh's new manager, recently got over a case of ulcers and has no intentions of running himself into poor health over the National League collar dwellers.

Murtaugh, who replaced brash Bobby Bragan Saturday, got off to a poor start in his debut Sunday as the Pirates lost a doubleheader to Chicago Cubs, 6-5 and 3-2 in 11 innings, to drop into eighth place behind Chicago.

"That double loss doesn't make too much difference," said Murtaugh. "This club is capable of playing .500 ball. All I have to do is get these kids winning. It's tougher to get youngsters on the right track than it is veterans but this team is kind of potential."

Murtaugh, 40, said he is well aware of the fact that he is a "temporary manager" but added "this is a real challenge and it is the team on which winning note it'll be most gratifying."

On Monday, Bragan signed a contract to manage the winning Cincinnati Redlegs in the Southern Association league. He is scheduled to join Alemandres in October.

Juan De Fuca Wins Over Four; Girl Tops Field

VICTORIA (CP) — Four skilled swimmers were presented with cheques totaling $5,000 here Monday night for their respective victories in the second annual Juan de Fuca Strait swim marathon.

Even as the cheques were being handed out at the reception all said they would be back to do it again. And one—Jason Gregares of New York and Athens, Greece —made he would come into the strait again in two weeks if he could find a sponsor.

Myra Thompson of San Francisco, who was awarded first prize for a grand total of seven, covered in her 16¼-hour, recordbreaking ordeal, was presented with $2,500.

She had failed by less than one mile to complete the course when she said the only thing that kept her going was the thought of using the $5,000 prize money (if she reached the opposite shore) to buy a home for her family in Bledsoe, Sweden for a holiday.

BEATEN BY TIDE

She was beaten early Monday by a changing tide as the end of the 18.3-mile swim from Victoria to Port Angeles, Wash., came in sight.

Jerry Hiland of Long Beach, Calif., calling Juan de Fuca the "Mount Everest of swims" received second prize of $1,250. A $750 third-place cheque went to Florence Chadwick of Britain and $500 to Jene Perle, Long Beach.

Seventeen distance swimmers from Canada and the United States started in the swim at Victoria Monday. Miss Thompson were pulled out with cramps and shock by the 12-hour mark.

ON GOLF TEAM

MONTREAL (CP)—Don Doe of Granby and two Montrealers—Neville Best and Ken Baker—won berths on Canada's Willingdon Cup team Sunday after a 54-hole tournament among 18 of the province's leading amateur golfers.

Best turned in the lowest score of the two-day tournament, a 222 total, one stroke under par.

Doe finished with a one-under par 71 for a 224 total. Banks had 225.

The fourth member of the squad is veteran Ed Macintosh of Montreal who qualified by winning the Quebec amateur title.

Ted Williams Rates Chance To Finish With .400 Plus

NEW YORK (AP)—With a .399 batting average and less than one third of the season remaining, Ted Williams stands a good chance of finishing over .400 for the second time in his brilliant baseball career.

But the 38-year-old Boston Red Sox' outfielder says he has no proof on his performance against Washington Senators.

The Red Sox are scheduled to play 13 of their remaining 51 games against the seventh-place Senators. And in their first 10 meetings, Williams managed to collect only 10 hits in 34 times at bat for a .294 mark. Against the rest of the teams in the league Williams is well over the .300 mark.

Williams, who batted .406 in 1941 and has captured the American League title four times, has hit safely in his last 13 games and 26 of his last 28.

In last week's games, Ted streaked at a .538 pace. He had 14 safeties in 26 trips and increased his average13 points.

Mickey Mantle of the Yankees remained in second place. He climbed 15 points to .362 with 13 hits in 21 at bats in games up to Sunday.

In the National League, Hank Aaron of Milwaukee and Stan Musial of St. Louis are battling for the lead. Aaron, last year's champion, is batting .337 and Musial's .333. In last week's action, Aaron slumped five points with four hits in 22 trips while Musial, a six - time kingpin, dropped one point.

Dick Groat of Pittsburgh still is in contention with a .329 mark. Groat, however, has slightly gained considerable ground in the American League home run and runs batted in races. He's now over the RBI lead with 79 and tied Harmon Killebrew for the top spot in homers at 30. Sievers drove in seven runs and walloped six circuit clouters last week.

Mantle is second in both categories with 26 homers and 75 runs batted in.

Musial drove in eight runs to move into the No. 1 position in the National League with 85 RBIs, two more than Aaron has but has hit the most homers, 31.

Belguim Takes Davis Cup European Zone

BRUSSELS (AP)—Belgium unexpectedly won the Davis Cup European zone tennis finals Monday when Philippe Washer defeated Italian Nicola Pietrangeli 6-4, 3-6, 6-8, 7-5, 6-2.

The Belgians will face the Australia-New Zealand winner in the Challenge Round at Brussels Aug. 15-17.

Peterborough Junior Wins Title Before 2,000 at Motor Cycle Meet

Sheldon Smith, Peterborough, won the Canadian junior dirt track motorcycle championship before 2,000 cheering fans at the Flair Grounds Monday.

The junior title race was the feature of a meet sponsored by the Pistons Pushers Club of Belleville and sanctioned by the Canadian Motorcycle Association.

Second place in the junior thriller went to Keith McElroy, Peterborough, with Bill Holden, Trenton, finishing in third place.

The championship event was a repetition of a former titular race held in Oshawa which was protested and ordered re-run here.

Fifty youthful riders from all parts of the province took part in the elimination races leading to the titular classic. Four such heats were necessary before the field was cut to the finalists.

The junior final was actually won by Ron Balson, Oshawa, with J. Campbell of London, second and Smith, finishing third. The latter, however, went on to win the crown.

Jim Clarke, of London, finished in front of the field in the final senior race over a four-mile distance. Ted MacDonald of Oshawa, was second, with Albert Everest, Highland Creek, third.

In a special expert final, former Australian champion, John Sargent paced the pack with Don McHugh, Brampton, hard on his tail, and Rudi Kechler, of New Dundee. These riders finished in this order in each heat of the race. The speed was terrific, each lap being timed under thirty seconds.

A minor accident was the only untoward incident, but the rider was able to continue after treatment.

Officials of the Picton Pushers Club expressed their appreciation of the services of members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade here, also the Belleville Fire Department.

AT THE McCARTEY — A scene from the comedy hit "Doctor At Large", now at the Odeon McCar by Theatre, filmed in VistaVision and Murlel Pavlow, Donald Sinden and James Robertson Justice.

Around the Kitty

As usual the weatherman smiled on the Corbin Gold Cup Trophy competition, although the sun did not shine as brilliant-ly as in other years. It was ideal for bowling. A large gallery followed the play both afternoon and evening. Large umbrellas were placed, plenty of chairs were available and those interested followed the play intently.

The women's section of the Club under the able direction of Mary Collins, President, did an excellent job of looking after the wants of the inner man. Everything was organized to the last detail and the service was served well and efficiently. The Club would be the poorer if it were not for the support of the women's section.

Belleville rinks had a field day in the first game with eight of the nine rinks entered winning. C. Jp. Tew, W. Van Tassel, Jack Smith and 'Scotty' Johnston at the helm defeated James Smith of Trenton 16-11. A Johnston rink of Ken Ashley, Bill Wright, Bruce Miller and Percy Watkin defeated Bill Fuller of Trenton 17-5. Pete Thorns, Gordon Vince, Gordon Sexsmith and 'Davey' Davison defeated Charles Bus-combe of Deseronto 16-6. Bill Lancaster, Garn Dobbe, Dawson Boyd and Orlo Smith lost to Ernie Ketcheson 20-13. Ken Bulford, Wilbur Fox, 'Skit' Vanderwater and Ivan Thompson lost to Arch Meyers of Campbellford 16-7. W. Levergne, Bob Carter, C. H. Metcalfe and Bruce Jones won by Free Bell of Cobourg 13-12 in a close one. Mike and Bob Hollund, Austin Watkin and Percy Graham won over Earl Fox of Stirling 19-2. John Shaw, Doug Sim, James Hanna and Walter Elliott defeated Walter Osborne of Toronto Morningside 16-11. Jack Fitzgerald, Ernie Vanner, Mark Turner and Wilfred Price defeated Albert Mander of Peterborough.

In the second game Gordon Watkin defeated Fred Stoate of Ontawa 16-7 and Davison was defeated 19-5 by Pete Wert of Ottawa. 'Ab' Wonnacott won his second from F. Harrison of Kingston 19-9 while Walter Elliott defeated Jim Duncan of Kingston 19-16. 'Scotty' Johnston dropped his second game to Horace Ormshaw of Trenton 19-11 and Wilfred Price also went down 13-9 to Sid Elsdon of Lindsay. Ernie Jones lost to Dick Edney of Kingston 24-12. Percy Graham also won their second game by defeating E. McFadden of Cobourg 15-10.

The youngest player in the tournament was Bill Southwell, 14, of Almonte. Bill says he has been bowling for two years and thoroughly enjoys the sport. He is a first class lead by the way and there were many on the greens who were not as accurate as he. His father was bowling with him on Monday.

The proceeds of the "spider" won by Bert Taylor of Campbellford represented the total. This money is used to assist bowling of veterans in hospitals.

Four past presidents of the PLBA were present to enjoy the games. They were Cliff Argue of this city, W. D. Connor and H. C. Spalding of Toronto, and Dr. H. Cheney of Ottawa. Cliff Argue although unable to play for the past year was a most interested spectator. Dr. Cheney officiated and general chairman of the Corbin Gold Cup tourney. He also was succeeded by Ald. Gerald B. Hyde, who has carried on in a most capable manner.

In the third game Gordon Watkin defeated Lusk of Newmarket 18-15 while Johnston was defeated by Myers of Campbellford 25-12. Davison lost to Jones of Peterborough 22-13. Orlo Smith beat Ballantyne of Campbellford 20-11 Jones lost to Ketcheson of Kingston 13-10 while Wonnacott lost to Booth of Cobourg 16-12. Price lost to Dallyn of Brockville 21-8, while Elliott beat Ormshaw of Trenton 20-14. Percy Graham lost to Edney of Kingston 22-17.

Minor Baseball

The Belleville Y's Men bantam baseballers defeated Wellington 4-0 in an exhibition game.

Wilson, Latchford, and Thompson combined to toss a no-hitter at the visiting team. Latchford struck out four for the losers.

Muirhead, Lewis, Latchford, Spafford, and Zakoz hit safely for the Y's Men.

South Hastings Baseball

Latta defeated Read 11-4 last night to take a one-game lead in the best-of-five semi-finals of the South Hastings Baseball league.

Latta won the first game 11-7 with Read squaring the series in the second game with 6-4 victory.

The winners salted away last night's victory with a seven-run explosion in the first inning off five hits, two walks and two hit batsmen. They scored another in the fourth and added three in the fifth off four clouts, and two walks.

Read scored all their runs in the third innings with two walks, three hits and a hit batsman.

Jack Stewart and Stan Reid shared the mound duties for the winners with Hanley going the distance for the losers.

Garry Gow paced the Latta attack with three singles with Pat Sullivan, Orly Glass getting two each. Howard Meek hit a triple with Frank Bay, Jack Stewart and Stan Read getting singles.

T. Brennan with two, Shannon, Jerry Brennan and Pat Hanley getting two hits apiece for the losers.

The umpires were Thompson and Pointer.

Marines Defeat Bobcats 7-5 in Series Opener

The Goyer Marins went one up in the OASA intermediate "AA" playoffs here last night, defeating the Belleglade Bobcats 7-5 in the first of a best-of-five series. The second game is slated for the CNRA Park tomorrow night starting at 6.30.

Manager Tom Hooking sent Lum Carson to the mound and the veteran came through with an eight-hitter. He walked six and struck out three.

Bobby Bunten went the route for the Cats and was touched for 12 hits and seven walks.

Jack Stewart and Stan Reid shared the mound duties for the winners with Hanley going the evening route for the losers.

Garry Gow paced the Latta attack with three singles with Pat Sullivan, Orly Glass getting two each. Howard Meek hit a triple with Frank Bay, Jack Stewart and Stan Read getting singles.

T. Brennan with two, Shannon, Jerry Brennan and Pat Hanley getting two hits apiece for the losers.

The umpires were Thompson and Pointer.

Junior Golfers Whip Americans By 8-2 Count

WASHINGTON (AP) — Junior golfers from Ontario scored a stunning 8-2 victory Sunday over teenagers from the District of Columbia area in the seventh annual Simpson Cup matches at Columbia Country Club.

The Canadians won six of the eight singles matches; losing one and halving one. Saturday they took a 3-1 lead in the Scotch foursome play, with one match even.

The series now stands 4-3 in favor of the Americans.

Ron Pollard of Brantford and Paul Gilbert of Toronto, captain of the Canadians and the Ontario junior champion, halved their golf ball for all as their matches went, and Bob Pannasuk of Windsor was two over par for 15 holes.

Three of the matches went to the 18th hole, with John Hall and Paul Gilbert, both of Toronto, sealing their victories on the finishing hole and Michael Sullivan of Tillsonburg earning a halve.

The other Canadian winner was John Wood of Brantford, Ontario, who captured his match 4 and 2.

The Canadian singles winner was Dave Turner who defeated Ernie Hauser of Kitchener, 3 and 2.

Hottest Attraction in Show Business Will Earn Million

AT THE BELLE — As Moses, the great Lawgiver, Charlton Heston heads the massive cast of Cecil B. DeMille's production, "The Ten Commandments," Yul Brynner, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Yvonne De Carlo, Debra Paget, John Derek and Sir Cedric Hardwicke also star. "The Ten Commandments," in Technicolor and VistaVision, is playing Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the air-conditioned Belle Theatre. Two performances daily — 1.30 and 7.30 p.m.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How does $1,000,000 feel?

Harry Belafonte ought to know. The onetime janitor, now the hottest attraction in show business, will earn more than that in 1957, I asked him how it felt.

"I can't feel it," he replied, "because I never see it. Most of it disappears to the government, expenses, etc. Out of the millions, I maybe get only $100,000." With a backward glance at his poor days, he had to laugh at himself: "Only $100,000!"

The dough is a comfort, he admitted, but it hasn't changed his life.

"I don't throw my money around. I have only an apartment in New York. I still own just one car. Artistically, I'm still doing the kind of work I want to do, with no compromises. And my friends are the same ones I've had for years."

NEW POWER NOW

But the difference now is power. He has the power to reach the widest audience imaginable—the first of his race to do so. He feels deeply the responsibility that goes with such power.

For instance, he is to appear on Nat (King) Cole's NBC television show. He will receive a couple of hundred dollars and donate that to charity. Belafonte is able to donate $10,000 for a guest appearance. He explained:

"When I found out that Nat was trying to break down the resistance to sponsoring a TV show starring a Negro, I told him I'd be glad to go on with him. I said I'd do anything on the show he wanted me to."

Belafonte is making another gesture by playing New York's Waldorf Astoria hotel for five successive next month. He could earn much more elsewhere. But he'll be returning because the hotel booked him as the first Negro to play the Waldorf.

Belafonte admitted that the acceptance of himself as a performer got him in places where Negroes are barred. But he is willing to be the trail blazer in hopes that others may follow.

He plans to reach an even wider audience in the future. He is now negotiating a three-picture deal with 20th Century-Fox. It is based on a theme found in what he could do on the screen because he is a Negro.

"Five years ago, I might have been," he said, "but not now. There is nothing I can't be on the screen. Producers realize I can be a draw."

He said he is through with problem pictures about racial relations. Two hot properties mentioned for him have been Porgy and Bess and The Emperor Jones. He said both deals are cold.

"I talked to Mr. (Sam) Goldwyn about Porgy and told him I couldn't see it," Belafonte said. "The music is great, but I wouldn't do it as the Dubose Heyward script was written. All that crap shooting and razors and last great cocaine is the old conception of the Negro. I wouldn't presume to ask Mr. Goldwyn to tailor his $6,000,000 investment to me, so I just said no.

"The Emperor Jones is an even worse conception of the Negro; I wouldn't consider it."

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome plate discomfort. FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmer so that they feel more secure. Helps check "denture breath" (denture odor). Get FASTEETH today at any drug counter.

Gains, benefits definitely indicated.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your whole outlook on life should be stimulated now. Day promises fine achievement. Hard work, difficult matters, study, mental work generally favored.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — You should have great confidence now; also bright ideas and the will to carry out those ideas. You can go forward most quickly in matters requiring keenness, smart manipulation, skill, industriousness.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Take care of urgent matters first, then study new items on your agenda. Don't crowd yourself; rather try to finish incompleted matters. Enjoy some rest and recreation.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You ambitious folks should have a field day. Industrious should stimulate your innate intelligence and general know-how. Careful work and alertness will pay well.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Your innate patience is a nice quality, but don't let it deter you from capitalizing on your fine capabilities now. Be careful about details.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Very generous influences. Let your efforts match them. You can make fine gains through earnest effort, the right attitude, wise planning, industriousness.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Generally friendly indications for most endeavors. Give up any pointless plans. Your ability should not be wasted. Time lost cannot be recaptured, either, so make the most of it.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Neptune in fine aspect. Activities connected with water, medicine, invention highly favored; also confidential and unusual matters. Make good use of generous influences.

YOU BORN TODAY are independent, courageous, fearless, loyal to country, those you love, those in authority; are a born organizer and leader. Curb a tendency to domineer. You can achieve to a high degree in a profession, in the military, at a trade—whatever you choose so long as you stay with it and remain inwardly happy. Keep physically fit; don't waste valuable time.

Little Benny's Notebook

Us fellows were walking along not having any special fun but feeling glad it was still vacation. And Puds Simkins said, I wish some guy would drop a dollar and I'd find it and give to him and he'd give me 5 dollers for my honesty. Oh boy, he might even let me keep the one he dropped, too, just for good measure, Dopey Shorty said. Which I said, Aw, no body would be that crazy.

He wouldn't have to be crazy, Shorty said. He'd just have to be a millionair, he said, and Lucky Leroy Hoosier said, Anyways, I'll bet anybody 3 cents it wont happen in the next hour. I'll even bet 3 to one. Is anybody here sport enough to bet me? he said.

Which nobody was, partly on account of him being too lucky, and partly on account of nobody being that dum, and just then some man in front of us took a letter out of an envelope and read it and then put it back in the envelope and dropped the whole thing in the gutter, and I said, Oh boy, here's our chance. Somebody run after him with that letter, I said.

Ah, he threw it away, Ed Hunt said, and I said, Yeah, but how are we suppose to know that? Let us read the letter and see what it is. Maybe it's more important than he realized and he'll be glad to get it back through our honesty, I said.

And we picked the letter up, saying in it, Mr. Allen Skitch, Dear Sir, This is our 3rd reminder that a ballents of 14 dollars and 80 cents is overdue on your loan. We advise you to give this matter your prompt attention. The Universel Frendly Loan Company.

Proving he was no millionaire, and we all went around to the first house to wait for an alrm to come in.

Which none didn't.

PRESSURE COOKER LEADS CENTENNIAL WATER PARADE

Lindsay, Ont., is celebrating its 100th birthday this week and the tourist-popular Scugog river will be the site of a centennial boat parade. Heading the parade is the SS Pressure Cooker whose chief claim to fame is that it does run in spite of its unseaworthy appearance.

PLAN ATOM SHIP FOR 1960

Clarence G. Morse, chairman of the U.S. Federal Maritime board, examines a drawing of an atomic-powered merchant ship which was unveiled at a symposium in Washington on nuclear-powered ships. The purpose of the gathering is to present the current status in the development of nuclear power for merchant ship propulsion and to report on the progress in building the world's first atomic-powered ocean liner. This design could be on the seas by 1960.

REFUSED PAROLE WILL TRY AGAIN

Sombre-looking Nathan Leopold, Jr., 52, is shown as he said he would "try until my dying breath to earn parole," from prison at Joliet, Ill. Leopold, who has served nearly 33 years for the 1924 "thrill murder" of 14-year-old Bobby Franks, said he was not crushed by the adverse action in his fourth bid for release from prison, but would start preparing a new petition for the pardon and parole board.

CARRIES A-BOMB FASTER THAN SOUND

Demonstrating its tremendous power, an F-105 Thunderchief climbs straight up over Andrews Air Force Base, Washington, D.C. Scheduled for service with the Tactical Air Command, the new fighter-bomber has two "half-V's" where wings meet fuselage to make air, aiding the plane fly faster than sound without "choking" the engine. The Thunderchief can carry atomic bombs.

Little Benny's Notebook

Me end pop and Puds Simkins and Puds's father all went to the circus together, pop and Mr. Simkins both pretending they were going so they could talk to each other while me and Puds were injoying the circus, and we were waiting outside for them to get reddy and we saw Flora and Dora the 2 bewty looking twins come out of their house in the next block, and I said, Lets go down and tell them where we're going.

Which we did, me saying, We're going to the circus, and Puds saying, Yeah, we're just waiting for our fathers to come out and take us.

That's nuthing grate, we're waiting for our mother to come out and take us to dancing school, Flora said, and I said, Well heck, what's grate about dancing school?

It makes you graceful, that's what, Flora said, and Dora said. Do you think you'll ever be as graceful as a trained horse dancing to circus music?

Did you hear that, Dora, they insulted us, Flora said, and Dora said, Let's go right back in the house and wait. They insulted us, she said.

Aw, we didn't, either, Puds said. It's not your fault, he said, and I said, Sure, you cant help it if you have only got 2 legs to be graceful instead of four.

The result being they went in

REEKS NEW RECOUNT

MONTREAL (CP)—A spokesman for candidate J. Leo Remillard said a second recount will be sought of the votes in a recent aldermanic by-election at suburban Ville Jacques Cartier. The original vote gave reform candidate Paul Trudeau an 203-spte lead over Remillard. A recount Saturday confirmed Trudeau's election but cut his majority to two votes. Remillard was defeated in his bid June 1 for mayor in a violent election during which then-mayor Julien Lord read the Riot Act.

HOUSEBUILDING DOWN

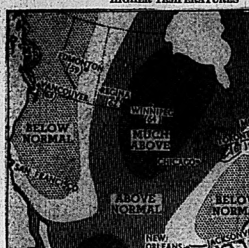
HIGHER TEMPERATURES



All of Canada except British Columbia and western Alberta can expect temperatures either near normal or above normal seasonal readings throughout August, according to this map based on the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau. While Newfoundland and eastern Nova Scotia can look for above-normal readings, most of the Maritime Provinces and Quebec will have temperatures near normal. A band of above-normal temperatures runs down through the Great Lakes, into the United States and up through Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Within this band is an area where temperatures are expected to be much above normal. A thin band of near-normal temperatures straddles the Saskatchewan-Alberta border. Within the below-normal B.C. area is a small section north of Vancouver Island where temperatures are expected to be much below normal. (CP Photo).

Owen Sound Centennial Was Howling Success

OWEN SOUND (CP) — The eight-day Owen Sound centennial homecoming ends Saturday night when more than 8,000 people thronged Queen's Park for the closing ceremonial, which included a spectacular aerial fireworks display.

They also saw presentation of prize money in the 15-mile swim won by Cliff Lumsden of Toronto and an old-time fiddlers' contest. The crowd at he windup was only a small portion of that which jammed into the city Saturday. Harassed policemen who spent hours untangling traffic snarls estimated that at least 40,000 persons were in the city whose normal population is 17,500.

Many tourists travelling to Lake Huron and Bruce Peninsula points became bogged down in the traffic jams, finally parked their cars and went downtown to join the fun.

Officials estimated that attendance at performances on the centennial stage, held nightly at Queen's Park, was more than 50,000 for the week. A $1 booster button admitted he holder to all centennial stage attractions.

MOM TAKES IT EASY

Army life seems easy for Edna Leduc who spends most of her year taking care of her nine children at home in Ottawa. When she went off to CWAC reserve camp at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario, she left the children in charge of her husband Real who took three weeks off from his postal job to look after them. Here Mrs. Leduc takes it easy at camp. (CP Photo from National Defence).

Little Benny's Notebook

We had one of ma's swell chocklit cakes for dizzert, being so good ma liked it herself, and she said to pop, Well, now I just wonder, William, shall I take a small 2nd slice?

To take or not to take, that is the question, pop said. To suffer the pounds and ounces of the outragous scales, or, to quote the raven, nevermore, he said, and ma said, The last time I wayed myself, I was actually a whole half pound under my permanent goal.

When was that? pop said, and ma said, That's the complication, it was some time ago. So what do you think, William? she said.

I think I would prefer to bear you threw out the problem in your own limitable way, pop said, and ma said, Well, there are 2 possibilities. Either I am still under my goal, in which case I can safely take a moderate 2nd helping, or elts I have exactly caught up to my goal, in which case I can risk another very small slice, or elts I have already passed my goal, in which case I can take an additional peece independent of its size, she said.

Heh? pop said. The 3rd possibility fails for a fuller explanation, he said, and ma said, Well, don't you see, William, if I'm already overwait I'll have to start dieting seriously, so I might as well start with a substantial gain to lose. Oh dear, I think I'll compromize and just take a medium 2nd slice, she said.

Which she did, cutting it careful and eating it slow.

Back-to-Work Deadline Passes At Gaspe Mines

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP) A back-to-work deadline for employees of the strike - bound Gaspe Copper Mines passed Monday night as the mine control was returned to production, company manager W. G. Brissenden said.

Names of all strikers who failed to report for work by 5 p.m. Monday were to be removed from the company payroll this morning, assistant manager Herve Berube announced.

If any workers return today, they will have to come "as new employees," he said.

Mr. Berube said "roughly 20" striking workers met the company deadline, set originally for last Friday and then postponed until Monday. A number of others were known to have queried by telephone and telegram. It was not known how many disregarded the deadline.

Officials of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) were not available for immediate comment.

STOCKPILE BUILT UP

The smelter had been out of action since March 11 when about 1,000 workers walked off their jobs. Some workers—each side disputed the other's figures on how many—went back when mining operations resumed April 29.

Since then, a stockpile of concentrate has been built up for use when the smelter is reheated. By Monday night, with the smelter operating a few hours, it was partially filled with 300 tons of concentrate.

Mr. Brissenden said refined copper would flow from the smelter by Wednesday, and full smelter production of 100 tons of copper daily would be reached shortly afterwards.

The bitter strike began in a dispute over union certification. The company obtained a writ of prohibition restraining the Quebec labor relations board from acting on a union application for certification of the local.

The issue is still before the courts.

NO BONANZA

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Louis Sweden, drilling for water at nearby Erie Beach, struck a small pocket of natural gas. Geologists report small pockets of gas are common in the area, but that they soon peter out.

Heavy Damage Follows Rain, Three Drowned

THETFORD MINES, Que. (CP) Damage estimates ran as high as $2,000,000 following a heavy weekend rainstorm which sent normally-placid streams on a rampage through six Eastern Townships counties.

The de la Marre River 10 miles southwest of here claimed the lives of a mother and her three children Saturday night.

The floods were described as one of the worst in the history of the Eastern Townships. They created havoc within a 30 to 40-mile radius of Thetford Mines—in the counties of Lotbiniere, Beauce, Megantic, Frontenac, Wolfe and Compton.

Civic authorities estimated Monday it would take more than a month for their communities to get back on their feet.

Damage to roads, railway lines, farms and private homes is expected to run high.

Mayor Rodolphe Cascette said damage in Thetford Mines alone may run beyond $1,000,000. He said he might be forced to ask for federal and provincial government aid.

At Asbestos, officials of the Flinkote mines reported $10,000 damage when water flooded an open pit and covered several power shovels.

SOLVE POLIO PROBLEM

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Jonas Salk, returning from an international polio conference in Geneva, said Monday he is convinced vaccines of the type he developed "will solve the problem of paralytic polio." Salk said polio is on the rise except in countries where the killed-virus type vaccine is widely used. He said more than 100,000,000 persons have received Salk anti-polio shots.

Easy, 'Baldies' The Line Forms On the Right

LONDON (Reuters) — Dentist Eugene Plant, who claims he has found a formula to grow hair, Friday accepted the challenge of a bald Australian newspaper man to investigate his method.

Plant is convinced that within 18 months he will grow luxuriant locks on Phillip Knightley, of the London staff of the Australian Truth Newspapers. Knightley will publish the results.

"Sulphur is the correct form is the secret of the regrowth of hair," the 70-year-old Plant said Friday.

Four Squadrons Of Jet Fighters Now in Europe

BADEN - BADEN, West Germany (Reuters) — The last of four squadrons of Canadian-built CF-100 twin-jet all-weather fighters to join Canada's NATO forces in Europe arrived here Monday after completing the last leg of their flight, 1,600 miles from Kelfavik, Iceland, in three hours and 20 minutes.

An RCAF spokesman said he could not disclose the full number of aircraft which had arrived. But he added that he had heard nothing further about one plane reported in the Sept-Iles area of Quebec's north shore Thursday, first day of their flight from North Bay, Ont.

The squadron made two landings on the way—at Goose Bay, Labrador, and at Keflavik.

The first three of the four CF-100 squadrons, part of Canada's NATO commitment in Europe, arrived in Europe between last November and May. The four squadrons are replacing Canadian-built F-86 day fighters.

Mine Cave-In Blocks Timmins' Only Highway

Hole 200 Feet Deep Opens Within 20 Feet of Road

TIMMINS (CP)—The collapsing roof of an abandoned mine shaft opened a 10,000-square-foot hole in the earth 20 feet from a busy highway early today but no one was injured.

Provincial police sealed off the highway—No. 101, the main route into this Northern Ontario mining town—and the northern department began bulldozing a makeshift road through nearby bushland.

The cave-in occurred about 1 a.m. The earth disappeared over an area measuring 100 feet on each side.

The hole it left was estimated to be at least 200 feet deep.

The abandoned shaft belongs to the Pamour mine.

THREE PILLARS

Officials of the company said they had planned to fill in the old shaft where gold ore was dug. This had not been done, they said, because three 40-foot stone pillars supporting the roof were considered adequate.

The cave-in resulted from the collapse of one of these pillars, transportation officials said.

Mine spokesmen said they now feared the other two pillars—one standing between the shaft and the highway—would buckle under the weight of the earth. The third column is under the west side of 101.

Traffic was backed up for more than a mile. The line included several trucks carrying perishable fruits, vegetables and meat to market in Timmins. The drivers said they feared for the condition of the produce.

The collapsing earth took with it several trees.

MAYOR AT SCENE

Mayor Art Villano of Timmins said in Kirkland Lake he drove over the highway just before 1 a.m.

"I just made it," he said. "The road was beginning to collapse. I looked back and saw the cave-in widening. I stopped and it was too deep. I couldn't see the bottom."

Houses 600 yards away trembled and creaked.

Provincial Highways Minister Allan, informed of the cave-in, expressed astonishment and said he would "look into the matter on it right away."

Mine officials said when the rumblings started, mine workers retreated to a safe distance from the old workings.

Bath Man Dies In Barrie Crash

BARRIE (CP)—Ronald Beazer, 25, of Bath, near Kingston, died in hospital Tuesday night of injuries suffered when the motorcycle he was riding went out of control and struck guardposts at the side of Highway 400 just north of here.

Police said Beazer was travelling south when the accident occurred about 8 p.m. at the Cookstown cloverleaf.

Peer Folks Want to Whip Talks Of Queen's Pure Light of Goodness

LONDON (CP)—Members of the Royal Family, the article said, are "living symbols" of a majestic whole; but they are also simple, fair and ill people, whose light is the pure light of disinterested goodness.

When the Queen entertained the Commonwealth prime ministers, she was not acting a part or playing not of vassals but of friends.

The Queen Victoria would not have exposed herself thus to comparison with mere mortals.

The article was by Lord Altrincham. The quotes are from the "outraged, outraged" fellow peers, newspaper editors and not a few ordinary folk who thought of the horsewhip and the shotgun.

Taken in context, the six-page article in the National and English Review contains a single phrase that would justify the accusation that Altrincham is guilty of a personal attack on the Queen—the statement that her style of speaking is "a pain in the neck," and that she suffers essentially friendly to royalty.

Altrincham's own article is scarcely compatible by three others—all

ASIAN NATIONS KEY TO WIDENING INSPECTION AREA

Stassen Tells Why Some Bases Excluded

LONDON (AP) — The United States has made plain to Russia that it will not open all its bases to Soviet aerial inspection until the place of Asia's Communist countries in Russian military plans is spelled out.

Harold E. Stassen, U.S. delegate to the United Nations disarmament subcommittee, indicated this Tuesday when Russia's Valerian Zorin requested clarification on the air and ground inspection system proposed last week by Secretary of State Dulles.

Asked by Zorin why the plan did not cover U.S. bases in North Africa, the Middle East, Turkey and Pakistan, Stassen replied that their inclusion would have brought up "very difficult" political questions.

Stassen pointed out that the Western proposal provides for complete expansion of the inspection zones when and if progress is made toward settling political differences.

THE U.S. POSITION

Informed American sources said Stassen made it clear that the main question involved in expanding the inspection zones to Russia's relationship with the Communist governments of China, North Viet Nam and Outer Mongolia, which are not recognized by the U.S. and are not involved in the disarmament negotiations.

Presumably the U.S. feels that excluding certain Western bases from inspection would offset the possibility that an attack might be mounted from Red China or some other Communist Asian state.

Russia has contended that she could be in danger of attack from Africa and Middle East while holding inspection rights over Europe and North America.

Stassen also underlined caution on two other points:

1. Why did the Dulles plan rule out creation of an inspection plan covering only European areas, but make it conditional on creation either of a zone centring on Moscow or of a wide-based zone embracing almost all of North America and the Soviet Union?

EUROPE NOT ENOUGH

To the first question Stassen said the European governments did not feel they would be adequately protected by a zone only embracing Europe.

Stassen replied to the second query that Dulles envisaged Eastern European countries as part of the inspection plan both before and after any disarmament pact goes into effect.

Stassen urged that Soviet and Western scientists get together on drawing up details of an inspection plan as soon as possible.

A Soviet commentator on Moscow radio said today the inspection zone proposals made by the U.S. could serve nothing "except purely propaganda purposes."

Will Stand for No Nonsense Like Beer Ban Say Grocers

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Retail Grocers' Association says it will "take no nonsense" from Ontario authorities who have moved to halt light beer manufactured in New Brunswick from entering Ontario.

Provincial officials said Tuesday the federal government has agreed to stop the beer movement at Ontario's request. It is understood the Ottawa government will base action on the Importation of Intoxicating Liquors Act, which makes liquor traffic between the provinces.

RGA spokesman Jon Kieran said the association has pledged itself to fight for the merchants' legal rights.

"We're not going to take any nonsense like that (the ban)."

New Brunswick beer was introduced with the backing of the RGA, and is sold in grocery stores throughout the province.

Mr. Kieran said the liquor control board of Ontario chairman, William Collings, is "hugging the law" in the light beer dispute.

The New Brunswick light beer is said to have an alcoholic content of less than 2.5 per cent by volume. The grocers' association is having an alcoholic content of 2.5 per cent or more by volume.

Last week, however, the LCBO announced that light beer is intoxicating, is governed by the liquor laws, and grocery stores that sold it would be liable to prosecution.

Toronto Mining Exchange To Probe $8-Dive in Stock

TORONTO (CP) — Shares of Aconic Mining Corp. Ltd. today were off $8.75 on the Toronto market, a gain of 75 cents over Tuesday's close.

Toronto Stock Exchange officials said they are continuing an inquiry into the circumstances which caused the paper loss Tuesday of more than $30,000,000 in the stock market value of Aconic. At one time, within 15 minutes, Aconic lost $8 a share.

Officials of the company, which owns iron-ore sands in the Manitoushpan area of Quebec's Saguenay region, said "short-position in the stock" by non - shareholders forced the tumble, which swept the stock from $9 down to $1 in a few minutes amid a turnover of 18,900 shares. Par value of Aconic is $1.

The stock opened Tuesday at $11, climbed to $11.75, then drifted down to $9. But shortly after noon the price fell to $1. It recovered a bit to close at $2.

Exchange traders said they didn't think the cause of the decline was short selling. Rumor circulated that a contract between Aconic and a German firm Klockner-Humboldt-Deutz of Cologne, had created a problem.

Last January, Aconic after a group gained control of the company, has announced it had arranged with the German firm to build a $10,000,000 iron ore concentrating plant at Natashquan.

The German company was said to have agreed to pay 80 per cent of the plant cost and be repaid in shipments of iron concentrate.

Officials said Tuesday there has been no change in those plans.

J. E. Fauquier, a company vice-president, said was for as the company is concerned the

First Time Canadian Troops Under One Foreign Power

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time in peacetime, Canada has committed troops to the authority of a single foreign power.

Officials here say this is probably the most significant feature of the establishment of a supreme command at Colorado Springs, Colo., for the defence of the United States' air defence forces. The commander will be an American air force general with Air Marshal Roy Slemon of the RCAF as his deputy.

This arrangement gives the American commander authority to commit Canadian airmen to battle. In event of an air assault by Russia, Canada there would be no time for consultation with the Canadian government on commitment of Canadian servicemen to action.

There is no definite precedent for such placing of Canadian troops under authority of a foreign power, a mayp long realised by the Liberal government when it was in power.

However, officials point out, Canada has committed troops to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. NATO's supreme commander presently would consult the Canadian government before sending Canadian forces into battle and there were time.

One official laughingly commented that it might be said that Canadian commanders have more trouble than foreigners when it comes to committing Canadians to action.

For instance, Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton in his committed two Canadian infantry battalions to the Korean campaign without first consulting Ottawa. The external affairs department told him it was a "radical departure from pre-considered policy" for Canada.

Army historian Col. C. P. Stacey says in his book Six Years of War that McNaughton felt he had authority to commit the battalions again because he was then governor by the government, which, however, fell before the battalions never went to Norway.

There was a similar incident during the Korean War when Brig. A. B. Connolly, head of the Canadian military mission in Tokyo, lost his job. He allegedly permitted the American command to use Canadians as prison guards on Koje Island without first obtaining approval from Ottawa.

CANADIAN LEGION ENDORSES EYE BANK FOR BLIND

Members Pledge Use Of Eyes After Death

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—More than 500 delegates at the Canadian Legion Ontario command convention have pledged the use of their eyes after their own death to help restore sight to the blind.

About 1,200 veterans gave their unanimous support Tuesday to an appeal, made on behalf of the Canadian National institute of the Blind, for them to will their eyes at death to those with visual defects.

Delegates also endorsed the Eye Bank of Canada, which provides the delicate transparent material used in replacing defective corneas in the human eye.

The convention recommended that the next parliamentary committee for veterans affairs should have wide terms of reference so an exhaustive study can be made of all phases of the Canadian Pensions Act.

SAY CAR STILL WIDE

The delegates, in adopting a report, welcomed disability pensioners whose pensions went into effect July 1, but at the same time expressed disappointment at the legion's failure to obtain rates and the general prosperity of the country.

"The big gap between disability pension rates remains to spur the legion to renewed efforts to have it bridged," the report said.

Members also passed a resolution asking that the old age pension be increased to $60. That pension, recently raised to $46 a month, from $40, is not sufficient to provide the basic necessities of life to a person wholly dependent on it, they said.

A resolution was adopted urging a change in Canadian copyright laws to exempt branches from the high assessments.

Speakers indicated concern at having to pay performing rights fees for records used at social functions. They asked the Composers, Authors, and Publishers Association to supply branches with a complete list of copyrighted works.

SAYS LAW OUTMODED

S. G. Simpson, president of the Canadian Performing Association, told the meeting the present laws are outmoded under modern conditions. They were passed before the invention of the record player, radio and tv, and been designed to protect composers and publishers of printed music.

Some of the other resolutions adopted dealt with assistance for Canadians in hiring governments employees, payment of veterans' allowances to Canadians living in the United States, deduction of income tax from pensions and increasing of the personal income tax exemption.

THROAT WAS BLOCKED

GRAVENHURST (CP)—A doctor and firemen worked for three hours Tuesday in a vain attempt to save the life of a four-year-old girl after her body was found floating face down in a shallow water in Gull Lake. Fire chief Roy Mathais said a resuscitator revealed an obstruction in the throat of Linda Carroll of Willowdale, a Toronto suburb, but Dr. H. J. Lawrence tried to remove it with a knife.

Harkness Gets Agriculture Post, Controls Mines

Harkness Will Be Replaced Later as Resources Chief

OTTAWA (CP) — Resources Minister Harkness has been named agriculture minister and Paul Comtois, freshman Conservative member from Quebec's Nicolet-Yamaska, has been appointed minister of mines and technical surveys, Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today.

The prime minister said Mr. Harkness, 54-year-old member for Calgary North, will be replaced as resources minister shortly, following completion of certain projects undertaken since the Progressive Conservatives took office.

Appointment of Mr. Comtois, 50, a dairy farmer and agronomist from Pierreville, Que., gives Quebec province three members in the cabinet.

Remaining vacancies are health, citizenship and immigration and defence production, all now held on an acting basis by Diefenbaker himself. Mr. Diefenbaker holds the external affairs portfolio.

TARDIFF IS WHIP

Along with the two ministers, Mr. Diefenbaker announced the appointment of Louis E. Tardiff of Huron riding as chief government whip and of Jean Lesage as one of eight parliamentary assistants to ministers. He said six other parliamentary assistants will be announced next week.

The parliamentary assistants: Agriculture—John A. Charlton, Brant-Haldimand.

Labor — Arthur Maloney, Toronto Parkdale.

Health — Ernest Halpenny, London.

Mines — Raymond O'Herley, Lobinière, Que.

Defence — Marcel Lambert, Edmonton West.

Trade — Thomas M. Bell, Saint John-Albert, N.B.

Transport—Angus R. MacDonald, Antigonish-Guysboro.

Public Works — Clayton W. Hodgson, Victoria, Ont.

MINISTERS

The cabinet appointees give Mr. Diefenbaker a total of 17 ministers including himself. That is expected to hold the external affairs portfolio only temporarily.

The lineup of ministers by provinces:

Ontario, five; Quebec, three; British Columbia, three; all other provinces, one apiece. This includes Mr. Diefenbaker as representing Saskatchewan.

3 Peterborough Men Remanded

NEWMARKET (CP) Three Peterborough men have been remanded in custody to Aug. 13 in connection with the armed robbery Monday night of the Kitchener girl hitchhikers.

Edwin Galway, 17, was charged Tuesday with armed robbery. James George Avery, 22, and Robert James Fee, 24, pleaded guilty to receiving.

Police Lieut. Ken Smith and Helen Lazin, 25, said they entered a car at Wasaga Beach and the men offered to drive them home.

Ground Assault Opened Against Oman Rebels

FAHUD, Oman (Reuters)—Loyalist troops supported by British soldiers and airmen opened the first ground assault against the Oman rebels after almost two weeks of softening up by air attacks.

The loyalist force this morning advanced to within 20 miles of insurgent headquarters at Nizwa, an official spokesman stated in Manama, Bahrein.

The spokesman said opposition had not been much.

The northern frontier regiment of the sultan of Muscat and Oman moved in early today. Supporting them were the British-officered trucial Oman scouts and men of the British army's Cameron Highlanders.

Target for the assault was the small palm-fringed village of Izz, south of the Nizwa headquarters of the imam of Oman, who is leading the revolt against the British-protected sultan.

St. Laurent Will Map Future Party Strategy

OTTAWA (CP) —Opposition Leader St. Laurent is expected back in Ottawa next week from his St. Patrick Que., summer home for discussions on map future strategy with Liberal party chiefs.

One party source said Tuesday there is no plan for a formal caucus-like party meeting. But it could be expected the 75-year-old former prime minister will hold informal talks with various party men.

It is thought likely that former finance minister Harris, defeated in Grey-Bruce in the June 10 federal election, will be on hand to talk with Mr. St. Laurent. Mr. Harris is reported to have been active behind the scenes in Liberal party reorganization in Ontario since the defeat.

Commons standing in Progressive Conservatives 111, Liberals 105, CCF 25, Social Credit 19, Independent Liberal 1, Liberal Labor 1 and vacant one-total 265.

Two Convicts Left to Find More Liquor

KINGSTON (CP) — Two convicts who escaped from a Brooklin farm at nearby Joyceville said Tuesday a break from the farm July 20 was not an attempt to escape but merely a determined search for liquor.

Douglas Whitney of Agincourt and Murray Lascelles of Chatham told Magistrate Norman Garvin that they became drunk on home-brew after they had manufactured from potatoes, raisins and sugar and when it ran out they decided to go in search of more. They did not say whether they found any.

When asked why they did not return to the farm, 10 miles north of here, they said they became lost and decided they might as well keep on. They were recaptured the next day.

Magistrate Garvin sentenced each man to an additional 10 months.

Protestant and Orthodox Churches Probe Religious Liberty Problem

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) Protestant and Orthodox church leaders have decided to undertake a broad inquiry into problems of religious liberty that they may seek direct talks with Roman Catholic leaders.

Instead of issuing pronouncements, the council's policy-making central committee decided to put its diplomats to work.

"Other means can be much more efficient than general statements," said Lutheran Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, Germany. "Negotiations, correspondence, and personal visits can often produce more results."

But there was a verbal tide as the meeting, on the eve of its adjournment, pondered what to do about reports of repression on religious matters—particularly in Roman Catholic countries.

It finally was on a motion by Archbishop Iakovos of Greece that the churchmen approved this course:

That the executive committee be asked to arrange for studies of the problem and to explore religious liberty arising in Roman Catholic and other countries.

The Anglican prelate said the only logical lead to "a direct approach to the Roman Catholic Church about matters which arise between us."

Several resolutions, by Dr. Martin Niemoeller, famed Lutheran from Wiesbaden, Germany, and by others, had been offered, hitting at policies in predominantly Roman Catholic countries.

Today's Chuckle

A scientist reported the other night that he had discovered a group of stars travelling away from the earth at the rate of 15,000 miles a second. Pretty clever stars.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synoptic: Fine sunny weather will continue across Ontario today. The trend toward higher temperature continues with the mercury expected to rise to near the 80 mark this afternoon and to the mid-80s Thursday.

A weak disturbance, moving slowly eastward from the prairies will bring scattered thundershowers to Northern Ontario Thursday.

TWO YOUNG BOYS ESCAPE DROWNING

Two young boys who still remain unidentified were rescued from possible drowning in the Foxboro Road quarry north of the city yesterday when they slipped from a raft on which they had been playing.

The lads were rescued by Ivan Phillips, 18, and Jack Rushnell, 19, both of the 4th concession of Sidney, who dove in and pulled them ashore.

The two older youths had noticed the lads on the raft as they prepared to go swimming and minutes later noted they had disappeared. After being rescued the boys ran home without identifying themselves.

FIREMEN CALLED FOR GRASS FIRES

Indicative that grass is beginning to feel the effects of lack of rain, city firemen were called out on two grass fires yesterday afternoon and this morning.

Tuesday the reels were called to Valleyview Crescent where a grass blaze was in progress, while about before noon today they were called to the vicinity of the Swift Canadian plant for a second grass blaze.

HUNTING SEASON GETTING CLOSE

We had noticed that summer was rapidly slipping away but we didn't think that autumn was that near upon us.

At least some dog thief in the city must think that the hunting season is getting close and is getting prepared for it.

A West Moira Street resident this morning complained that a hound pup had been stolen from the rear of his home.

"The hunting season is getting near," commented police as the complaint was registered.

20 Belleville Air Cadets Enjoying Camp

CLINTON — Twenty young Belleville air cadets are each looking forward to a vigorous and exciting two weeks at Annual Air Cadet Summer Camp, RCAF Station Clinton, Ontario. They are members of 608 Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets, who along with 600 members of squadrons from twelve Ontario and Quebec cities, who arrived Sunday, July 28th, will attend the third of four camps to be held this summer.

Healthful, outdoor recreation, as at any other camp, will be emphasized and at least two-rod-one-half hours, daily, are allocated for sports and games at the beach. As well, the boys have certain periods in their own swimming pool on the station. Many other facilities are open to them such as an air cadet hobby shop, canteen, television room, miniature golf course, 18 station tennis courts and bowling alleys.

A training and educational program of tours has been arranged for the young men and they may visit such places as the RCAF No. 1 Radar and Communications School, RCAF Station Centralia, and local industries such as the Imperial Oil Refineries. Highlighting the Station Centralia tour is an hour-long flight in an RCAF "Dakota" aircraft, which takes the cadets along the shore of Lake Huron and inland over Station Clinton.

Interspersed with these activities are courses in Air Force studies such as leadership, air-manship, rifle firing and drill and a valuable course in water safety is also given.

The Belleville Squadron is sponsored by the Bay of Quinte District High School Board and was formed two years ago. The commanding officer is Flight Lieutenant Leader E. A. Craighead.

Officer Commanding Air Cadet Summer Camp is Wing Commander C. R. Burns of Milton, Ontario, and chief instructor is Flight Lieutenant R. K. Roulston of London, Ontario.

Making Final Preparations For Opening of Fair Here

With the opening of the annual fall exhibition less than a week away, Belleville Fair officials are hard at work getting things to readiness for the four-day stand which will see a variety of attractions and exhibits at the local fair grounds.

This year three new buildings will be erected on the grounds. Two of the new buildings will house poultry and cattle exhibits, while the third building will be used by junior farmers for their various fair activities.

Largest of the new buildings, all of which are the same type with rounded metal clad roofs, is the cattle barn, measuring 60 by 150 feet. The structure will tie four lines of cattle, with enough space left at the end to allow for judging in case of inclement weather.

Covering an area of special transparent plastic material, approximately one part of the roof covering, act as built-in windows providing daylight illumination.

The poultry building and the junior farmer building are now both completed, while the finishing touches are going on the cattle barn.

TENT NOT NEEDED

All junior farmer activities in connection with the fair will be staged in the new junior farmer building, making the special tent previously erected for this purpose no longer necessary. The building has a special asphalt floor with satin finish which will allow dancing.

Two Junior Farmer sponsored dances are planned for during the fair.

Only one-half of the poultry building will be used for poultry, with the other half to be used for a display by the Dominion Marketing Service.

Object of the display will be to demonstrate the various cuts of meat and the part of the animal from which they came. Three live steers in special outside pens, representing the different grades of beef, will form part of the display.

EVERYTHING GROWS

Fair secretary Ben Bleecker reports that entries of exhibits are coming in well and a bang-up show of horses and other livestock, as well as exhibits of field and garden produce, is assured.

Fair dates are August 12-13-14-15 and in addition to the agricultural, livestock and other exhibits will be harness horse racing and grandstand attractions each afternoon and evening. Conklin's midway will play all four days of the fair.

Former District Resident Killed In U.S. Army

Friends of James Maurice Fitzgerald, formerly of Foxboro and Belleville will regret to learn that he was accidentally killed, when the tractor and scraper which he was operating overturned, pinning him beneath it. Truck cranes were sent for, but he died before they arrived on the scene.

Jim worked in Belleville for the firm of Foy and Irwin, K. G. Smith and Son Ltd., and on the farm of Basil Kuglin in Foxboro.

He returned to his home in Belleville in December, and joined the army in January. He was inducted into the service in March, Took eight weeks of basic training at Fort Benning, Georgia, and was completing his second year as a member of Combat Engineers, when the tragedy occurred.

He is survived by his parents, two sisters and one brother all of Virginia.

His remains are being flown to Washington D.C., and after a brief service, will be laid to rest in the Arlington National Cemetery, with Military Honors, including a seven gun salute performed by the Honor Guard of Fort Leonard Wood, where the accident occurred.

Jim had obtained his master's licence for the D 8 Caterpillar Tractor and LeTourneau Tood Scraper, and was ready for his overseas posting in Germany, but fate dealt a different hand.

His last words, as a witness said, were "I guess I won't go after all, I must have a job elsewhere."

Neighborhood Night Enjoyed At Playgrounds

475 parents and 1,330 children attended playgrounds in the city of Belleville last night to celebrate Neighborhood Night.

Parents participated in a "Fathers vs. Sons" softball game, wiener roasts, sing songs, and marshmallow roasts and watched their sons and daughters in talent shows, relay, story telling and drama.

Highlight on all playgrounds was the choosing of a "Miss Playground" in each individual park over the city, who will compete for Miss Penny Carnival Friday evening at North Hill playground.

The beauty queens chosen range in ages from 3 to 6 years. Representing each individual park will be: C.N.R. —Keitha Little, 28 Cannifton Road; Fire Hall — Gail Tarpey, 17 West Moira; Churchill Heights — Alison Dennis, 301 Pine Street; St. Paul — Nancy Keller; East Hill— Mary Beth Barrett, 138 Queen St.; Queen Elizabeth — Cathy Murdoc, 6 Montgomery Blvd.; Parkdale — Mary Eliza Beasley, North Sidney Street; Pine Street —Mary Locke, 34 Pine Street; Queen Mary — Eleanor Kinnear, 54 Ritchie Ave.; Wellington Crescent — Elizabeth Hamilton, 191 Wellington Street; Bayview — Becky Sharland, 9 Fourth Street. Alexandra Bowling Green playgrounds will choose their "Miss Playground" today.

Son Beats Dad In Hauling Big Bass From River

It's amazing what can be pulled out of the Moira River!

Take, as an example, the case of Johnny Halloran, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Halloran, 25 Bertram Boulevard, who went fishing at O'Brien's Bridge with his dad on Sunday.

As is often the case, dads like to show their sons how to build their offspring, so Mr. Halloran thought he was pretty good when he landed a nice plump 14-inch bass.

Turning to his son Johnny, who that seemed to say, "Aw, Pop!" and proudly held up an 18-inch large mouth bass which, when pulled and frozen on Tuesday, tipped the scales at Buckley's food market at three and one-half pounds. Needless to say, the fish likely weighed something over four pounds when it was hauled flighting angry out of the Moira two days earlier.

The bass may not have shattered a world record, but there is one dad in Belleville who likely won't underestimate the piscatorial abilities of his son, anymore.

FAST WORK

IROQUOIS, Ont. (CP)—Donald Richardson, 23, Harry Jalley, 30, and Ronald McCann, 21, arrested within four hours of the robbery Monday of a new shopping centre here, will be taken to Cornwall for trial on charges of breaking and entering. Police likely won't underestimate the picatorial abilities of his son, anymore.

Council Takes No Action On Request of Union for Licence to Distribute Milk

TRENTON (Special) — Town council took no action on the request by Local 647 of the Milk Drivers and Dairy Employees Union for a licence to distribute milk in Trenton at its meeting held last night. However, Phil Blondin, speaking for the local was advised that if reports on the test of Oakville dairy milk delivered by the union here last week were satisfactory the union could get a licence providing the required fee was paid. Acting town clerk Al Weaver said "I have no report from the Medical Health Officer, but as soon as I get it I can issue a licence as long as I get the fee."

Mayor Burtt said he personally would prefer a dairy coming into Trenton just for the purpose of breaking the strike but he would favor a dairy who established locally with the intention to serve the people a good product. He said he understood there was only one Trenton dairy on strike and the other two had definitely locked their doors. Town clerk Weaver said that one of dairies that had taken the Independent dairy owned him an obligation since he had purchased tickets from a driver who had been on strike when strike was called.

Councillor Burtt suggested to members of his council that it would not be wise to get involved in the Downs Coulter case and referred to an experience an earlier council had after becoming involved in the Downs Coulter case, a textile strike some years ago.

QUESTIONS ASKED

Local spokesman Blondin asked "What would the people do? We know is why we can't get a licence to deliver milk in Trenton? Two dairies here are not on strike, but they won't deliver to people who ask for it," he added.

Councillor Bert Strong put in that he didn't think council should open the discussion and if the union wanted a licence they should go to the proper authorities.

Spokesman Blondin said he had the assurance of the union president that the union was prepared to locate a dairy here and serve the people properly if a licence was granted. He suggested he intends to stay in business in Trenton.

Clerk Weaver advised council that the case of milk brought in by the union last Thursday had been sent to the laboratories in Kingston the same day and explained that because it takes 48 hours to make a bacteria count the long holiday weekend had delayed return of the report. He pointed out that the union application would come under the Hawkers and Peddlers by-law since the union had no business established in town. They must also come under the milk by-law, he added.

Resident Badly Cut by Fender, Door Mirrors

TRENTON (Special) — Ralph Edward Parent, 27, of Trenton, who was cut badly by the fender and door mirrors of a car on Saturday, is apparently on the road to recovery and has been released from hospital. He ran from the south side of Dundas Street West and between two cars in a line of traffic, colliding with a car driven by Henry Price of Montreal. He suffered gashes on both arms and a cut on the back in the kidney region. He received numerous abrasions. A blood clot was found on the inside of his left leg. Two of the cuts needed stitches. Four persons witnessed the accident. Dr. J. W. Farley treated the injured man.

COLLIDES WITH TRACTOR

Three men were injured this morning when a car collided with a tractor pulling a mobile crane along Highway No. 2 on the west limits of town. Bill Ayton, a salesman for MacLean Motors, was one of the three taken to hospital. Police, but on the scene, had not obtained names of the other two. Both the car and tractor were damaged considerably. The tractor driver and a passenger escaped unhurt.

Will Be Examined

TORONTO (CP) — James Schmalz, 30, charged with attempted murder in connection with the slashing of two teenaged girls with a broken milk bottle Saturday, was ordered Tuesday to undergo psychiatric examination.

Jacqueline Kelley, 17, and Martha Moran, 16, told police they were attacked by a man attacking them with a bottle in the bedroom of a suburban Etobicoke home. They slashed of two teenaged girls with a broken milk bottle Saturday, was ordered Tuesday to undergo psychiatric examination.

Wing Members To Be Guests Of Picton Club

Former members of Commonwealth Air Forces represented on the 418 (Belleville) Wing of the RCAF Association are taking to the air again; for some it will be their first ride in an aircraft since being discharged from the air force.

Toward the end of August Ayton, a salesman for MacLean Motors, was one of the three taken to hospital. Police, but on the scene, had not obtained names of the other two. Both the car and tractor were damaged considerably. The tractor driver and a passenger escaped unhurt.

Starting off another enjoyable year in the Wing, members will hold a party at the officers' mess at RCAF Station Trenton on the evening of August 17.

When the girls around, members will be interested in the number of fine tours and lectures that are being arranged for them.

Ron Cable Wins 35-Mile Ski Marathon in Show

PICTON — A 35-mile water skiing marathon featured the water sports show on the holiday. Fishing first in the long grind from Waupoos to Picton harbor was Ron Cable of Picton. In second place was Pat VanDusen of Wellington, who came in two minutes later after losing the lead owing to harness trouble. Leland Lyons, Woodville, was third; Clifford Wilkinson, Bonfards, fourth; Ron Barrett, Napanee, fifth; David Owen, Big Island, sixth; Donny Branscombe, Picton, seventh. In eighth place and the only lady to enter was Mrs. Bert Lyons of Woodville. She was the winner of the lady's trophy while Cable took the men's trophy.

Nearly three thousand people lined the high banks and docks at Prince Edward Yacht Club for the events which included a water skiing show by Sally Smith Herschler of Rochester; Jack Lyons and John Sibthorpe, Picton.

Outboard races were keenly contested with Pete Vandenburg winner of the 15 horsepower class; Darryl Maorden in the 40 hp. class; Terry Cooper of Belleville and Peter Vandenberg tied in the 10 hp. class; Ross Vanklaek in the 25 hp. class; Doug Thompson in the 20 hp. class.

Child Falls From Tractor

PICTON — Paul Pettingill, three and one-half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pettingill, was admitted to Trenton Memorial hospital Monday evening suffering from a bad gash on the head and concussion. His condition is favorable. The child, one of twins, fell from a tractor on which he had climbed. He was rushed to hospital by Dr. Sally Sarles.

MOISTURE NEEDED

Although many districts have had heavy rainfall, most of Prince Edward County has not received enough to be classed, according to official figures, in the past 37 days, only one-quarter of an inch of rain has fallen.

In this garden County where hundreds of acres are planted in canning crops, moisture is greatly needed. Pastures are also suffering. Quite a number of farmers are already finding it necessary to feed grass or corn silage in order to maintain the flow of milk. Canners state that unless there is a good rain soon both the tomato and corn crops will be hard hit.

Sydney R. Howe Dies in England

OTTAWA — Sydney Russell Howe, supervisor of Commodity Programs for the Agricultural Prices Support Board, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, died suddenly of a heart attack while on furlough leave in England. He had been appointed to the Prices Support Board two years ago after 19 years service, in charge of inspection services, with the Dairy Products Division, Ottawa. He was well known for his ability in drafting legislation and took an active part in preparing regulations and amendments to the Dairy Standards Act.

Born in London, England, in 1901, Mr. Howe came to Canada in 1923 and worked on a dairy farm for a few years. After taking a dairy course at the Ontario Agricultural College, he went on to obtain his B.S.A. degree in 1930. He served as creamery manager for several large private dairy firms at Perth, Renfrew, Belleville and Walkerton, Ont., before joining the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, as senior grader in charge of inspection services, in 1936.

Besides being an active curler and gardener, he was superintendent of the Sunday School at Glebe United Church, Ottawa. He leaves his wife, formerly Stella Thompson of Huntsville, Ont., a graduate of Macdonald Institute, Guelph; a daughter, Barbara Jane, a graduate of Queen's University and now librarian at the Ontario Agricultural College, and a son, John, now attending Glebe Collegiate.

Actress Bears Premature Child

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor bore a baby girl Tuesday by caesarean operation. The child, weighing four pounds, 14 ounces, was described as two months premature.

"Mother and child are doing well," said a hospital bulletin.

The brunette actress, 24, was married for the third time last Feb. 2 to producer Mike Todd, 45.

The baby's name is Elizabeth (Liza) Frances Todd.

Todd was quoted as saying the baby didn't appear to breathe for 14 minutes after birth but a resuscitation specialist, Dr. Virginia Apgar, breathed life into the child. Todd called it "an unbelievable job."

Racketeer Dio Helped Hoffa Gain Labor Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate racket investigators called in more witnesses today to show that racketeer Johnny Dio used unions he controlled to clinch James R. Hoffa's labor power in New York.

Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the rackets investigating committee will hear from 10 witnesses to trace the shift from Dio-controlled labor groups into "paper" locals of the teamsters union.

The paper locals—with votes, but with few if any actual members—were designed, Kennedy said, to help make Hoffa's handpicked man, John O'Rourke, New York's teamster boss. This would add to the east coast power of Hoffa, now the teamsters union's midwest mogul.

Kennedy promised testimony from another employer that he was "very well pleased" with services from Dio's Equitable Research Associates, Inc., in obtaining a union contract. The terms. Dio called Equitable a labor consultant firm, but court testimony has linked it with labor shakedowns.

Stanley Lehrer, lawyer for the Auto Glass Dealers Association of Greater New York, told the committee Tuesday that his group paid Dio for protection from other unions through Equitable in the way of what he called "very soft" labor contracts.

Lehrer said Dio delivered by preventing rival union picketing and was paid $200 for his services.

Railway Union Expected to Join Labor Congress

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Labor Congress expects that Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers union, which has 30,000 Canadian members in key railway running trades.

Terms were not announced, but it was understood they involve assurance that the BRT constitution, as it applies in Canada, will be in accord with that of the labor congress.

There have been some unofficial suggestions that the brotherhood's international constitution does not square with that of the CLC in respect to discrimination in union membership. The CLC bans unions which discriminate on the ground of race, color or creed.

ACTION THIS MONTH

A congress statement Tuesday said the BRT's affiliation move "is expected to be completed when president Whitney Kennedy of the union visits Ottawa later this month." Mr. Kennedy's headquarters are in Cleveland, Ohio.

Until now, it had been indicated publicly that the brotherhood would have no trouble joining the CLC following a favorable vote to that effect by its Canadian membership earlier this year. Since then, the congress has been taking a second look at the brotherhood's qualifications.

Another point in question might be the brotherhood's jurisdictional relationship to other unions presently affiliated with the CLC.

Barbados Premier Requests Canadian Help for West Indies

GENEVA PARK (CP) — Sir Grantley Adams, premier of Barbados, said Tuesday the new West Indies Federation plans to send a delegation to Ottawa to discuss what he termed "exclusion of West Indians from Canada."

The premier said West Indian students studying at University of Toronto and Queen's University have been approached by Canadian immigration officials and told time is drawing near for them to return home.

He spoke at the Couchiching conference on international affairs. Shortly after he had appealed for Canadian leadership and inspiration for the islands as they emerged from colonialism to autonomy, he was asked to comment on Canadian immigration laws as they affect West Indians.

"There is one thing we have against Canada—and it is a matter of regret—and this is your immigration laws," he said. "They are worse than the McCarran act in the United States, which at least allows 100 nationals of each country in the West Indies to enter the U.S."

"We have a real fondness for Canada, but we don't like this sort of thing," he continued. "I saw Dr. Howe (former minister of trade and occasionally acting prime minister), a year ago, but an election was in the offing and there was no disposition to do anything."

He said that with the change of government in Ottawa he hoped there would also be a change of policy. He had no detailed information concerning the students but would get it.

The West Indies wished to profit from Canadian history and the example Canada has set in her relations with Britain.

Barbados and nine other West Indies states are to become members of a British Caribbean federation, provided for last year by a London conference.

He appealed to Canada to be the West Indies' "elderly sister" and fill the void left by a Britain "not altogether capable of being the mother she used to be."

The federation would greatly desire to have close commercial and cultural ties with Canada, considered by West Indians to be potentially the world's greatest area for future progress and enlightenment.

The bread we eat is made of Canadian wheat, the walls of our houses come from Canadian trees and our young people are looking to Canadian colleges and universities for their training."

Barbados' chief exports were sugar, cotton, molasses and rum with Canada and the United States her biggest buyers.

European Firm Said Offering To Buy DOSCO

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — The Cape Breton Post says directors of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation have been summoned to an emergency meeting in Montreal Thursday to discuss an offer to buy the giant industrial empire.

The newspaper says it has confirmed a report that a European firm's bid for the coal and steel complex and its maze of subsidiaries will be discussed during the session. There was no speculation as to the name of the prospective purchaser or a possible price.

In Montreal, Douco President C. B. Lang said "no offer has been received by the company and tomorrow's meeting is a regular meeting of the board."

Commenting on the offer reports, he said: "I have been very much disturbed by the publication of such statements. The only people in our company who could have made such a statement were the secretary and myself. Neither of us did."

NEW SMUGGLING DODGE?

Newspapers find "briefs" as indispensable as a skinny man finds a belt or suspenders. Though not a main item in the wardrobe, their lack would result in considerable embarrassment.

"Briefs" move over the leased wires of newspapers in bunches. The other day, by the purest coincidence, two of these consecutive briefs presented a picture of a possible future headache for customs officials.

The first brief, from New York, told about a man being arrested for endeavoring to smuggle into the United States diamonds worth $12,500, concealed in a toy dachshund on wheels. The reason for choosing a dachshund, rather than a Boston terrier, is obvious, but even the dachshund's longer lines only produced a wheelbase of 10 inches.

The second brief, from Long Beach, Calif., related that a radio-controlled model airplane had flown the 21 miles between Santa Catalina Island and the California mainland, at a speed of 27 miles an hour.

If a 10-inch toy dachshund can conceal diamonds worth $12,500, it is fairly obvious that a model airplane which can fly 21 miles ought to be able to pack quite a cargo.

Will the day come when smugglers will take to the airways and send whole fleets of model planes aloft from ships just outside territorial waters?

ICEMAKING IN THE SIBES

Icemaking in the skies may reduce the toll from forest fires.

Although most fires are, alas, man made, lightning causes many. A reminder of this fact was given district residents last week, when Fire Protection Supervisor M. Wilson of the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed announced that foresters are expecting an outbreak of lightning fires in the district, as the result of the long dry spell and the thunder storms. There's no doubt, though, whether lightning-caused fires are as frequent in this district as in some other parts of America. For instance, statistics show that 100,000 forest fires were caused by lightning between 1940 and 1955 in twelve U.S. states in the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast areas.

It is in these areas that the icemaking program will be tested. In Montana and Idaho experiments are being carried out in seeding thunder clouds with silver iodide. These clouds are composed of water droplets below freezing temperature. The silver iodide will change the cold water into ice. This way it is hoped to stop the clouds' upward growth, which occurs before lightning is produced. Another modern device, radar, is joining the battle. It is being used to track lightning storms.

RUNAWAY INFLATION?

Help!

Inflation is getting out of hand.

We have the word of Miss Joan May Fitzpatrick of Windsor for that fact and we know enough to never argue with a woman, not when she is Canada's beauty queen.

Miss Fitzpatrick, faced with the task of displaying her talents, other than her 36-25-36 statistics, at the Miss America Pageant decided to don a Victorian era dress and pose as a plain old-maid heiress back in those good old days. She chose the role because it will permit her to show her dramatic ability. "I'm going to lose $30,000 a year inheritance; that was quite a lot of money in those days," she explains. In those days, you will note. So we must conclude that in the opinion of this former Windsor stenographer $30,000 a year, every year, is no longer a lot of money. Where's the latest cost-of-living index report? Terrible things must have been happening to the dollar while we were on holidays.

"BOATER" COMING BACK

Montreal hatters say that the "boater" is coming back into fashion. The trend began in London, travelled to New York and has increased boater (or skimmer), sales here from three per cent of the summer hat market to five.

It's a little late for the boater to make a real comeback, except in vaudeville acts. The boater always had a tendency to fly away on the lightest breeze so a cord was attached to the band which could be safety-latched into the lapel. This means the boater-wearer has to wear a jacket, too, if he's to keep possession of the hat.

If he's going to wear a jacket, that pretty well means a button-up shirt collar and that might as well have a tie. Before he knows it, he's wearing white cotton spats and a malacca cane.

No, no. Let's stay with the hats that stay with us. (Montreal Gazette).

GOLF BALL RECOVERY

(Long after Henry W. Longfellow)

I shot a golf ball into the air.
It fell to earth I never saw where,
Or ownership to prove my claim
Upon it; I had stamped my name.

I searched the rough; I searched the sands
And places where a ball could land;

Long afterward, upon a tee
That ball which had belonged to me
I found (this parody to end,)
'Twas being played with by a friend.

The 'Cutty Sark' Preserved

BBC London Letter

The "Cutty Sark," last of the famous sailing ships that used to race home to Britain with the season's tea crop from China, was recently declared open to the public by Her Majesty the Queen at a ceremony at Greenwich, where the ship has been given a permanent home in a dry dock and will remain as a memorial to the Merchant Navy, which over the centuries has built up Britain's trade and prestige. Restored by a society under the patronage of the Duke of Edinburgh and the guidance of the director of the National Maritime Museum, the "Cutty Sark" presented a brave sight when BBC reporter Donald Edwards went over her a few days before the opening. "How will I remember that morning two and a half years ago," he said in the BBC program "Radio Newsreel." "I was hatched, her being towed to her last resting place at Greenwich. The ship whose name I'd known all my life, dismantled and derelict — blind with rust-caked portholes. I shall soon forget the contrast as I walked down Greenwich Walk, and for there lay 'Cutty Sark,' restored to her full glory, as on the day she first slipped her cradle in 1870; home and dry at last, in a new dry dock specially built to receive her. No longer a dingy hulk, but gleaming with new paint, her coal-starred sides above the house tops, her prow pointing proudly up towards the river and the first knew when masts and spars like hens crowded its docks in the last great days of sail."

New deck-houses, new yards and rigging, and new riggings have been added, and Mr. Arthur Levison has produced from a block of Columbian pine from Canada a copy of the original figurehead of Robert Burns' witch "Nannie of the Cutty Sark" (a Scots term meaning "short chemise") after whom Captain John Willis, the Scot for whom she was built, chose to name his finest ship. The original figurehead was lost at sea. "Cutty Sark" was designed as a "record-beater," said Milner, "with all the grace of an ocean-going yacht. She was built 'to carry a thousand pounds quick,' and as I examined her through my guide's discerning shipwright's eye, I saw not only how brilliantly she was constructed for speed, but also how superb were the workmanship and materials put into her. The 'Cutty Sark' is not only an artefact of high value, but in every way to be preserved, and as sound in all essentials as the days she was built, she is the evocation of an epoch."

The "Cutty Sark" was built at Dumbarton on the Clyde and was launched on November 23, 1869. Her modest tonnage (963), the fact that her length was about six times her beam gave her great speed. She could log as much as 362,000 square feet, which indeed she did in favorable conditions exerted a force equivalent to an engine of 2,000 horse-power. Before the China trade, she brought home the first cargo of tea after the building of faster steamships and the opening of the Suez Canal through which steamers could cut a short cut, meant doom for the tea clippers. In 1872 she was converted to the wool trade on the long run to Australia and with another famous ship, the "Thermopylae," made some wonderfully good passages, one occasionally logging 17 to 17 1-2 knots, a speed unequalled by any other sailing vessels, except the magnificent of the small yachts designed today by Uffa Fox. Sold to Portugal as the "Thermopylae" — the finest in the world — is now among the collection on board the "Cutty Sark."

Tercentenary Of Wm. Harvey

BBC London Letter

Doctors from all over the world have come to Britain this year to attend an international congress held to commemorate the three hundredth anniversary of the death on June 1657, of William Harvey, the English physician who made the first definition of the heart and the circulation of the blood.

Speaking over the BBC, Dr. Charles Wilcocks, director of the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Diseases in London, said that in Harvey's day "as many centuries of medical knowledge — and indeed scientific knowledge in general — lay in the unenlightened acceptance of the writings of the ancient authorities in medicine, Aristotle, Hippocrates and Galen were the supreme authorities." Harvey, however, had made their observations on man and animals, and "he has come to be regarded as infallible as infallible final."

The Renaissance had brought some change into the minds of these natural philosophers, Dr. Wilcocks said, and in Italy the great anatomist Vesalius of Padua had begun his own observations differed considerably from the traditional views accepted by the ancients. When Harvey left the University of Cambridge he had studied for five years at Padua under Vesalius's successor, Fabricius. "Harvey, too, he must have met Galileo, and contact with original and enquiring minds must have given him in time the direction of observation of nature rather than study of scientific dogma.

On returning to England, he had been appointed physician to St. Bartholomew's Hospital in London and later to King James I, and was elected Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians. "Nearly all this time," said Dr. Wilcocks, "he was studying the heart, the blood vessels and the blood—partly by observation of patients and by post-mortem examinations, and partly by making dissections of hundreds of animals—pigeons, snakes, fishes, insects and others. Harvey gradually came to see that the old theories about the heart and vessels would not do. It was thought that the heart and lungs had the same functions, to ventilate and cool the blood, that the arteries were full of air, and on contained nothing but air — at one period even of blood — and gave out noxious vapors at another, and that these actions took place without any movement of the skin and through imaginary pores in the tissues."

Some authorities had believed rightly that blood went from the heart to the lungs and back again, but there were various theories about the movement, but nobody until Harvey had realized that it circulated continually "out the heart into the arteries and back to the heart in the veins, a discovery which Harvey conceived as circular." In 1628 Harvey published his famous "Exercitatio Anatomica de Sanguinis" — in Frankfurt-on-Main. "Like other pioneers in revolutionary theories it had a mixed reception. The older men tended to be disbelievers, the younger men tended to accept the discovery."

The importance of Harvey's discovery was fundamental, Dr. Wilcocks said. "It was the starting of the processes of nutrition and secretion, his knowledge on it; our conceptions of disorder in the blood circulation —and indeed of most artificial disorders—are so founded on this great truth that we could not think of them except in those terms. His discovery was also fundamental in that it showed the over-riding importance of observation and experiment against theory not based on fact, or on fact to set a standard which has become universal; it was important in showing the circulation to cover truth for its own sake and may lead to immeasurable advantage. Throughout his life and work Harvey showed qualities of greatness which bring him to the company of the few supreme benefactors of the race of the world, and we in England are proud to honor him, and more pleased to think that he was one of us."

Keeps Check On Minister

St. Catharines Standard

We like a couple of stories that recently made the rounds at Ottawa and concerned several members of the new Diefenbaker cabinet. The one is being told by George Bain, Ottawa columnist, about the minister who had been working late in his office on Parliament Hill and was stopped by the doorman as he was leaving the building. The doorman, not recognizing the new minister, asked his name, in order to spell it, asked him what department he worked in, asked why he was so late in going home, and finally, let him go out of the building after saying: "We've got to keep a check on who's around these buildings at night." And with his anonymity unimpaired, the minister went home.

And then, there's the story about Bill Hamilton, the new Postmaster-General, who was expected in Montreal for a tour of postal facilities in that city. When his train pulled in, post office department officials searched all through the first-class chair car looking for the minister. They finally found him as he was leaving the ordinary coach car. "Why should I take a first-class ticket when I've never travelled any other but out coach?" he explained.

And then there was the packing tickets that were issued by RCMP on conventions. Hill is motorists who left their cars in spaces reserved for cabinet members. The tickets were supposed to be new cabinet members, but the RCMP hasn't caught up with the election yet.

Irony of Fate

Brockville Recorder and Times

Ironic twist of fate: a French paratrooper was trapped, injured and survived in the war in Indo-China, was taken to hospital where he met a girl and married her. Then he was repatriated to France, where he was posted to Algeria. There he was captured by the Algerian rebels and held prisoner for three years. He escaped, returned to France, and went to Paris to see his wife. She had married a Chinese.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ATTACHMENTS

We are influenced greatly by the attachments that we make throughout life. Families hold people together, until they are broken up by the life work of each member. The most vital attachment is what gives stability to the nation.

Each one of us has a multitude of attachments. Friends, books, a car, a home, a dog, a cat, a hobby. I visited a neighbor recently, and he had a magnificent dog that had to be set the heels of its master every minute. When the master moved, the dog moved. The attachment that man has for his dog is one of the great joys that life affords. It is an attachment that is held by the cards of love.

We become attached to places — our native city, or the job at which we work. It is a keen pleasure to become attached to the habit of reading. Books are comforting, and there are many that people select to read again—and again. I find reading a great book today, that I read many years ago gives me new pleasure and I read it as though it were just written by the author.

Things accumulate and we start to dispose of them as has been interesting, or precious to us in days gone by, but our attachments are so strong that we often give up the task! I believe, however, that our most valuable attachments are not investments in something material that could be suddenly swept from us, but our friends, without whom we would be poor indeed.

To a greater or lesser degree we become attached in some manner of thought or association to every genuine friend whom we may have. Friends are a influence in our life, and when they leave us, we, too, die a little. There remains a kinship blessed by the beauty of memory.

Mrs. (Dr.) Farrell of Kenora, Ontario, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Adams, Moira Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gowdy are attending the Old Boys' Reunion in Cobalt.

Miss Florence Bates of the D. D. D. Institute staff, Trent Road, is spending two weeks' leave with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bates, in Brockville.

We Remember Pasteur

Hamilton Spectator

A press photograph shows the French liner, Pasteur, lying at anchor in the "cemetery" of Landevennec. In the background are woodlands and in the foreground — for the "cemetery" is but a strip of water — piled up wrecks at the scene of the 1944 harvester. A picture of peace, of tranquility and, in some ways, of sadness, too.

The Pasteur had just completed a building spree when Germany invaded France in 1940. She escaped to Britain and during the war was used as a hospitalship, many thousands of sailors, soldiers and airmen remember her. And that makes her, as ships go, an old lady, and it makes us sad to see her in such surroundings.

And now we see her in memory's eye, a handsome young "woman" in the midst of a convoy in the Atlantic. The Aldis lamps of the cruisers wink again and far out on port and starboard across the grey, stormy waters, the corvettes dart like inquisitive terriers, almost buried by the waves, her signal lamps pricking the mist and salty spray like tiny diamonds.

We hear once more the urgent whoop from a cruiser's siren — that grey and busy mother's sharp-eyed for danger, whose ship has seen the last mate, far off in the blue wet of the sea — and we wait for the harsh jangle of the bell. But it's "one of ours."

But in the night, when the lights are dim on every deck and everywhere there is the smell of sleeping men and the gentle music is engine-hum, the alarm bell rings again. In a trice, the commissaries are on deck and are filled with a silent stream of men each clutching his life-jacket, water bottle and emergency ration and tying the tapes of safety cloth. ("Tell me Sir, Approved By The Board of Trade," is attributed as the last words.)

On the decks above, in the dark and the chill night air, the silent lifeboats, ready to be aboutlin, await the flash and roar of a torpedo that has found its mark. And the ship's sane, phosphorescent, churned into foam, vanishes into the gloom where the Navy is.

Yes, we remember Pasteur and the things have souls and they break her up, may her soul rest in peace for she was a very gallant lady.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Septuagenarian Knows How To Live

"As a regular reader of your column in our paper I rely on your opinions in almost every respect" (writes an Alabaman). "At my age, I am constantly troubled with constipation but practically never take laxatives because I find I can get that without exception they are habit forming.

"I am enclosing a piece about a preparation whose makers claim does not have this objection. Would appreciate your comments on it.

"Please let me add my testimony to the value of your teaching. At my age I do practically all the work on a 90-acre farm. Friends say I'm a fool. However, I feel vigorous, sleep well and I certainly sorry for contemporaries who sit around and nurse their various ailments.

"The main item in my diet is fruit. I consume it twice a day and half a dozen of the vitamin-mineral tablets."

(Thank you, F.J.B.)"

Although J.F.B. doesn't say so, I suspect he is following the spiel of the phony doctor who says everything "slows down" after 35 or 40.

It is obvious that J.F.B. is an educated man. Like most high school and college graduates, he has little or no knowledge of anatomy, physiology and hygiene.

There is considerable difference in the laxative effects of various foods and diets. Some are more laxative than others, but all are more or less laxative. That is to say no food or diet should be avoided or committed from the diet merely on the ground that it may produce "binding."

Perhaps the least laxative food would be the processed cheese diet. An exclusive milk diet is certainly "binding," for babies on exclusive milk diet do not become constipated unless some ignorant mother throws a monkey wrench into the works by giving the luckless infant castor oil or other physic or by interfering with the automatic regulation of the alimentary function in an unnatural way. Milk and/or cheese leaves little residue to be disposed of, and hence one who gets a large portion of his daily calories from milk or cheese (both of which are healthful foods for any one) should — and, I hope, will — have a well kept bowels.

Two quarts — half a gallon — is glasses = 4 glasses = 1 quart = 2 pints = 1 pint). Each glass of milk yields approximately 150 calories — 20 calories to the ounce.

If a diet does not include milk or its humanlyfied cousin skim milk, buttermilk, yoghurt, acidophilus milk, it is an unreparable quantity it just isn't a health diet.

Should J.F.B. feels sorry for men of his age or younger may be interested in knowing that filing it as one of the best testimonials I have received lately.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We have got into the habit of thinking of the tourist trade as being constituted by American motorists. Naturally, of course is ridiculous. While the income in valued American dollars is very large and highly important to the Canadian economy and balance of trade, actually it is the internal tourist traffic, the movement between provinces, that forms the backbone of Canadians, which brings by far the greatest profits to the tourist centres of Canada. The hundreds of thousands of summer cottages, clustered on communities that life and sustenance to the towns and villages around them, spend sums far in excess of what the transient tourist trade contributes. When two weeks' tourist might spend three or four hundred dollars, each of the summer cottages spends far in excess of that sum, mostly in the neighbourhood, on permanent services, equipment, not to mention the employment of local people in the work of all kinds from building and repairing to a vast variety of small chores. Both the federal and the provincial governments support departments or agencies for the ardent promotion of the transient tourist interests. It might be valuable if someone would make a scientific survey of the balance due to the relative value of the transient tourist trade with that of the fixed or resident summer cottage trade.

Apart from the assured and established contributions these purely cottage residents make to the tourist industry, a tremendous proportion of the transient trade are Canadians who go to the motor about the country and stay at resorts and motels rather than settle down in permanent cottages. Before the advent of the motor car these latter, the tourists, there were large numbers of big and little hotels and resorts that catered to a well-to-do and spending summer population. With few exceptions, they are in motor about decaying. The f a s h i o n has changed and people rather than settle either to tour, or to settle down in cottages.

The transient trade, of course, has increased far faster than the resident summer trade, thanks to the development of transportation and communications, and for that bourhood, on provincial services, reason is the greatest deal more attention. But there is to be preferred to the summer resident trade is discouraged by the excessive attention paid to the transient. The resident is, if not often, at the expense of the resident trade. In some areas, the cottagers are looked upon as squatters who obstruct the free flow of the true day trippers, ents who want to wheep and holler around a place with the trail of empty bottles, tin cans, picnic trash and other evidences of a real good time.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE ART OF UNDERSTANDING

It has been said that to know all is to forgive all.

S u c h an expression simply means that no one is in a position to judge the motives of another person. All the people in the world are unique and we may like or dislike them decidedly. But we have in any person a right to be certain why they have done these things. Actions have their sources at levels too deep for the human eye to see and the mind to comprehend.

There is a lot of determinism in the personality of a life whether we like to admit it or not. We do certain things because of the kind of people we are. Perhaps some little event in our childhood turned the course of our lives in a direction against which we must now battle great difficulty. Discipline which is too harsh or too firm evokes attitudes made between children, the loss of respect for one or both parents which children sometimes develop, the withholding of love—all these things make chasms in our lives over which in later years our energy flows in a predisposed channel.

If we think about these things it will soften our judgments of others. if we knew all, undoubtedly we would understand and forgive all.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Donald R. MacLaren, Hero In World War One, Was First TCA Employee Under Howe

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Donald Roderick MacLaren has seen a dream come true.

One of a famous quartet of Canadian flying aces in the First World War, he predicted in those days that Canada would some day have a commercial air service from coast to coast.

Now that passenger planes are flying regularly between Atlantic and Pacific, Donald MacLaren sometime is dismayed that an air-minded generation takes it all for granted.

Wing Commander MacLaren's war ended a month before Armistice Day in 1918, when he suffered a broken leg in a friendly wrestling match. He had shot down 21 enemy planes. The other Canadian aces of that conflict were Col. W. A. Bishop, VC, who knocked down 72 enemy aircraft; Lt.-Col. Ray Collishaw, later an air vice-marshal, with 60, and Col. William Barker, 50.

AIRLINE PIONEER

But for years now MacLaren has minimized the war exploits. "Forget it," he says. "It's too long ago."

He feels the story of Trans-Canada Air Lines, 20 years old this year, is more interesting.

MacLaren was TCA's first employee. At the invitation of C.D. Howe, then minister of transport, he became assistant to P. G. Johnston, former vice-president of operations.

Since 1937, MacLaren has filled many positions in the airline's staff and now at 64 is executive assistant for the Pacific region, responsible to G. R. McGregor.

Early pilots, he says, set the world's best airlines standards.

"We were pioneering. Those early pilots fought that thing though because they had the guts to do it, and because they believed in it.

"People don't realize that. They were bush pilots who flew by ear, eye, nose and throat. They flew in planes whose engines had cylinder heads popping off. I wasn't. I was in one once when two went at the same time."

COASTAL SERVICE

MacLaren, a stocky man with keen eyes and close-cropped grey hair, did his share of pioneering, although he hasn't flown any of TCA's planes operationally.

In 1934, he started Pacific Airways Ltd., the first commercial aviation concern on Canada's west coast.

With three seaplanes on charter, he carried passengers and freight from Vancouver to Victoria and up British Columbia's coastline with its tiny, scattered communities as well as doing patrol work for the federal fisheries department.

MacLaren sold Pacific Airways in 1938 to Western Canada Airways Ltd., operated by Winnipeg financier James A. Richardson. This eventually became part of Canadian Airways Ltd., run by Frank M. Ross, Montreal businessman who now is B.C. lieutenant-governor.

BIRTH OF TCA.

When the Liberal government began considering a crown-owned airline in 1937, Canadian Airways—flying in all the western provinces and east from Montreal—hoped to be awarded the job of starting a transcontinental service.

But the government decided to form TCA itself and named former Canadian National Railways president S. J. Hungerford to be the airline's chief executive.

TCA's first service was to take over the existing Vancouver-Seattle route of Canadian Airways, started by MacLaren.

Canada's first transcontinental passenger flights were made April 1, 1939—once a day each way between Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver.

"It was supposed to be spring," MacLaren recalls, "but the weather was just as bad as winter. We were flying through snowstorms and couldn't land at Toronto because of fog. Not a very auspicious beginning."

LONGEST RANGE

Twice Forced To Divorce Wife, Plans to Re-Wed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Forced twice to divorce his wife, Latvian-born Vasilijs Meyers is happily looking forward to a third honeymoon with her.

Arriving here on the Orient liner Oronsay, Meyers said he first divorced his wife in 1948 when he was being hunted by Russian secret police in Latvia, and wanted them to leave her alone.

In 1949 they were again divorced when they were told they could get to Australia quicker if they got a divorce and he went on ahead.

Routines and regulations kept them apart for a time. Meyers' ex-wife finally was admitted to the United States, and now plans to come here to re-marry him.

Council Refuses Holidays for Street Foreman

DESERONTO — A special meeting of the town council was held in the town hall on Thursday night of last week. All members were present except Councillor Stubbs. Reeve Twiddy reported to council regarding the prices obtained for replanting the trees about the town that it was necessary to remove. After some discussion it was decided to have the nursery company do the planting under the direction of the Park Committee. The odor from the street drain on Main Street in front of Malley's Drug Store was also brought to the attention of the council. This was referred to the street committee with power to act.

The chairman of the streets committee then introduced the problem of holidays for the street foreman and his assistant. This occasioned a somewhat stormy discussion but the final result was that the motion to grant holidays was defeated by a vote of four to two.

The request of the fire department to take the fire apparatus to Watertown, N.Y., on August 24th was granted. The firemen will be attending an International Firemen's Parade in connection with the opening of the State Fair.

The use of the speed timer on Dundas Street was again brought to the attention of the council, but this time the complaint was that it was not being used enough. Police reported that when the timer was not in use that cars were travelling through the town at speeds up to sixty miles per hour. It was decided to instruct the chief to use the timer as much as possible, particularly at the rush hours.

Twin Hereford Calves Born 5 Days Apart

Maybe this cow can read the newspapers.

In any event, a news dispatch stated that twin calves had been born to an American Hereford, the births separated by two days.

Not to be outdone by any American counterpart, a pure-bred Hereford cow owned by W. D. Clark of Don Acres Farm, near Brighton, became the mother of a husky heifer calf on July 30th.

Five days later, August 2 to be exact, she produced a twin sister for Bonnie.

Mother and twins are doing well.

The father did not feel so good about his new family. He "bawled" when he heard the news.

MRS. AMERICA MISSING

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The woman who won the title Mrs. America of 1949 is missing and police said her mother expressed fear that she may attempt suicide. Police today broadcast a bulletin instructing all officers to watch for Mrs. Frances Cloyd, 29, Mrs. America eight years ago. Mrs. Jonathan Becker said her missing daughter, divorced wife of Arthur Thomas Cloyd, 33, had been worried over her inability to support her five children.

FAMED CELLIST WEDS

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The 80-year-old master cellist, Pablo Casals, who suffered a heart attack only last April, has married one of his students, 30-year-old Marta Mo n t a ner of Puerto Rico. Judge Martin Almodovar disclosed Monday that he performed the ceremony last Saturday before the couple left aboard the liner Antilles for Prades in southern France. It was Casals' fourth marriage.

Mr., Mrs. Henry J. Bakes Mark Golden Wedding Anniversary

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Residents of this town for a half century, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Bakes of Kent St., celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Wednesday. Mr. Bakes who has been a dresser at the Campbellford Cloth Company for plant for 60 years, is the third generation of his family to celebrate a golden wedding anniversary.

The couple, who have no children, were married in Peterborough. The bride, the former Violet Greer is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Greer of Peterborough. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Bakes of Campbellford. The late Rev. A. E. Pearson performed the wedding ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. Bakes has one sister, Callie Bakes of Campbellford. Mrs. Bakes has four sisters: Mrs. R. J. McLennan and Miss Myrtle Greer, both of Toronto; Mrs. Gordon Latimer of Hamilton, and Mrs. K. S. Cairns of Campbellford, and a brother, Arthur E. Greer, of Newmarket.

Wednesday afternoon scores of friends and neighbors called on the couple. They were received at the door by Mrs. Douglas Poulton of Campbellford. Mrs. Kenneth Cairns and Mrs. Gordon Latimer were hostesses in the tea room, while Mrs. George Lucy, Mrs. M. A. Ash, Mrs. Charles Bedford and Mrs. Robert Bateson poured tea during the afternoon. In the evening, Mrs. R. J. McLennan, Mrs. Norman Welsh and Mrs. Stewart Holmes poured tea.

The couple received many cards and messages of congratulation, including one from the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, and a scroll from the provincial secretary, Hon. G. H. Dunbar.

During the afternoon, the couple cut a large wedding cake, the gift of a friend in Peterborough. Several dozen roses and gladioli decorated the home. Many of the flowers were from friends in Galt.

Guests attended from Toronto, Galt, Willowdale, Peterborough, Hamilton, Belleville, as well as many from the Campbellford district.

Hibiscus Red Will Dominate Fall Fashions

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—London's fashion houses have gone into a whirl of feverish activity to launch a flock of vivid, plaid serenity.

The chief designers scheduled three showings a day of their elegant styles, generally featuring an easy flowing shoulder line, curving gently through the waist and tapering seductively to the hemline.

Skirts are around the 15-inch mark and silhouettes will dominate the fall scene. Close color runners-up include every shade of red from pink to pimento. Black, grey, bluish—gentian and violet—and neutrals are also favorites.

ANCIENT PARALLEL

Ronald Paterson, one of the younger designers, delved into history to give his collection a name. He calls it the "chia line"—based on the shape of a Chinese vase-called a chia, of the Shang-yin Dynasty around 1500.

But there's nothing ancient about Paterson's designs. In his salon and grey Mayfair salon, models demonstrated how elegant the chia line can be.

The designer favored subtle-toned tweeds for suits with a definite flip at the bottom of the jacket. Dresses are mostly bell-shaped, with wide waists carefully noted with clever detail. Suits come with fur collars and coats of all lengths are in. They are cut completely straight or taper narrowly. They all have extra shoulder width which is part of the new line.

Paterson favors both short and full-length evening dresses, and chiffon is still the fabric favorite. Some times swathed tightly in Grecian folds and pleats. A new corner in late-day weaves is a floc, lacy mohair dyed in candy colors. Taffeta, brocade, velvet and lace are still on the scene and embroidered crepe has made a comeback.

Nancy Sandel Archibald, a former Canadian model, made her debut as a model with the Paterson collection. She was discovered by the designer at a party last April.

With the air of an experienced model, blonde Miss Archibald helped demonstrate some 60 outfits before critical buyers and editors. She admitted the only time she was flustered was when she was changing in the tiny dressing room. "I think I feel too awful walking across the salon, but my feet are far from used to the job as yet."

QUINTE GARDENERS

The fifth and final meeting of the Quinte Gardeners was held on August 2nd at the home of Mrs. Grant Clark.

Achievement day plans were discussed and also "Common Storage for Vegetables and Canning Principles."

The group work included judging vegetables and reviewing cultural directions. The home assignments were read.

After the meeting closed Lola served refreshments.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Much as it has become customary for adopted towns and cities to lay claim to athletes, to artists, to public figures and as often as we would like to give Belleville prior claim to Miss Dorothy Potts, we cannot. Saskatchewan is home, but nevertheless to many, many Bellevillians Dorothy Potts has become very dear and very important. This is not the first time I and I' has mentioned her and it would be simple repetition if she were a static person. It might even be redundant, but Dorothy is certainly not static.

After serving in the Canadian army as a nursing sister, Dorothy Potts came to the Belleville General Hospital as Director of the School of Nursing. She accomplished much for the School and she contributed to the development of many of the girls. The girls themselves are the best people from whom to learn all that their Director did professionally and personally for them. Directing her desire to serve her fellowmen in wider horizons Dorothy Potts joined the World Health Organization of United Nations. She served in Pakistan for several years. Last year she was asked to take advanced study at Columbia University in New York on a scholarship basis. She has completed her course, is taking a month's work at Kingston General Hospital and subsequently will sail for Singapore with a colleague from South Africa. Currently with her field work she is studying assiduously trying to inform herself about Malaya and especially Singapore. A great challenge faces this team at Singapore, a challenge that might easily discourage lesser persons. The two women from widely separated parts of the world agree to stay at their posts for not less than two years.

There is neither space nor time to elaborate on their duties. In a book published by the Department of External Affairs, Ottawa, it states "its objective (that is the WHO) is defined as 'the attainment by all peoples of the highest possible level of health'." When we realize that WHO is facing up to the universal reality that "only about one sixth of the world's population — some 400 million people, living in 20 countries — have relatively high living standards with sufficient foods to eat each day. More than half of the remaining 2,000 million human beings never obtain enough food for health and growth and full physical vigor" then we may, in humility, grasp the enormity of the battle being waged on the true peace fronts.

Dorothy Potts is one individual part of this vast undertaking and her friends from Belleville join her friends from Saskatchewan in wishing her success, a safe return and the rewarding fruits of her dedicated service.

Going Shopping?
Prices have risen in price over the last month or six weeks, you might like to know which size is the most economical buy. Eggs are sold by weight, although you ask for a dozen eggs on purchase. A dozen Grade A large eggs must weigh a minimum of 24 ounces. A dozen medium must weigh at least 21 ounces, a dozen small at least 18 ounces and peewees at least 15 ounces.

If the price of mediums is over an eighth less in price than large, then mediums are a better buy. With small eggs, over one quarter less than large is the proportion.

In ordinary cooking, a small egg can replace a larger egg.

New Japanese Kimono Easier To Get Into

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—In Japan, the traditional kimono is becoming less complicated to get into and to wear.

The traditionally long, heavy and tight-fitting silk kimono may be giving way to a western style two-piece outfit, says Japan. Reports, a periodical issued by the Japanese embassy here.

The old-style kimono with its intricately-tied bow at the back and a heavy sash, requires many hidden ties. It also requires skill in fitting on the wearer.

Japanese embassy officials said the new two-piece outfit competing with the one - piece original is not yet too popular, but the traditional costume itself is being simplified to retain the appearance of the old without its complications.

READY-MADE BOW

The new kimono, or "shimwasgo," has the wide sash, but the bow is ready-made so the wearer doesn't have to worry about getting it tied properly. The wide sash still gives the dress a one-piece look.

Instead of silk, wool and synthetic fibres in western patterns and colors are used in the new kimono design.

The new designs, states the report, produce dresses that still have elegance as well as being practical, comfortable and easy to care for.

The kimono change is one reflection of general changes in Japanese women's fashions during the last decade.

The report says that western dresses and suits have to a large extent already replaced the kimono for daily wear. But the kimono is still the dress for special occasions.

Even hubby might not notice a smaller fried or poached egg. When used for leavening in a cake, four smaller eggs could be used for three larger ones. So get out your pencils and figure out prices and pennies.

Some years ago it was predicted that in a year or two, car colors would go back to the dark shades. From a manufacturer's point of view has become so important to car manufacturers that women are now employed as fashion co-ordinators on most of the styling staffs. Their influence is apparent in color trends of cars which are following closely those in ladies' and men's fashions, and in home furnishings. It looks as though dark colors will occupy a back seat permanently.

Women's Institutes

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

STIRLING — On Thursday Mrs. Harry Morrow was hostess to River Valley Women's Institute with approximately 35 women and several children in attendance. This included six visitors from Stirling, Marsh Hill and Suffolk, England.

The spacious rooms were decorated with baskets of varl-colored gladioli, vases of sweet summer flowers.

The president, Mrs. Ralph Utman, opened the meeting and the secretary Mrs. J. R. Donohoe, gave a resume of the month's business and finances. Plans were made for a bake sale. A donation was made to Stirling Fair Board and one to the blind. The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Bush with Mrs. Ernest Carr as convener.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, district director, presented the business arising from the district u hhana lamhVVc Todf, ldeln annual, held in June. The next convention will be held in Belleville, October 21 and 22.

As friendship is the secretary, she gave a picture of Abbots Leigh W. I. described by the Programme magazine.

Mrs. Will Ashby read an article composed by a branch member entitled "Tomorrow is the Institute" and the president contributed a piano solo.

Mrs. Harry Coulter, president of West Hastings district, gave her official visit. She gave a concise and descriptive account of the first provincial leadership conference held last February. She displayed pamphlets and pictures, following a theme of better education for rural people.

APPRECIATION VOICED

Mrs. Ernest Carr voiced appreciative thanks to the speaker.

Mrs. Phil Conley presented an account of the recent bus trip to Niagara Falls. She said there are 18,000 plants in the floral clock and there is a new color scheme and variety each year. There are 35 miles of boulevard. The women purchased round post cards with various scenes, including the flower gardens.

Seven members took part in a panel, discussion on flowers. It was pointed out every rural woman could grow flowers at some kind. If the earth' is not suitable a pail of sand could be added to lighten the soil. A list of easy-to-grow flowers was read by Mrs. W. Ashby. She also read a poem, "God's Gardeu". It was pointed out that petunias form a colorful showing without much effort.

Mrs. Redg Coombes told how the school children appreciated the flowers and bulbs given them to beautify the grounds. The other members of the group emphasized that children and teenagers should be given an interest in flowers. What to plant in a small space brought out several ideas which included a dish of earth, vines around old tree stumps, and to begin with a few flowers and gradually add more.

Mrs. J. Bush gave a vivid account of her trip from Havelock to Stratford and her impression of "Hamlet", presented at the new Stratford Theatre.

Mrs. Stanley Irven voiced thanks to all who had contributed to the program. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Ed Heasman voiced thanks to the hostess and committee.

THE POST-CEREMONY RECEPTION FOR GROOM'S RELATIVES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a wedding problem. We are planning to be married in October in the city where my parents live. We have only 15 relatives living there. But my fiance's family live here in this town near the city where my parents live, and there are about 75 of his relatives who live here also. So I thought that perhaps a good plan would be for us to be married in the city and have the reception two weeks later (after we have returned from our wedding trip), in the town where his parents and relatives live. Would this be considered proper? If so, how would I go about this planning, and what kind of invitations should I send out? Also I would like it better if no gifts are brought, as I don't want people to think this is the reason for the reception, especially as it would be two weeks after the wedding. Please advise me. — C.

The correct plan would be for you to be married in the city where your parents live, having them give a small reception after the ceremony for the groom's parents, your relatives and perhaps some intimate friends . . . and then for the groom's parents to give a reception in honor of you and the groom soon after you have returned from your wedding trip. This is an entirely proper procedure, quite customary, and can be a very delightful occasion. The groom's parents, the hosts, give the invitations, you and your groom are the guests of honor, and customarily the bride's mother and father are asked to be members of the receiving-line. Let's hope that the groom's parents will suggest that they have this reception. If they don't, it would be in best taste for you to wait and invite the groom's relatives and friends to a party (or to a series of parties) in your new home.

Pushing the Pickle Season

As Conducted by Mary Moore

A polite letter dated July 6th says ". . . would appreciate it kindly if you could send me a recipe of one of your best Chili Sauce and Corn Relish . . . find your column very helpful . . . know that you have many letters ahead of you and will gladly wait till you come to mine . . . Mrs. Henry B."

Somehow just having Mrs. Henry B. say she knows about the number of letters on my desk is a comfort.

For her I have a dilla-roo of a recipe for chili sauce. It is for you too or anybody that is chili-sauce-minded. Isn't it wonderful that fresh tomatoes are plentiful enough at last to use them abundantly — even in cooking?

DUTCH CHILI SAUCE:

Three quarts plus 1 cup ripe tomatoes measured after washing, peeling and chopping, 2 cups red sweet peppers measured after chopping, 2 cups chopped onions, 1 cup red hot pepper, 1 cup white sugar, 3 tablespoons salt, 1 tablespoon each mustard seed, celery seed, 3 tablespoons whole mixed pickling spices, 2½ cups cider vinegar. Put all the measured vegetables in a large preserving kettle and add the hot pepper, sugar and salt. Place over low heat to cook and gently boil 30 minutes. The spices loosely in cheesecloth bag and add to vegetables then and continue cooking until sauce is thick and no "free" liquid stands at the sides. Degree of thickness depends on your individual taste. Pour while boiling hot into hot sterile jars and seal at once.

CHILI SAUCE NO. 2 (with fruit):

Thirty average-sized ripe tomatoes, 6 each ripe pears, peaches, sweet red peppers, 2 large onions, 4 cups brown sugar, 1 quart spirit vinegar, 2½ tablespoons salt, 2 tablespoons each whole cloves and all spice, about 4 tablespoons broken cinnamon sticks. Wash and peel tomatoes and onions; quarter, core and peel pears; scald and peel peaches; remove seeds, tongues and skins from peppers. Cut tomatoes, peaches and pears in chunks; chop onions and peppers (or grind if desired). Place all together in kettle and add spices which have been tied in cheesecloth loosely. Cook slowly 2 to 2½ hours, stirring very frequently. Pour into sterile jars and seal. This is a great favorite.

CORN RELISH:

Eighteen medium-sized ears of golden corn, 6 large green peppers, 2 sweet red peppers, 1 small cabbage, 4 onions, 1 cup chopped celery, 4 cups vinegar, 2 cups brown sugar, 2 tablespoons salt, 3 tablespoons dry mustard. Cut corn from cobs and seed peppers and chop them with the cabbage and onions. Mix all vegetables together and add remaining ingredients and cook until corn is tender — 20 to 30 minutes, stirring often. It must cook gently and must not be overcooked. It should be a little bit crisp. Pour into sterile jars and seal. This is delicious with lamb and I appreciate it especially when fresh mint is not available.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU MAY CHANGE YOUR MINDS LATER, GIRLS

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

After reading a recent column of yours in which you made the statement that "most 20-year-old young men are more interested in young women closer to their own age than in 17-year-olds," we discussed with our friends your advice to the girl of 17 who wrote the letter you were answering.

Most of us are going out with 19 and 20-year-old young men and we are 17. Contrary to what you said concerning the differences of interests, we find that their going to college provides for a closer understanding. They themselves have admitted that they prefer girls of 17 and 18.

A wellknown psychiatrist said in his book on the subject that it is normal for a girl of 17 to find mutual interests with a boy of 20.

We do, however, agree with you that J.A. should not get serious with this young man of 20. But we have found, through experience, that your other statements were not true. — Jo G. and K.B.

Dear Jo G. and K.B.:

Perhaps you and your friends are unusually mature for your age and so can meet these older young men on their own common ground of interests. I might call the difference, however, to the fact that what I said in my column referred exclusively to a girl of 17 and a young man of 20, whereas you include young men of 19 and girls of 18, who are much closer in age than the three years that separate the couple described in J. A.'s letter.

You also overlook the fact that the young man of 20 had told the 17-year-old that they had better stop seeing each other because he was afraid he was going to hurt her, which might mean anything, from his having become bored with her because of differences in their ages and interests to the possibility that he might make an improper suggestion to her. Either way, the friendship has obviously proved unsuitable.

You say that you have found "through experience" that what I said was "not true," but I believe that when this experience of yours has had time to broaden out a bit, your views on this many change.

Thank you for writing to me, and if you would like to say anything further on this subject, I would be very glad to hear from you again.

P.S.: I would appreciate it if you would let me know who the "well-known" psychiatrist is whom you mentioned, together with the name of his book.

ALL-OVER SKIN CARE A "MUST" IN SUMMER

With bared backs and shoulders, summer "complexion" is practically an all-over thing.

Your skin lives a public life in Summer. And there's more of you showing this year than ever before — shoulders, neck, back, legs, and feet. Fashion dictates the sleeveless dress, the scooped neckline — some reveal your complexion for shoulder to shoulder and clear down the back — and the bare leg. Don't let mid-summer scales, peelings, sandy or pebbly surfaces mar that "bare look."

If you're a fastidious female about personal grooming as well as stylish clothes, you'll give some extra care and attention to your skin to keep it soft and pussy cat smooth. What clothes do for the figure, soap does, for the epidermis.

Start complexion care from the top and work on down to the toes. This means wash basin to bath tub care. Use a complexion brush or a firm textured washcloth and scrub your face vigorously with soap and water. Get pockets around the nose and that tiny hollow spot beneath your lower lip need special attention. Rejuvenate and brighten tired skin with a rubber massage brush. Apply a thin layer of cream to overbaked skin after washing.

Trickle your fingertips over the surface of your upper arms, shoulders, and back. If the skin seems dry and sandy, try a daily sudsing with a firm bath brush. Pumice stone used with your soap will speed the removal of this type of granular skin.

Concentrate on massage. When you're relaxing in a lukewarm summer-lovin' lazy bath, smooth out your neckline area by massaging the skin with thick suds upward and out across your shoulders. This is a good treatment for neck lines.

Legs are next on the list. Those pretty extensions of beauty must be fuzz-free and glossy. Lather well and slip the razor over the legs. In case you nick yourself, the soap will keep the area germ free and antiseptic. Bumpy spots on the legs and heels will soon go if you pumice over them daily while you're soaking in the tub.

Feet show, too. Use a small brush dipped in warm soapsuds to scrub away calluses and rough-ened edges around the sole of the foot. A pedicure will complete your summer skin care ritual but don't depend on just nail polish to produce a nail gleam. Nails scrubbed with a brush help you to achieve a satiny nail look.

The important thing to remember is: Sleek summer skin complexion is an all-over thing. Show prettier stretches by calling on your favorite cosmetic — soap and water.

Sixty Ships Of U.S. Navy To Be Laid Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Navy says 60 ships, including the battleship Iowa and 26 other combat vessels, will be laid up soon to reduce expenses.

In announcing the cut Monday, the navy said there would be little effect on fighting power because of the new atom-powered submarines, and other modern vessels, scheduled to join the fleet by next June.

While the older ships are being laid up, 23 new vessels and 16 ships being converted to more-modern weapons will be added to the fleet.

The withdrawals will include eight destroyers, 16 destroyer escorts, two submarines, and, in the non-combat category, five transports, two landing ships, two attack cargo ships and 21 minesweepers.

The removal of the Iowa from the fleet leaves only one American battleship, the Wisconsin, on active duty.

The Canadian Navy has 55 fighting and mobile support ships in commission, 54 in reserve and 16 under construction.

There has been speculation that more older ships will be put in mothballs as new destroyers are commissioned. The cruiser Ontario may soon join the cruiser Quebec in reserve.

Chinese Pupils Rioted in June

PEIPING (Reuters) — Chinese Communist newspapers said today more than 1,000 high school students in Hanyang, central China, rioted and demonstrated against the government June 12 and 13.

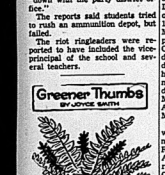
The reports said "counter-revolutionaries," all since arrested, incited the students to smash the local Communist party office and kidnap leading local Communists and beat them up.

Students at the school at Hanyang shouted slogans such as "welcome to Kuomintang (Chinese Nationalist party) to come back quickly."

Other slogans called out included: "Chairman Mao (the Chinese Communist head of state, Mao Tse-tung) will come down off the stage soon" (a Chinese idiom meaning to retire) and "down with the party district office."

The reports said students tried to rush an ammunition depot, but failed.

The riot ringleaders were reported to have included the vice-principal of the school and several teachers.



Ferns, either in the garden or potted, should have the crown (part between root and stem) out of the soil. This is danger spot where, if covered, disease and rot take over. Ferns like shade and moisture, but should have good drainage.

Tweed

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. Bert Reyner and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Woodcock, of Metcalf and Isaac Streets, spent an enjoyable holiday in the U.S.A. from Monday until Wednesday of last week. they toured the northern part of New York State, making their headquarters at Watertown and Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dion, left on Saturday, for Ottawa, where they will visit friends for the weekend and will possibly go on to Montreal before returning to their home, here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dion, left for Niagara Falls, on Saturday, and Mrs. Francis Merow accompanied them back to her home, she has been holidaying here in and around Tweed for some three weeks, and her home is in Niagara Falls, she is a sister-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Dion. They will return on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Reyner left on the past weekend to visit the former's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Reyner, in Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Neal and Gwen, left on Sunday morning to spend the holiday with her brother, Mr. Bert Terry, of Rice Lake, where he has a cottage. Mr. Terry drove down for the Leals, and "Frenchie" took his boat with him to make the holiday more complete.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Prout, of Fort Hope, visited this past week with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood, Hannah Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lawson and Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" Snow, and Dougie, of Peterborough, spent last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dion.

Mr. and Mrs. Armour, of Alexandria Street, and family, left Saturday morning on their holidays. They expect to visit friends and relatives in different parts and will tour most of the time.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family of the late Jonas Rashotte, who was buried Thursday morning from St. Carthagh's Church, in Tweed. He was 41 years of age and was unmarried.

Miss Betty Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hunt of Napanne, and well known in this district, will be married to Kenneth John Kehoe, of Read, Ontario, in St. Patrick's Church, in Napanee, on August 17th. The bridegroom-to-be is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Kehoe.

Worshipful Master Charles Beatty, of Plainfield, representing Tweed Masonic Lodge at the annual sessions, of the Grand Lodge of Ontario held in Toronto, recently. This was the 103 annual session, and Grand Master Archbishop W. L. Wright presided and noted that six new Ontario Lodges were instituted during the past year. His address contained, "Free Masonry has ideals which can raise human standards to broaden and deepen character". Mr. H. L. Martyn of Toronto succeeds Archbishop Wright as Grand Master.

Mrs. Clifford Wannamaker, was matron of honor at the marriage of her sister Josephine Richardine Elaine Woods, at Alderwood Presbyterian Church, recently. She was married to Captain Eric Beard, R.C.E.M.E., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Beard, of Weston, Zoyland, Somerset, England. Little Eric Wannamaker, of Stoco, nephew of the bride, was in dress Stuart tartan kilt, carrying the ring on a white satin cushion. The young couple left for Cape Cod.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Silverthorn, Bridge Street, left on Saturday to visit their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Harrop, in Scarborough. They will be bringing their two grandchildren back to stay with them for a two weeks' holiday, Wayne and Gail Harrop.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, of Toronto, visited over the holiday weekend with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jones, McLennan Street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hamilton and daughters, of McLennan Street, left on Tuesday for their holidays. They will visit different places, friends, and relatives, during their return to Tweed. Mr. Hamilton is the principal of the Tweed High School.

Mrs. Munroe, of Nova Scotia, arrived on Friday to spend a month with her daughter and husband, The Rev. and Mrs. W. Fee, "Faces". After spending the most of their vacation at their cottage on Maxinaw Lake, Cloyne.

Mr. and Mrs. Hay and the latter's sister, Miss Mary Leavitt, on Tuesday to spend a few days in the Syracuse and Buffalo area. They will motor. Mr. and Mrs. Hay are from Toronto, and she is the former Miss Leavitt Walker, well-known in this district.

The Rev. L. E. Hawkes, rector of the Anglican Church here in Tweed, and Mrs. Hawkes have returned to their Victoria Street rectory after being on month's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Manion, the newlyweds of Saturday 27th, have returned from their trip to the U.S.A. on Friday, and they will be going north, in the Sudbury district early in the week where Mr. Manion is employed, at Matawa, Ont.

Miss Pauline Champagne, of the staff of the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, is home for the long week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Champagne.

The Rev. W. K. Pace, is taking over the work of the United Church at Beaverton, as soon as his holidays are over. He will have one more service here at St. John's Church at Tweed.

The Tweed people wish him well in his new surroundings. He has been a great worker here in Tweed, and has made a wide host of friends, and Mrs. Pace was a helper in all the activities of Church work, and will be greatly missed by them. Copy except from one of his sermons recently: "Don't be a moral weakling, you can only be spiritually secure when you are morally secure."

Mr. George Keilty, Tom Keilty and other nephews motored to Syracuse, N.Y. on Sunday, for an over-the-holiday trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunter Engel and family moved on Thursday to the newly-decorated residence, owned by Mr. Paul King, on Metcalfe street, next to Foster's Dairy.

Miss Catharine McQuarrie, of Etobicoke, has been spending her vacation, with different friends in Tweed and Sulphide. Miss McQuarrie used to teach in Tweed and is now on the Etobicoke staff.

The many friends of Mrs. Millard Young, of Sulphide, will regret to know that she has again found it necessary to be hospitalized. She is in the Bellville General Hospital, for a general check-up on her present condition. She has been far from well for some time and all trust she will soon be enjoying much better health.

The appreciation day winner on Saturday at the Bank of Montreal corner, was Mrs. Percy Green with a 10 per cent jacket on the kitty.

Mrs. Bernard O'Coin, of Toronto, has just returned home after spending a two weeks' vacation at a cottage near the village, and visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pobert, of town. She had her little daughter, Barbara Joan, with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe McIlroy, of Sudbury, are visiting his mother, Mrs. Pat McIlroy, this week, and are residing at a cottage for most of their vacation period. It will be recalled that Mrs. McIlroy, senior, has recently had major surgery, but is home and gaining rapidly much to the pleasure of her wide host of friends.

Miss Mosey Hammet is home from the Bellevville General Hospital, but is as yet not too well. The friends and neighbors of Miss Hammet, she will soon be fully recovered and also be able to take her position as teacher on the school staff another term.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Meraw, Bridge Street, have just returned from a train trip to Rock Island, Illinois, where they visited the former's sister, who is ill, from physical shock, but was some improved, when they left her. She is of the religious order of nuns, and her name is Sister Mary Ann. All trust they will soon have encouraging news as to her condition.

A newly erected life-saving device with the inflated circular buoy has been placed at a convenient and practical position at the west bank of the edge of the Tweed Mill dam, where the water is deep, and a bit treacherous. Many young swimmers haunt these waters on the many hot and humid days which have been experienced this season. The police are responsible for this worthy and deserving enterprise. Another similiar one has been placed further up the river; they trust the water mishaps, may in this way, be lessened.

Dr. Harry G. Carleton, of Peterborough, brother of Mrs. Sam Jones, McGowan Street, is leaving on August 8th, on the "Saxonia" for a tour of England, Northern Ireland and Scotland for a period of six weeks. He will be returning to New York on the "Queen Mary."

Misses Mary and Norine Leach, who are on the staff of Fort Henry, at Kingston, the summer months, spent the holiday weekend at their home here. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred LeSage of town. Mr. LeSage took them back to Kingston on Monday evening by car.

Miss Claire LeSage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest LeSage, of Metcalfe Street, is spending the summer vacation here with her parents and family. Miss LeSage has been on the staff of the St. Joseph's Separate School, in London, for the past term.

Miss Marry Ruttan, of Belleville, and Miss Barbara LeSage, of Tweed, the latter at present holidays from the local Dominion Store where she is employed full-time, had an enjoyable trip to Westown the end of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sleuth, and children, Toronto, spent some time with the latters grandmother, Mrs. J. Kenny. They went to Ottawa to the regatta, and left the children in Tweed, picking them up on Sunday here. Other visitors at the Kenny home were; Miss Marion Kenny and Mrs. Jane Genereaux, both of Toronto. They are daughters of Mrs. Kenny, and both left on Monday for their homes, after an extended holiday.

Mr. Jack MacLean, his brother Longard, and a friend from Cutler spent the holiday weekend at Mr. MacLean's home, here. They returned Tuesday morning by way of Toronto. Other visitors at the MacLean home were, Mr. and Mrs. M. Hamilton, of Toronto.

Mrs. Dan Millar, of town, left on Friday for Toronto, with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Saunders, of Lima, Peru, South America.

Mr. "Bud" Sloan is sporting a new automobile on his recent trip home from Kingston.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Ellen Archer DIETITIAN FOR 25 YEARS

Toddlers dearly love water play on a hot August day. If you've not far removed from a beach why not let your little one have some water fun right at home.

Outdoors. A tub, preferably big enough to get into, is a fine backyard accessory. An inch or two of water—a sponge and spoon to splash with—and the fun's begun.

Indoors. An after-nap "swimming" session in the big tub can be a happy event. (With you to watch and join the fun.) Be sure added gaiety: stock tub with bath toys—colley-water with harmless vegetable dye.

Summer menus for your toddler can be easy for you, interesting for baby. That's because Gerber offers you a great choice of over 30 good-tasting Junior Foods. There are 8 luscious Fruits • 7 hearty Vegetables • 7 hearty Vegetable & Meat Combinations • 3 savory Meats and 4 new Meat Dinners. All are evenly minced so tots with a few teeth can manage them nicely. For end-of-the-meal treats, there are 3 delightful Junior Desserts.

P. S. If your baby is not on Junior Foods Gerber has forty-one tempting Strained Foods.

• • •

Car game. When you and dad take that toddler on a trip and he gets restless you might distract him and help him learn colors of the scene by having him point out colors along the way—such as a "green grass", "red house", etc.

• • •

Delightful refresher for a bright-eyed snack-begging toddler:

FRUIT MILK SHAKE
1 cup cold milk
1 egg white, beaten until stiff
½ container any Gerber Strained Fruit
Sugar to taste
Combine ingredients. Blend with a rotary beater. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

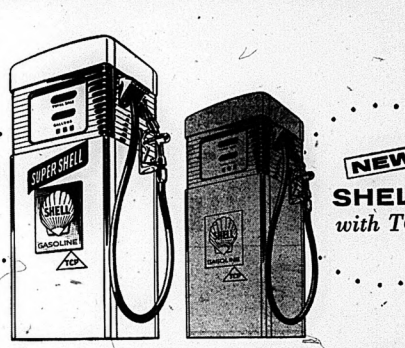
Shell announces two great new motor fuels, the successors to Shell Premium and Shell Gasoline



SUPER SHELL with TCP

NEW SHELL with TCP

the team that satisfies the octane needs of every make of car!

Now, regardless of the make of car you drive, you can have a fuel which automatically supplies the full octane value required for every driving situation.

Today's cars are built around the most powerful engines in motoring history. And the trend is aiming still higher.

Anticipating the need for higher grades of motor fuel, Shell Oil Company of Canada Limited has introduced two brand new gasolines. Super Shell with TCP for high compression cars, and new Shell with TCP for all other cars.

Now you can choose the gasoline that will give you the finest performance your car can deliver—the gasoline which automatically supplies the full octane value your engine requires to meet every type of driving situation.

The combustion energy in these great new Shell motor fuels gives you an added bonus, too. When you're cruising, their reserve energy is converted to more miles in every tankful.

And not only do both of Shell's new motor fuels have much higher octane, both contain TCP*. This patented additive neutralizes harmful engine deposits that cause loss of power, to assure you the continued peak performance and economy your engine was built to deliver.

For a new experience in motoring, see your Shell Dealer today for Super Shell in the new white pump or new Shell—both with TCP.

* Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patented 1955.

Chicago Move Agreeable to Thomson-But

WINNIPEG (CP) — Veteran National Hockey League defenceman Jim Thomson says it is quite agreeable with him to have his contract sold to Chicago Black Hawks.

However, the 30-year-old Winnipeg native said Tuesday night in a telephone interview, whether or not he can play for the Hawks next season will depend on "business conditions at Toronto."

Thomson, who is a partner in a Toronto fuel company, was commenting on a Toronto Maple Leaf announcement that the club would sell his contract to Chicago for the $18,000 waiver price providing it was agreeable.

Thomson expects to return to Toronto about Aug. 15 and after conferring with business associates decide whether or not he will join Chicago.

Should he agree to a Chicago transfer he will be reunited with Gus Mortson, Chicago captain. During the years immediately after the Second World War, Thomson and Mortson formed one of the best defence units in the league while playing with Toronto.

Mortson was traded to Chicago in the 1951-52 season.

AWAIT NEW COMET

PARIS (Reuters) — A new comet with a long white tail will soon be visible to the naked eye in Britain and France, Andre Danjon, director of the Paris Observatory, said today. The comet, which Danjon said is making "a surprising appearance," is named Mrkos, after a Czech astronomer who discovered it about a week ago. Danjon said the comet is close to the sun, in the constellation of the Lynx, between the Big Bear and Orion.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Victor Darnley won the featured $8,000 trot Tuesday night at Richelieu Park, covering the mile in 2:02 3-4. The nine-year-old bay gelding owned by Laurent Bourgon of Cornwall, was driven by Phil Dussault, paid $11.20, $5.10 and $3.80.

Newport Bruce was second and Aerial Gunner showed.

In the $8,000 pace, Mac Bingen from Pembroke, Ont., took first money stepping the mile in 2:04 1-5. Mac Bingen was driven by Roger Ponton.

Fabius Mills from Kemptville, with Russ Caldwell at the reins, captured a $700 mile D trot in a time of 2:10 3-5. Bob Givens drove Billy Roscroft from Schomberg into second place.

An Aultsville horse, Silver Jerry, driven by Perry Robillard, was the winner in a $700 mile D pace in a time of 2:09 1-5. In second spot was Williamsburg from Morrisburg handled by John Zeron.

TORONTO (CP) — Veteran Spencer Lockhart of Collingwood, Ont., scored again Tuesday night with his 10-year-old pacer True Spencer at Old Woodbine Raceway.

A 4-to-1 shot behind favored Argyel Sam, owned by Dunc Campbell, True Spencer took second place after half a mile and was never headed. Argyel Sam, a four-time winner at Old Woodbine, was 2½ lengths back.

This was True Spencer's second win after two seconds.

The night's best price was returned by Meg Peter in the eighth race when the seven-year-old horse owned and driven by Elmer Holmes of Dundas was second behind Dulcie Dillon and paid off $28 for a $2 place ticket. King Peter went to the post at 40-to-1.

VOLCANIC ISLAND

The island of Tahiti in the South Pacific is composed of two extinct volcanoes, the largest towering 7,988 feet.

Fur, Fin and Campfire

By JACK SORDS

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — Fourteen two-year-olds will start in today's fifth renewal of the $8,000 Yearling Sales Stakes at Fort Erie race track.

One of the favorites, Woodrunner, owned by C. F. W. Burns of Toronto, won the Clarendon Stakes at Woodbine.

The 14 horses represent a total purchase price of $46,700.

Tuesday's feature race, the Fort Erie Centennial Purse was won by Top Tourn which was disqualified and placed fourth. Top Tourn moved into the lead on the final turn but bore in sharply and cut off Ballydonnell and Hartney. In the race to the wire, Top Tourn outlasted Pot Hunter, which finished second while Ballydonnell was third and Hartney fourth.

After viewing the film patrol pictures, the stewards dropped Top Tourn into fourth place, which automatically gave the race to Pot Hunter. Ballydonnell moved up to second while Hartney was placed third.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pardala won the $97,500 Nairarch Handicap at Monmouth Park, Oceanport, N.J., Tuesday.

The four-year-old filly, owned by D. and H stable, hit the wire 1¼ lengths in front of Attica and ran the 1 1-16 miles in 1:44 3-5 to pay $12.40.

The 7-to-10 favorite, Market Basket, was third.

At Washington Park, III, Revere Knoll Farm's Second Fiddle won the Bolingbroke with a time of 1:13 2-5 for the six furlongs.

Splendored was 1¼ lengths behind while Smileytown ran third.

Junior Tennis At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — The picturesque Rideau Lawn Tennis Club was a beehive of activity Tuesday as preparations were completed for the opening matches of the Canadian Junior tennis championships.

Eight titles are at stake in the closed section of the tournament to begin today. The closed matches, open only to Canadians, are expected to conclude Saturday and the open championships in which United States and Bermuda players are also expected to get under way Monday, Aug. 17.

Ladies Softball Final Standing

The final standing of the Lakeshore Ladies' Softball League has been announced.

THE MUSKIE OF THE MAZINAW

The sun shone warmly on the sandy-beach loafing ground at Mazinaw Inn that lovely August morning a year ago.

It glinted off the slightly rippled surface of Old Mazinaw. From the water came the happy shouts of care-free youngsters swimming and splashing around the diving tower. The staccatos of outboards sounded in the distance.

Four of us "blacksnakes" in comfortable beach chairs. From the Inn came the appetizing odors of the excellent cuisine of mine hosts, Harvey and Hilary Frid.

We, the charter members of the Mazinaw College of Applied Casting and Piscatorial Technology had exhausted the usual morning topics.

The Yankees were making a runaway of the American League. The Dodgers, Milwaukee and Cincinnati were fighting a three-cornered battle for the National circuit. He had recovered from his heart attack. Tommy Maxwell was thinking of marrying No. 10. Pig's knuckles had upped a cent on Wall Street. Ott had been discovered in Lower Slobbovia, and a Russian hillbilly claimed to be the originator of Carolina "cawn likker."

Conversation lagged. It would be an hour before Hilary declared "open season" on another mouth-watering luncheon.

Then a non-paying member joined the circle... A stranger to the Inn he had not as yet heard all the legends. He asked a question.

"I hear that only one muskellunge has been taken thus far from the lake. Is that true?"

Three sets of eyebrows shot upwards with an audible click. Three sets of eyes swung over to port where sat Ben Park of Cincinnati, veteran angler, raconteur, and captor of the lone member of the musky clan.

Ben is a native Kentuckian. He is the only aborigine of Cracked Lip, Kaintuck, to exist in its confines and make the outside civilization say "uncle."

Cracked Lip is a small southern community where the moonshine's over the cowsheds at night, and gurgles down dusty throats most any time. And if you're eating grits and nibbling down hickory dust you're host to pass the corn. He's liable to hand you a gallon jug.

Ben glanced around at his "executive." A smile hovered on the face of "faculty" vice-president Harry "Hap" Heffner of New Jersey, reputed to be the first resident of that state to train his king-size mosquitos to drive cars, plow, do housework and baby-sit.

Then he looked the curious one straight in the eye. He was as serious as a middle-aged spinster at her own wedding.

"Yes sub. I-all ot'l that musky," he drawled. "Ah hooked him with a Canadian worm which had been hoidded in good ole Kaintuck mountain dew just to give it an international flavor."

"Ah was told," Ben went on, "that Ah was the first to catch such a fish. So ah decided to preserve it for posterity. Ah decided to have it mounted."

He lapsed into a reminiscent silence.

"Go on, what happened?" asked the curious one.

"Waal, suh," Ben said slowly. "When Ah got around to it, that dad-blamed fish was missin'. And we never did find it.

"That is," he added, "until a few years later."

Prodded for further information, Ben said: "Y'know Ah talk a lot, especially about Cracked Lip and the good fishin' down theyah. That muskie might have overheard a lot of those stories. From the way Ah figure, that muskie hitch-hiked all the way down to mah old home town."

"On my last trip down to the Lip, the boys were tellin' me about the strange fish they were catching. From what Ah gathered that muskie arrived there and took up housekeepin' with one of our catfish."

"Seems they got hitched and lively happily, raisin' a lot of little, what they call down theyah, muskats."

The luncheon call sounded from the inn.

"What are muskats like?" asked the curious one.

"Waal," drawled Ben, as straightfaced as an income tax collector. "Theyah nice fish, all right. But on account of their parentage—ouah catfish have lots of whiskers—the young 'uns are boy with long jaws and heavy beards. You-all have to shave 'em before you eat 'em."

And with another believer in the fold, Ben trudged slowly to the Inn, a smile playing over his features.

Pro Soccer For Canada In Five Years

WINNIPEG (CP)—Canada will have professional soccer leagues within five years, says the secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Soccer Football Association.

George Anderson of Winnipeg said Tuesday in an interview two leagues should be operating within that time at Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver—with two teams each—and at Edmonton, Calgary, Winnipeg, Hamilton and Ottawa, with one apiece.

Anderson said, "We'll have to go into professional soccer within five years because . . . all our teams are amateur and players have to get off work to participate in soccer games against touring sides. A professional league would not only surmount this problem but will raise the standard of play and the interest of younger players who then can see a future in the game."

Anderson said the association is planning to televise Canadian soccer championship games in the next year or so.

Negotiations with Italian and Scottish teams for a tour of Canada in 1958 now under way. A tour of Europe by a Canadian side may be undertaken next year.

Tack 5-4 Defeat on Redlegs As Chicubs Shuffle Cards; Bombers Zero Nats; Sox Lose

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Rush and Ron Kline, a pair of righthanders with the National League's cellar chums, don't win very often, but when they do it sure raises hob with the pennant contenders.

Neither had won in two months, but when they got the job done Tuesday night the race had a new leader and its biggest gap between first and fifth since June 2.

Rush, Chicago Cubs' 31-year-old veteran who hadn't won since June 7, gained a 2-1 mark with a six-hitter that beat St. Louis 6-2 and ended Cardinals' five-day stay in first place. Milwaukee Braves moved back into the lead by a half game with a 5-4 victory over Cincinnati.

Kline, now 5-15 with Pittsburgh junked the Pirates' losing streak at eight games with his first victory since June 9, limiting a five-hitter that beat Philadelphia 5-3 and pushed the fifth-place Phils 6½ games behind.

GETS FIRST SHUTOUT

Third-place Brooklyn fell three games back, losing 5-0 to New York Giants as Rookie Curt Barclay gained his first shutout with a five-hitter.

Rush, who only beats the leader, had lost six in a row since defeating Milwaukee 3-2 in first place. His 12 losses rank behind only Kline and Dick Hall, 14 hung on Philadelphia's Robin Roberts.

The onetime Cub ace had this one in the early going. The seventh place Bruins rapped Sad Sam Jones for a homer in the first on Walt Moryn's sacrifice fly and a wild pitch. Jones, now 5-5, left in the seventh when three Cub runs made it 6-1. Bob Speake, who drove in three runs, and Cal Neeman homered for the Cubs while Stan Musial hit his 20th for Cards.

Warren Spahn won his 11th for the Braves, who had only five hits but had a pair of unearned runs to stand off a two-run Cincinnati uprising. Hal Jeffcoat left it giving up three runs in the sixth on two walks and doubles by Wes Covington and Bob Hazle. Don Hoak and Frank Robinson hit solo homers for the fourth-place Redlegs, who have lost nine of 11 to the Braves and now trail by five games.

WAS IN TROUBLE

The Dodgers loaded the bases with none out in the first against Barclay, but the 22-year-old righthander got off it — starting with a third out at the plate. Hodges, the NL grand-slam champ—and followed only three singles the rest of the way. Bobby Thomson had three hits and drove in three runs with a pair of triples. Johnny Podres, who left for a pinch-hitter in the seventh trailing 1-0 despite allowing only three hits, lost his second in a row for a 9-5 record. Barclay is 5-7.

Kline, who has dropped seven in a row since beating Milwaukee (then in fourth place), gave up a three-run homer to Harry Anderson for a 3-1 Phil lead in the fourth inning. But Gene Freese hit a two-run homer to tie it against 14-game winner Jack Sanford in the sixth. The Bucs, winning their first under new manager Dan Murtaugh, handed the rookie righthander a fourth defeat with two in the seventh on two singles. Freese and Frank Thomas' sacrifice fly.

Hurricane Gets Automatic Ban

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson who was stopped on a 10th round technical knockout by heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson July 29, has been automatically suspended for an indefinite period by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Paul Gallico, commission deputy, said such action was routine for all fighters who have been stopped. The boxer must be reexamined before he is reinstated.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching: Curt Barclay, Giants —gained first major league shutout with five - hitter, defeating Dodgers 5-0 after working out of bases-loaded, none-out jam in first inning.

Hitting: Willie Miranda, Orioles —drove in both runs with a pair of singles in three trips for 2-1 victory over Red Sox.

Harry Craft, Kansas City's new manager, put the Athletics on a winning track Tuesday night and promised more victories if "the boys continue to hustle."

Craft, former Cincinnati outfielder, Tuesday was named manager, succeeding Lou Boudreau. Several hours later, the Athletics defeated Chicago White Sox 5-4 before 5,000 fans, with Alex Kellner and reliever Virgil Trucks and home runs by Woodie Held and Billy Martin, a couple of ex-Yankees, the stars.

"All I ask of the boys is to hustle for the two or two and a half hours it takes to play a game," said Craft. "They were running them out tonight and played good ball. If they keep it up, we'll win our share of games."

UP TO HIM

Arnold Johnson, owner of the team, said it's all up to Craft whether he remains as club manager beyond the 1957 season. He stands to reason that if a man gives a good showing, he'll be around another year.

The win snapped a seven-game losing skein for Kansas by Wood coupled with New York's 4-0 job on Washington it gave the champions their largest lead of the season, seven games ahead of second-place Baltimore.

Baltimore won its fifth in a row and took over fifth place with a 3-1 decision over Cleveland in first place. Hi Bithorn, a fourth-place hr with Dave Hoskins and plunked Tigers to sixth, 5-1.

Winner Kellner was rapped for eight hits in the route job. Kellner but settled down to pitch hitless ball until Chicago's Cornelius Slaughter a double and a single, good for one run, in the ninth. Trucks came on to preserve the win.

Sox scored their other run in the first on two singles, Held's second-inning homer tied it and Martin's put the As ahead in the fourth. Held's sacrifice fly in the fourth scored what proved to be the winning run.

Bob Turley held the Senators to four singles in notching his fourth shutout in his last outing. But the Yankee mound staff's total of five season, one short of the scoreless inning string to 22 and made his record 8-2.

Chuck Stobbs lost his 15th as Hank Bauer homered to lead off the first inning. Tony Kubek had three of the 11 New York hits.

Ray Moore and Kenny Lehman held Boston to five hits while Willie Miranda provided the big stick for Baltimore.

DROVE IN BOTH RUNS

Miranda, the Oriole shortstop, got two singles in three trips to the plate and drove in both of Baltimore's runs.

Winner Moore gave up only four hits before giving way to Lehman in the eighth. Wilfurd Dixon was the loser.

Cleveland cut loose with three home runs off righthander Jim Bunning to whip Tigers handing the eight - hit pitching of Don Mossi.

Roger Maris, Gene Woodling and Vic Wertz crashed the round-trippers that sent Bunning down to his fourth defeat against 13 wins. It was Mossi's eighth win.

SCORES HOLE-IN-ONE

GODERICH (CP) — Charlie Nattel of Goderich scored a hole-in-one Tuesday on the 140-yard golf club. His ace, the second of the season here, came on the 100-yard fifth hole of the nine-hole course.

Leafs Amble Closer to Top, Defeat Jets 9-6

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Harris, Montreal Royals righthander from Dorchester, N.B., should take teammate Jack Colham aside and show him his technique for beating Richmond Virginians.

Harris, who has the International League's second - place Yanks eating out of his hand, hurled a neat four-hit 4-1 victory in the riotous second game of a doubleheader Tuesday night. Colham, the pint - sized southpaw, pitched a three - hitter in the opener but lost 3-0.

The split enabled Vees to pick half a game on the front-running Buffalo Bisons, who dropped a 4-3 decision to Miami Marlins. Third-place Toronto Maple Leafs closed to within three games of first by defeating Rochester Red Wings 9-6. Gene Green's 11th - inning home run gave Rochester Red Wings a 2-1 victory over Havana Sugar Kings.

Harris picked up his fourth triumph in five decisions against Richmond this year and ran his two-year record against the Virginians to 6-2.

The Virginians, who committed five errors in the second game, left 14 runners stranded with a forfeit when fans began throwing stones and weighted drinking cups at umpire Wally Vander-hoof. The arbiter working at third base umpire in the sixth inning.

Order was restored in the fourth inning when umpire Joe Linsalata announced the game would be forfeited unless the fans quieted down.

DECISION STOOD

Richmond had Len Johnson on first and one out in the sixth. The next batter grounded to Harris, trying to get back, was called safe by first base umpire Cal Drummond. However, Vander-hoof—crossing the diamond from third—called him out and Van derhoof's decision stood.

Two errors, a walk and a sacrifice fly gave Montreal a two-run lead in the first. The Royals went on to add single runs in the second and fifth.

Bob Lee got Richmond's Harry Chiti's double following a walk to Danny Schell broke a scoreless tie in the fourth. Tom Carroll's 12th homer followed Len Johnson's single in the fifth for the sixth to close out the scoring. Jim Post picked up his first victory in relief.

SIXTH IN A ROW

Leafs sent Jets down for their sixth straight defeat. Columbus catfish Toronto for 11 hits in 12 men on base. Toronto tied the score 2-2 on Loren Babe's solo homer in the fourth, and then broke the game wide open in the fifth. Lou Jones' home run touched off a four-run inning capped by Ebba St. Claire's two-run blast.

Miami scored all its runs in the first inning and then held on as Buffalo pecked away with two runs in the sixth and one in the seventh. Frank Herrera's bases-loaded, triple and Stu Locklin's run-scoring single were the big Miami hits.

Green's game - winning blow in the 11th came off Jim Bunning, Rochester's Gary Blaylock and Havana's Joe Hatten.

Golfdom's Distaff Favorites Take Easy First-Round Wins

MONTREAL (CP) — Glamfilling roles still awaited claimants today as the Canadian ladies' open amateur golf championship moved into its second round.

Four Canadian girls among the 16 survivors had their big chance, meeting the four Americans who moved through Tuesday's first round.

The international matches shaped up this way:

Betty Stanhope of Edmonton, Alberta junior and senior champion, was drawn against Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, Md., former U.S. National senior winner and seven times Maryland champion.

Little Judy Darling of Montreal like Betty a senior and junior provincial champion, faced Marjorie Burns of Greensboro, N.C., runner-up this year in the Southern amateur.

Janet MacWha of suburban St. Lambert, took on Mrs. Norman Woolworth of New Canaan, Conn., last year's Eastern U.S. champion, and Joyce Alston of Ottawa met Mrs. C.J. Spalding of Greenwich, Conn.

There was little of the unexpected in Tuesday's round. Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, defending the title she has won four times in the last six years, galloped off to an 8 and 7 win over Mrs. R. D. Bagley of Winnipeg. The champion made the turn all up and ended the match on the 11th.

Betty Stanhope, playing a steady game, reeled off a 7 and 6 win over Gail Harvey, 14-year-old comer from Toronto. Judy Darling polished off Mrs. Joseph Trachan of Winnipeg by the same margin. Janet MacWha had more trouble disposing of Noreen Laing of Toronto, 1955 Canadian junior champion, by a 2 and 1 margin. Joyce Alston scored a twilight win over Shirley Woodley of Toronto.

Tue Milligan of Calgary and Mrs. J. C. Whitelaw of Toronto staged a tidy battle along the front nine, the Calgary girl losing the fourth but winning the seventh and eighth with pars. Two bad holes on the back nine put Mrs. Whitelaw out of contention.

Dodgers, Giants Safari West Is Now Almost a Reality

By MAX NICHOLS

NEW YORK (AP) — The proposed moves of New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers to the west coast were closer to reality today after three rapid-fire developments:

1. An engineer's report taken to mean a proposed new ball park for the Dodgers in Brooklyn would be economically unfeasible.

2. President Horace Stoneham's statement to stockholders that it would be in the best interest of the Giants to move out of New York.

3. Mailing of a formal offer by San Francisco to the Giants.

The engineer's report to a special mayor's committee said it would cost $21,480,000 to build a covered stadium on one proposed site in downtown Brooklyn and $20,780,000 on an alternate site. In addition, the survey estimated complete rehabilitation of the Brooklyn Dodgers would cost about $22,000,000, nearly double the $30,000,000 approved by the state legislature.

REFUSES COMMENT—

Walter O'Malley, the Dodgers' president, refused comment on engineer's report but in most sections it was agreed that the estimated cost would rule out any new Brooklyn park for the Dodgers, who have approval to move to Los Angeles if and when they request it.

Stoneham, who said two weeks ago that 1957 would be the Giants' last season in New York, met with club stockholders for two hours in Jersey City, N.J. Stoneham told the stockholders it would be in their best interests if the club were moved.

Details of San Francisco's offer to the Giants may be known today.

Mayor George Christopher said Tuesday telephone negotiations between them have been completed and San Francisco's letter of intent should be in Stoneham's hands today.

RELEASE INJURED BOXER

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP)—Lightweight boxer Bobby Courchesne, recovering from brain surgery, will be released today, a Springfield hospital bulletin said Tuesday.

He underwent an operation to remove a blood clot July 29. Courchesne, 22, collapsed after the eighth round of a scheduled 10-rounder against Bobby Bell in New York earlier in July.

Four Bisons Win Berths on All-Star Team

MONTREAL (CP)—Four players from the league-leading Buffalo Bisons have won berths on the International League all-star team which will play Brooklyn Dodgers here Aug. 19.

Fans in eight league cities picked first baseman Luke Easter, shortstop Mike Basso, catcher Ray Noble and southpaw pitcher Walt Craddock as the 16-man squad.

Each city had one vote for each position under the system used by league officials.

Other players chosen were outfielder Gene Green and third-baseman Frank Verdi of Rochester; second - baseman Mike Goliat of Toronto; outfielder Johnny Powers of Columbus; outfielder Bobby Del Greco of Montreal and right-handed pitcher Jim Coates of Richmond. No player was chosen from either Miami or Havana.

Closest to unanimous choices were Easter and Basso. Each received the limit—eight votes—in six cities. Second-baseman Lou Ortega of Buffalo tied Goliat with four first-place votes and each had two second-place choices. Goliat won the position on collected one third - place choice to Ortega's two. Moreover, historically, it was the Buffalo vote, placing Goliat third, that decided the issue.

The all-star team will be managed by Frankie Frisch of Toronto Maple Leafs. He will name 10 or more players and two coaches to his staff before the game.

UNDER FOUR MINUTES

MALMOE, Sweden (Reuters)—Dan Waern of Sweden broke the four-minute mile barrier Tuesday night for the second time in less than three weeks when he was clocked 3:59.7. He ran the mile in 3:59.3 July 19. It was the 25th sub-four-minute mile since Britain's Roger Bannister first broke the barrier in May, 1954.

Fontana, Main Card Wins in Ontario Tennis

By TOM VIRANY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Usually composed Don Fontana of Toronto, first-seeded star in the Ontario open tennis championship ground his teeth Tuesday and bit balls flying on the ground against the fence as he defeated Don Platt also of Toronto, in a long, gruelling fight in the quarter finals.

With a weaker - than - usual service, Fontana won 7-5, 3-6, 6-4. He climbed back from 3-5 to take the first set, and after trailing in the second all the way, swept the last one from 2-3.

Fontana's bottom spins, so useful on grass courts, but not essential on the Boulevard Club's clay courts, frequently got caught in the net. He often missed his usually accurate shots in the corners.

Platt played a steady, mostly defensive game and complained his top spins were weakened by the fast, dry courts.

Brasil's Armando Vieira, seeded second, won an easy victory over Ernest Mast of Oakville, in the third round 6-1, 6-1.

Jerre Main of Toronto, seeded seventh, whipped C. R. Allum of Toronto 6-0, 6-0 in the second quarter-finals.

Main is regarded as one of the top competitors and his relatively low seeding is because he has competed little this year. Bill O'Brien of Toronto unexpectedly eliminated Inga Weber of Kitchener 6-1, 6-3, in the second round of the women's singles.

Joan was busy writing examinations this year and has played little. Inge, however, has been playing the circuits since January.

SIGN 12TH MEMBER

SARNIA (CP)—Tony Byers, 21-year-old former tackle with University of South Carolina, Tuesday became the 12th import to join Sarnia Golden Bears of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

The six-foot-one, 215-pounder is the third tackle signed by the Bears.

TAKES ON CHAMP IN FIRST PRO FIGHT

Preparing for what could be the fight of the year, Pete Rademacher, Olympic heavyweight boxer, is seen working out for his title bout with Floyd Patterson at Columbus, Ga. What makes the Aug. 22 event at Seattle, Wash., something for the books is the fact that it will be Pete's first pro fight. The 22-year-old heavyweight champ has been guaranteed $250,000 for the tussle with his older by six years opponent.

West Indies Lose Test To England

LONDON (CP) — The touring West Indies cricketers have lost their Test series against England but there are grounds for suspicion that the last of the five matches will be a good one.

After the visitors batting fell apart at Leeds, giving England a second victory by a healthy margin, (there were two draws), England was portrayed as the greatest international team in a generation. That statement later was challenged by the visiting Australian skipper, Ian Craig, who declared that some of the side's older players are over the hill.

Other observers, meanwhile, raised the hackles of the unsinkable West Indians by suggesting that they tend to fold up in the clutch, citing a remarkable fielding play by Tony Lock that broke the back of their second innings at Headingley.

Yukon, Farmer Rematched With Miller Brothers

They're back again!

Yukon Eric, the Alaskan Alp, and Farmer Boy, the warbling cotton-picker from the cornfields will again match their brawn against the might and cunning of the Miller Brothers Bob and Ed Arena Friday night.

The Yuke and the Farmer "robbed" of a decision against the doughty Millers here last week when referee Sammy Costen ruled they'd used a forward pass tossed by the Farmer with Big Ed Miller as the flagman.

They feel they were "gypped" and will be out to demonstrate that the second victory was deserved. Besides two referees will be on hand for the match.

Danny O'Shocker, a broth of an Irishman, will tangle with Vincent Harper while Tasker is back to lock mat horns with Don Lewin.

Baseball Coach Clips Umpire, Fined, Sentenced

BRANTFORD (CP) — Baseball coach Victor de Pasquale was found guilty Tuesday of assaulting 18 - year - old umpire Cam Goodbrand who suffered a broken jaw which he said has kept him off work since July 30.

De Pasquale, ordered to pay costs and damages, was fined $50 on suspended sentence for six months.

During the argument, de Pasquale was ordered off the field three times. Finally Goodbrand awarded the game to the opposing team. De Pasquale said umpire Goodbrand had his fists clenched and was ready to strike but he got in the first blow.

Golf's Biggest Pot O' Gold Opens Thursday

CHICAGO (AP) — Goldom's biggest pressure tournament, the $101,200 "World" event of Chicago, opens Thursday with an aggregation of professional golfers only that amount of money could lure.

They will be aiming for the No. 1 prize of $50,000 with an additional $40,000 for the winner for a year-long series of exhibitions.

Top man on the list is Roberto de Vicenzo, the Mexico City pro who won the All-American tournament last weekend. De Vicenzo shot a snappy 273, 15 under par, for the 72 holes.

Can he repeat? De Vicenzo himself has said shooting for $2,500 and for $50,000 makes a big difference. Yet it is the same course and the same number of holes.

Another good bet is Gene Littler, who blazed over the final 18 in the All-American with a record-tying 64 after his early strokes behind de Vicenzo. And always considered the man to beat, Sammy Snead, may just be finding the range at 7am.

Snead had a first round of 66 and would have given de Vicenzo a push if he hadn't dropped a 71 on the last round to finish third with a total of 278.

Then there's 25-year-old Paul Harney who has caught the imagination of many golf fans. He came from two victories in the Flint Open and Montreal and finished tied at 7am.

Others who looked good in the All-American were Dow Finsterwald, Art Wall Jr., Bob Rosburg and Fred Hawkins. All four tied for fifth.

Fights Last Night

Reno, Nev. — Joey Giambra, 159½, Buffalo, N.Y., knocked out Jimmy Welsh, 159½, Columbus, Ohio, 6.

New Bedford, Mass. — Jimmy Connors, 125, New Bedford, knocked out Ramon Soto, 125, Puerto Rico, 1.

Halifax, N.S.—Yvon Turenne, 156½, Montreal, stopped Gerry Fraser, 155½, Bridgewater, N.S., 3.

Alouettes Whip Sasky Riders; Two Men Hurt

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes' 23-20 exhibition victory over the Saskatchewan Roughriders here Tuesday night may have been costly. Two players are in hospital.

Import halfback Jod Wells and Doug McNichol both suffered knee injuries in the game. X-rays are to be taken today.

A crowd of 20,217 was in the stands to see Alouettes post their third exhibition win in as many tries this year. They previously tamed Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and Calgary Stampeders.

Some newcomers played well, but it was Montreal's old guard —quarterback Sam Etcheverry, fullback Pat Abbruzzi, and end Hal Patterson and Red O'Quinn— that spelled victory.

Abbruzzi scored two touchdowns, Patterson one. Henshaw Gerry Montabello scored the other. Elvin Daggett, Bob Marlow and Hal Kramer counted for the western team.

Etcheverry completed 18 of 31 attempted passes for 275 yards through the air.

Saskatchewan and Ron Adam Saskatchewan quarterbacks completed 13 of 25 for 240 yards. The exhibition completed Montreal on the ground, 190 yards to 180.

games left to play against the Braves or each other.

Brooklyn, on the other hand, has only 13 games left with the three western teams. Second division clubs will supply the third-place Dodgers most of their opposition in the days ahead.

ABLE TO DEFEND TITLE

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state athletic commission Tuesday examined boxer Archie Moore and found him physically able to defend his light - heavyweight title against Tony Anthony in Los Angeles Sept. 6.

Moore was deprived of a California ring license in 1955 because of a heart condition, but thereafter went to Nevada and defended his title against Nino Valdes and earned a heavyweight title match against Rocky Marciano.

Birdie Thinks Dodgers Would Win in Showdown

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Manager Birdie Tebbetts figures if St. Louis, Milwaukee and his Cincinnati Redlegs play each other to a standstill from here on in, Brooklyn could retain its National League championship.

Birdie admitted Tuesday night before the fourth-game Red Sox-Braves 5-4 that there are some ifs ands and buts in this theory, but on one point he was emphatic.

"If a western club wins it," he said, "it will be a great club because it will have to eliminate the other two."

Birdie, whose team dropped five games behind Milwaukee, pointed out the three western contenders play each other in nearly half the remaining 50 games. The Braves climbed over St. Louis into the NL lead Monday night.

Actually, the Braves have a total of 22 dates left with Cincinnati and St. Louis, 13 of them at home, while the Cardinals and the Reds each have a total of 21

Harry Belafonte's Future Appears to Be Unlimited

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Harry Belafonte, the sensational ballad singer and actor, has been sounding off on number of subjects lately. Does this mean he aims to be a controversialist?

"No," he claims. "I don't seek controversy. But it is thrust upon me. I am in the same position Jackie Robinson was in baseball, as one who is stepping into areas where Negroes have not been allowed before, I am naturally put on a spot.

"Because I am in the public eye, I am naturally asked some hot questions. I can either say 'no comment' or I can speak my mind. And I see no reason not to speak my mind."

About his current picture — "It was poorly written and poorly directed, considering the calibre of talent that did it."

About performing in the southern states — "I'm not going to do it if violence will result. I don't want to see people's heads knocked together. But if meant that the next day Negro and white children could go to school together. I'd sing there."

About television biggies—"they have no vision, no imagination."

About Georgia—"I don't care it it secedes from the union."

An outspoken fellow, he has reached the top and it obviously satisfying it. His future appears unlimited.

He can write his own ticket with the film studios, and his appearances are sold out wherever he plays. His calypso album has sold 1,400,000, by far a record for any star. He recently signed a record deal with RCA-Victor to bring him at least $100,000 yearly for the next 10 years.

How did this 29-year-old singer come so far so fast?

1. He is an immensely attractive performer. His face has a beauty that remains masculine. He is wide-shouldered and slim-hipped and moves with muscular grace. As he lopes onstage, slackarmed, dressed in black pants and open - necked calypso shirt, you sense a feeling of reserve power.

2. That power explodes when he starts singing. He is a superb actor who can do anything with his bland, persuasive voice. Whether singing a lullaby or one of the French resistance, clowning through a cockney ballad or inducing the crowd to chorus Matilda, he brings showmanship and sincerity to his music.

3. His work is fresh and appealing. It has the bounce and earnestness of youth. The ballad is as old as time, but he makes it sound as new as today's front pages. Surfeited by entertainment, especially of the jukebox, vaudeville school, the American public has embraced Belafonte.

AT THE McCARTHY — A scene from the comedy hit "Doctor at Large", featuring Dirk Bogarde, Muriel Pavlow, Donald Sinden and James Robertson, now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE PARK—Ronald Reagan stars in the story of one of the most daring submarine operations in history of naval warfare, Columbia Pictures' "Hellcats of the Navy", opens Thursday at the Park Theatre Nancy Davis and Arthur Franz co-star. On the same program, above and beyond all African jungle adventures, "Beyond Mombasa", in Technicolor, starring Cornel Wilde, Donna Reid and Leo Gleni. Both attractions are first Belleville showings.

AT THE BELLE — Yvonne De Carlo as the desert woman, Sephora, who becomes the faith-ful wife of Moses, in Cecil B. DeMille's production "The Ten Commandments", held over today and Thursday at the Belleville Pigatre. The huge starring cast of the Paramount DeMille masterwork is headed by Charlton Heston as Moses, Yul Brynner, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, Debra Paget and John Derek, in Technicolor and VistaVision.

Steve Allen Gets High Rating By Having Gage Girl on Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—One question which is not, but perhaps should be, under debate round the television networks today is:

Should Steve Allen, even if he's batting Sid Sullivan over the all-important ratings, be allowed to undo the fine moral preachments of the likes of Ray Rogers, now gone from the NBC corral?

The question has been nagging since Leona Gage, freshly stripped of her Miss U.S.A. title by the discovery that she is the married mother of two, confessed girlish nonexistence to Allen, and to a lot of TV watchers, about what one little white lie had wrought.

Between them, they gleefully put the finger and the hook to won simply by saying she was unmarried a la Vegas night club comic, a movie contract, a chance to play a lead dramatic role on a television show. And, of course, sharing the camera with the lead singing Sentimental Journey for a fat fee.

SHOULD CURB IT

Parents have long felt that a child's inclination to lie should be severely curbed. On top of this TV has done a lot of loud talking about its responsibilities and its awareness of its power to inform, persuade, influence tastes and mold attitudes.

So it seemed only natural, a few days later, to check NBC and see whether the roof had fallen in. The continuity acceptance department, set up to check the suitability of scripts for broadcast, reported that the Gage interview had not been submitted for clearance. The department was not happy about this.

But it added that it had received only two complaints, both on personality, both identically worded, and both from Jackson Heights, N.Y.

While continuity acceptance shook its head, there was rejoicing in the executive offices of the Allen show. There, reported Henry Frankel, Allen's "talent man" here on the rating service found that the show had beaten the opposition by three points.

"She had enough talent, and that coupled with her publicity made her attractive enough for us," said Frankel of Miss Gage. "She isn't a criminal, she came off all the publicity smelling like a rose and she showed plenty of spirit. We felt on the strength that can get us for an audience. The question is: will they entertain people?

Maybe the code should differentiate between the white lie of the black lie—and let mommy and daddy try to explain that to the kiddies. Or maybe Miss Gage can do a kiddies' show.

BUSH-GRASS FIRES—

DESERONTO — The local Fire Department responded to two alarms during the week. On Thursday they were called to a bush fire north of Deseronto. The crew clearing the right-of-way for the gas line had brought slash and because of the extreme dryness the fire got beyond their control. No damage was caused and the fire was brought under control with a lot of hard work.

On Sunday afternoon a grass fire at the eastern end of Thomas street gave the firemen another run. Here the grass was burned off under supervision as it was considered very hazardous. No damage was done except for the heavy smoke.

Mr. and Mrs. William Powell of Toronto, were weekend guests of Mrs. W. J. Fields, Green street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nafin of Detroit, Mich., are spending a week as the guests of his sister, Miss Loretta Nafin.

SOLDIER PREPARES FOR HIS TRIAL

Preparing for his trial in Tokyo, Army Specialist William S. Girard (left) and his lawyers visit the Somagahara, Japan, rifle range where the U.S. soldier allegedly killed a Japanese woman scavenger. At right is Maj. Stanley F. Levin, Girard's military adviser. The others are Japanese attached to defence.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, August 8, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Generally favorable rays. Clean up on community and family affairs at work or play.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Be careful not to overdo either mentally or physically. Though demands on your energies may be heavy, proceed sensibly. Avoid recklessness, taking chances.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Take everything calmly, but do exercise your versatility, and don't fear new tasks, new activities or even new fields of endeavor. Do your best, but without strain.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Watch for an opportunity to move forward. Be alert. Show your initiative when the need arises. Those who step out and express their interests will reach their goals more quickly.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You may have to make an important decision today. Don't treat it lightly. Give all the time and consideration necessary. Don't neglect essentials.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Excellent indications for personal and family interests today. Friends and old acquaintances are in a position to aid you now. Seek their advice and encouragement.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — He who hesitates may let achievement slip through his (or her) hands. But avoid unwise speculation. Good Venus rays favor artistic pursuits.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Some things indecisive. Do not lose your ambition, however. Rather expend some additional effort and get ahead. Then some results is in order.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — A grand day to can be handled easily now. Also a time for making new plans. Be mindful of what is going on around you. Don't be an ostrich.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Saturn's oncoming excellent aspect suggests that you put forth your best efforts — even in seemingly unimportant matters. Maintain your high standard of performance and success will crown your efforts. Be prepared for changes; accept them philosophically.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Don't invite misunderstandings or indulge in daydreaming. Promote sound progress, good relations with others. Don't rest in all things but, like Gemini, don't overtax yourself.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Be yourself. Don't make work a drudgery. You can do your best when happy. Peace of mind is essential. If time permits, a bit of relaxation will prove refreshing.

You born today have a vibrant, buoyant personality; are ever ready and willing to do something worthwhile. You are big. You are capable and can effect. You are capable and can effect. You are capable and can effect

ONTARIO DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS

THE HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT ACT

PUBLIC NOTICE

IS HEREBY GIVEN that pursuant to the Highway Improvement Act, 1957, application will be made to the Hon. the Minister of Highways for the Province of Ontario for the approval of the closing of the following roads in the Township of Thurlow and the Township of Tyendinaga, County of Hastings, that intersect or run into the controlled access highway known as Highway 401.

1. Part of the Road Allowance between Lots 17 and 18, in Concession 4, and part of the Road Allowance between Concessions 4 and 5.
2. opposite Lot 17.
3. Part of the Road Allowance between Lots 20 and 21, in Concession 5, where an alternate access to Highway 401, to the east, will be provided.
4. Part of the Road Allowance between the Townships of Thurlow and Tyendinaga.

Such Application will be heard by the said Minister in the Court House, in Belleville, on the 5th day of September, 1957, at the hour of 10 o'CLOCK (D.S.T.) in the forenoon, NOON, at which time and place all persons claiming to be interested or affected may attend and be heard.

By order of the said Minister, all persons objecting to the said application are required to file with the undersigned their objections, and the reasons why FILE PARTICULARS OF SUCH OBJECTIONS ARE CLAIMED with the Ontario Municipal Board, 143 Church Street, Toronto, Ontario, AND WITH THE Land Surveys Section of the Department of Highways, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario, Mr. T. E. Johnson, ON OR BEFORE THE 22nd DAY OF AUGUST, 1957, THE DAY fixed for the said Board to hear the said objections at such time and place as may be subsequently fixed by the said Board.

A Plan, P-3044-36 showing, the portions of roads proposed to be closed may be seen at the office of the Clerk of the Municipality of Thurlow and at the office of the Clerk of the Township of Tyendinaga, and at the office of the Department of Highways, Room 237, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, during regular office hours, up to September 5th, 1957.

DATED at Toronto, Ontario, this 1st day of August, 1957.

JAMES N. ALLAN,
Minister of Highways.

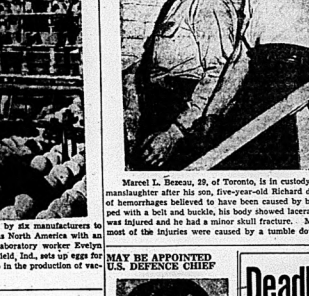
SHOW INVENTION TO CANADIANS

Peter Echat, right, and Gerry Sakkers, both of Holland, are touring Canada and the U.S. showing a Dutch invention designed to make take-offs from a sinking ship safe as walking on land. The model of a lifeboat they display here shows how it can be launched even if it is on the high side of a sinking liner.

PREPARE FOR 'FLU EPIDEMIC



Vaccine production is being rushed by six manufacturers to combat Asiatic influenza which threatens North America with an epidemic this fall or winter. Here, laboratory worker Evelyn Starkey at Eli Lilley & Co. plant in Greenfield, Ind., sets up eggs for inoculation with live virus, the first step in the production of vaccine to fight the expected epidemic.

TORONTO MINING

physical operations were never better.

He said "it looks like a lot of people could be ruined" but he could not understand what had happened.

MONTREAL RAID

"We were raided from Montreal, as near as we can figure it, but we can't understand why."

The loss had "nothing to do with the mine," he said.

C. J. Butler, company manager said he thought heavy "short" interest had developed in Aconic stock, in which speculators had sold shares on the expectation the price would go down. When the price did not drop immediately the speculators dumped blocks of shares to cut the price, he said.

For a trader to sell short he has to borrow the stock he sells, and he has to give it back. He hopes to be able to do that by covering, or buying it back at a price less than he sold it for.

TSE records show that the July 31 short position of Aconic was 12,900 shares. There are 921,005 shares in public hands.

Exchange officials said some of the stock sold Tuesday was held on margin, or had been bought originally by the margin system, whereby a trader must make a down payment of 50 per cent.

QUEEN GREETS HER ROYAL AUNT

ONTARIO LEGION MEETING URGES NATIONAL FLAG

Desires Union Jack Included in Design

ST. CATHARINES' (CP)—Delegates to the Canadian Legion Ontario Command convention adopted a resolution Wednesday urging that a national Canadian flag be designed. They recommended the Union Jack be used in the design.

The motion said it found a "growing indifference" in Canada to Dominion Day, and urged the federal government turn this celebration which noted that its date be changed from July 1 to the first Monday of the month.

"It is our contention," the resolution stated in part, "that the birthday of our country should not be changed, therefore losing its fundamental character."

SAY NEWCOMERS FAVORED

Another resolution passed during the day demanded that federal, provincial and municipal agencies give preferential treatment when hiring workers.

The first of two resolutions passed in connection with veterans and working conditions claimed there were existing many better jobs, "to the disadvantage of Canadian veterans," and backed treatment by the federal government.

The resolution said the influx of European immigrants has made it much more apparent that these newcomers are getting employment to the disadvantage of Canadian veterans who are out of work or in need of special placement due to disabilities.

The second resolution said Hungarian immigrants received "much more lavish" financial aid from the government than ex-servicemen receive through allowance, legislation.

The delegates urged that either Veterans' Allowance Act or Immigration Act regulations be amended so no immigrant gets greater financial aid than a veteran.

HEAR DEPUTY MINISTER

Lucien Lalonde, deputy minister for veterans affairs, appealed to Canadians not to become apathetic about veterans or forget them. He told the veterans that since the Second World War ended Canada has developed an effective and extensive body of legislation to aid them.

He said it is still necessary to help handicapped veterans, their widows, orphans and the dependents of men killed in the war.

A request by national executive officers of the legion that the organization join the World Veterans Federation was rejected by the delegates. Speakers from the floor claimed not enough is known about the organization.

Tentative plans to extend the legion's diversity scholarship program to students of Ryerson Institute of Technology and Ontario teachers' colleges were approved.

Delegates approved the continuation for another two years of the scholarship plan whereby seven years has given 188 scholarships worth more than $60,000 to children of Ontario veterans.

Claim Artist From Canada Actually Top Russian Spy

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — An alleged spy being a top-ranking Soviet spy who specialized in atomic and military secrets is being held here for return to New York, where he quietly lived as an artist for nine years.

Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, 55, described as a colonel of Russian intelligence, was arraigned here Wednesday on espionage charges returned in a federal grand jury indictment in Brooklyn.

Abel, who entered the United States from Canada in 1948, was being held for deportation in the nearby Mcallen detention camp for aliens when the indictment was received. He had been held only as an illegal alien under the name of Emil R. Goldfus, an alias he assumed while working as an obscure photographic artist in Brooklyn.

The U.S. government claims Abel was set up in Brooklyn to receive a cloak-and-dagger transmitter from Moscow in the event of war.

Abel has been linked with a Union Couchliving conference on international affairs.

Kremlin master-spy who was implicated in the big Canadian espionage scandal.

Four Russians have been named as co-conspirators with Abel, but not as defendants. They are Vitali Pavlov who headed a Russian secret police network based in the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa. It was broken up in 1945, and developments in the Canadian spy case led to the later arrests of Dr. Klaus Fuchs in England and Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, executed American atomic spies.

Exposure of the spy plot is reported to have resulted from Igor Gouzenko's defection to the West. He was named as a co-conspirator in the Abel indictment and appeared Wednesday before the grand jury.

Abel seemed at ease during his arraignment. Reporters were not permitted to interview him.

Names of the co-conspirators are believed to be in the Soviet Union.

BYPASS BUILT AROUND HIGHWAY SPLIT BY CAVE-IN

Underground Rumbling Heralds Second Fall

TIMMINS (CP)—Tens of thousands of tons of rock plunged into an underground cavern near here Wednesday. Today, persons living near the massive cave-in were on the alert for underground rumbling which could herald a second fall.

The ground shook for a mile around when the 80-foot-thick roof of an abandoned mining cavern fell 400 feet. Thirty-three families in the area said they spent a sleepless night prior to the cave-in. Underground—rumbling kept them awake.

The fall closed temporarily Highway 101, the main road leading into this gold-mining centre. No one was hurt.

The crater was 15 feet from the highway and provincial police were ready to close evacuation of the cave-in, barricaded the road a quarter of a mile on each side.

BYPASS OPENED

Highways department crews, aided by mining engineers, made the abandoned gold mine workings, hacked through the rock overburden to build a new bypass away from the old stopes.

The one-lane bypass completed by late afternoon allowed two miles of traffic, including trucks and buses, through. Contractors crews hoped to open a second lane to traffic today.

The fall lasted 30 seconds after a pillar of rock supporting the mine roof collapsed. A tremendous cavern continues under the highway and past it for 100 feet. A second pillar is directly under the highway with a third west of it.

The highways department purchased land a quarter-mile east and west of the highway following a cave-in seven years ago. The department sent crews to pick up the old survey line where a cut-off away from the mine was planned at that time.

NEVER BACKFILLED

The cave - in occurred in Paymaster Consolidated after the company which owns the mine, Mine mercantile, E. Pellatt, who came here from Noranda Mines last September, said the mine would have abandoned years ago but never backfilled with waste rock as it is now. He said it planned some day to resume operations.

He said his home near the cave-in was badly shaken by rock fall and other nearby residents said their homes creaked on their foundations.

The mayor of Timmins, Leo del Villano, almost was trapped by the cave-in. The fall occurred to drive over the highway before the cave-in, he stopped at the pit to see the car on a shelf of rock over the part of the cavern still standing.

"I just made it," he said. "The highway was beginning to crack. I looked back and saw the cave-in widening. I stopped and it was so deep I couldn't see the bottom."

No Country Safe In Rocket Age Khrushchev Says

War Over German Issue Could Destroy All, Claim

BERLIN (CP)—Nikita Khrushchev today told the West that modern warfare could lead to the devastation of densely populated areas, and that no country is rendered safe by distance in this rocket age.

Speaking of the dangers of an outbreak of war over the German issue, the Soviet Communist party chief in a speech to East German legislators addressed his remarks to such countries as Britain and France, whose areas would be in range of nuclear weapons, and the United States, which would not be safe from rocket attack.

Khrushchev delivered his two-hour speech before microphones and whirring TV cameras that carried his picture and words over most of Germany.

A German interpreter injected a translation every few minutes during the speech.

REUNIFICATION PROBLEM

Khrushchev declared that the Big Four powers should resume discussions for achieving German unity but restrict themselves to negotiations between East and West Germany.

If the West German government keeps refusing contacts with the East German government it shows that it does not want to solve the reunification problem by peaceful way," he said.

Khrushchev told a special session of the East German parliament that the West Germans are trying to turn West Germany into a war base and are creating "an extremely serious situation."

"They want to use the German people as common fodder in their plans to conquer the world," the Red chieftain declared.

"Now that modern warfare could lead to the devastation of the German populated areas," Khrushchev added:

"This destructive power should be kept in mind by statesmen of England, France and other countries who are not interested in the range of atomic and hydrogen weapons in case military conflict breaks out.

"Statesmen of the United States should also bear this in mind. As in our time, where rocket developments are rapid, distance between states does not save a country from the effects of atomic and hydrogen weapons.

"All these people must think about this who refuse to recognize the realities and refuse to join in a disarmament agreement."

Khrushchev fired his broadside on the second day of his visit with a high-level Kremlin delegation to restive East German regime.

The Russian leader addressed the special session of the country's People's Chamber Wednesday night in which the East German government is the second ranked of both Russian and Western troops from Germany.

Royal Family Neglects Arts Latest Charge

LONDON (Reuters) — Another attack on British royalty, this time complaining of the court's indifference to culture, is prominently displayed by The Daily Herald today.

The Labor newspaper prints extracts from an article by S. A. Young in the autumn issue of the National and English Review in which 33-year-old Lord Altrincham publishes criticisms of the Queen, her mannerisms and her entertaining. His comments have kicked up a national furore.

Young, whose article The Herald described as an "even more scathing indictment of present court arrangements," is assistant editor of Britain's 116-year-old humorous weekly Punch.

CLAIMS ARTS NEGLECTED

He says that of the 34 engagements of the Queen in May, June and July, three were under the heading of "culture," five under sport, two and 56 under "foundation stones and things."

Young says: "The almost complete neglect of the arts by the Royal Family is in curious contrast to the way which, in the long run, is bound to have a bad effect on the relations of the Queen to her country."

"Of course the Royal Family should go about and be seen by the people: It is a duty they have always recognized and for the most part loyally observed.

"But why must they engage-ments be so dreary? Is it really necessary for them to spend so much time opening municipal buildings, presiding at rallies of benevolent institutions? This is a question that has always been particularly close to my heart') or dining with politicians?"

George Doucett To Be Candidate In By-Election

OTTAWA (CP)—George Doucett, former Liberal MP, will contest the vacant Lanark Commons seat for the Progressive Conservative party in a Sept. 9 federal byelection, it was learned today.

Information reaching party informants here from the Perth area indicated that the one-time Ontario cabinet minister will be the party standard at the party's nomination meeting.

Originally, it was understood, Dr. J. A. McCue, Smiths Falls physician, had intended to seek the federal seat nomination but he now is expected to contest Mr. Doucett's Lanark seat in a provincial election.

The federal vacancy was created by the death of W. G. Blair who retained the seat for the Conservatives in the June 10 general election.

UN Welcomes All Peaceful Steps Conference Is Told

GENEVA PARK (CP) — The United Nations approves of so-called "summit" conferences of major powers, even though they by-pass the world organization, as long as they are directed to-wards a UN official said Wednesday.

Benjamin Cohen, undersecretary for trusteeship and information from non-self-governing territories, said the collective harmonizing influence of world opinion ought to bear on international problems unless they are kept secret.

Unless the great powers came to the UN with all their problems "many fundamental questions would have to be held despite the objections of the smaller powers being excluded.

"Nevertheless, the United Nations, as spokesman for the hopes of the whole of mankind, welcomes any action which may expeditiously lead to reduction of tensions and to the establishment of friendly and more co-operative relations among states, even if, as things are at present expedient, it may by-pass the machinery created through the San Francisco Charter.

Mr. Cohen was addressing the political co-operation.

Hundreds of Homes Damaged As Dynamite Caps Explode

BOSTON (AP)—A construction project shed containing dynamite caps detonators exploded with a thunderous, damaging boom of a mile-square area and endangering thousands of persons.

Despite the terrific force of the pre-dawn blast, there were no immediate reports of serious injury. Minor cuts from flying glass appeared to be the extent of personal injuries.

The explosion blew debris, including steel beams, hundreds of feet over a wide area and in some cases crashed through windows and doors.

Broken windows and fallen plaster were reported in the districts of residences in the South Boston, Dorchester and Hyde Park districts of Boston, and in suburban Milton, Dedham, Hull and Quincy.

The blast was in a 25-foot-long metal shed at the South Boston terminal of a pipeline tunnel project. A cargo shed containing a "mound" of dynamite was not affected.

Fearing the possibility that the dynamite would explode, police roped off a wide area.

Many residents, jarred from sleep, ran into the streets where they gathered in frightened groups.

Some windows were inside the tunnel, but were some distance from the opening and were not shattered.

A timber 10 feet long and a foot thick went through a wall into the upper apartment of a building about 75 yards away. Barbara Ann Reynolds, 4, was asleep in bed, was showered with debris, but escaped serious injury.

The blast blew out windows in the Bayside Inn in Squantum, about four miles away.

What caused the explosion could be determined immediately.

The blast was at the entrance to an $11,000,000 tunnel intended to carry Boston's sewage far out into Boston harbor.

Outspoken Peer Makes Sizzling Attack on Menzies of Australia

LONDON (CP)—Britain's hottest controversy since the Suez crisis continued today to evoke angry debate and pages of newspaper space.

Storm centre of the argument is 33-year-old John Altrincham, whose criticisms of Queen Elizabeth have made him the most talked-about figure in the country.

Unabashed by threats of hanging or horsewhipping—and a physical slap in the face administered to him by an irate reveller—Lord Altrincham says he has no regrets he hasn't finished yet.

The Liberal Wednesday night that he "has a lot more to say on this whole subject" and he has had a mixed reaction to his criticisms.

Today in Australia the Melbourne Herald carries an exclusive London interview with a outspoken peer which contains a sizzling attack on Australia's Prime Minister Menzies.

On returning home from his overseas tour Menzies said Altrincham's criticisms of the Queen were "disgusting and shocking."

In reply, the British peer is quoted by The Herald as saying: "Mr. Menzies simply blindly worships the sovereign as some above criticism. He is a purely subservient. He puts her on a pedestal and genuflects."

The Herald quotes Altrincham further alleges that Menzies gave the Queen bad advice during her 1954 tour of Western Australia which at the time caused the grief which all Australia felt.

'Rumblings of a New Riot' At Kingston 'Pen' Reported

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Telegram says there are "rumblings of a new riot" in the federal penitentiary in Kingston, Ont., because prisoners have become restless at the suspension of the prison newspaper and cancellation of the prisoners' grievance committee.

The paper says it has learned that "prisoners have reached the point of making plans and guards have been caught off balance by their own dissatisfaction." This dissatisfaction, it adds, is the result "of a 'squealer' system' by which information is fed to prison authorities about guards."

A riot broke out Aug. 14, 1954, in the prison housing long-term offenders at Portsmouth, a Kingston suburb. Those convicted of lesser offences normally are kept in a prison at Collins Bay, also a Kingston suburb. The Portsmouth riot smashed equipment and burned buildings for two days and caused damage that amounted to $2,000,000.

The Telegram says the men now are fed up with the food which is "tasteless and unvaried."

Cancellation of the grievance committee has caused discontent, the paper adds, because the contacts lost their only avenue for registering complaints about prison administration.

Frost Promises More Assistance For Education

ARVA, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario government plans to revise provincial education grants next year, Premier Frost said Wednesday night at a Progressive Conservative convention.

The convention was called to nominate a candidate to contest the Middlesex North by-election Sept. 5, caused by the death of Conservative member Thomas L. Patrick.

Mr. Frost forecast that in the next 15 or 20 years Ontario's school population will double, with 70,000 children entering the schools yearly.

He said his government plans to increase sweeping reforms in grants for education. He did not give details.

The increased pupil grants and other educational aids presented this year are only a preliminary to what we plan for the coming year," he said.

He warned, however, that it would be easy to introduce these reforms. But they were consonant with the government's general objective to provide for the development of the country and resources.

The remarks were taken from a prepared text issued to the press in advance of delivery.

TRUCKS FOR RED CHINA

HONG KONG (AP) — Forty-four five - ton British Austin trucks ordered by Red China arrived here Wednesday and were transferred to Canton. They represent the biggest deal between Britain and China since the ban on trade with the Communists was eased in May. Thirty - two more trucks are expected soon.

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Skies will be partly cloudy across Southern Ontario today. The temperature will rise to almost 90 in the lower Great Lakes area Friday afternoon.

Cooler air has advanced into northwestern Ontario and by Friday will cover most of the northern regions. Scattered thundershowers, occurring in the Lake Superior area this morning, are expected to develop over most of the north country by this afternoon and over the southern regions Friday.

State Charges Scandal Magazines Promote Obscenity to Get Stories

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Battle lines were drawn today for what could prove to be one of California's most sensation - packed trials.

The state charged Confidential and Whisper magazines sought and promoted obscenity among movie stars. The defence said they publish only the truth.

The criminal libel trial began with opposing lawyers outlining to the jury of seven men and five women what they intend to prove.

On trial, on indictments charging conspiracy to publish lewd and obscene matter and to defame character, are:

Confidential Magazine, Inc., Whisper Magazine, Inc., Publishers' Distributing Corp., all of New York; and Hollywood Research, Inc., and its operators, Fred and Marjorie Meade.

Clarence Linn, assistant California attorney-general, charged the magazines sought out the incidents and embellished them with innuendo.

He operated through private detectives, and women of the night, who made it their trade to get facts with prominent people around Hollywood to create situations, Linn said.

"Women were urged to entice men into compromising positions and then report.

The stories specialized in embarrassing situations and situations which "skirted the lowest sort of thing."

Defence Attorney Walter J. Cohen, in his turn before the jury Wednesday, said:

"The stories are not based on innuendo. We tried to play down innuendo. The stories we don't print are a lot worse.

"There is no intent to crucify an individual for one slip.

Ike Names Neil McElroy as Defence Secty.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Wednesday named Neil McElroy, one of the nation's leading businessmen, to the United States, to succeed Charles E. Wilson as defence secretary.

Ike's decision came after the $25,000-a-year job until his nomination is approved by the Senate. The senators may insist that the industrialist dispose of some of his stockholdings.

In addition to being president of Procter and Gamble, which pays him $285,000 a year, McElroy is a director of General Electric and the Chrysler Corporation—posts which suggest he has some holdings in these two big defence contractors.

British Planes Attack Yemeni Border Raiders

ADEN (Reuters) — British planes have attacked a Yemeni force occupying positions on the disputed border between the British protectorate of Aden and the Red Sea Arab kingdom of Yemen, an official communique announced here today.

It said these Yemeni forces "have illegally taken up positions there and will continue to be attacked until they withdraw to their own side of the frontier."

(The announcement came as British troops and planes were in action against a tribal uprising in another trouble spot not far away on the Arabian penin-

J. Ellis, Madoc, Thrown Clear Of Car in Crash

James Ellis, 21, formerly of Madoc and now working at Oshawa, suffered still, undetermined injuries late Wednesday evening when the car in which he was riding went out of control on a curve west of Madoc, struck a culvert and rolled over several times.

Ellis, riding in the rear seat of a car driven by Farley Fox, 20, of Madoc, was knocked unconscious as he was thrown out of the vehicle when it rolled. He was taken to Belleville General Hospital in Bush's Ambulance from Tweed.

The driver and a second passenger in the car, Marvin Johnson, also of Madoc, were treated at the office of Dr. Geo. L. Mullin of Madoc.

The accident occurred about two miles west of Madoc as the vehicle was eastbound toward the village. The late model auto was completely wrecked, police said.

Provincial Constable B. D. Shaw of the Madoc detachment investigated.

History of Marchmont Home Told in Book Written in 1880

Leading Aicraftman Barry Powell, North Park Street, has an interesting piece of literature in the early history of the Marchmont Home in Belleville, written about 1880 by Miss Ellen Agnes Bilbrough, superintendent of the institution.

He got it a few weeks ago from his grandmother, in Niagara Falls, Ont., whose husband Charles Powell, was given the book "British Children in Canadian Homes", by Miss Bilbrough on February 3, 1880.

The 39-page, cloth-bound book describes the work of a group of people in Belleville, and in other centres, who contributed to the work of rehabilitating underprivileged children from the back-street jungles of London, Dublin and Glasgow, by founding training centres in Belleville, Hampton, Galt and Knowlton, Que.

Marchmont Home, which was opened to these children in 1872, is now owned by William A. Allen and is known as Allen's the Marchmont-Irish Apartments on West Street.

The book, which was published in Scotland, could be got for a shilling from Miss Bilbrough in Belleville, William Quarrier in Glasgow or Messrs. Houghton and Co., London. Cost per book was thrupence or fourpence, depending on the binding desired.

Tucked between the pages of the book were several newspaper clippings from The Intelligencer and The Ontario. One, from The Intelligencer and dated October 16, 1911, describes the explosion at the chemical plant in Trenton, which threatened to wipe out the town. A bill head enclosed shows that I.A.C. Powell's grandfather, Robert R. Powell, was a successful dealer in cotton and woollen rags, Rev. W. Fowler metals on land on the property on Station Street, now occupied by Cliff Murphy Motors. The diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria (1837-1897), according to a program printed by The Intelligencer, recalls that the occasion was celebrated at Christ Church here by the Sons of England on June 20, 1897.

Pasted on the inside cover of Miss Bilbrough's book, the birth announcement. She died September 23, 1900, at the age of 56 years. Miss Bilbrough, married and was the wife of Rev. Robert Wallace.

Baby Judging At Fair to Start Promptly on Time

The largest entry in the history of the Baby Show at the fair is expected this year and the officials in charge have made arrangements to handle the little tots with the utmost speed. The judging will take place at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Clubhouse and there will be plenty of attendants to help the mothers with their charges and there will also be a number of examiners on hand to judge the little ones.

The babies in the classes of one to six months and seven to twelve months boys and girls will be judged starting at two o'clock sharp on Monday and the thirteen to eighteen months for both sexes will start at three. It is to be hoped that the mothers will also co-operate with the officials and be on time so that the show can be run off quickly.

The late Mr. Bedore passed away suddenly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dermot Bedore, on Monday afternoon, August 5. Up until that time he had been in his usual good health.

He was born in Marmora township 81 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bedore, where he received his education and carried on farming until his retirement. His wife predeceased him 32 years ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss two daughters, Mrs. Dermot (Reta) Bedore, Mrs. Stanley (Marie) Hart of Toronto and three sons, Theodore of Marmora, Charles of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and John of British Columbia, and a brother Frank of Havelock, one sister, Mrs. Ernest (Elizabeth) Parcels, of Timmins, Ont. Two daughters predeceased him.

He was a member of Sacred Heart Church and the Holy Name Society.

Interment was in Sacred Heart cemetery for grandsons and grandsons-in-law were pallbearers, Theodore, Jr., and Douglas Bedore, Robert Gaudry, Ross Campbell and Robert Ray.

NUN SACRIFICES SELF

TRENTO, Italy (Reuters) — A 30-year-old nun, Sister Margherita Coiet, sacrificed her life shielding two young girls from a rolling boulder near here Wednesday. The two girls, members of a holiday party from a boarding school, were picking flowers on the slopes of Mount Casrina when Sister Margherita's supervision when a large boulder broke loose above and thundered down the hillside towards the children. The nun flung herself in front of them as a shield and was killed by the boulder. The girls escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Tax Rate Fixed At 50.8 Mills For Rawdon

A general rate of 50.8 mills, less a provincial grant which amounts to approximately four mills, has been set for 1957 by the township of Rawdon.

The mill rate was set at the August general meeting of Monday evening when the various levies were approved.

The different rates to be applied for the current year are: county, 17.4 mills; township, 6.9 mills; special school rate, 6.9 mills; Rawdon township High School Area, 13.8 mills and Federation of Agriculture 2 mills.

In addition to this ratepayers pay the levy set for their respective public school sections, while residents of Springbrook in addition pay a levy of 1.5 mills for hydro.

Re-imbursments for sheep loss was ordered paid to Gordon Webb, $39, and Chris Bateman, $20.

Councillor Burton Morton was named township representative to meet the representatives of the Board of Transport Commissioners regarding installation of a flashing signal at the Rawdon railway crossing.

Tenders wanted for the township will receive $3 per hour retroactive to August 1st, it was decided. The No. 76 road vouchers amounting to $1,125.91 was ordered paid and a flag was also ordered purchased for the Rawdon township hall. Township Clerk W. J. Barlow was named to act as treasurer due to the illness of Treasurer E. S. Bailey.

Lone Ranger Will Be Here For Local Fair

The Lone Ranger who will be appearing at the fair in Belleville on Thursday August 15th is an old friend to thousands of the American scene. Through personal appearances, radio, television, newspaper comics, comic books and nearly a hundred assorted enterprises, the masked lawman touches directly the lives of over 100,000,000 persons each week. Even legendary heroes like Paul Bunyon, Robin Hood and Arthur could not begin to match such an active following.

The only program regularly carried by three major networks (ABC-TV, CBS-TV and NBC Radio), the Lone Ranger also is featured on Canadian radio and television networks. Weekly a staggering total, estimated at 500,000,000 fans hear the West's mythical champion of justice on radio and TV. Surveys reveal that this figure frequently represents over 50% of listening households in major cities.

In Southern states, more than 5,000,000 youngsters have enrolled in The Lone Ranger Safety Club, with the happy result that traffic deaths among school children have dropped noticeably.

Attesting to his healthy influence on youth, The Lone Ranger has been showered with scores of Merit Awards by leaders of such responsible organizations as National Federation of Women's Clubs, American Legion Auxiliary, Parent-Teachers Assn., and the National Safety Council. Even the halls of Congress have echoed with praise for the Lone Ranger. Three times, U.S. Senators cited the program for its effectiveness in combating Juvenile delinquency.

Dairies Expect to Continue Cash and Carry Milk Policy

Belleville dairies now involved in the milk delivery strike which has stopped home deliveries for the past two weeks, will continue to operate on a cash and carry basis even after a strike settlement has restored door to door delivery.

This was stated today by a spokesman at one city dairy who said that all local distributors involved in the strike will continue to offer a three-cent differential for people who choose to pick up their milk at the dairy instead of having it delivered.

Delivered price of milk prior to the strike was 22 cents per quart but since home delivery has been stopped by the strike dairies have offered milk on a cash and carry basis for 19 cents.

Two weeks ago deliverymen at Reid's Dairy and at Riverside Dairy in Trenton were called out on strike by the milk delivery-men's union, by agreement between distributors all milk deliveries in both Belleville and Trenton were declared out.

Union personnel were still picketing local and Trenton dairies this morning with no resumption of negotiations between distributors and the union in sight. The union is asking wage increases for deliverymen, a closed shop and other benefits.

A spokesman for Reid's Dairy said today that several men called out on strike at their plant had gone back to work and others were desirous of going back.

Since then incidents of illfeeling between picketers and dairy employees who have returned to work, have been reported, while at least one act of violence is said to have occurred.

In this instance a milk plant employee who had returned to work was said to have been followed home by picketers with the fisticuffs resulting after a round of name-calling.

A dairy spokesman said today that dairies were getting fed up with the situation and were considering resumption of home deliveries only.

"Things are getting pretty rough," the dairy spokesman said, noting that serious violence might be expected if deliveries were resumed before settlement of the strike.

TESTS SATISFACTORY

TRENTON (Special) — H. S. Pane, local board of health sanitary inspector, reported today the laboratory tests of the milk distributed by the union here a week ago satisfy "requisite requirements."

Following receipt of the report a union business agent inquired about the procedure that had to be taken to make application for the necessary licence to distribute milk in Trenton, Mr. Pane said. Today the applicant is seeking an X-ray for TB through the M.O.H. Dr. E. W. Ross, Mr. Pane disclosed. "If he is successful the remaining step as far as the town is concerned is for him to pay the fee for a hawkers and pedlar's authority. And I also believe the union will have to provide similar reports to Queen's Park in order to obtain permission to deliver in Trenton, he added, making reference to the local by-law.

'Marching Out' Recruit Parade Will Be Held

Invitations to approximately 300 parents in the Bay of Quinte area, to military officers and municipal officials have been mailed out from the Belleville Armouries for Friday evening's ceremonial and marching out parade for 108 recruits taking the summer recruit course with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

The marching out parade will mark the conclusion of an eight-weeks training course for the 108 summer recruits, most of them high school students from Belleville and other centres in the Bay of Quinte district.

The course concludes on August 17th with tests and other examinations marking the final week.

Friday evening at the Armouries the summer recruits will be put through their paces by instructional officers as they demonstrate to parents, army officers and other officials, the training which they have absorbed during the summer months.

Following the ceremonial parade there will be a reception for the recruits' parents and for Army VIP's with this to be followed by an informal dance for the recruits.

Find Vaccine For Asian Flu

LONDON (Reuters) — Scientists claimed today that they have developed a vaccine which they hope will overcome Asian flu.

Dr. F. Himmelweit, director of the virus research department at the Wright-Fleming Institute of Microbiology, said successful tests were carried out on 120 volunteer servicemen.

"We are satisfied that the vaccine produces anti-bodies," he added. "We have examined the blood of the volunteers and find that the vaccine did work."

"We are producing the vaccine, and we hope that the supplies will be on sale within a month," he said.

Margined Stock Of Customers Sold by Brokers

TORONTO (CP)—Aconic Mining Corporation shares dropped 29.37¼ on the Toronto Stock Exchange Tuesday because brokerage firms sold out margined stock of customers who were over-extended, the exchange said today.

It said a complete examination of "all the circumstances and trading" in Aconic shares in the 10 days ended Aug. 6 now is being made.

Earlier today C. J. Butler, general manager of Aconic, was quoted by Fraser Robertson, financial columnist of the Globe and Mail, as saying control of Aconic is currently held by brokerage houses that were forced to sell him out for lack of adequate margin. Mr. Butler was said to have attributed this undermined margin position to short-selling and a "bear raid."

The stock exchange statement said:

"In accordance with its usual procedure, the exchange on Tuesday afternoon inaugurated a preliminary investigation into the declines in the price of Aconic Mining Corporation shares, which opened that day at $11, sold up to $11.37½ during the first six minutes of trading, worked back slowly to $10 shortly after 11 o'clock and then declined to $1 at 12:19 p.m., subsequently recovering to $2.30 by 2:41 p.m.

FORCED TO SELL

"The preliminary inquiry revealed that the price collapse was due to over-extended long stock positions which resulted in enforced selling of blocks of shares by brokerage firms who were compelled to sell customers' margined stock in order to protect the margin accounts.

"Naturally when the price began to decline margin calls had to be made and when these were not met, sufficient stock had to be sold out to put the accounts in proper margin position pursuant to the exchange requirements . . ."

Mr. Robertson wrote in the Globe and Mail: "It appears that the forced liquidation of Mr. Butler's personal holdings of Aconic stock has incidentally cost some Toronto brokerage houses a bit of money. Butler was responsible for the debacle on Tuesday."

In Montreal, Mr. Butler said today in a telephone interview the company is negotiating with United States interests for sale of Aconic control. He declined to identify the U.S. group.

The negotiations, he said, started some time before the drop in Aconic stock. The U.S. group had made a new offer for immediate action the day after the stock plunged.

Mr. Butler attributed the drop to short-position raids by non-shareholders.

He denied a report that it was largely caused by forced liquidation of his personal holdings of Aconic stock.

The corporation owns magnetite sands property in Natashquan, near Sept-Iles, Que., and also has a pilot titanium reduction plant near Montreal where test runs began in 1955.

England, and the Jamboree

By RICHARD P. FUKE
Queen's Scout

(Ed. Note:—This is one of a series of articles written for The Ontario Intelligencer by Queen's Scout Richard P. Fuke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Fuke, 184 Bridge St. East. Scout Fuke is a member of the Belleville contingent of Boy Scouts attending the Ninth World Jamboree.)

The following is the report of our ventures during the period of transit from London to the jamboree at Sutton Coldfields, Warwickshire.

We caught a chartered bus in London at 11 a.m., which took us the twenty-five miles to Dorking, our entraining centre. After an hour we caught our train. The trip to the jamboree took seven hours and included such speed improvers as a derailed engine and the taking of the longest route possible. We passed through such places as Worcester and Birmingham.

Arriving at the jamboree site we proceeded to hike two or three miles to our campsite situated in the lower portion of the park land. The rest of the evening we spent preparing our campsite before nightfall.

One of the most breathtaking features of the jamboree is its size and population. The jamboree, Indaba and Moot (the latter two being leader and Rover gatherings) use 2,400 acres of Sutton park, which supply camping ground for approximately 38,000 Scouts, Rovers, Leaders and service staff. It is going to be practically impossible to see it all in two weeks.

Yesterday, August 1, was the date of our official opening, the honors being performed by His Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester. The entire contingents from all the eighty-five countries gathered in the arena to listen to the opening address by the Duke. Perhaps I should say tried to listen, as we could not hear a word. The only way we could keep track of the proceedings was by the use of a portable radio owned by one of the Canadian Scouts.

So far this world Jamboree has been one grand vacation for me and the majority of the Canadian contingent. Many adventures await us as the occasion is not half over.

Forest Fires Number Ninety, 17 in Tweed Area

TORONTO (CP)—Forest fires burning across Ontario reached a total of 90 today, with 17 of them in the Tweed district. During the last 24 hours, 41 new fires were reported and 37 were extinguished.

The department of lands and forests also located forest fires in these districts: Sioux Lookout 11; Sudbury 10; Parry Sound nine; Pembroke eight; Swastika five; Kenora, Geraldton and Geographic four each; Port Arthur, Chapleau and Sault Ste. Marie, three each; Kapuskasing, North Bay and Lindsay, two each; and Cochrane, White River and Lake Seneca one each.

Across the province the fire hazard is rated high to extreme except in the Sioux Lookout, Kenora and Fort Frances districts where it is rated low to medium.

NEW YORK GROWS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The population of the New York metropolitan area has increased by more than 1,000,000 since 1950, the census bureau reported Wednesday. The new total, based partially on special censuses and partly on estimates, showed the population of the metropolitan area to be 14,066,000 last April 1, compared with 12,912,000 on April 1, 1950, the date of the last regular census. All of the gain was outside New York City.

Labor Terrorist Slugs, Curses Photographer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor terrorist Johnny Dio slugged a photographer and cursed him today for taking his picture in the Senate office building, where Dio is to testify later in the Senate rackets investigation.

The dapper, blazing eyed Dio planted a roundhouse swing with his left fist on the left ear of Stanley Tretick, a United Press photographer.

The blow did not knock out the photographer, and he did not swing back.

The convicted extortionist, was released from prison so he could comply with the Senate committee's subpoena for him to appear as a witness.

A group of his alleged henchmen were busy this morning invoking the fifth amendment against self-incrimination to questions about their association with Dio.

Bulgy, bespectacled Sidney Hodes of Brooklyn refused to tell the committee whether he helped Dio set up "phony" unions.

Senate investigators contend Dio used such unions as a device to extort from employers and also misused the dues of rank and file union members.

Kingston Man Killed in Crash Near Napanee

KINGSTON (CP)—James Canuel of Kingston died in hospital here early today of injuries received in a three-vehicle collision on Highway 2 east of nearby Napanee.

Ontario Provincial Police said the accident occurred Wednesday night when one vehicle attempted to pass another and collided with a three-ton stake truck.

Two persons in the truck—graham Nesbitt and Norman Graham, both of Toronto—were released from hospital after treatment. The driver of the second car, identified only as a Mrs. Dempsey of Napanee, suffered shock but was not detained in hospital.

Accused Admits Being Driver When Man Killed

EXETER, Ont. (CP)—Emerson DeGraw, 21, of London, Ont., admitted at a coroner's inquest Wednesday night that he was the driver of a car in which his friend, Grant Vanstone, 18, also of London, was killed July 14.

The car, owned by Vanstone, ran off a highway curve near here July 14.

DeGraw said he had kept his identity secret since then two weeks because he was "scared."

Returning the verdict of accidental death, the jury censured DeGraw for failing to remain at the scene and trying to get medical aid.

Crown Attorney H. Glenn Hayes has been charged with careless driving, and with failure to report an accident.

TOO POLITE

Every so often one hears complaints that courtesy is becoming a rarity amongst this or that group of people serving the public.

This does not apply to bank tellers - - - more's the pity.

Why is it that so many people, who preaumably are able to count money, add and write their own names, seem unable to make out a deposit slip?

Do these people believe that they are so busy that they should not be asked to waste their precious time filling out a slip before making a deposit?

This species seems particularly numerous at rush hours - - say late Friday afternoon when the banks re-open at 4.30 p.m.

There is a line-up at the door, one waits patiently, one door opens, one hurries in, grabs a deposit slip, scribbles down a figure, adds a signature - - and looks up to discover that every teller's wicket has a line-up in front of it as long as that before the pop stand at a Sunday School picnic.

How do all these people write their deposit slips so fast?

The answer, one discovers sadly, is that they don't. They rush through the door and up to the teller and let him - - or her - - make out the slip.

So far we have yet to hear a teller suggest, politely or impolitely and the latter, we feel, would be preferable, that this is one place where the customer is not always right. Without even a black look the teller makes out the deposit slip - - writes the total at the end of the line and those who were foolish enough to do the job themselves wait more or less patiently.

We suggest that the banks ought to give their tellers a short course in the art of being unpleasant with people who are too lazy to use the ample facilities provided for making out all necessary documents before making a deposit, or a withdrawal. It would greatly speed up service.

BIG MUSKIE AT MONTREAL

Montreal fishermen are all adither over the catch of Hy Marcus, a 50-pound muskie hooked Sunday evening in the waters of Lake St. Louis. "Here we have gone for some years able almost to count on the fingers of two hands the number of muskies taken from waters adjacent to Montreal and none of them startling in size; and now," says Izaak Hunter, rod and gun columnist of the Montreal Gazette, "Lake St. Louis yields the biggest one taken here in a donkey's years."

The fish took a nine-inch red and white plug of 8 p.m. just 30 minutes after sun down. Knight's solunar tables showed the start of a major feeding period. Mr. Marcus was using a stiff trolling rod, a 45-pound test line and a big Penn reel and horsed his lunge to the gaff in ten minutes, in case you are a muskie fisherman and want to know the technical details.

For those who want to know how waters which have yielded only a few muskies in several years can suddenly produce a fish 55 inches in length with a girth of 22 inches, we have a theory. The lunge was a tourist, a Bay of Quinte native who had heard about the season and taken a Sunday cruise to view the development himself, and had got mixed up at the clover-leaf above one of the new dams, ending up in Lake St. Louis instead of in his home waters.

FILL 'ER UP

The United States expects to have its first atomic-powered merchant ship sailing the high seas by 1960. The vessel, which will cost $42,500,000, will be able to steam 350,000 miles, or for 3½ years, without refueling.

Motorists will now have been noting how frequently the gas gauge reads empty these long summer weekends would welcome an adaptation of this power plant for the family chariot. However, when time to refuel did arrive, the bill would be a stiff step. And five will get you ten that the uranium would peter out long days before pay-day. And, furthermore, what service station would trust you when you might not be back again for three and a half years?

MAY EXPLAIN OTHERS

Undoubtedly many railway accidents of unexplained causes have been due in the past to the acts of youthful thrill-seekers. The derailment in Manitoba might have remained a similar mystery, but the two boys seen in the vicinity of the switch shortly before the arrival of the train readily confessed that they were responsible.

The results of this accident should serve as a lesson to parents and school teachers, particularly in those communities through which railway lines pass. (Halifax Chronicle-Herald).

It is possible, of course, there were too many cases of Nazi plotters, working at cross-purposes. The Russians have penetrated several spy rings working independently. So had the Nazis in World War II, though attempts were made late in the war to bring them under one control so their wires wouldn't get crossed.

The Nazis had a splendid spy system. But they made many mistakes. They often underestimated the intelligence and loyalty of those whom they were working against. Germans spy chiefs, indeed, thought the British secret service better than their own. But the above plots, from all self-control I'm parted When a sneezing fit gets started. Insofar as they represent facts, they show the Service provides a unique range of educational facilities through a department called the College of the Sea. Over 1,000 seafaring students are at work in such subjects as mathematics, languages and navigation, being taught by voluntary tutors who give their tuition through the post. Three thousand more borrow books on personal loan and there are 4,000 already with hobbies. The College has its own library, of sound films - its growth is inhibited only by lack of funds - and it also acts as an advice bureau. Last year, yoga, wild-fowling, mink-farming, wedding etiquette, bagpipe music and prospecting for uranium were among the hundred-odd subjects on which the College gave information and advice.

As for recreational reading, the average seafarer likes to read sea stories in his spare time - provided they are by writers who know the sea and its ways at first hand. Alan Villiers, Captain of the Mayflower II, is a popular author. But most seamen also like cowboy yarns.

In fact it is not easy to generalise about reading tastes at sea for those tastes are every bit as varied as on land. Perhaps though it can be said that the seamans favourite author - next to Shakespeare - is the landsman. "The library", wrote one officer not long since, "seems to have a strange invigorating effect on all hands. The Captain is generous, after having on the bridge for two days while we blasted our way through the fog, became already human again when he saw that The Queen from the Dead Sea had arrived."

This shipmaster's taste for nonfiction is widely-interpreted for seven years and the Seafarers' Education Service takes great pains to satisfy such special demands.

Duke Proved No Dupe

Windsor Star

German documents of World War II vintage must be regarded as more than a grain of suspicion. Some, such as those dealing with the Nazi raid on Dieppe, have proved fairly accurate, perhaps more accurate than the communiques of the time. But others have been badly slanted and without foundation.

Those now revealed, having to do with a plot to enlist the Duke of Windsor as a Nazi collaborator, must be accepted at face value. It may well be the Nazis thought the Duke might bring off so if so it only proves either their naivete or their stupidity.

Whatever may be said of the Duke of Windsor - - and much can be said of him - - there is no reason to doubt his fundamental loyalty. As the documents admit, the plot failed due to the Duke's English mentality of the Duke." He was neither a dupe nor a traitor to the cruelties of which he once occupied.

The plot, as revealed in the documents, was to lure the Duke over the border from Portugal to Spain. His purpose was to be put upon him. If he accepted the bribe of being he was to be put back on the throne along with his Duchess—of a puppet Government. Following the time was 1940, when the Duke was on his way to take up his appointment as governor of the Bahamas.

It is interesting to compare the story with the diary of the man who became chief of the Spanish Government later in the war. In 1940, as a top secret agent, this man was sent to Spain with direct orders to murder the Duke. He carried a phial of powerful poison for the purpose.

His diary relates in detail how the Duke was to be lured over the border from Portugal (he was interesting in this regard to the latest revelations). This plot failed because the Duke didn't cross the border. The poison was so potent the agent was to throw it into the Atlantic rather than risk carrying it back to Berlin.

Obviously the two stories are in conflict. A dead Duke couldn't have become a future King.

SNEEZES

Of a dreadful social error
Constantly I live in terror.
When desirous to be pleasing
I may start a fit of sneezing,
Then my face will turn distorted
As the coming sneeze is snorted.

Then, I'll gasp for breath and sputter:
But no word of reason utter;
Open-mouthed and nose bridge thumbing,

To prevent the sneeze that's coming;
Napkin, handkerchief extended,
As a safety mask intended.

But the first sneeze never lets up,
For a chain reaction sets up;
Ten to follow I can't smother,
Each sneeze louder than the other.
From all self-control I'm parted
When a sneezing fit gets started.

What Sailors Read

By Ronald Hope in UNESCO Features

Most landsmen love to read about the sea. Long voyages in small craft, wartime ordeals in submarines, the glorious days of the clipper-ships: on all counts the sea is among the bestsellers. But what do sailors themselves read?

The staff of the Seafarers' Education Service - a voluntary service with headquarters in Balham High Road, London - know the answer. For the past 30 years the Service has sent more than 3,500,000 books to ships. According to the society's records, sailors read more than books about the sea. Indeed most of the landsman's spare time occupations are not open to him.

Albert Mansbridge, founder of the Workers' Educational Association, realized all this before the seamen came ashore. In 1919 the help of those in the shipping industry, he founded the Seafarers' Education Service with the object of providing first-class reading service to British seafarers. Nowadays, the Service sends out 200,000 books and about some 80,000 paperbacked books and magazines to sea each year to libraries which are changed regularly and specially selected to be enjoyed by ships' crews. Last year the Service bought nearly 50,000 books new, but it is largely self-incorporated by Royal Charter-and it also depends on gifts of books as well as gifts of money.

In addition to its recreational libraries, the Service provides a unique range of educational facilities through a department called the College of the Sea. Over 1,000 seafaring students are at work in such subjects as mathematics, languages and navigation, being taught by voluntary tutors who give their instruction through the post. Three thousand more borrow books on personal loan and there are 4,000 already with hobbies. Cruelty to Animals

A district farmer was fined $25 and costs on a charge of causing unnecessary suffering to an animal. He caught a two-pound bear in a trap. The animal stumbled or was dragged from five to eight miles by a chain on the trap which held its right front paw. The farmer exhibited it to his neighbors and told the court: "I thought it might be nice to have a picture of him. But nobody wanted to take a picture."

There are few farm boys who haven't at some time or other kept a wild animal as a pet. It might be a squirrel, a rabbit, a raccoon or even a baby fox, but the boys are not cruel to their wild animal pets. It is among adults that cruelty to wild animals is found. Some seem to have the idea that a wild animal is different to a domestic animal and cruelty is not punishable by law.

The district farmer pleaded in his defence that he believed the bear had killed one of his lambs. He said "the bear is a cruel animal."

But is it? The domestic cat will catch a bird or a mouse and subject it to torture before finally killing it. How many times have rescued young birds from the clutches of cats that can scarcely maim the bird so it cannot escape? The bear kills for food and sometimes will tear at a bear kills quickly. The same cannot be said for the cat which seems to take a delight in the pitiful cries of its victim.

Man with his superior intelligence is expected to be on guard against causing unnecessary suffering to animals. It is one of the reasons that the department of lands and forests takes a special interest in wild animals kept in captivity as tourist attractions. The exhibitor must conform to regulations that safeguard the captive animal's welfare.

WHAT'S IN YOUR NAME?

"What's in a name?" asks Shakespeare, implying it is a thing of small regard as will be called by one name as another.

But from the earliest recorded times, men have regarded names as very important. In some languages, names to be able to name a demon was to be able to command his powers; and in others, the names of the gods were so dreadfully significant that they must not even be spoken. Men's names have always been vital in making solemn agreements, or during important business. Manufacturers think so highly of their trade names that they copyright them.

Long ago, some names were regarded as having magic power. And in a certain sense, names still can work magic today. If your credit is good, you can walk into a bank and come out with money, merely on the strength of your name. Politicians have been elected to office because their names reminded people of well-known figures.

Not everyone can be rich, famous, or influential, but everyone can make his name stand for something good. It can be a slow process, but it is always worthwhile building a name that stands for something good in your work, or your community, your home, or your church. And once it is built, a good name is worth keeping up, too - as precious a possession as a man can have.

What does your name stand for?

Summer and Salt

"We work hardest at it—or play, it you like— in the dog days. Sometimes a player loses six to eight pounds weight during a game. What advice have you to prevent dehydration of the body in the summer time? (R.M.)"

Take 5 grains of common table salt with every drink of water. This not only prevents dehydration but in everyday practice wherever people work, play or march in extreme heat it has proved the best way to prevent heat stroke, sun stroke, heat exhaustion, heat cramps.

In industrial plants where exposure to extreme heat is unavoidable it is now the custom to have a salt tablet dispenser alongside the drinking fountain to provide the necessary salt with every drink of water.

A reader who plays a lot of golf in the summer says she has "heard some sad tales about the effects of too much salt" and so she would hesitate to take any.

The golfer doesn't detail what she has "heard" about the effects of "too much salt". Maybe something not suitable for children.

We should remember that at normal, healthy adult excretes (in urine and sweat) up to half an ounce of salt a day. Symptoms of trouble may occur from failure to take enough salt on one day or another—say freely salted foods. Seldom if ever does "too much" salt harm a healthy person.

Scientific observation has shown that a considerable amount of vitamin B, is lost when sweating is excessive, and anyone who sweats a good deal, whether from heat alone or from vigorous work or play, should take an extra ration of B1 (thiamin) in one form or another, each day.

The judicious use of table salt with drinking water or whatever beverage one takes for refreshment is noticeably more refreshing than is water or other beverage without the extra salt.

And according to assurances received from many who have tried it, the weariness and fatigue following excessive sweating seem to pass in shorter time if salt is taken, say a 10 mgr. thiamin tablet as well as the extra salt.

How much water and how cold, for one who is "overheated" by exercise, or heat from hard work or play, are questions of individual preference. Some like it cold, others some salt with each drink.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the old street in which I live, many New Canadians have found accommodation, and one of them is an Austrian who has lately stolen the show. As you know, we native Canadians are now recently taken to wearing shirts. The Austrian came forth the other fine evening in his native leather shorts, with the beautiful embroidered braces, and his fine green shirt.

He made us all look cheap. As if that were not enough, an evening or two ago, when it threw off its raining, he appeared in his cape, a beautiful Loden cloth garment of spacious size, with rich light wool of a lovely forest green colour. It has a hood. And as he swung along the street, even we of Scottish descent, who are a little inclined to view extravagance in other than the kilt with some disfavour, were forced to admit that the Austrian came forth in the finest fashion.

Why was this cape go out of fashion? For centuries, it was the favorite outer garment of man and woman. Certainly when the motor car came into universal use, the cape should have come back. It is the perfect garment for driving. In the short distances we walk, to and from our cars or briefly about the streets, it is every bit as warm as the overcoat, which, whilst driving, converts us into mummies, tight about the arms. Compared with an overcoat, the cape can be flung open or even aside, in the mere comfort of the air.

Both my grandfathers, in the 1890's were inveterate wearers. As reverness is an overcoat without any sleeves. A cape, fingertip length, of the same tweed as the coat, is fastened under the military type collar. It prevents one's coat from protecting the arms and chest far better than any overcoat. Indeed the car today, as in the buggies and horse-drawn vehicles my grandfathers used, the sleeveless cape can be flung back, allowing free use of the arms.

Do you know something? My old overcoat is just about worn out. I think I will order a new one this fall. And if that Austrian can arrive with those leather shorts and that Loden cape, by golly, I can get away with an Inverness. After all, it is practical clothing.

In a score of ways, the conventions of the ruled men's garments are collapsing right and left. If they can go modern, they can go old-fashioned. Especially if the old fashion is more sensible.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SATISFACTION

The things that give the greatest pleasure and satisfaction are the ones to which we should tie and keep reaching so as to gain the greatest happiness each day of our lives. We may choose the simplest of things to carry out this plan of life, but it is the final satisfaction that counts. It may be a meal we eat, the trees, flowers, or birds, or a pet dog.

Success in life is measured by what we take out of it, and this can't be seen after the end when it seems to take a delight in the pitiful cries of its victim.

Man with his superior intelligence is expected to be on guard against causing unnecessary suffering to animals. It is one of the reasons that the department of lands and forests takes a special interest in wild animals kept in captivity as tourist attractions. The exhibitor must conform to regulations that safeguard the captive animal's welfare.

Cancer Clinic Doctor Had Big Estate, Debts

WINDSOR (CP)—Dr. John E. Hett, controversial medical practitioner in the cancer field, left an estate of $1,709,338—and debts of $1,137,418, The will was filed Wednesday for probate in surrogate court.

Dr. Hett, who died Sept. 25, 1956, at 58, willed $50,000 and property to carry on the work of his cancer foundation in Windsor. He caused controversy in the medical field by claiming to have a treatment for the disease.

Bulk of his estate consists of stocks valued at $1,071,659 and $466,565 cash.

While debts were not indicated, there is more than $600,000 owing for the non-payment of income taxes, plus penalties. Stocks for that amount were seized more than a year ago after a writ of execution was obtained by the department of national revenue.

Chief beneficiary is Mrs. Beatrice Lesperance, a grandniece.

REACHES SETTLEMENT

Provisions for Mrs. Lesperance have been declared null and void because she is also a witness to the will. However, a settlement was reached between the other heirs and Mrs. Lesperance.

Mrs Lesperance was bequeathed $50,000 and another $50,000 to operate the Hett Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation. In addition, Mrs. Lesperance was granted all lands and buildings, furniture and furnishings used at the foundation.

Dr. Hett also ordered that $10,000 be set aside for the publication of books he wrote.

A grandniece, Alice Bester, of Kitchener, is to receive $20 every two weeks for five years to assist her with a large family.

The estate is made up of life insurance of $1,025; stocks, $1,071,659; cash, $464,565; an agreement of sale, $5,638, other personal property, $4,352 and real estate of $162,000.

Two properties in Kitchener were valued at $35,000 and $75,000.

Gives Ten Years To Holdup Man With Toy Pistol

MONTREAL (CP) — A senior police official Wednesday called Montreal's crim: wa ve "the most intense . . . in my memory" while a judge, deploring the holdup menace, imposed a 10-year prison term on a man who pulled a toy pistol in a robbery.

Chief Detective William Fitzpatrick made his comment on a crime spree which has produced five bank robberies and 13 holdups in 10 days.

Judge T. A. Fontaine sentenced toy-gun bandit Jean Cyr, 32, to 10 years after Cyr pleaded guilty to taking $84.50 Aug. 1 from a candy store.

"Some of the holdups in this recent wave have featured a reckless brutality and I feel this justifies judicial severity,' said Judge Fontaine. "Especially with repeaters."

The crime wave has included a $30,000 bank robbery and a cash-and-diamonds holdup netting more than $31,000.

The most recent was Wednesday's abortive rid by two bandits who tried for a $4,000 company payroll but grabbed the wrong bag and a mere $55.

Tuesday, police recovered $2,400 of the $8,000 taken Monday from a caisse populaire (credit union) and arrested three men and a woman. About the same time, two men made their second attack on another caisse populaire in a week, taking $1,500. They got $4,000 in the first holdup.

Grotewohl said there must be a step-by-step removal of foreign bases from German soil.

REJECTS WEST'S VIEWS

Grotewohl brushed off Western objections that in case of war Russian troops could dash back to Germany more quickly than withdrawn Western forces. The Western powers have held that troop withdrawal should wait upon a comprehensive East-West disarmament and European security accord.

Grotewohl also rejected Western claims that German reunification is a four-power obligation.

Grotewohl made a strong restatement of the Communist contention that East and West Germany should themselves negotiate reunification.

Khrushchev praised Walter Ulbricht, the East German party boss, in an exchange of toasts a few hours after he and his Kremlin delegation arrived for their seven-day visit. His words killed off any speculation that the trip might lay the groundwork for a new and perhaps more liberal East German regime.

Ground Forces Drawing Close To Rebels' Fort

IZZ, Oman (Reuters)—British-led ground forces moved today to within a few miles of rebel headquarters at Nizwa on the second day of a ground assault on tribesmen rebelling against the British-protected sultan of this little Arab state.

The force of Arab loyalist troops, backed by a detachment of British troops, took this centre Wednesday without opposition.

Before dawn today the mobile column of more than 700 men rolled on toward the big round fort at Nizfa, battered by two weeks of air attacks.

An official spokesman at Massahrein, Bahrein, announced this morning that the advance had reached two villages 10 miles beyond Izz and that the next object then was Firq, a one-time rebel strongpoint two miles farther on. Nizwa lies about three miles beyond Firq.

AVOID ROADS

The mobile force is going across country to avoid roads suspected of being mined.

The leader of the revolt, the imam of Oman, has made his headquarters in the Nizwa fortress.

His forces are estimated by the sultan's foreign minister to total 1,500, with about 600 armed with modern weapons reported to be from Saudi Arabia.

Quick Settlement Not Likely

QUEBEC (CP) — Union and company negotiators have hit a deadlock that may prevent quick settlement of the strike of 6,500 Arvida, Que., aluminum workers.

J. J. Gagnon, personnel director of the Aluminum Company of Canada, said Wednesday the strike may last an indefinite period" unless company negotiators reach agreement with the National Metal Trades Federation (CCL) on the question of standard expiration dates of contracts of Alcan's four Quebec plants.

Mr. Gagnon said agreement has been reached on a large number of other points. A union demand for a master contract has been the main point in contention in the strike which began May 17.

HAIRCUTS $1.75

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The price of haircuts in union barber shops here was increased Tuesday night by 25 cents to $1.75, effective next Monday. A similar increase was voted by union barbers in nearby Niagara Falls, N.Y.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission said AMF Atomics, a division of American Machine and Foundry Company of New York, is planning to ship a research reactor to McMaster University, Hamilton, Ont. The company valued the reactor at $343,350.

Aconic Manager Had His Holdings Erased by Slump

TORONTO (CP)—C. J. Butler, general manager of the Aconic Mining Corporation, is quoted today as saying that short-selling was the primary cause of Tuesday's dive in Aconic stock from $11.38 to $1 on the Toronto exchange.

Fraser Robertson, financial columnist of The Globe and Mail, quotes Mr. Butler as saying that control of Aconic currently is held by the brokerage houses that were forced to sell him out for lack of adequate margin. The company head is said to have attributed this undermined margin position to short-selling and a "bear raid."

The columnist writes that control "soon may pass to a U.S. group which has been negotiating with Aconic for some time and which made a new offer for immediate action the day after the stock plunged from $11.38 to $1 on the Toronto Stock Exchange." It closed Wednesday at $2.95.

He adds: "It appears that the forced liquidation of Mr. Butler's personal holdings of Aconic stock, which incidentally cost some Toronto brokerage houses a bit of money, largely was responsible for the debacle on Tuesday."

Chair-Swinging Riot Breaks up Wrestling Match

MONTREAL (CP)—Three persons were sent to hospital and several wrestlers were injured Wednesday night when a chair-swinging riot broke out at Delormier Stadium after a wrestling match.

Police said flying steel chairs did the damage, thrown by both wrestlers and spectators.

None of the injured was in serious condition, police said.

The fighting broke out during the main event which ended in a disqualification.

Wladek Kowalski and Edouard Carpentier met in the night's main event for the Montreal title and the bout was called off when the fans broke into the ring.

Gene Kiniski, one-time Edmonton Eskimo lineman who makes a practice of such interventions, sparked the uprising by crawling between the ropes. He started pulling at Carpentier. A fourth wrestler slugged him and the crowd of 12,789 saw Kiniski finally flee in a hail of chairs.

Police said about 50 landed inside the ring.

Seaman Fatally Stabbed Aboard Canadian Frigate

HALIFAX (CP) — AB Ross Clark McCallum, 24, of Midland, Ont., was fatally stabbed early today aboard the navy frigate Lauzon in Halifax harbor.

The navy said AB McCallum was "skylarking" with another sailor, who is in hospital suffering from shock, when the stabbing occurred. No details were available.

The victim's next of kin, is his father, James McCallum of Toronto.

MRS. AMERICA BROKE

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Frances Clopf, 29, Mrs. America of 1949, returned to her mother's home Tuesday. She had been missing since Monday. She told police she had driven to the Los Angeles area and had slept in her car, and attributed her disappearance to distress over financial problems.

MANY 'FLU DEATHS

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—An influenza epidemic caused 117 deaths in Santiago and Valparaiso in the last 20 days, the national health service reported Tuesday night. The epidemic is under control in central Chile, but there are thousands of cases in the south, the report added.

'Partying It Up' Detroit Youth Dies at Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A car carrying four Detroit youths who had been "partying it up" in Windsor went through a stop sign Wednesday and crashed into the side of a five-ton truck and a damaged automobile it was towing.

Richard Paluch, 21, was killed. William Knight, 22, suffered facial lacerations and is in fair condition. Joe March, 19, is in critical condition with scalp lacerations, and Peter Masewich, 17, is in fair condition suffering from shock.

Masewich told police Paluch drove the car through a stop sign at high speed and smashed into the wrecking truck owned by J. T. Lahadie and the auto which had been damaged in an earlier accident.

Driver of the truck, Matthew Saitch Jr., 27, of nearby Tecumseh, was not hurt.

RESCUES HELPLESS WIFE

WINDSOR (CP)—Paul Dutka, a 68-year-old pensioner, Tuesday saved his blind and paralyzed wife, Annie, when he carried her to safety as fire raced through their home. The interior of the home was destroyed and the couple lost all their possessions.

Police Probing Death of Man Found in Pond

HAMILTON (CP) — Ontario Provincial Police are continuing their investigation into the death of Hector McCormack whose body was found Sunday, 4 in a pond near Highway 53, two miles from Ancaster.

Inspector Jean-Paul Laperriere of the OPP criminal investigation branch arrived here Wednesday night to assist Ancaster police in the investigation.

An autopsy revealed McCormack died of a fractured skull.

Chief Inspector W. H. Franks of the OPP said information was "sketchy" but that there had been suggestion of foul play.

When he disappeared from his home Aug. 1, it was reported McCormack was carrying a revolver. It has not been recovered.

Weddings

CUNNINGHAM — KOURI

MARMORA — A very pretty wedding took place in Port Hope United Church on Saturday, August 3rd, when Marina Elizabeth Kouri, of Marmora, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. Kouri, became the bride of W. J. Findlay Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Cunningham, of Wiarton, Ontario. The doublering ceremony was performed by Rev. W. Gardiner before the altar banked with gladioli.

Miss P. Ironside rendered the traditional wedding music and the soloist, Miss Mary Lou Lonergan, of Sutton, Ontario, sang "Because," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Albert N. Kouri, and chose for her wedding a floor-length gown of white nylon net overlaid in French design over taffeta. The bodice was of the same material with bolero of French lace having long, lily-point sleeves. Her finger-tip veil was nylon net with overlay, and held in place by a coronet of iridescent sequins and seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with white orchid and streamers knotted with stephanotis.

Mrs. Wayne Cartmell, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, gowned in pink crystal charm styled on princess lines with rounded neck line enhanced with two flying panels at back. The torso hipline was flattered with a bouffant skirt. She wore a pillbox hat of pink mohair dotted with sequins; ruffled gauntlets in matching color and carried a nosegay of white poms, pink carnations and sweetheart roses.

Miss Mary Louise McIsaac, niece of the bride, and Mrs. R. Norris, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. The Misses Cheryl Hoome and Sharon Kouri, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. The bridesmaids and flower girls all wore identical dresses in blue, fashioned similar to the matron of honor. The bridesmaids wore plateau hats of blue mohair, and carried old fashioned nosegays of pink carnations, yellow roses and sweetheart roses. The flower girls carried baskets of Marguerites, Sweetpeas, white poms and sweetheart roses and were bonbonnieres of pink carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Geoffrey Risen and the ushers were Joseph Kouri, George Ottenbrite, Dale Lisgard, nephew of the bride, and Randy Norris, nephew of the bridegroom.

At the reception, which was held in the United Church hall, the guests were welcomed by Mrs. J. Walcshyn, sister of the bride, who wore a gown of beige taffeta with round, beaded neckline and overskirt of net, with white accessories. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a dusty rose gown of faille, with white accessories. Both wore mauve orchid corsages.

The young couple left on a honeymoon to points east, the bride choosing a blue taffeta dress with gold stripes and white accessories with corsage of white orchids.

On their return they will reside in Peterborough.

Guests were present from Marmora, Trenton, Toronto, Newmarket, Peterborough, Lindsay, Wiarton and South Orange, N.J.

DONALDSON — ANDERSON

PICTON — A wedding of wide interest was solemnized in Picton United Church at three o'clock, Saturday, August 3rd., when Alice Anderson became the bride of Jack F. Donaldson. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Anderson, Cherry Valley, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. E. M. Donaldson, Ottawa, and the late Mr. Donaldson. The Rev. F. J. Whiteley performed the ceremony before the altar which had a central basket of red and gold gladioli flanked by baskets of white and yellow glads, against a background of ferns. Bows of white organdy marked the guest pews.

Traditional wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. Harold Ostrander. The soloist, Mrs. Ronald Colliver, sang, "O Perfect Love," and "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ankle-length gown of net over taffeta, the skirt being embroidered with lace applique and the bodice featuring a scooped neckline. A pleated nylon cap, embroidered and edged with fine seed pearls, held her circular veil of nylon tulle. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and stephanotis.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Verne Bongard, of Picton, and Mrs. George F. Heyburn of Kingston. They wore identical dresses of yellow organza with streamers down the back, and white picture hats, and carried yellow roses and bronze 'mums.

Mr. Kemp Donaldson, Ottawa, was groomsman for his brother; and the ushers were Captain George F. Heyburn of Kingston and Mr. Bill Richardson of Perth.

The reception followed at the Royal Hotel where gladioli and other summer flowers added a note of color. The bride's mother chose a gown of Copen blue crepe with embroidered bodice, dusty rose hat and accessories, and corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother was in tonal colored chiffon with short-sleeved shirred bodice, a feather hat in matching shade and corsage of yellow roses and bronze 'mums.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake beautifully decorated with ornamental frosting and topped by a decoration of roses, wedding bell and tiny bride and bridegroom.

Telegrams of congratulations were read from friends in Germany, Ottawa and Marsville.

For travelling to Virginia and other mid-eastern states, the bride donned a two-piece dress of powder blue and white polished cotton with blue and white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Guests were present from Ottawa, Toronto, Cornwall, Niagara Falls, Lyons Falls, N.Y.; Fort William, Kingston, Smiths Falls, Bowmanville, Brantford, Perth and Manotick.

Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson will reside in Ottawa where both are members of the Ottawa public schools teaching staff.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

YOUNGER WOMAN WAS COURTEOUS TO RISE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please ease my mind by reversing my decision. I was sitting at an affair with an older woman, and an older man was being introduced to us. I, being I, should say around thirty years younger than he, rose, shook hands with him as I acknowledged the introduction, and then sat down. Of course the older woman didn't rise when he was being introduced to her, and I guess she was right. But was I wrong to stand up while he was being introduced? — S.

No, it was not at all wrong for you to rise while you were acknowledging this introduction to the older man. By rising you showed that you are a courteous person.

SEPTEMBER BIRTHSTONE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me what is the September birthstone. — E.N.

Sapphire.

AN ENDEARING AND APPEALING GESTURE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother died several years ago, and my father and I (I am an only child) have continued to live in our house. We love each other dearly, and my father and my fiance are deeply devoted to each other. I am to be married soon, an informal afternoon wedding in the Presbyterian church which my family and my fiance's family have always attended.

At a wedding my father and I attended together about two years ago, we were both deeply touched when the bride's father, as he and the bride arrived at the head of the aisle, kissed her before he stepped to the left, and as the groom stepped to her right.

Last evening when we were talking over the wedding plans, my father recalled this, and said he would like to do this at my wedding. If it is correct. Have you ever seen this done, Mrs. Beeckman? Is it considered correct? Since "We Three" will live together in our house, and since the bond between us is so strong (and, I pray, always will be), I would like to consider this gesture as a sign of this bond. What is your advice about this? — Bride-to-be

A lovely and inspiring letter . . . thank you for it.

Yes, dear Bride-to-be, I have seen this done several times, and it is indeed a tenderly appealing gesture. It usually makes the wedding guests quite misty-eyed.)

It would be particularly touching and significant if lovely sentiment in the special circumstances of your marriage and relationships. However, before you make any decision, please let me urge you to talk it over with your minister, to be sure that you have his complete approval.

(Suggestion: Sometimes, instead of the bride's father kissing the bride just as they arrive at the head of the aisle, he kisses her just before he gives her in marriage.)

Salad Days

By Mary Moore

"Four persons are wanted to make a salad — A spendthrift for oil, A miser for vinegar, a counsellor for salt, and a madman to stir it all up."

I don't know who I am quoting but it sounds like Pepys. But, I'm not my idea as you will plainly see by the recipe for mayonnaise I am giving you today. We are miserly all right for vinegar, for we do not use it at all. We use lemon juice, and this month have been using lime juice. We stir it by toasting and only enough to coat the greens with the dressing. The "counsellor" for salt is particularly right for us because up until this week Marianne was here and because she is on a salt free diet so are we all! How we suffer! But you need not.

QUEEN'S 1957 MAYONNAISE

Into the beater bowl put 2 egg yolks and start the beater going at high speed. Add 1 teaspoon each salt and dry mustard, 1 tablespoon sugar and let it keep on beating while you squeeze the juice from 1 lemon and 2 limes. Add 1 tablespoon of this juice. Now begin to add in a fine, fine stream 16 oz. ice cold salad oil. You may add the oil over an hour and constantly with your left hand and add 1 tablespoon of the lemon-lime juice with your right at regular intervals as the mixture gets very thick. Best at high speed until both oil and juice have all been slowly added and are used up. This is one of the best summer mayonnaises I know. All of the salad enthusiasts who come to this house ask for the recipe. It may be made with a rotary beater but your arm will be tired unless your daughter will help you with the beating. Or use a mixer. Try it on a

TOSSED GREEN SALAD

Crisp ¼ clove of garlic until it is as fine as a powder. Put it in a big wooden bowl. Add 1 cup each shredded cabbage and grated cabbage, ½ head lettuce chopped into bite-size pieces, 2 medium tomatoes halved and sliced wafer thin, ½ cucumber unpared but fork-scored and sliced wafer thin, and if you have been on a cook-out supper near a creek growing watercress add about 6 sprigs of it chopped coarsely. Add about 1/3 to ½ cup of the above mayonnaise, or more if your family likes the salad on the moist side.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Frosty Fresh Limeade; Chili Con Carne; Old-Fashioned Cole Slaw; Three-Day Buns (see Tuesday); Ice Cream with mint-flavored Chocolate Sauce; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Stuffed Veal Roll (front); Fluffy Rice; Boiled Sliced Baby Squash or Spinach; Celery Hearts; Carrot Curls; Peach Shortcake; Iced Coffee.

Note 1: The above mayonnaise is perfect on potato salad especially if you add about ½ teaspoon finely chopped garlic before mixing it into the potatoes. Be sure to have some crisp ingredients like cucumber, celery, radishes, undercooked green peas, or green pepper in your potato salad.

Note 2: For a more substantial salad add thinly cut strips of meat, chicken, lobster or cheese or sliced hard-cooked eggs to the above.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'D BE SMARTER TO LEAVE THIS BOY ALONE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

There is this boy, Richie, whom I like very much and I think he likes me (I hope). I see him every day, and we usually talk and have fun.

The other night when I went to see him, I was with my girl friend and he was with three of his friends. So, in order to make everything even, he saw these two girls and told them to come join us. But instead of these girls walking with Richie's friends, they walked with him. I told one of the girls I liked Richie and she said "That's tough, because I'm trying to get him."

I'm only 14 and I'm allowed to stay out only until nine o'clock, so I had to leave before the rest of them went home. Later that night I called up one of Richie's friends and asked him what happened after I left.

He said that Richie had his arm around one of the girls, the one who was trying to get him. He also said that he was almost sure Richie still likes me, but he is trying to see what he can get from that other girl. This girl has a bad name, and although Richie is so angel, I don't want him to get into serious trouble.

I still see Richie during the day, but not at night. I try not to act jealous, but I don't know what to do. Please don't tell me to stop seeing him, because I tried that, but it didn't work. I really like him an awful lot.

Do you think you could give me some advice on how to keep him liking me? — Mixed Up

Dear Mixed Up:

Don't you think it's a little silly to ask me for advice and then tell me what not to say to you?

However, I'm not going to tell you to stop seeing Richie — when you to stop seeing Richie — when seeing him comes naturally. But I do think you should stop being the one to look him up. This I gather you do, since in the beginning of your letter you speak of "the other night when I went to see him."

Nowhere do you say anything that suggests Richie makes any move to get in touch with you of his own accord. So I think it's pretty foolish for you to be the one to take the initiative.

I don't believe any girl ever got a boy interested in her by hanging around him. All that does is to show the boy that she's crazy about him and convince him that he doesn't need to make the least effort to win her friendship. If you think that intrigues a fellow! It doesn't.

Something else that strikes me is that if Richie is the type of boy he is interested in a girl who has a bad name for the purpose of finding out "what he can get from her" he's not the sort of boy for a nice girl — and especially for a girl only 14.

So, as I said, I'm not going to tell you to stay away from Richie. All I will say is that I think you would be smart if you did.

HER BIG PROBLEM WAS HAPPILY SOLVED

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm writing to tell you that I'm the happiest girl in the world because I followed your advice.

I'm referring to my letter that was published in your column in the newspaper of our town in November, 1956.

I was having trouble with my mother liking and paying too much attention to my fiance, who was ten years older than myself and seven years younger than my mother.

You were right when you inferred that my mother needed someone her own age to pay attention to her and someone to talk to her. As soon as I read your advice I arranged to have an older friend of my fiance go out on a blind date with my mother. It turned out to be a very successful evening. As soon as my mother had someone else to talk to, she left my fiance and me alone.

I would also like to add that it was very rewarding, since June wedding bells rang in a double ceremony when my mother and I both married the right men.

I would like to thank you again with all my heart.

—Mrs. L.C.J.

Dear Mrs. L.C.J.:

It has made me very happy to hear and very much with such good news and — since you give me no address to which I could send you a personal letter — I am taking this way of sending you my thanks and appreciation.

It means a great deal to me when any reader is kind and thoughtful enough to let me know if my advice has been helpful, and I want you to know it.

This brings you, in addition to my gratitude for your thoughtfulness, my warmest wishes for your happiness always.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

LONG HAIR CARE

Back in the long-ago, when dancer Irene Castle first bobbed her crowning glory, she caused a minor sensation. Today, it's the long-haired girl who is the exception.

If you happen to be one of these, and sometimes wonder why you do bother taking care of your lengthy locks, it's probably comforting to know that your short-tressed sisters often envy the variety your hairdo can have at your command. Yes, you say, but it's the hairwashing process that's a nuisance. Well, if this is the case, here are a few pointers on making your shampoo sessions easy and successful.

Shampooing can be done under the shower, in the tub, or in the basin. Under the shower is fine if you don't mind holding up a head of long wet hair all by yourself. In the tub the water will support the weight of the hair. In the washbasin the hair is also well-supported as long as there's water in it.

Wherever the shampooing is done, two latherings and at least three rinsings are necessary, ranging from warm to tepid.

Get the basin half-full of warm clear water, and wet the hair thoroughly by turning your head from side to side. Use a plastic container or metal cup to pour water over the back of your head.

Work up a thick suds for the scalp-washing, and don't worry about the ends right away. Bring under the faucet or by pouring clear water over the scalp with the container.

Then suds the head again. This time, fold the ends up and get plenty of lather into them by using the head for a rubbing surface. Now for the three rinses, which should leave the hair squeaking and fragrantly clean. If you rinse under the shower or the bathtub faucet, test the hair for squeakiness to be sure all the suds are gone.

Drying long hair takes a little longer than for a feathercut, so the best time for shampooing the abundant tresses is at night, or on a sunny weekend. Twist the hair into a towel turban to squeeze the moisture out. Use a fresh towel for the final rubbing of scalp and hair.

Long hair does not snarl any more than any other kind. It can be brushed while wet. Then use a comb with wide, blunt teeth. Let the hair dry naturally, if possible. Too much sudden heat can split the ends. It goes without saying that brushing long hair every day gives it sheen and helps keep it clean.

Most long-haired devotees become adept at creating coiffures that vary for daytime, evening, or sports. An excellent hairdo for swimming is to braid it and pin the braids closely to the top of the head.

If little combs are used for the daily coiffure, keep them clean by sudsing them frequently. It's a good investment to buy the durable type of curved combs sold at fine hairdressing establishments. They stay in better and do not snap easily.

If long hair is of the fine texture kind, you can give it extra body for the coiffure by braiding it at night just before bedtime. This makes it easier to comb it up in the morning into the kind of coiffure people turn around to look at.

Flyaway tresses . . . prettily feminine . . . and no bother at all.

Women's Institute

REDNERSVILLE W.I.

ALBURY — The monthly meeting of the Redneersville W.I. was held at Centre Church on Monday evening. The meeting had been postponed from the past Thursday owing to the death of a charter member, Mrs. Hiram Adams.

As this was Club Girls meeting several girls were present. A minute's silence was held in tribute to Mrs. Adams.

Mrs. Harmon Montgomery welcomed everyone to the meeting. Community singing was enjoyed.

Mr. View W.I. invited Redneersville W.I. for August 7. Plans were made for August meeting when they plan to entertain all Institutes of the county and the county officers.

Mrs. Elmer Young took charge of the program which had been planned by Mrs. Young and Mrs. B. Peck. A solo by June Bowerman with Mrs Mackay at the piano, was enjoyed. Jean Barber told of her trip to the 4-H conference at Guelph, which she had enjoyed.

Jean Waterhouse and Janice Taft took part in a demonstration, "Cottons May Be Smart," with other girls showing their dresses.

Joan and Margaret Onderdonk sang a duet.

An exhibit, "Clothes Closets Up-to-Date," was commended on by Katherine Gibson.

The Albury Juniorettes each had a recipe on the "Milky Way" project, telling a way to serve milk.

A dress parade followed with the following girls telling their name and the cost of their dress: Jean Waterhouse, Sandra Green, Helen Silsson, Katherine Gibson, Janice Taft, Ida Waterhouse, Marie Anderson, Donna Rowe, Carol Gibson, Jean, Anne and Marie Cameron, Linda Peck, Jean and Margaret Onderdonk, Barbara Jones, Anne Weese, Helen and Karen Osterhout, Vivian Bowerman, Barbara Hilborne.

While the girls were at the front, Mrs. Mac Wallbridge, on behalf of Redneersville W.I., presented each girl with a William Rogers teaspoon, also spoons went to June Bowerman, Elizabeth Roper and Patsy Armstrong, for one project. Several girls each received three teaspoons, one for each project taken.

The leaders, Mrs. Young and Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Peck and Mrs. Bowerman, and Mrs. Don Dawson, each received lovely gifts.

Mrs. Marion Smith, home economist, was present to enjoy the meeting and gave a short talk on girls' work. All the girls who took part in "Clothes Closets Up-to-Date," had their articles set up for inspection, which everyone enjoyed.

Mrs. Clarence Vanclief gave a "Thank-You" to all who helped make the program and evening a success; also to the lunch committee who served delicious refreshments.

Have Bag, Will Travel

By ALICE ALDEN

These times, it's open season for travel and so there isn't a time of year when a woman isn't interested in finding or receiving a good, well-made, capacious but smart travel bag. Although there is a wide choice of materials and fabrics for handbags, the best makers like leather. And black calf is a particular favorite, since it goes well with everything. The French designer, Rosenthal, is responsible for this handsome handbag, a versatile classic in black calf. Stitching outlines the horseshoe handles anchored with gold hinges, piping defines the rounded base and sides for softening accents.

Women's Activities

JOHNSTOWN W.A.

JOHNSTOWN — The Johnstown Women's Association held its August meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. Everett Clapp, on Thursday afternoon. The service opened in the usual manner with the Scripture lesson read by Mrs. George McLean. Mrs. Puttenham gave some thoughts in her dealing of the lesson story. "As I Grow in Christian Grace, I Will Grow in Wisdom," and "Happy the Man Who Has A Friend, Who Will Encourage Him to do His Best."

During the business session, Mrs. Clapp asked for an assistant for the mission band. Mrs. Alec Vandervoort offered her help. Mrs. Clayton Curtis offered her home for the October meeting with Mrs.. Clapp and Mrs. A. Meyers having the program.

A thank-you card was received from Ella Silckle and a letter of appreciation from Mrs. Morris Silckie for flowers received from the W.A. A thank-you note from a Grace Church lady thanking for making it possible for her boy to attend the United Church camp "Quin-Mo-Lac" at Madoc this summer.

It was decided that a letter of protest be sent to the Highway Department concerning the closing of Vandervoort-Harry sideroad, as it would possibly mean that Johnstown would have less members if that comes to pass.

Several readings were given, "Reading Hath Charms," by Mrs. Curtis; "Our Church," by Mrs. Clapp; "Gussie Goose," by Mrs. Arnold Harry. A piano solo was rendered by Mrs. Alec Vandervoort; a reading "Cheer Up" by Mrs. W. S. Harry. The hymn, "Come Holy Ghost, Our Hearts Inspire," was sung, followed by the benediction.

A contest was put on by Mrs. Glenn Silckie and won by Mrs. G. A. Puttenham.

After the singing of "Grace," all were asked to sit down to a bountiful supper.

Thanks were tendered for the lovely meal to the hostess and conveners.

SPRINGBROOK W.A.

The members of Springbrook United Church Women's Association held its regular monthly meeting in the church basement last Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Gordon Bailey and Mrs. Gordon Bateman as hostesses.

The president, Mrs. Clayton Burkitt extended a welcome to all, including the visitors.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. M. McMullen, the theme being "Understanding."

The Scripture, taken from Psalm 139: 1-12 was read by Mrs. Lorne Bailey. A prayer for the missionary was offered by Mrs. McMullen.

The theme thoughts were read by Mrs. Charles Gordanier and Mrs. Percy Mumby.

The roll call, "A Prophet," was responded to by 31 members and four visitors.

Mrs. Percy Mumby reported for the July visiting committee. Mrs. F. Cosbey and Mrs. M. McMullen were appointed to this committee for August. The sick and shut-in convener reported on fruit and flowers sent out.

A display of literature was explained by Mrs. Carman Sine which will be dealt with at a later date.

A lengthy business period followed consisting of plans for catering to a wedding reception in August 24. The committee named for same, Mrs. D. Fleming as convener, with Mesdames Reg McKeown, G. Broadworth, C. Sine, K. Thompson, C. Bateman, B. Bateman. Decorating committee, Junior Adult Bible class.

It was also decided to purchase new tablecloths with Mesdames C. Sine, K. Thompson, S. Thompson and B. Bateman to act as the committee for same.

September 27 was the date set aside for the bazaar. A guest speaker is to be contacted and invitations will be sent out to surrounding W.As. A planning committee for the bazaar consists of Mesdames G. Williams, D. Fleming, C. Sine, B. Bateman, R. Wellman and C. Burkitt.

Mrs. Susie Thompson, who is in charge of buying and selling of cards as a fund raising project, spoke briefly as to the purchasing of more cards.

This concluded the business and the following program was enjoyed. The topic on "Friendship" was given by Mrs. Wallace McIlroy; readings by Mrs. P. Smith, in the absence of Mrs. E. Bateman; by Mrs. F. McKeown and by Mrs. I. Bristol in the absence of Mrs. O. Barton. A solo by Mrs. G. Williams with Mrs. F. McKeown accompanying at the organ.

The hostesses and their assistants served refreshments. Collection $5. The hostesses for September will be Mrs. F. Cosbey and Miss E. Peake.

Colorful Revue On Tap for Fair Visitors

A colorful, scintillating revue is on tap for grandstand patrons at the Fair, from August 12th when GAC-Hamid, New York City premier "Stairway to the Stars."

A brand new offering from the world's foremost producers of outdoor revues, "Stairway to the Stars" is a brilliantly presented extravaganza combining eye-filling production numbers and toe-tapping tunes with a line of lovely and talented dancers.

"Stairway to the Stars" staged on a series of various expansion levels assumes a grandiose proportion providing a wide array of talent and fantastic staging. The production choreography and musical concepts are novel and daring.

Opening the show is a fast-paced number with a nautical flavor, featuring a line of cheerful lovelies dressed in sailor suits. They're perched on three levels of stills and the way they go through their paces makes the routine an unusually eye-catching novelty.

Grace and smoothness accentuate the waltz that follows, filling the stage with swirling skirts and lithe movements to the tune of the ever popular "Merry Widow Waltz."

One of the highlights and a lavish production in the show is the "Plumes of Paradise," which is the theme of the show. In the opening sequence is revealed a mammoth set of stairs on the gigantic stage. Blue-colored lights centred on stage reveal rows upon rows of white fans and the music swells in volume as the fans undulate, forming various movements in precision to the music. Four foot plumes fans of pure white and multi-colored lights add to the spectacular and lavish effect showed in this number.

The finale number is "Tribute to the United Nations." As the show starts up a flag slowly rises up from in back of the top set of stairs carried by the first of the revue girls. She comes over the top of the stairs and proceeds down towards the front of the stage and is followed by rows of girls, each carrying a flag and they line up into precision formations and do an intricate flag drill.

Each girl places her flag in a holder, flanking each side of the stage at the conclusion of the drill. The girls then disappear over the back of the stairs and as the last girl exits the first girl re-appears carrying a drum and starts beating the drum in time with the music. The other girls in the chorus follow each playing a drum and as they descend the stairway they perform precision routines and formations.

Toward the end of the number the singers come on stage and the chorus in the Battle Hymn of the Republic and the National Anthem.

Bomb Threats Clear Bus Depot

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Bomb threats emptied a bus terminal at Rainbow Bridge twice Tuesday, sending police on fruitless bomb chases.

They searched more than six hours after ticket seller Earl Greenwood reported an anonymous caller told him "there is a bomb set to go off this afternoon."

Tickets were sold from a table in the terminal yard during the search and then moved indoors. The terminal reopened at 4 p.m. when no bomb was found.

Shortly after the evening ticket clerk Gordon Phillips told police a telephone caller said, "There is five—you've got 15 minutes before it blows." Police cleared the terminal for another search. Again, no bomb.

81-Year-Old Craftsman Making 36-Foot Hudson Bay Canoe to Place in Museum

GOLDEN LAKE, Ont. (CP)—A memorial in birch bark is slowly gathering shape in an old wooden shed on an Algonquin reservation in this Ottawa valley district 70 miles northwest of the capital.

A 36-foot Hudson Bay canoe is being pieced together by an 81-year-old craftsman, Mathieu Bernard, for the national museum in Ottawa, where it will stand as a reminder to Canadians of days long gone.

A recent peek into the shed showed 36 feet of almost perfectly matched birch bark, neatly sewn together and lying flat on the earthen floor. Centring it was a wood model of what will eventually be a cedar lining, with cedar ribs. The bow, five feet high, was in its first stages—ash wood resting in a form.

IDEAL MATERIALS

"Bark was ideal to start on sewing the canoe together.

"Sometimes the spruce white spruce roots will be used," said Mathieu. "They're tougher than, so tough that 1,000 years from now the freighter will still be in good shape."

The search for the birch bark which must be pliable and not crack or pull apart, began last year. Mathieu, three sons and a grandson covered 3,000 miles in Ontario and Quebec forest districts before they were satisfied with 40 pieces of bark.

The giant freighter canoe will be equipped with swinging seats. One of 18 paddles already made is a smooth-flowing thing fashioned from elm burn, black cherry wood, maple, mahogany and walnut.

"Materials are too hard to get," Mathieu said. "Once I could make a canoe for $15, but now it costs $140." He says that at his age he has trouble keeping up with the flow of orders—the latest for 17 canoes from a Californian.

The 36-footer is the largest canoe Mathieu has ever made. Never before had the master craftsman of the Algonquin Indians tried anything larger than a 28-footer.

YOUNG PROVIDER

Born in Chapeau, Que., Mathieu Bernard quit school after his father died and when his mother moved to Pembroke, north of here, he helped her earn a living making moccasins and embroidered mittens.

He also fished from a bridge in Pembroke, sold his catch and with the proceeds bought plug tobacco to sell to Indian trappers on their annual visit to the Fort William mission on the Ottawa River.

Then he learned the ways of his people and when he had learned all they could teach, he became a craftsman.

Now he has behind him a history as woodsman, lumberjack, sportsman and artist. His career will be a crowning achievement and a fitting memorial.

Quebec Farmers May Sue Govt. Over Floods

ST. JOSEPH DE BEAUCE, Que. (CP)—A group of farmers near this community on the banks of the Chaudiere River are reported planning to sue the federal government if they are not compensated for heavy crop losses during last weekend's violent thunderstorm.

L'Evenement Journal of Quebec reported Wed. the farmers have decided to ask the government for payment of "more than $30,000 damage" to oats and barley crops, caused when the storm pulled the waters of the Chaudiere River 20 feet above normal level, flooding low-lying farmlands.

After a 1917 flood, in which the river swelled 40 feet over its banks during a torrential six-hour rain, engineers were hired by the federal government to study the problem. The engineers recommended that the government build dams and canals in the Beauce area, but the recommendations were not carried out, the paper says.

The newspaper says that because the recommendations were disregarded the farmers feel the government is responsible for the damage.

Federal Govt. Cuts off Source Of Light Beer

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government, at the request of the Ontario liquor control board, has cut off the source of light beer in the province.

H. Collings, chief commissioner of the liquor control board, Tuesday night said the board has informed Ottawa of its recent decision that light beer imported from Saint John, N.B., is an intoxicating beverage.

As a result, he said, the department of national revenue has instructed customs and excise officials that any further shipments of the beer must be consigned to the LCBO instead of the Ontario Retail Grocers' Association which has marketed the brew.

The department of national revenue administers the Importation of Intoxicating Liquor Act, a federal statute passed at the request of the provinces, to preserve provincial monopolies in the sale and distribution of beer and liquor.

Credit Valley Will Be Saved Says Premier

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost said Wednesday the Ontario government intends to save the natural resources of the Credit River valley west of Toronto.

"The time to act is now, before it is too late," he said in an interview.

The province has every intention of saving the valley from the fate that has overtaken other watersheds in Ontario, he said.

A. M. Snider, chairman of the Ontario water resources commission, said earlier the problem of river pollution in the Credit watershed would be tackled with vigor.

A tannery was convicted last week of polluting Black Creek, a tributary of the Credit River. Dr. A. E. Berry, general manager of the commission, said the resulting publicity had strengthened the commission's fight to clean up the valley.

Senate Votes To Return Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States Senate vote has returned the civil rights bill to the House of Representatives amid reports that President Eisenhower will call Congress back in November unless he gets a measure he feels he can sign.

The Senate's "jury trial version" of the bill was roundly condemned by civil rights advocates, but they helped supply the votes for the historic passage—72 to 18—of the measure Wednesday night. It is the first of its kind approved by the Senate in more than 80 years.

The fate of the bill is uncertain in the House, which passed a more much broader in scope and more stringent in enforcement provisions.

But some House members are starting to talk of compromises, expressing hope they still can salvage a bill they could consider worth while.

VETO POSSIBLE

Responsible administration officials have said Eisenhower will veto the measure if the jury trial provision inserted by the Senate is not revised. Any such veto would likely be accompanied by the announcement that congress will be called back to Washington this fall, these officials said.

Asian Flu Will Be Checked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower took steps Wednesday to buttress defences against any large-scale outbreak of Asian flu this fall or winter.

Surgeon-General Leroy Burney of the U.S. public health service has said "there is a very definite probability" of a large incidence of the disease which, as of Aug. 2, had struck 11,000 persons in the U.S. and caused three deaths.

President Eisenhower asked congress for $500,000 to enable the public health service to be prepared for epidemics. He also requested authority to use about $2,000,000 of public health funds against any large flu epidemic.

Said Falsehood

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advertised claims for drugs said to allow persons to lose weight without dieting were denounced Wednesday as "a deliberate falsehood" by a medical authority on obesity.

Dr. Leon Hirsch of Cincinnati, author of medical reports on obesity studies, told a House of Representatives investigating subcommittee that most of this class of drugs sold without prescription are worthless and harmless.

But he also said preparations containing the drug phenyl propanolamine have potential danger. Uncontrolled use of it could cause coronary heart attack, cerebral hemorrhage and even death in susceptible persons.

TWINS A HABIT

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP)—Her seventh set of twins was born to an Indian woman at a hospital here today. Born to Mrs. Marcella Big Crow, 34, were 3 weighing six pounds, 12 ounces, and nine minutes later, a boy weighing seven pounds, seven ounces Mrs. Big Crow now has seven birth to 14 children—the seven sets of twins and four single births.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was watching pop smoking to himself, and she said, William, you're a grate book reeder, what are your generel rules for buying a book?

Pers! I consider the author, pop said. No book can be better than its author, even though it may be better looking. If a writer has already written good books, the chances are he will write more, he said, and ma said, That's a strange coincidenie, William. I meen the same thing is true of people's children, she said.

I never knew anybody's child to write a good book, pop said, and ma said, I dont meen that. I meen if you see one good looking child in a family, the chances are the other children will be good looking too, especially if both parents are handsome people. But anyway, William, suppose a book was written by some writer you never heard of, what then?

Then I place my trust in the judgement of professional critics who have recommended g o o d books in the past, pop said, and ma said, But suppose no professional critic has ever mentioned this particuler book?

Then I reed the ferst few pages and if I like the stile I buy the book, pop said, and ma said, I'm glad to hear you say so, because that's just what I did in the book store today. I was undecided about a book called Shadows of Ashes, but the ferst few pages at the end of the book were so distinguishing I refused to buy any book with sutch an unhappy ellmax, she said.

My dear, it's a woman's world and that's what makes it so interisting, pop said.

And he got in back of his own book and stayed there.

The Honey Girls Fine Acrobatic Act for Fair

An act currently enjoying great popularity over the major fair circuits is the Honey Girls. Their appearance in the star-studded grandstand show at the Belleville Fair, from Monday to Thursday, is bound to spark plenty of additional debate on the relative merits of women and men as stellar performers in acrobatic acts.

Though they've already been the subject of many a hotly contested gabfest, the four girls go right ahead with their fast, well-drilled, neatly-costumed routine of comedy acrobatics. Most of their numbers call for physical strength, close timing and speed usually achieved only by teams having male partners or all-male groups.

Two of the four girls were child performers in the Orginal Honey Family, a big Australian acrobatic troupe that enjoyed great popularity in America some years ago. All four of the current combination assure the casual inquirer that there isn't any easy way to learn acrobatics. "Fifteen years of practice in which the color is mainly black-and-blue" is the laconic way that one of the girls summarizes the road to gymnastic fame. Then she dismisses the subject with a little gesture of a well-manicured hand upturned just long enough to reveal the callouses in the palm.

On-stage and off, these four career girls are possessed of personal charm, sparkle and magnetic attraction. Their inclusion in the grandstand show at the Belleville Fair will enrich an already fine program with lavish quantities of feminine glamor and talent.

CHARGED IN STABBING

HAMILTON (CP) — Bail of $2,000 each was set Tuesday for three men who appeared in court on charges of wounding. Bernard Kelly, 21, was taken to hospital Saturday night with three stab wounds. He was in fair condition Tuesday. Anton Bahoffer, 28, Paul Legeny, 31, both of Hamilton, and Simon Csoli, 29, of Toronto were remanded to Aug. 15.

One in Twenty Hungarians Have TB, VD

OTTAWA (CP) — About five per cent of the 32,000 Hungarian refugees who have arrived in Canada showed symptoms of active or inactive tuberculosis, a health department official said Tuesday.

The official also said that approximately five per cent of the refugees were found to be suffering from various stages of syphilis.

Those with inactive tuberculosis were released from hospital but must report to provincial health authorities regularly. They will not be granted landing rights until the disease has been arrested for two full years.

The health department official said the TB and VD rate among Hungarians is high because of a lack of treatment and hospital care for persons with the diseases in Hungary.

An immigration department official said the TB and VD rate was not a factor in the government's recent decision to restrict the flow of Hungarians to Canada.

TWEED — Curtis LaFontaine of Baltimore, Ontario, is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. M. LaFontaine, and Misses Edna Colleen, on North Victoria Street for a month.

Miss Shirley Robertson, of Cloyne, is visiting this week with Miss Patricia MacLean, of town. She returned to her home on Tuesday.

The Bond draw was carried out at the final dance, sponsored by the Canadian Legion, at the Memorial Park Pavilion, Monday night, finishing up another big weekend event over the Civic Holiday. Little Sharon Rashotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rashotte, drew the winning tickets from the assortment of many, the draw was supervised by Mr. Oscar Thurston, president of the local legion.

A good crowd was present at this dance, although not as large as the one at midnight Sunday night. The legionaires are really pleased with the proceeds, as stated by the president.

The many friends of Mr. William R. Wood, who owns and operates a garage on Bridge street, will regret to know he was taken ill early in the week, the doctor states it will be a little while before he will be to resume his duties at the garage. All trust he will soon be feeling his old self again.

Mr. Rodolphe Gautier, of Rennes, France, who is employed for the present at Cutler, Ontario, spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack MacLean, Bel-O-Way, Tweed.

Health and Welfare Minister Will Be Appointed Before Opening of House, Oct. 14

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker has appointed his third cabinet minister from Quebec, Paul E. Comtois, and given the key agriculture portfolio to Northern Affairs Minister Douglas Harkness of Calgary.

Making the first cabinet adjustments since the Progressive Conservative government was formed June 21, Mr. Diefenbaker said Wednesday he will fill the post of health and welfare minister—still not permanently assigned—before Parliament opens Oct. 14.

The prime minister also indicated to reporters he has no present plans to step out of the external affairs portfolio which he himself holds.

NEW TO COMMONS

The 61-year-old Mr. Comtois, business administrator and farm specialist, minister of forests, mines and technical surveys. He is the only member of the Conservative cabinet without parliamentary experience. Nicolet-Yamaska constituency elected Mr. June 10 for the first time.

His appointment brings to 18 the number in the Conservative cabinet.

Mr. Harkness, 54-year-old livestock farmer, became northern affairs minister when the cabinet was formed and also took on agriculture then as an acting job.

Mr. Diefenbaker said that Mr. Harkness will step out of the northern affairs portfolio shortly.

EIGHT ASSISTANTS

In a series of other announcements, the prime minister named public the names of eight parliamentary assistants — MPs who act as aides to cabinet members —and said he will fill out the ranks of assistants to the maximum of 14 with six more appointments next week.

He named Alston Cardiff, member for Huron, Ont., as chief government whip in the Commons.

And he said he hopes to make a number of judicial appointments soon.

Quebec now has the same number of cabinet representatives as British Columbia — three. Five ministers are from Ontario and one from each of the other provinces.

Arthur Maloney, 37, of Toronto Fairfield, a prominent criminal lawyer, and outspoken opponent of capital punishment, was among the eight parliamentary assistants named. He was appointed aide to Labor Minister Starr.

John A. Charlton became assistant to the agriculture minister. As MP for Ontario's Brant-Haldimand since 1945 and the party's top farm spokesman in the Commons, Mr. Charlton had been expected to become agriculture minister in the event Mr. Diefenbaker had gone against the custom of having a westerner in the job.

The other assistants

Health — G. Ernest Halpenny, 54, manufacturing chemist and new member for London.

Mines — Raymond O'Hurley, 41-year-old timber estimator who won Lotbiniere, Que., from Liberal Victorien Lafrenière Hogues Lapointe on June 10.

Defence — Robert Lambert, 37, who won Edmonton West from the Liberals following the retirement of Liberal Mines Minister Prudham.

Transport — Thomas M. Bell, 34, lawyer, member since 1953 for St. John-Albert, N.B., and president of the Young Progressive Conservative Association.

Transport — Angus R. MacDonald, 55, merchant who won Nova Scotia's Antigonish - Guysborough from the Liberals.

Public Works — Clayton W. Hodgson, 60, lumber company operator and MP for Victoria, Ont. Mr. Hodgson was a school trustee and a municipal and county councillor before he was elected to the Commons in 1945.

Parliamentary assistants draw $4,000 a year on top of the $10,000 received as a Commons member, compared with the total $27,000 received by cabinet ministers. Party whips receive no special pay.

Union Chief Will Continue Bid For Citizenship

MONTREAL (CP) — Hal C. Banks, American - born union chief of Canadian seamen, will continue his bid for Canadian citizenship next week. Hearing of his application, bitterly opposed by four persons, was adjourned Wednesday until Aug. 16.

Mr. Banks, head of the Canadian locals of the Seafarers' International Union (CLC), applied for Canadian citizenship last May —five years after being admitted as a Canadian immigrant and nine years after coming to Canada.

His application went before Judge Paul Fontaine, with protest actions tabled against it by John McGough, who said he was secretary of the Great Lakes and eastern section of the National Association of Marine Engineers as a Canadian; Maurice Marrinan and Byron Ryan, former SIU members; and Ernest Boudreau, who said he was a paid-up SIU member.

CALLED TYRANT

In their protests, they called Mr. Banks a "tyrant and bully undermining the harmony of union affairs in Canada," and claimed he should be deported on the grounds he is a convicted felon.

Mr. Banks admitted in court Wednesday that he had served time—"three years and something"—in San Quentin, Calif., penitentiary for cashing a cheque without sufficient funds.

"But your honor" Banks added "I later received a pardon from Governor Earl Warren."

He also said he had been

NEW MINISTERS

charged in California with child-stealing in 1934 and with illegal possession of firearms in 1947, but had been acquitted of both charges.

"The child-stealing charge was a case of mistaken identity," he said, "and the firearms charge was thrown out after it was shown that the gun I had was an antique missing many parts."

Mr. Banks, whose second wife is a Canadian, told the judge, under questioning, that he was convicted in Canada in 1952 on a charge of illegally possessing American cigarets on which duty had not been paid.

The judge will hear Mr. Banks' application — and those who oppose it—and then recommend to the immigration minister whether citizenship should be granted.

Accuse Lawyer Of Hiring Men To Kill Owner

CHICAGO (AP) — Two men have accused a lawyer of hiring them to kill a Chicago department store owner whose wife the lawyer had been dating.

Police said the accusers related Wednesday they backed out of the plot but that the store owner, Sanford Lerner, 46, was shot to death April 3 in his home in a fashion identical to the plan given them.

The lawyer, Joseph R. Roth, 51 was booked on charges of conspiracy to commit murder and conspiracy to commit assault. He was released on $400 bond.

Roth denied the accusations of Sheldon Polakoff, 29, of Lakeside, Mich., a former Chicago saloon owner, and Donald Dubey, 29, of Chicago, remarking:

"It sounds like the scenario of a show I've seen on television." The third person in the alleged triangle, Mrs. Lilyan Lerner, 45, was questioned and released.

5,000 U.S. Dentists Trained To Use Hypnosis in Filling Cavities, Extracting Teeth

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — You are told to let your mind wander to pleasant things.

I imagined myself in a canoe, paddling in time to some favorite music.

The dentist became a sort of disembodied voice, suggesting sensations. I drifted off . . . .

The technique is hypnosis applied to dentistry. The word some dentists have coined to describe it is hypnodontics.

To find out how drilling can be pleasant, I went to a hypnodontist, Dr. Philip Ament of Buffalo. I have two cavities to be filled.

As part of a thorough briefing, he told me that there are some 5,000 dentists trained in the hypnosis in the United States. They have an organization, the American Society of Psychosomatic Dentistry. Dr. Ament edits the society's journal.

The American Dental Association has neither condemned nor accepted the use of hypnosis in the profession. In an editorial in the June issue of its journal, it considered the hypnotic method at some length and said:

"One of the principle reasons why hypnosis has not been accepted more readily by the profession is that dentists, for the most part, recognize it as a profoundly serious psychological phenomenon—not a procedure that may be learned in four or six or even a dozen easy lessons."

Then it said:

"Practitioners competent in its use will find it helpful in the relief of the patient's anxiety and tension. But even they will have to rely on the usual methods of anesthetics for, the prevention and relief of pain."

The ADA said there are no authoritative figures on how many dentists use hypnosis, or who percentage of patients is suscepti ble to it.

Dr. Ament said that most hypnodontists consider it just another useful tool in their armamentaria. Most reserve its use for patients who are allergic to the standard pain-killing drugs, or who have an abnormal dread of the drill.

I found the technique a sort of mental game of follow the leader —or, in the words of a popular song, Friendly Persuasion. The dentist shows the way, and you follow if you want to.

There is no command to "go to sleep," or "look into my eyes." No spell is cast.

Once in the chair, thinking pleasant thoughts, listening to the dentist's suggestions, drifting off, I found that I really wanted to oblige him. I tried to imagine feeling the things he asked me to feel. Soon I really did. Here's how it worked:

He asked me to imagine that I was wearing a heavy leather glove on one hand, which made it feel numb. When the numbness was established, he asked me to feel that the numbness was concentrated in a single finger.

Then I was asked to touch the finger to the proper tooth, and to imagine the numbness flowing from finger to molar, until the tooth became dead to pain.

When the drilling started, I felt nothing. Somehow the noise and the pressure were incorporated into my daydream. The racket became an airplane buzzing over the lake on which I floated in my canoe.

When the doctor had finished, I heard him say:

"Count to three, count to three out loud and open your eyes. You are awake!

I did.

"When are you going to drill?" I asked.

"It's all over," he smiled. "How do you feel?"

I stepped out of the chair, exploring two new fillings with my tongue. I looked at my watch. I had been dreaming for half an hour but I felt as if I had slept for five hours.

By developing stages of suggestion, dentists says, the cooperative patient can be induced to deeper and deeper abstraction. In some way yet unknown, his mind is able to cut off sense of pain. Applied to dentistry, the doctor says, even extractions can be made and stitches taken without feeling.

Will Face Charges

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Two 19-year-old Americans, arrested in London Wednesday night, will face charges here in connection with the robbery of a Hanover man.

The two gave their names as Grover Moise Collins, of Winston Salem, N.C., and James Ray Fortie of Kernersville, N.C.

John Gilbert, 60, of Hanover, said two hitch-hikers he had picked up in the Tillsonburg area attacked him near here. They stole $18, bound him and dumped him in a bush, and made off in his car, he said.

Bound hand and foot, Gilbert crawled on one elbow and one foot to the highway, where he was aided by an unidentified trucker. He is not believed to have suffered serious injury.

Theatre Given Reprieve From Wreckers

LONDON (AP) — St. James's Theatre has been given a reprieve from the wrecker's hammer.

The reprieve gives actress Vivien Leigh's forces time to raise £350,000 for preservation of the historic showhouse.

The investment company which purchased the site with a view to knocking down the theatre and building a block of offices, said demolition has been deferred.

The company said at least £350,000 is needed to buy the theatre, discharge professional fees, cancel the agreement with the builders and cover necessary minimum repairs to the building.

Two Americas millionaires have been named as interested in saving the old theatre. One is Huntington Hartford, chain store heir. The other was identified by Miss Leigh as a Mr. Cort, but she said she was still waiting to hear from him.

Rawdon

RAWDON — A heavy electric storm passed over the township Saturday and a number of cows were killed and several people report their electrical appliances damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Donald entertained Mr. and Mrs. Karl Rice, Belleville, over the holiday week-end.

Hollywood Face Changed With Death of Hardy

By HUBBARD KEAVEY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The face of Hollywood has changed with the death of Oliver Hardy, and old-timers who covered movieland in the heyday of Laurel and Hardy are saddened.

Both the 300-pound Hardy, who died Wednesday, and his shy, slim, h a n d-wringing partner, Stan Laurel, had been ill for a long time and absent from the movie lots. But we who found them interesting off-screen as well as funny on it held hopes, probably false, that they would come back.

They both talked frequently of a television series after their quarter-century-old films reached a new generation on TV. They said they saw a new life, new glory, new fortunes. At least they talked of these things, but in their hearts they must have known they never could reach the peak again.

SPENT MONEY FREELY

Both were sensitive, intelligent men, despite the buffoonery that catapulted them to stardom. They worked together on a dozen low-tax years, spending money as if it grew on trees.

Laurel told me in 1940 that "we haven't been so smart financially—we used to invest and then think about it." He and Hardy dropped a wad in gold mines and oil wells.

Alimony was an expensive luxury, too. Hardy was married three times, Laurel seven times —to four different wives. In 1946 Stan said he was insolvent—"too much alimony."

They became a team when Hal Roach, who could pick talent, saw the skinny guy as perfect foil for the fat one.

Here was a typical bit of their kind of slapstick: Both were on a fire escape. Hardy wanted to get to an adjoining fire escape but couldn't reach it. The villain was closing in. Laurel, last in his instance, his toes caught in the first escape while he grabbed the other with his hands. A bridge was formed—and the fat one walked across the slim one's back to safety.

Two Canadian Soldiers Held

CAIRO (AP) — The Egyptian newspaper Al Ahram says Egyptian authorities today seized a United Nations Emergency Force car loaded with narcotics and arrested two Canadian non-commissioned officers.

Al Ahram says the two NCOs, both UNEF members, were stopped while trying to cross the Suez Canal from Sinai into Egypt.

The UN office in Cairo said it could not immediately confirm or disprove the newspaper report.

Al Ahram says Egyptian officials are investigating the incident and that the liaison committee operating between the UN force and Egypt has been notified.

'Moscow Molly' Giving Laughs To Men in Arctic

OTTAWA (CP) — "Moscow Molly" has a new male fellow broadcaster.

Listeners report that the new propagandist's voice sounds similar to that of CBC television announcer Larry Henderson.

"Moscow Molly" is the name northern residents of Canada have given to the Russian woman who reads in English the Red version of the news on the nightly broadcast which Moscow beams at the Canadian Arctic.

Travellers recently returned from the Arctic say "Molly" and a male companion read alternate items during the 7 p.m. broadcast.

DIAL FOR LAUGHS

In some remote sections of the Canadian Arctic the Moscow broadcast is the only one the inhabitants can pick up. They tune in mostly for laughs.

Listeners say nearly every disturbance in Canada, such as a picket line fracas or juvenile gang fight, is referred to by Moscow radio as a "food riot."

Northern listeners were grateful for one topic of news last winter: Moscow radio was filled with results of the Russian hockey games.

The 15-minute broadcasts contain no more information than can be gleaned from Canadian newspapers and magazines, listeners say.

Moira

MOIRA — Moira W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Milton Vanderwater with a large crowd in attendance. The vice-president, Mrs. Gordon Foster, had charge of the meeting in the absence of the president.

The meeting was opened by Mr. George Dyson. Scripture reading was read by Mrs. Wesley Farrell. Business was discussed and a presentation made to a new baby. Convener Mrs. Charlotte Vandewater was in charge of the program with a reading by Jean Thompson, "Christian As a Homemaker"; reading by Mrs. Ellarby, "Only One Talent"; piano solo by Linda Ketcheson; reading by Mr. Dyson, which he composed on Niagara Falls; reading by Mrs. Wes Farrell, "My Case at Court"; reading by Stella, "Heart of Prayer," and a solo by Mrs. Dyson, "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer." Refreshments were served by the hostess and helpers.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInroy, Deane and Shirley, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McInroy were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McMullen, Belleville.

The threshing machine is starting to make its rounds and by all reports the grain is going to be a big crop.

Former Liberal Works Minister Accepts Post

TORONTO (CP) — Rio Tinto Mining Company of Canada Tuesday announced the appointment of former Liberal Works Minister R. H. Winters, 67, as its president, effective Sept. 8.

"I have for a long time hoped that we should be able to obtain Mr. Winters' services for Rio Tinto, and am delighted that he has become available," said J. N. V. Duncan, managing director of the parent Rio Tinto company of London.

Mr. Duncan, now visiting in Toronto, has been serving as president of the Canadian company since it was organized. He remains as a member of the board.

The announcement made no mention of salary, reported recently to be $60,000 a year.

Mr. Winters, a civil engineer, was defeated in his riding of Queens-Lunenburg in the June 10 Dominion election. He had been federal works minister since 1953, a member of the cabinet since 1948 and an MP since 1945.

Rio Tinto of Canada operates several mining properties in the Blind River uranium field and elsewhere in Canada.

SHOT BY FIRE

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A fire Tuesday sent James Barnes to the hospital with a bullet wound. Police said the 53-year-old man fell asleep while smoking a cigaret, setting the mattress afire. The heat exploded cartridges in a .22-calibre revolver he kept under his pillow, and the bullet en-

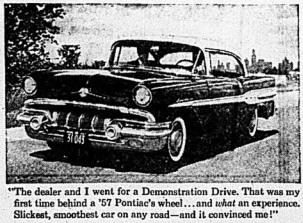
I bought Pontiac again!

"Seems like, suddenly you decide to buy a new car. I did—and started checking ads and makes. But I was pretty sure my choice would be Pontiac, as it has been for years."



"The dealer and I went for a Demonstration Drive. That was my first time behind a '57 Pontiac's wheel...and what an experience. Slickest, smoothest car on any road—and it convinced me!"

"And here are the neighbours admiring our new Pontiac. And after the envious glances and pointed remarks I wouldn't be surprised to see them blossom out in a new Pontiac, too!"

Playoff Dates For Minor Baseball

Belated Belleville Minor Baseball Association playoff schedules were released today. They did not arrive in time for earlier publication.

Bantam games tonight are CNR vs K. of C. at the CNR park, and Rollins Construction vs Parkdale at Pine Street. The second games of the best-of-three-series will be played Aug. 12.

PEEWEE LEAGUE

On Saturday, Aug. 10, starting 1.30 p.m., Parkdale meets Rotary at CNR; Army and Navy plays Kiwanis at Alemite and Lumbermen meet Williams at Pine Street. The second games of this series are scheduled for Monday, Aug. 12 at 6.30 p.m.

There will be no tie games.

The winners of the bantam series will play a best-of-five for the city championship.

The winners of the three peewee series will go into the second round. Elliotts which drew a bye, will constitute the fourth team. Deacons will represent the city in the OBA peewee playdowns.

Managers must field full teams, otherwise the game will be awarded to the other team.

Rained-out games will be played the following night. The home team will supply the plate umpire.

Third games in best-of-three series will be played by mutual arrangement of the managers.

The bantam series must be completed by Friday, Aug. 16.

In the midget city finals, Northern Electric meets Vaughans on Aug. 20, 22 and 27 at the Alemite field. If fourth and fifth games are necessary in the best-of-five series they will be played the following Thursday and Tuesday night.

Tiger Manager Won't Be Fired, Just a Rumor

DETROIT (AP)—Rumors that Jack Tighe is about to be fired as manager of the fifth-place Detroit Tigers are "the products of somebody's wild imagination" general manager John J. McHale said today.

"We've heard the rumors, too" said McHale, "but there's absolutely nothing to them. Every time a club is going badly these reports crop up."

Not long ago there was a published report that Tighe soon would be replaced by Joe Gordon former Cleveland and New York second baseman and a Tiger coach for part of the 1956 season.

Tighe, who succeeded Bucky Harris last year, has a one-year contract.

Quebec Swimmer Fails to Cross the Lake

TORONTO (CP) — Lake Ontario had its busiest day in almost a year Wednesday as one swimmer covered 28 of the 32 miles between Niagara-on-the-Lake and Toronto and two others set out in attempts to be the first to make it this year.

Robert Cossett, 27, from Chicoutimi, Que., a powerful polio stricken swimmer making his second attempt, was pulled out within sight of his goal early Wednesday night, weakened by high waves and a strong eastward drift. His coach, Armand Cloutier, estimated his swimmer had covered more than 32 miles but the current pushed them away from Toronto's Eastern Gap.

Jim Woods, 41, of Orlando, Fla., and 43-year-old Ralph Willard of Peekskill, N.Y., left the coast guard dock at Youngstown, N.Y., at 9:10 p.m., announcing their crossing would take the form of a race.

Observers at the departure noted the swimmers had one 14-foot outboard boat between them and wondered how far apart the two men would swim as the race progressed.

Water and wind temperatures were ideal at the start. The U.S. Coast Guard at Youngstown reported calm water on the American side of the lake. However, the weather office predicted the swimmers would meet 20-to-25 mile-an-hour winds if they were still in the water later today.

The lake crossing has been achieved by three swimmers. Marilyn Bell of Toronto was first to conquer it, in 1954. Last year Brenda Fisher of Grimsby, England, and John Jaremy of Toronto made the crossing.

BIG CATCH

WEST DRAYTON, Eng. (CP)—Riley Coates, 12, landed a six-pound pike although his hardware-made fishing rod snapped under the strain. The fish measured 31 inches.

A CLOSE ONE!

Bob Temple's Bobcats gave the Goyer Marines fair warning last night that they will be a force to be reckoned with in this "AA" playoff series. It was a closely-fought game with the tide of victory hanging in the balance until it swung to the Cats in the eighth.

The "Baran and the Bearcat" hooked up in a mound duel that was settled eventually by Johnny Casey's mighty triple with a man aboard who scored the winning run.

However, tomorrow sees another game with both squads confident they can take a game edge in the best-of-five series. Manager Tom Hosking will likely throw his buzz-baller Tommy Thompson at the Cats with Temple probably relying on Baran's arm again. Game gets under way at 8.30 at the CNRA Park. Better not miss it as the winner will have a stranglehold on the series, and both squads will go all out for the important victory.

HOW ABOUT IT!

Bob Phillips, secretary of the fair and Bruce Bishop, in charge of the special events, have gone all-out to make this year's track events at the exhibition one of the most attractive since their inception.

They have all arrangements under control and have a substantial amount of prize money on hand.

All they need to make a perfect attraction — entries.

You don't have to be a world-beater nor the fastest runner in the district in order to compete. The fact that you know some guy who can run should not deter you from filing an entry. There should be cash awards for everyone.

There is the top feature, the Mead Mile, with the handsome Mead-Johnson Trophy and a neat cash prize awaiting the winner, while others finishing in order will also receive awards of the coin of the realm.

You do not have to be an Ibboison, Bannister, Landy or Delaney to enter. Just don your track suit and tee off with the rest.

Then there are the half-mile and the quarter-mile events, as well as the half-mile relay with each of the four runners galloping 220 yards before handing over the baton.

There are a number of youngsters in the city who have been trotting around the secondary schools cross-country course with the greater majority finishing.

Why don't you chaps get one, two or three relay teams together and enter the Fair event? It will be a lot of fun, not too much effort, with some spending money awaiting the ones who win.

Or you can enter more than one event. In order to facilitate runners taking part in extra events the races have been spaced to give contestants plenty of rest time between heats.

So how about getting that entry in to "Red" Doran's office at the city hall, or Bruce Bishop, at Bishop's Seeds, Front Street. Or, if you fail to enter this way, be at the Fair Grounds early next Monday afternoon and your entry will be accepted on the track up to race time. But to facilitate matters for the officials, it would be better to file entry two or three days ahead of time so that final arrangements can be made before the day of the event.

SO THERE SHOULD

There should be a set pattern for wrestling referees. They should be big, have two eyes, be able to count past five without resorting to pencil and paper, and have agility enough to dodge a 200-pound wrestler who happens to be airborne in their general direction.

Tag team referees should be equipped with an extra head which revolves upon the shoulders. This No. 2 skullpiece should have two sets of movable eyes. Other spare parts should include arms which could replace others worn out from too much semaphore counting, and a fluorescent device worn between the eyes to detect articles such as pieces of string or rope, small boulders, or wads of paper sometimes secreted in the trunks or between the cheeks of the "heavies."

Meantime let's see what two of the current crop of athletes can do with Yukon Eric and Farmer Boy versus the Miller Brothers come Friday night. Last week the white-shirted man in the middle stopped a Miller in full flight and was grounded before he could let go his underarm carriage. He immediately blamed Yukon's quarterback, Farmer Boy, who tossed the forward, and awarded the match to the Millers.

With the backfield defence doubled, the arbiters should do well by the Yuke and Farmer, and the Millers, too, if a turn of events warrants it.

WHITE SOX BUY HURLER
CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox Wednesday announced the purchase of Jim Hughes, former Chicago Cub and Brooklyn Dodger pitcher from Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League for an undisclosed price.
Third-string catcher Earl Battey was optioned to make room for Hughes on the Chitago roster.

Clobbers Cincy in 12-2 Win As Chicubs Sock St. Louis; Bombers Taste Own Medicine

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gene Conley, who last spring figured "to have myself the best season of my major league career," then went winless for two months, has found the touch again to keep the pennant-pressing Milwaukee Braves perking in the National League race.

The big righthander helped Braves pad their lead to 1½ games Wednesday night, winning for the seventh time in his last eight decisions with a seven-hitter that beat fourth-place Cincinnati 12-2. Braves have won 10 of their last 12 in a battle with St. Louis for the top spot, and Conley, now 7-5, has claimed four of the victories—the top contribution from Milwaukee's pitching staff.

FIVE STRAIGHT

Milwaukee edged farther ahead in the seventh - place Chicago Cubs, winning five straight for the first time since 1955, socked second-place St. Louis for the second night in a row, this time 5-1.

Third-place Brooklyn fell four games behind, losing 8-5 as New York Giants scored five in the ninth and handed Don Newcombe his fourth consecutive defeat. Newk, who led the majors with a 27-7 record last season, made a spitting gesture and looked the looking fans at Jersey City's Roosevelt Stadium as he walked off, still burning from Hank Sauer's pinch-hit three-run homer that triggered the uprising.

Fifth-place Philadelphia, now seven games behind, and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

HAD SHOULDER TROUBLE

Conley, a 26-year-old giant (he stands 6-6) who had a 14-9 rookie year in 1955 and 11-7 in '56 then had shoulder troubles and an 8-9 record last season, was due before he beat Brooklyn in relief June 26. Since then, he's beaten New York and Pittsburgh, Cincinnati twice, and has added another over the Dodgers. Three were in relief.

The big guy brewed Wednesday night. Braves backed him up with 15 hits off starter - loser Brooks Lawrence and four relievers. Wes Covington was 2-for-2, hammering his 16th and 17th home runs and adding a sacrifice fly for four runs batted in. He also scored twice. Red Schoendienst chipped in a bases-loaded triple.

Hedlegs, now six games behind, have lost 10 of 12 with Braves this season.

ROOKIE WINS 10TH

Rookie righthander Dick Drott allowed only five singles, but needed Dick Littlefield's relief help to win his 10th for the Cubs. Littlefield came on in the eighth, with the bases loaded and one out—and got pinch - hitter Walker Cooper to hit into a double play. Walt Moryn, Bob Speake and Dale Long hit solo home runs for Chicago, with Speake cracking a 1-1 tie against loser Herm Wehmeier in the fourth inning.

Newcombe, shackled with 10 defeats for the first time since his sophomore season of 1950 when he was 3-13, hasn't had a complete game or victory since he won his ninth July 12 against Cincinnati in Jersey City. Brooklyn's home-away-from-home. After the game he said he was "too dazed to remember" whether he actually spat at the fans.

Roy Campanella, with four singles in four at bats, drove in three Dodger runs. Mary Grissom won it. He lifted in a reliever Brooklyn since 1954, with three shutout innings in relief of Johnny Antonelli.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ted Williams, the seemingly ageless Boston Red Sox thumper who is enjoying one of his best seasons ever, says he doesn't think he can hit .400.

While the Splendid Splinter, who will be 39 Aug. 30, may doubt that he can reach that magic mark he is still slugging away like a youngster.

The last of the .400 hitters—he hit .406 in 1941—is not far away from the mark today as he raised his percentage to .389 Wednesday night as Boston defeated Baltimore 5-2 in 11 innings.

In other American League action, Washington scored three in the fourth and beat New York 3-2, whittling the Yankees' lead to six games over second - place Chicago White Sox who whipped Kansas City 7-0 on Jim Wilson's two-hitter. Detroit banged Cleveland 4-1.

SCORED DECIDING RUN

Williams, 2-for-5, including a two - run first - inning double, singled with two out in the Red Sox' three-run 11th, then scored the deciding run on a wild pitch by loser Sam Jones after pinch - hitter Ed Hurley's call at first base. Hurley ruled Johnson had failed to touch the bag after taking a toss from first baseman Bobby Boyd, who had fielded Mickey Mantle's ninth grounder. Frank Sullivan won his 10th with a six-hitter. He went all the way for the Red Sox, now 9-7.

The Nats, who didn't have a hit for six innings and only two singles after eight, got to Tom Sturdivant with a two - out rally and Aert Schull's sacrifice fly scored the clincher.

GETS 30TH HOMER

Hank Bauer homered in the first for the Yanks and Mickey Mantle hit his 30th home run in the ninth. Mantle, Williams and Sievers, out of the starting lineup because of a swollen instep, are tied for the AL home run lead. Bob Speake won it in relief.

Wilson, a 25 - year - old righthander who tops the league with five shutouts, added a sacrifice fly for four runs batted in. He also scored twice. Red Schoendienst chipped in a bases-loaded triple.

Hedlegs, now six games behind have lost 10 of 12 with Braves this season.

Bobcats Square Playoff Series; Nip Marines 3-2

Bob Temple's Bobcats unleashed their claws sufficiently at the CNRAA Park last night to edge the Goyer Marines 3-2 in the second game of the current best-of-five "AA" playoffs.

The third set of the series is scheduled for Friday night while there is a strong possibility the fourth will be played on a "weekend" afternoon, the teams are all square with one victory each.

Lefty Baran's four-hit hurling and John Casey's late innings clutch clouting spelled victory for the Cats in a game that could have gone either way up to the last innings.

Baran walked four and whiffed three aiding his own cause with a bases-empty homer in the fifth that tied the score at two all.

"Bearcat" Adams went the route for the Marines and was nicked for eight hits, he struck out one and strolled but two.

The Cats started off on the run first in the first innings scoring a single when Casey lashed a long drive toward home after a putout and Crawford's single that smashed through Goyer's box for a hit.

St Dennis put the Marines back in the second frame driving home G. Goyer who had walked, with a centre field homer.

The team battled scorelessly until the fifth when Baran's lofty holst was good for two sacks and the tying run.

It was all over in the seventh when Bovay pulled down Dorbin's drive and drove Locke smashed out a single. Baran popped out to Kingston then Casey blasted a towering triple that scored Locke with the winning run.

Locke and Cousins hit back-to-back singles with one out in the eighth, Baran struck down and forced the next two batters to fly or pop out.

The Marines threatened to tie the count in the ninth when Johnny Goyer doubled with one out and raced to third after St. Denis' long fly. Leo Goyer bolsted one to first field and that was it.

St. Denis' homer and single sparked the Marine offensive with Johnny Green getting a double to account for two of the four hits.

Casey's homer and Casey's triple and single highlighted the Cats attack with Crawford with a pair, and Locke, Cousins and Wardhaugh rounding out the eight-hit quota.

TIED AT TOP

TORONTO (CP) — Peterborough Canoe Club moved into a tie with Branch Pontiac 16-8 Wednesday night to tie them for first place in Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior standings.

Bobby Allan led the visitors with four goals and seven assists. Ronald Jay also scored four while Jackie Ferguson and Joe Hildebrand had two each.

Tonight's action has two games scheduled and Long Branch one before the season ends.

Calgary Miss Explodes Stunning Upset; Ousts Marlene In 2nd Round

Mary Gay Whips Champion In Exciting 19-Hole Match; American Title-Holder Out

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The quarter-finals of the Canadian Ladies' Open amateur golf championship today became a free-for-all in the wake of the startling elimination of defending champion Marlene Stewart Streit.

Mary Gay of Calgary, formerly of Kitchener, supplied the explosive upset in Wednesday's second round when she bounced Marlene out at the 19th hole.

It was a big day for 25-year-old Mary, runner-up three times for the title, and she made the most of it. She lost little time grabbing holes when Marlene suddenly and inexplicably lost the steadiness that invariably has stamped her play.

Mary Gay Lucky

Whisked out with her were two American contenders for the title. Betty Blasband of Kenosha, Wis., lambert ushered out Mrs. Norman Wirsworth of New Canaan, Conn., by the same margin.

A poor shot at the extra hole cost Marlene the opportunity of trying for her fifth open title in seven years.

She had staged an uphill struggle all the way. Mary Gay was never behind. Mrs. Streit managed to square the match three times. Her boldest bid came far down the back nine when she pressure was put on. She grabbed the 17th and 18th to square the match.

19 YARDS SHORT

On the extra hole, both players were in safe territory after their second shots. They were on the 19-yarder. Then Marlene hit behind the ball on her third shot and it landed 20 yards short of the green. Mary was on with her third and won it with a 6 to Marlene's six.

"I wasn't hitting well and my putting wasn't good," said Marlene. "It's too bad, but just one of those things. That's the first time Mary has ever beaten me in match play."

Miss Gay today faces Elva Carrol of Hamilton, who scored a 3 and 1 win over Mrs. E. Hedstrom' of Toronto. Betty Stanhope meets Janet MacPha.

Marjorie Burns of Greensboro, N.C., and Mrs. C. F. Spalding of Greenwich, Conn., are the remaining Americans.

Miss Burns, winner 5 and 4 Wednesday over little Judy Darling of Montreal, meets Rae Milling of Regina, three from Calgary. Rae won 4 and 3 over Mrs. Robert Lyle of Montreal.

HAD A BATTLE

Mrs. Spalding had a battle on her hands before getting rid of Joyce Alton of Ottawa one up. Roma Neundorf of Toronto, who eliminated Mary Ellen Driscoll of Saint John, N.B., 3 and 1, meets Mrs. Spalding today.

Betty Cowell's elimination of Mrs. Glick—1956 winner of the U.S. women's under title—lost some of its glamour with Mary Gay's big win.

Betty played her best golf of both the Close and Open tournament, getting down her putts when they were most needed. She had a three-up lead over the Baltimore matron at the turn and lost two holes coming down the back nine before winning the 19th with a birdie to end the match.

NAMES SWIM DATE

PORTPATRICK, Scotland (AP) — Florence Chadwick, long-distance swimmer from San Diego, Calif., said Wednesday she will try to swim the tricky 21½ miles from Northern Ireland to Scotland Aug. 18.

Only swimmer to make the Irish Sea crossing was the late Tom Blower of England in 1947. Miss Chadwick swam the 10-mile Bristol Channel from Weston Super Mare to Penarth, Wales, in 6 hours, 7 minutes on Monday.

South Hastings Baseball

Latta eliminated Read in the South Hastings Baseball League semi-finals in three straight games winning the third last night by 11-9 in front of a large home crowd.

The homesters exploded for six runs in the first inning added a single in the second and pushed four more across the plate in the sixth.

Read counted three runs in the fourth and two in the sixth. They made a final effort to cut the margin in the seventh when they scored four runs but it was the last threat.

Little went the route for Read on the mound with Garfield Hall starting for Latta. He was relieved in the sixth by Stan Reid.

Sullivan with three singles, Meeks with a double and single, Glass and Hunt with two singles each and lone hits by Parks, Gowe, Steward and Ray provided the Latta power.

Little had a homer a double and two singles for Read with G. Brennan, and Roach hitting doubles. Walsh, Hanley and Callery two singles and T. Brennan one.

Columbus Trims Toronto 6-3; Royals Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way manager Eddie Lopat is waving the magic wand over the Richmond Yost Shower these days, it wouldn't be too surprising to see other International League managers asking their relievers and starters to trade places.

Twice in the last two nights, the former Yankee pitching star reached for a relief pitcher as a starter and not only came up with a winner but a shutout victor as well.

Tuesday night it was Jim Post with a four-hit, 2-0 decision over Montreal Royals. Wednesday night, Johnny Antonelli made his first start after more than two years "on relief" and whipped Royals, 5-3.

Montreal bounced back with an 8-4 victory in the second game but the split kept Richmond only 1½ games back of Buffalo's league leaders, the split with Miami, winning 4-0 and losing 4-3.

SIXTH STRAIGHT

Rochester defeated Havana 4-2, then lost 2-0 in a Cuban doubleheader and Columbus with Bob Kuzava winning his sixth straight defeated Toronto in other league activity.

James, now 5-3, allowed only four hits, set up the game's only run with a single off loser Fred Kipp in the fifth. Bob Kline, the fifth Royals' hurler, went to third on James' single and scored on Bobby Bertram's sacrifice fly. Gerry Barker won the nightcap over Bob Wiesler, who took his eighth loss in 18 decisions after giving up six runs on seven hits and two walks in the fourth inning.

Buffalo's Fred Hahn walked Marv Rotblatt with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth to hand Miami its second game victory over Buffalo. Lake Easter had slammed his 35th home run to support Ken Duser's three-hitter in the 4-0 opener.

BLANKS RED WINGS

Jose Santiago also turned up a three-hit shutout, blanking Rochester to gain Havana a split. Red Wings went an extra inning to win the 2-0 nightcap opener on a two-run homer by Gene Green, who previously had connected in two days.

Kuzava, now 6-0, allowed only three hits in stopping Toronto but one was a homer by Bob Roselli in the second inning following a walk and a single by Stan Jok. Jets, breaking a six-game losing string, peeled away at Humberto Robinson and Johnny Schmitz, who gave up 8-3 in the sixth, and won with a three-run burst in the seventh.

Junior Tennis Star Gives Senior Scare

By TOM VIRANY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Louise Brown of Toronto, top-seeded in the women's singles of the Ontario tennis championships, was forced Wednesday to fight an uphill battle against elimination at the hands of a newcomer to senior tennis ranks.

Mrs. Brown, left - handed defending Ontario woman's open titleholder, met the match to 19-year-old Joan O'Brien of Toronto before going on to win 6-3, 7-5, 6-3.

Mrs. Brown showed no sign of nervousness as last year's junior champion, with little practice this year, took six straight games from her.

A much stronger player, her sophisticated grip was useless against Miss O'Brien's high, long shots.

CHANGES STYLE

Miss O'Brien changed her style after the first set to hard shots straight down the line. After losing the first two games, she was persuaded to continue flopping the ball to the baseline and forged ahead to set point at 5-5. She then started gambling for air.

Mrs. Brown played smoothly to victory from then on.

The riddle spectators couldn't answer was why Joan twice changed her twice-proven winning style.

Joan's singles, Brazil's Armando Vieira defeated Bruce Legie of Toronto with spectacular lobs that sent balls back towards the net like boomerangs and lobs that flew as high as 70 feet. Vieira won 6-3, 6-2.

Vieira and Henri Rochon of Montreal defeated R. Amarol and L. O'Connor of Toronto 6-0, 6-0 in doubles.

Rochon proved too strong for former Wes Issler Davis Cup player Frank Mott-Tille, now of Toronto.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP)—Miss Claudene, owned by Yves Trudeau of Ste. Anne-de-Bellevue, Que., won the featured $1,500 trot Wednesday night at Richelieu Park.

Driven by Jacques Lavoie, the six-year-old bay mare trotted the mile in 2:09 3-5. Duke followed and Prudential B. showed.

In a secondary feature, the $1,100 mile C. race, Busters Girl with Peggy Hal from Corbyn, second and Gentleman Chips from Wallenstein, Ont., was third.

Three other Ontario horse to win was Abbe Beacon from Kemptville in a $700 D trot. Russ Caldwell drove Abbe Beacon to a time of 2:14 3-5 for the mile.

TORONTO (CP)—A pair of Ontario's leading harness horsemen Keith Waples of Victoria Harbor and Vern Evans of Brantford, came away from Old Woodbine Raceway with top- honors Wednesday night.

Waples steered his bay colt, J. H. Van, to victory in the $1,000 Futurity Trot for two-year olds. Evans was on hand to drive Miss Jiggs McGregor Linden, pilot another bay colt, Frisky's Atom, into the top spot in the $1,453 Futurity Trot for the three-year-olds.

Neither colt, however, swept the boards. Their events were divided into two heats of which claimed victory by virtue of having the faster time.

Waples won the sixth race in 2:17.3 and was fourth in the other heat. An third year filly, wicking Jacquelles Riddel, owned and driven by Ken. Earl Howe, required 2:18.1 to complete the mile.

In the pacing event, Friskey's Atom won the evening's fifth race in 2:09.1. He was fourth in the eighth race, won by Jet Bett, owned by R. A. Park of Hanover, in the slower time of 2:11.1.

Jacob Glesel, Sr., was at down for four days by the racing stewards for "unsatisfactory driving" in the second race of Tuesday's program.

Junior Tennis Stars Reach Final Stages

OTTAWA (CP) — Final-round stages of six all-Canadian tennis titles will probably be reached today as the junior tennis championships swing into their second day.

Officials hope to clear up most of the closed portion of the tournament Friday and start some of the open matches. The Open championships, in which United States and Bermuda players will compete against the Canadians for 15 titles, were originally scheduled to begin Monday.

Eddie Cosens, chairman of the tournament said Wednesday night he will try to start the Open Friday.

Finals will probably be reached today in the juvenile boys and girls singles. The boys and girls may reach the quarter or semi-finals. Some of the junior classes probably won't reach their stages until Friday.

Top-seeded players coasted through the opening rounds of the closed competition Wednesday with only one upset.

WAS FORFEITED DECIDED

Milt Hess of Winnipeg, fourth-seeded in the boys singles, was ousted by unseeded David Crotty of Montreal, 9-7, 6-2.

Harry Fauquier of Toronto, top-seeded in the boys ranks, injured his right hand during a first-round match against fellow competitors. Fauquier who defeated Hubert Ernoot 6-1, 6-1 in a second-round boys match, apparently was not badly hurt and indicated he intended to keep playing in the tournament.

However, he was a junior men's match 5-0, 6-0 to Tom Bell of Montreal after getting hurt.

John Bartlett, Montreal, eliminated Jacques Leprohon of Montreal 6-0, 6-1.

Canada's top junior woman player, blonde Ann Barclay of Vancouver, chased Ann Irwin of Ottawa from the court with a 6-2, 6-2 verdict in singles play.

$50,000 Tops Prospectors Start Digging In Golf's Great Gold Rush

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — They open the starting gate today for golf's gold rush, pegged at 100 men and into frantic competition for shares of the $101,200 "world" championship at Tam O'Shanter.

Winner of the 72-hole struggle ending Sunday will receive $50,000 in cash plus a $50,000 exhibition contract. The champion virtually becomes the year's leading money winner with just this one victory.

Ted Kroll, the 1956 winner with a 15-under-par 273, thinks it will take about 277 to cash in this time.

YOUNGSTERS FAVORED

Those most frequently mentioned as favorites are five comparative youngsters — Gene Littler, whose course record matching 63 in the last round of the All - Star Golf on Monday boosted him to runner-up spot; Dow Finsterwald, the PGA's second leading money winner; Fred Hawkins, who took second in the "world" last year; Bill Casper and Paul Harney, both with their games at a peak.

Sam Snead, leading money winner Doug Ford with $39,856, and Roberto de Vicenzo head the list of more seasoned contenders.

De Vicenzo, the strapping South American who registers out of Mexico City, won the All-American sideshow event with $3,500 with 273. But only once before has an All-American winner also taken the "world" title. Lloyd Mangrum did it in 1948.

Second place in the "world" is $10,000, third $5,000 and the list tapers off to $100 for finishing 72nd.

OUT FOR TWO WEEKS

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Richardson, second baseman of the New York Yankees, tore a muscle in his left thigh Wednesday and will be sidelined two weeks.

The injury was suffered in the third inning when he fielded a grounder by Washington's Pete Runnels and made a wild throw to first base to retire the batter.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP) — Bright Page, owned by J. Maitland Macintosh of Toronto and ridden by Avelino Gomez, won the $5,000 Yearling Sales Stakes at the Fort Erie race track Wednesday.

The race was confined to two-year-olds purchased at last autumn's yearling sales conducted by the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society.

Gomez sent Bright Page to the front at once and he won by three lengths from White Apache. Lady Yolande was another two lengths behind in third place.

Gomez and Pat Remillard each piloted three winners. Gomez won the first race on the favorite with Ben Ali and second on the fourth on Big Heart. Remillard won with Mrs. Hood, Board of Trade and Battle Gown.

NEW YORK (AP) — Piloo, a brown colt owned by Edward J. Potter, Wednesday made a blistering stretch drive to win the $50,000 Sapling Stakes by a nose at Monmouth Park in Oceanport, N.J.

A darkhorse in a field of 11 contesting the six furlongs for two-year-olds, Piloo nipped the favored Lil' Fella who hit the wire in second place. A Dragon Lea sidestepped third.

First money was $37,945. Piloo's time was 1:11 2-5.

At Chicago's Washington Park, the Rosewood, a 4-to-1 shot, took the $20,000 second place in the Handicap, covering the mile in 1:35. Fervored Rosewood finished third behind Lady La Rue.

Western, Adventure Show Now King of TV Networks

By CYNTHIS LOWRY

NEW YORK.(AP)—The chronic complainers about television who have been blaming the medium for everything from juvenile delinquency to bad eyesight are in for a tough season.

Crime and detection shows, their favorite targets, are on the wane. The western and adventure show is king of the networks, with variety programs and "situation comedy" runners-up.

Just about the only things these can be accused of is murdering the English language—which, undoubtedly, they will.

A breakdown of the forthcoming fall and winter programs on the three United States networks indicate there will be at least 22 western s-oder adventure shows, all on film. There also will be some 20 musical or variety shows and the same number of situation comedies.

Crime and mystery shows have dropped into fourth place—13 of them. While it may seem like more, there will be only 11 quiz or panel shows.

A RARE BIRD

The rarest bird will be the stand-up-and-deliver live comedian just one. Red Skelton. Jack Benny and George Gobel will turn up biweekly, Bob Hope even less frequently.

While the ratings battle between Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen enlivened last season's television scene, ABC hopes to make it a three-cornered battle for the Sunday evening crowd.

Its entry is an hour-long cat-burner, Disneyland, which will be slipped into the TV stream at 7:30 p.m. At 8 p.m., advocates of the Sullivan and Allen shows, ABC viewers will be so intent on the story they will neglect to flip that channel selector—at least that's what the brains are hoping.

Their two prize acquisitions for the season, however, are Frank Sinatra, whose 30-minute variety show will be at 9 p.m. Fridays, and Walter Winchell as a reporter in a newspaper adventure series on Tuesdays at 9.30.

CBS, having junked Jackie Gleason's Saturday night hour, has an hour-long filmed replacement piece. It is called the Perry Mason show.

NBC's schedule seems full of new offerings — Dinah Shore's Sunday night and the Dodie-Eddie Fisher shows (alternating Tuesday nights), a frontier saga called Wagon Train, and Dean Martin's new variety show.

Climax, Studio One and NBC's Kraft Theatre remain as the only all-live TV dramas.

Although there has been a high mortality rate of programs, many old favorites will still be around: Talent Scouts, Lawrence Welk, Jane Wyman, Loretta Young, Alfred Hitchcock, Person-to-Person, the big money quiz shows and, in case you were afraid, reruns of I Love Lucy.

HOLD GOLF TOURNEY

TORONTO (CP)—The 12th annual junior best ball championship of Ontario—open to all amateur players who have not reached their 19th birthday by Aug. 17—will be held at the Summit Golf and Country Club near here Aug. 24 under the auspices of the Ontario Golf Association.

The championship is an 18-hole medal competition and the winning pair hold the Summit Club Trophy for a year.

German Star, Curt Jergens, Thinks Las Vegas Fantastic

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD AP — Hollywood may not seem so glamorous in the eyes of German star Curt Jergens, but Las Vegas —

"Fantastic—utterly fantastic" exclaimed the handsome star over the Nevada gambling capital, "I could never imagine such a place. To think that Americans would construct such places in the middle of the desert, just so people could gamble.

"Without air conditioning, the whole thing would be impossible. You step outdoors and the heat knocks you right back into the casinos—which is what the owners want, I guess.

"The shows are wonderful. Such production, such girls. But the best show is the people.

"I have a home 13 kilometers from Monte Carlo, and when I go to the Casino to play I dress up in a black suit. In Las Vegas, a man was gambling right next to me who was naked—nothing on but trunks. And I saw a woman in a bikini walk in from the swimming pool and sit right down to play roulette."

WOULDN'T MIND HIMSELF

He confessed he would also like to play craps but doesn't know how. He considered himself to roulette and dropped a bundle.

"Its strange how much interest I feel in pay someone who plays for quite a bit — free champagne and everything."

Despite this, he plans to return as soon as he finishes his first Hollywood film, The Enemy Below. He is the second big star of German films to come here.

The first was O. W. Fischer, who was dropped from My Man Godfrey because of "impossible temperament." Jergens is the reverse, according to everyone from producer — director Dick Powell.

An Austrian citizen of German-Austrian parents, Jergens is 42, tall, masculine and speaks English with scarcely an accent. He reminds George Saunders, but without the latter's icy qualities.

Veteran of 20 years on the European stage, Jergens clicked when Powell saw his work and sent for him to play the anti-Nazi submarine commander in The Enemy Below.

His impressions of Hollywood?

"I love working here. There is so much preparation, so much know-how. Things are done as swiftly as possible. In Europe it is different. Some directors think the more time they take, the more artistic is the picture. It is nonsense.

"I like Hollywood glamorous? I do not think so. It is not a town for night life."

Trenton Airman Wins Medal At Rifle Shoot

TORONTO (CP) — Leading Aircraftman E. E. McIlroy of the RCAF Trenton station shot a top score of 100 Wednesday to win the Ontario Rifle Association's silver medal and $25 in the Duke of Cornwall and York match at 200 and 500 yards at the annual ORA shoot.

Sgt. D. D. Lorente, of cadet trades training camp, Camp Borden was runner-up scoring 94 points to win a bronze medal and $20.

Three Alouettes Nurse Injuries; Guard Released

MONTREAL (CP)—Import Ed Heuring, a guard - tackle from Maryland, was dropped Wednesday from Montreal Alouettes lineup—first United States player with the Als to be placed on the waiver list.

Heuring's release was revealed as the Alouettes listed three players — Pat Abbruzzi, Doug McNichol and Joel Wells—as doubtful starters for next Wednesday's exhibition game against Argos in Toronto.

All three were treated in hospital Tuesday night after the Als defeated the visiting Saskatchewan Roughriders 23-20.

End McNichol suffered possible cartilage damage to his left knee in the hard-hitting contest. Halfback Wells had a similar knee injury but it was not considered as serious. Fullback Abbruzzi, last year's Big Four scoring champ, had a bruised shoulder, and hospital attendants are holding him for further x-ray examinations.

London Lords To Play Argos

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Coach Indian Jack Jacobs will start 38 players in Saturday's (2400) Lords of the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union meet Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four in an exhibition at Little Memorial Stadium. Of the total 13 will be United States imports.

Jacobs also announced signing of his 14th import, fullback Leroy (Tommy) Thompson, fresh from the ranks of Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Thompson, 21, played four years of varsity ball with Butler University in Indiana. He stands six-feet and weighs 200 pounds.

Gout in Wynn Out

DETROIT (AP) — Cleveland pitcher Early Wynn was sidelined Wednesday by a recurrence of the gout, an ailment that has plagued him off and on since 1951.

The big 35-year-old righthander was scheduled to pitch against the Yankees but manager Kerby Farrell named John Gray to replace him.

Tiger Cats Claw Argonauts 25-9

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats scored three touchdowns in the final half to down Toronto Argonauts 25-9 in a Big Four Exhibition Football game at Civic Stadium Wednesday night before a crowd of almost 14,000 fans. Down 7-6 at the half to Hampton Pool's scullers, Tiger-Cats scored an uncontested major in the third quarter and two more in the final 15 minutes.

Bobby Richardson fired a 26-yard aerial to Steve Oueschuk in the third quarter as he led the team down the field in a brilliant passing display. Bernie Faloney marched Cats along the ground as he piled Cookie Gilchrist and Ralph Goldston into the line and sneaked over himself from the one.

Mal Laughton, an 18-year-old quarterback fresh out of high school, gave the fans a thrill by leading the team to a touchdown in five plays. He completed four passes in four tries and completed the march by hitting Michigan State end Jim Hinesley with an 18-yard pass. Billy Graham converted only one Ticat touchdown.

In the first half Faloney tossed 32 yards to Jim Furlong and to Wells. Tom Dublinski barged over from the one for Argo's only touchdown. Moe Racine put Argo's other two points came when Rick Potter nailed Cats' Goldston in the end zone for a safety touch.

Spider Webb Verdicts Joseph

CHICAGO (AP)—Spider Webb, who took his revenge bout from Charley Joseph, says he's ready for all comers in the middleweight bracket "including Gene Fullmer and Joey Giambra."

Webb, the No. 6 ranked middleweight, was fortunate to gain a split decision Wednesday night over Joseph in a Chicago Stadium battle.

The Chicagoan scored heavily in a hot seventh round to even matters with a left hook that whipped Webb in New Orleans two months ago.

After the fight, Webb had nothing but praise for his opponent, a 23-year-old native of New Orleans.

Webb weighed 157½, and Joseph 158½.

Joseph, who made a rally in the last three rounds and appeared strong at the finish, was disappointed in the decision.

"I thought I had won the fight. If we had gone another couple of rounds, I know I would have won," he said.

VICE-ADMIRAL DEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-Admiral Emory Yarnum Butler, 63, who was with Admiral George Dewey at Manila Bay in the Spanish - American War, died Tuesday of a paralytic stroke. During the war, Butler was aide to Capt. Charles Gridley. Navy records show he was present when Dewey gave his historic command: "You may fire when you are ready, Gridley."

AT THE BELLE — Yul Brynner portrays Pharoah Ramese II in Cecil B. DeMille's production "The Ten Commandments", held over again for a few more days at the Belle Theatre. The massive cast of Cecil B. Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday falls and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, August 9, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Take things easily and they will run more smoothly. You can dilute the effect when it doesn't appear not to be directing a talent to develop.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Some unexpected situation may arise which will have to be handled adroitly. Don't act without deliberation. Jumping at conclusions could lead to trouble.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Be careful how you spend your free time; be discriminating, too, in your choice of activities. Don't waste time on non-essentials. But do rest some.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Be as diplomatic as possible now. Others may not feel up to par and you can help situations by easing tension, keeping discussions on an impersonal basis and talking sense spreading good cheer.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't permit anything to dull your wits or dampen your enthusiasm. Think, then relax you can move forward at double-quick time, but don't overdo things. Honest effort will bring rewards.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — This day calls for close attention to assigned duties. A diplomatic approach will eradicate possible tensions. Be cheery!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Be your natural, pleasing, discerning self. Kind words and thoughtful acts keep order and harmony. Contentment and well-being are yours through earnest effort.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Challenging an interesting influences but also tricky in spots. If you keep cool and get facts straight, however, you can achieve a great deal, possibly make new, advantageous connections.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — This day promises much good for those who maintain a constructive, productive pace but who don't overdo or become easily irritated. Refrain from doing now you are on the right track.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Fine Saturn influence. You should do very well if tasks are managed and allocated properly and sufficient time is given to advance planning. Avoid worry.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — This may not be an entirely easy day, but if you are sharp and attentive you can certainly garner much of the good about. Several aspects favor both hard and easy tasks.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Mixed influences now. Much is up to you, what your day requires, and how you fit things in. There's no need to rush or worry. Tomorrow offers new opportunity. Be serene.

You born today are innately sensitive and intelligent. Often you have fund of the world — natural, delightful talk. You make very capable leaders in business or military fields; are courageous, daring and roundly capable and resourceful. All this, of course, if you are living true to your finer self. It is important to your health, happiness and achievement that you direct emotions carefully, curb appetites.

Birthdate of Isaak Walton, Eng. essayist and poet; John Dryden, Eng. poet laureate.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

ONE OF BELLEVILLE'S LONG established businesses is offering a good return over the years, and offered for sale only because the owner is retiring. This is not a business proposition, but a sure thing for one to settle down to devote the time to. Stock and fixtures will be sold at a reasonable figure, and easy —about $6,000 down will do. A lease on the building can be made available. Call us for full details and an appointment to see it. Real Estate, 403 Front Street, WO 2-1504. A7-3t

Rylstone

RYLSTONE—Mrs. Cora Reid returned home last Friday after spending a few weeks with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Foote, in Belleville.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Meiklejohn, in Campbellford Memorial Hospital, a son.

Mrs. Preston Bothwell, Bobbie and Bonnie, returned home Thursday from a month's visit to Mrs. Bothwell's old home and other places in the West.

Barbara and Bobbie Bumby spent a few days last week with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bumby, and cousins Suzanne and Beverley.

Ross Pitchett, of Campbellford, spent a few days last week with his cousin, Carol Heath.

During the electric storm last Saturday afternoon, Lloyd Anderson's house was struck, resulting in some fire damage to an upstairs bedroom.

On the way home, in the rain, Lloyd followed the Campbellford fire reels and did not know they were going to his own house until he was almost there. However the neighbors had the fire out before the fire reels arrived. Several other houses in the community had lights blown out during the storm.

Percy Reid suffered an injury to his left foot on Friday when a load of grain upset while threshing at the farm of Ralph Morris.

Bob Reid received a crushed finger Saturday morning while unloading milk at Rylstone Cheese Factory. The milk holder fell and a can of milk, about two feet of the weight-ed end, struck his foot. It would have been much more serious had the holder been lighter.

Mrs. Cora Reid was a Sunday dinner guest of Mrs. Thomas McKeown and family.

Friday night the Rylstone Girls' Garden Club met at the home of Patsy Spencer.

Charles Sowerby is busy threshing grain on the 9th Line for Marilyn Bros. and visiting her cousin, Linda Eastwood, at Greenwood.

Wayne Miller, Trenton, spent the past few days with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heath and Carol were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Fitchett in Campbellford.

Mack Anderson was able to leave Campbellford Memorial Hospital and at present is convalescing at the home of his brother-in-law husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner, Minto.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cosby, Bonnie, were Sunday evening callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Jones.

The Women's Association of Rylstone United Church will hold their August meeting at the home of Mrs. Ray Stewart, Bonnie, Wednesday afternoon August 14.

Demorestville

DEMORESTVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawrence, London, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Shelley Williams.

Mr. Shelley Williams spent Thursday in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gorsline were Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Whitmore, Consnoville.

Mr. Skippy Stewart was a Sunday guest of Mr. Nolan Ryckman.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Storms and family, spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Stan Beasley.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Langley and Janice are enjoying a week's holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williams and family were Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Shelley Williams.

West Huntingdon

WEST HUNTINGDON — The July meeting of the Endeavours Sunday School class was held last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Wright with a good attendance of members present. Mr. John Lainson presided and was assisted in the worship service by Mr. George Dyson, offering prayer, and Mr. Alex McCurdy, reading the Scripture lesson following the business period.

Mr. Arthur Wilson was in charge of the program. Mr. Phillip Carr gave a reading. Robert Bell and Donnie Armstrong, musicians of Stirling, were present and in their usual style presented a number of selections. Donnie Armstrong also gave a solo. Mr. Dorr Williams, Stirling, gave the special address on some of his experiences at Muskago and Quinmo-Lak camp. Mrs. Harold Wesley and daughter, Shirley, each gave a solo. Mr. Alex McCurdy voiced the appreciation of the class to the visiting artists and others who helped with the program. At the close, Mrs. Wright and Elinor served refreshments.

The farmers are extra busy these days harvesting their grain.

Mr. Thomas Emerson has sold his property to Mr. Cooney, Toronto.

A number of other real estate deals are being transacted this week and will be reported next week.

Those from here who attended the funeral services for Mrs. Alfred Hillman, Monday were: Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fargey, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fargey and Sarah and Arthur Ashley.

There are no preaching services in the United Church here during the month of August, while the minister is on holidays.

Mrs. Fred Vice, Oshawa, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Melville Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dyson were recent Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McCurdy.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hammond, Oshawa, were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hammond.

ATOMIC POWER

OSLO (Reuters) — Norway's new industrial atomic reactor opening at Halden at the year end will supply local pulp factories with 10,000 tons of steam daily.

Nervous; Always Tired Limbs, Back Sore, Painful
Surprised How Much Better I Am Since Taking Sytona, Says This Woman.

"I was rundown and my nerves were all on edge, but Sytona has given me wonderful results said Mrs. Winnifred Stewart, 348 Riddell St., Woodstock, Ontario, in a recent report.

Relief Came Quickly

"From the first that I started taking Sytona I could feel that I was getting a tonic and that I've been using it ever since. I am feeling fine now. My appetite is better than ever, my sleep is sound and my nerves are calmed down. Any rundown, nervous, tired out person should know how much better I am since taking Sytona. It is a combination of proven medical ingredients including 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Minerals. Acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, aids in the elimination of excess body acids and impurities and promotes better assimilation of food.

Sytona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist.

Scientific Stations May Hold Key to Britain's Defences

LONDON (AP) — A chain of scientific stations stretching across thousands of miles of ocean may hold the key to Britain's future defences and either settle or further agitate a world wide controversy.

The stations consist of fallout collectors and air sampling devices to check for radioactivity. They stretch from Christmas Island to Australia, with Pacific Island posts at Penrhyn, Canton, Noumea, Rangiroa, Papeete, Funafuti and Nandi and the cities of Adelaide and Brisbane.

Their purpose: To provide a final verdict as to whether the three hydrogen bombs Britain exploded at Christmas Island in May and June were "clean" or "dirty."

If the bombs prove to have been clean—as British scientists hope and believe—the hydrogen bomb can be called something more than an instrument of mass destruction, suitable only for use on distant enemy targets.

It can be termed a tactical weapon, suitable for use even over this nation's own territory against enemy bombers and missiles and on the battlefield.

A verdict of clean could influence United Nations disarmament talks in which Russia and four Western nations are discussing whether and how a suspension of all nuclear tests could be enforced.

If a clean bomb could be exploded with little or no fallout, any suspension of tests would become infinitely more difficult to enforce.

The final answer on the British tests will not be known for months and possibly years. The products of the three explosions will come down over wide areas of the world over a long period of time. Already, however, the government and leading British scientists have released a number of what they called encouraging preliminary reports.

Britain made all three of her tests air drops at great altitude. The fireball from each bomb was quickly pushed upward into the stratosphere.

Some experts deny that this technique in itself would render a hydrogen explosion clean. Indian scientists in particular argue that the damage might be as great as ever but simply spread out over a wider area of distance and time.

Another possible answer could lie in the nature of the explosion. The British hydrogen bomb may be different from other nuclear weapons, or at least other countries' earlier ones. The British government, of course, refuses to say.

MENINGITIS DEATH

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London's first spinal meningitis death in several months occurred Wednesday when two-year-old Susan Dianne Hardy died in hospital after an illness of two days. An attending physician called it the "most violent" case in his experience. The victim is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hardy of London, and two older sisters.

Stage Employees, Camera Men Call Strike Vote

MONTREAL (CP)—Theatrical stage employees and movie camera operators employed by the CBC have called a strike vote for Monday because of a confused tract negotiations.

Leaders of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Machine Operators (CLC) claim a strike would force a stop of CBC television programs across Canada. In addition to the CBC, the union bargains for 2,000 stage hands, set and graphic designers, carpenters, painters, property handlers and film operators from coast to coast.

Yvon Dansereau, Quebec representative for the union, said arrangements are being made to take a vote Monday among the CBC's employees throughout Quebec province.

Mr. Dansereau accused CBC officials of bargaining "in bad faith."

The union submitted demands last March for a 20-per-cent pay increase for employees in a wide range of classifications.

The conciliation service of the federal labor department was in progress four members of the union's Toronto local intervened to ask the conciliation branch to decertify the union.

As a result the federal conciliation officers are reported to have advised the union to suspend negotiations while it took steps to settle its internal situation.

This week two developments occurred which are said to have precipitated the calling of a strike vote. The CBC is said to have stopped deducting check-off dues in accordance with the former agreement and is reported to have refused to hear grievance cases.

Record Number of Canadians Voted in Election June 10

OTTAWA (CP)—A record 6,608,482 Canadians voted in the federal election June 10, Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay said today in a preliminary statement.

This compared with the previous record vote of 5,848,766 in the 1949 election and 5,645,256 in 1953.

Between 6,000,000 and 9,000,000 persons out of the Canadian population of 16,500,000 were eligible to vote.

The Progressive Conservative party, which formed the government, received 216,113 fewer votes than the Liberals.

Totals by parties:

Liberal, including independent Liberals, 2,786,164; Conservative, including independent Conservative, 2,580,051; CCF, 707,835; Social Credit, including independent Social Credit, 437,190; Labor-Progressive (Communist), 7,777; others, 79,475.

TOTAL HIGHER

Details of vote listed under "others":

Independent, 70,114; Candidat des Electeurs, 8,119; Canadian Democrat, 528; Liberal-Conservative coalition, 252; Capital Farmer, 237; National—Credit Control, 123.

Mr. Castonguay said the preliminary total of 6,608,482 voters cast will be higher once spoiled ballots are counted. The exact number of eligible voters also has not yet been compiled.

The 6,608,482 votes cast includes the service vote which totalled 74,437.

IN ALL PROVINCES

Only the Liberals and Conservatives received votes in all provinces, the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

The CCF received no votes in the Yukon or Mackenzie River, the Social Credit party no votes in Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, the Yukon or Mackenzie River, and the Labor-Progressive party no votes in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, the Yukon and Mackenzie River.

The Labor Progressive party received 1,246 votes in Ontario, 2,388 in Quebec, 1,579 in Manitoba, 1,240 in British Columbia, 213 in Saskatchewan and 815 in Alberta.

PREVENTED MISHAP

GENOA, Italy (AP)—An Italian police lieutenant was credited with preventing a grade crossing accident. The crew, during a routine flight, spotted a truck stalled on the crossing and saw a train approaching at high speed. They flew alongside the train and signalled until the engineer stopped several hundred yards from the stalled truck.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: A cool brand of air which is flowing across Northern Ontario this morning is not expected to reach the southern part of the province either today or Saturday. Southern Ontario will remain in the southwesterly circulation of hot and humid air from the Gulf of Mexico. Skies over Southern Ontario will continue to be mainly cloudy with a few showers this evening and on Saturday.

FLIES BIG PLANE THOUSAND MILES ON TWO ENGINES

67 Survive Ordeal On Pacific Flight

HONOLULU (AP) — "I wasn't calling the shots—the good Lord was."

That's Mal. Samuel Tyson's explanation of how he kept his four-engined military air transport aloft for 6½ hours on two jet engines Thursday after 1,000 miles over the Pacific with 67 people aboard.

Tyson, a 37-year-old veteran of the Second World War, the Korean War and the Berlin airlift, piloted the big C-97 plane into Hilo, Hawaii, one of its engines had quit just beyond the point of no return on a flight from Travis Air Force Base, Calif.

"It never occurred to me that we would ditch," said Tyson.

"I'm a coward," he grinned. "I can't swim very far. The Lord's cold."

WHEELS CRANKED DOWN

Tyson landed his ebb crew members and 57 passengers after a last-minute ordeal when the landing gear failed to lower. Two flight engineers worked the big wheels down with an emergency hand crank. The wheel housing had jammed when the No. 1 propeller flew off.

Passengers and crew emerged dripping with sweat. Not only had they been "sweating it out" for nearly seven hours, but all vents had been closed to cut down drag.

Incongruous flower leis were draped around their necks in the traditional Hawaiian greeting of welcome. They voiced relief at Tyson's skill and their confidence in Tyson and his crew.

PLANE FLEW OFF

The co-pilot, Capt. George Smith, 35, told about the flight. The No. 1 propeller started running away. Tyson and the flight engineer slowed it but couldn't feather it. The prop flew off and damaged the No. 1 propeller and engine. A piece dented the fuselage but did not penetrate. Tyson had to return to 50 feet and flew at that altitude or slightly above it most of the 2,400 miles.

Passengers were moved forward to help balance the plane, flying unevenly on her two engines.

Baggage was jettisoned, including 1,500 pounds of mail. No one was injured. "Only one woman did lament, "I've lost my hat, the most beautiful hat in the world."

Acquit Farmer Whose Car Hit St. Laurent's

BARRIE (CP) — Norman McGirr, 54, a farmer from nearby Oro Township, was acquitted Thursday of careless driving in connection with a May 10 collision between McGirr's car and an auto carrying former prime minister Louis St. Laurent.

The Crown withdrew a second charge accusing McGirr of failing to stop after a turn.

Magistrate Gordon Foster said the evidence was conflicting.

Rebel Tribesmen Make Stand at Ancient Fortress

OUTSIDE FIRQ, Oman (Reuters)—A British-led motorized column is fighting its way toward its drive against the Oman rebels today on the third day of its advance across the Arabian Desert.

The advance was held up Thursday when rebel tribesmen made a stand at Firq, sniping from an ancient fortress in the sun-baked little town.

(Reports reaching British Middle East headquarters after Britain's patrols was sent said Firq was expected to fall today.)

Once Firq has fallen, the plan of operations calls for a further advance to the rebels' central headquarters in a big fortress in the town of Nizwa, less than five miles farther on.

MAJOR RESISTANCE

The advancing column, which includes Arab troops led by British officers and is backed by British support troops, met its first major resistance at Firq.

RAF Venom jets, responding to radio appeals for support, attacked the fort with rockets and cannons. But the column remained at a standstill while Arab troops using rifles, machine-guns and mortars worked slowly through the village. Five non-British casualties were suffered.

The move across the desert began after almost two weeks of softening up by aerial bombardment.

The revolt, led by the Imam of Oman, is aimed at overthrowing the British-protected government of Sultan Said bin Taimur of Muscat, Oman, a small Arab state on the tip of the Arabian Peninsula. It has been alleged that the imam is receiving support and equipment from Saudi Arabia.

Briton Finds American Manhood Firmly Pinned Down by the Ears

LONDON (AP)—A British report came up today with the appalling finding that "American manhood is firmly pinned down by the ears."

Edward N. Connor, columnist for The Daily Mirror, says he reached that pained conclusion after close observation of the "formidable darlings" during a recent tour of the United States and from talking with American women residents in London.

"All this talk about the 'dominant male' just cannot be true," he says when you sail past the Statue of Liberty.

"The American gal is more pampered, petted and pursued than any other female on earth. She could have they got the poor sucker in a headlock of inestimable moral superiority that will break his neck if he tries to get free, but these Yankee Amazons are growing physically bigger every year.

"The average American woman gains an inch in height every 10 years and now is a half head taller than she was 50 years ago. Come the year 2,000 the average 'honey chile' will be topping 6 feet, flexing muscles at any Romeo from Dallas, Denver and Omaha who weighs less than 250 pounds and can get under a six - foot door without stooping.

"Letting go on—matters finance—the American male is a cinch.

"She spends eight Million dollars a year on cosmetics, baffled are a year on cosmetics that if she hasn't at least one car she is a misfit and that if she hasn't a refrigerator, television set and washing machine she might well live in a cave . . .

"She knows exactly what her husband earns and actually strips cash off him when he arrives back home on pay day.

"She believes in 'togetherness' which means that when the day man comes home she is the plastic sponge bag after belting it at the office, he is expected to play with the kids instantly."

"It is a wonder," Connor concluded, "that the race doesn't die out."

Believe Khrushchev's Tour Blocks German Unification

BERLIN (Reuters) — Western observers believe that Nikita Khrushchev's current East German tour has, if anything, made German reunification even more remote.

They say the visit has followed a pattern predicted earlier: strong support for the East German Communist regime, sharp attacks on Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his West German government and deadlock on the reunification question.

Khrushchev's speech Thursday before a special session of the East German parliament was tougher than usual, with frequent attacks on West Germany, which is accused of preparing for atomic war.

He warned that such a war would bring Britain and France within the range of devastating atomic weapons, while the United States would be free from guided-missile attack.

Khrushchev agreed with East Germany's Premier Otto Grotewohl, who spoke before him, that the two halves of Germany should join in a loosely knit confederation — each to retain its government and national identity — as a first step toward uniting the country.

Rejecting the idea of free elections between East and West Germans, he said: "The talk of all-German free elections is hypocrisy. Any free elections must be called free when the Communist party is banned in West Germany!"

He warned that such elections would be a step toward unification "to move around as freely as we liked and nobody prevented us from doing so as there are in united to."

The people were friendly and hospitable and the women particularly curious about our clothes and slim figures, said Miss Wallace.

They questioned us frequently on how they could make themselves prettier and become slimmer and said all men are fat and bored and wear awfully drab clothes.

"The men are shabbily dressed and few wear ties.

"I think they've heard of starch out there," says Miss Wallace, "since nearly all their shirts appear has that crumpled look."

Russia Wonderful Place To Visit But Not Live In

LONDON (CP)—After 17 days of encounter saad and cavier for breakfast, a group of Canadians returned from Russia convinced it's a wonderful place to visit but not to live in.

The party of 30, consisting mostly of members of the Canadian Women's Press Club, accompanied by four men, was unanimously that by Canadian standards Russia is "decidedly backward" but that as a visitor there are plenty of compensations.

Claire Wallace, sometime CBC broadcaster and leader of the group, says the Russians extremely well and we were often pleasantly surprised."

For instance, "we were allowed to move around as freely as we liked and nobody prevented us from doing so as there are in united to."

The people were friendly and hospitable and the women particularly curious about our clothes and slim figures, said Miss Wallace.

They questioned us frequently on how they could make themselves prettier and become slimmer and said all men are fat and bored and wear awfully drab clothes.

Who Shapes Foreign Policy Of Russia Is Puzzling U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — High American officials are frankly puzzled about who is mastering Russia's foreign policy. Top United States intelligence experts are trying to solve the problem.

State Secretary John Foster Dulles, whose chief intelligence aide is head of the central intelligence agency, has requested the study.

The personality, prejudices, preferences and past record of a high foreign policy official often give clues to his future actions. They are studied by experts in other governments the way a batter studies the form of an opposing pitcher.

The most obvious candidate for the position of mastermind is Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, Soviet party chief, Nikita Khrushchev. But some, at least, of the informed officials here ruled him out for much of the time because he is always traveling and meeting with foreign leaders or occupied with urgent domestic problems. The same goes for Premier Nikolai Bulganin, whose influence in foreign policy-making is considered to be limited anyway.

It is assumed that Khrushchev is away from Russia somebody back in Moscow is in charge of foreign policy without constant reference to him.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko is not credited with the high degree of skill at the Kremlin infighting necessary to be the mastermind.

Marshal Georgi Zhukov, defense minister, is credited with having great influence, but is not considered a man likely to pay constant attention to foreign affairs.

One possibility which has occurred to Washington officials is that the foreign ministry has a top-calibre civil service staff. It is suggested these authorities the work being turned out—notes to foreign governments, reports of disarmament introduced in the London talks, and the like—are the handiwork of this staff.

But the study now being made is going on the assumption that no major moves must generally be made by a single individual who will be in a position to give steady direction to work in progress.

State 'Great Damage' Done Catholic-Protestant Links

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic leaders said Thursday night great damage has been done to Catholic-Protestant relationships because of religious liberty discussions at a recent meeting of the World Council of Churches.

Delegates to the world council meeting in New York Haven, Conn., discussed a mass of proposed resolutions, one of which was adopted at the Roman Catholic church, then tossed them all out.

The one finally adopted arose over a proposed resolution about Protestant difficulties in Catholic lands. Some churchmen wanted to add specific and general criticisms of Catholic practices regarding Protestant minorities.

A demand that the council accuse the Catholic Church of suppressing religious liberties in some countries was dropped for that reason.

"That the executive committee be asked to arrange for the study of the basis of the problem of religious liberty arising in the Roman Catholic and other countries."

The National Catholic Welfare Conference, an agency of American bishops for co-ordinating Catholic activities, said in a statement:

"While recognizing the steadying influence of Lutheran Bishop Hanns Lilje of Germany, Anglican Archbishop Geoffrey Fisher, each an England and Episcopalian Bishop August Dun of Washington, D.C., and Dr. Zinn a tone-down resolution, great damage has been done to Protestant-Catholic relationships throughout the world.

UNFORTUNATE EFFECT

"Even the final resolution singling out Catholic practices for investigation will have an unfortunate effect.

"The Rev. Dr. Work, executive director of the National Council of Catholic Men, said:

"It is regrettable that the discussions of the leaders of the World Council of Churches devoted so much time to criticism of Catholic practices, so much more might have been accomplished if they had been directed entirely to matters of common spiritual and moral concern."

RESUME TRAFFIC

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt has cleared the way for resumption of flights into Egypt by British airlines. The finance ministry cancelled military orders that prevented British transports after the Anglo-French intervention in Suez last fall.

LEGION REQUESTS LIQUOR RIGHTS FOR BRANCHES

Mayor of Cobourg Not in Agreement

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—The mayor of Cobourg threw cold water Thursday on a proposal by Ontario Command of the Canadian Legion to gain liquor rights for legion branches in dry areas.

The closing session of the command's 20th biennial session approved a Cookstown branch resolution to ask the provincial government to grant branches of the Legion the privilege of liquor rights—which bypass local liquor regulations and would make sale of liquor in dry areas.

But Mayor John D. Burnet, chairman of a committee working on a Legion campaign to build local branch liquor rights, said normal local-option votes in dry areas might be the only way to get licences there.

Mayor Burnet said the government has promised to allow female members full privileges of a branch under a type of provincial licence authority—sale of beer only to men and women.

But it has turned down any minor concessions to a legion campaign to withdraw branches from provincial legislation governing public drinking places.

The command recommended that the federal government provide chiropractic services for veterans in the same way it provided medical treatment.

Another resolution called for extension of Veterans' Land Act rights to imperial Army veterans and veterans of allied armies who served under imperial command.

Brig. Churchill of Durham was elected president of the command.

Other officers include: Chairman, Chester Merriam, Tara; vice - chairman, Joseph Cassidy, Lindsay; honorary treasurer, Edward Brunton, Sudbury; and executive chairman, John Steer, Cornwall.

Vice-presidents and the area they represent are Rowland Feltham (Western Ontario); Clen Guelph (Western Central); Fred Paris (Central); Scotty Brough to Eighteen (Eastern Ontario); Les Troy, North Bay (Northern Ontario).

The convention also elected Leo Cunningham of St. Catharines as the first honorary chairman in the command's history.

Archbishop Thinks Peer 'Very Silly Man'

LONDON (Reuters)—The Archbishop of Canterbury said Thursday that the recent controversy which has followed criticism of Queen Elizabeth's choice of godparents was "very silly."

Arriving in London from the United States where he attended meetings of the World Council of Churches, the Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher told Labor reporters he thinks Lord Altrincham "a very silly man" to say what he did of her.

He scoffed when asked whether the 33-year-old nobleman's Manchester article, which called the Queen's style of speaking "frozen," had caused a split in the Labor party.

"Not in the least," he replied. "This article will be forgotten very soon."

Britain Faces Bad Polio Epidemic, Call for End of Salk Vaccine Ban

LONDON (Reuters)—The Labor newspaper Daily Herald, saying Britain is facing the worst polio epidemic in seven years, called today on the government to lift the import ban on American Salk vaccine.

Figures compiled this week showed that the first 30 weeks of this year there were 2,105 cases of the disease in Britain—more than in any year since 1950.

"America, with three times our population, has fewer new polio cases this year than Britain," the Herald says in an editorial, adding that "British doctors fear that a new peak may be reached by the end of

Tropical Storm 'Bertha' Boils Towards Coast

Survivors of 'Audrey's' Call Flee as 'Sister' Approaches

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tropical storm Bertha boiled toward the Louisiana-Texas coastline today, building toward hurricane force as it rumbled nearer the area recently devastated by hurricane Audrey.

Cameron Parish (county), which bore the brunt of Audrey, was evacuated Thursday night and residents of other low-lying areas joined the tens of thousands who fled Audrey's wrath a week ago.

Civil defence headquarters here went on an around-the - clock watch on Bertha's movements.

The weather bureau said in an early - morning advisory that Bertha was packing 85-mile-an-hour winds. Hurricane force is 75. It located the centre of the storm at 2 a.m. EDT at a point in the Gulf of Mexico 140 miles south of Houma, La., which lies 50 miles west of New Orleans.

C. J. Hess, a forecaster at the New Orleans weather bureau, said that movement appears to be a direct course between the Louisiana-Texas border and a point south of Houston, Tex.

COULD VEER

"However," Allen said, "there is nothing to keep Bertha from veering to the north and hitting Louisiana, or to the south and hitting the coast of Texas."

The Louisiana coast began to feel Bertha's winds at midnight. Winds of 30 to 40 miles an hour occurred along the coast from the mouth of the Mississippi River to Vermilion Bay, 100 miles west of New Orleans.

The weather bureau warned of tides three to six feet.

Cameron Parish, where 500 persons died in hurricane Audrey six weeks ago, lost no time in evacuating to higher ground at Lake Charles and Sulphur, 30 miles north of the marshy parish. Many of them left temporary dwellings and left the bulk of their homes destroyed by Audrey.

Provost Marshal Probing Charges

CAIRO (Reuters) — A United Nations Emergency Force spokesman said today the force's provost marshal is investigating Egyptian charges against Canadian officers alleged to have been carrying narcotics.

The Egyptian information bureau said Thursday that two Canadian non-commissioned officers were arrested after carrying about 110 pounds of opium and hashish in their car.

The Canadians are in custody in Ismailia, Egyptian authorities declaying further investigation pending arrival of a Canadian officer. The soldiers were not identified.

RUSS ARMS IN YEMEN

LONDON (AP) — The Times says six shiploads of Soviet arms have been delivered to Yemen for attacking British-protected West Aden in a drive to unify Yemen and Midland, Ont., aboard the frigate HMCS Lauzon in the Mediterranean. The navy said the two sailors were "close friends," and that McCallum was the victim of "skylarking" aboard the frigate around midnight Wednesday.

Hamilton Man Drowns as Two Boats Collide

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — Police dragged Millard Bay for body for William Keetch of Hamilton, believed to have been drowned after two outboard motorboats collided Thursday night.

Mrs. Keetch in one of the boats was Frank Trottier of Hamilton, in hospital with head injuries, and two girls, Marilyn Styles, 20, of Toronto and Famia Tonts of St. Catharines. Trottier was reported in good condition.

The other boat carried only one person, Charles Giles of Toronto.

Police said the boats sideswiped each other about a half mile offshore.

Prison Warden Says Report of Riot Absurd

KINGSTON (CP) — Kingston Penitentiary warden Walter Johnston Jr. said Thursday when questioned about a published report that a riot was brewing among prisoners.

Neither he nor any other prison official would make an unqualified denial of the report which appeared in the Toronto Telegram.

"It's a nice day and we've had a lovely time judging the garden," Johnstone told a reporter. He said he spent the morning north of the prison with members of the prison for women.

The Telegram said there were "rumblings of a new riot" at the penitentiary.

Johnstone said it had learned that "prisoners have reached the point of agreement" plans and guards have been caught off balance by their own dissatisfaction."

FOOD complaints

The Telegram said the men are fed up with the food which Gen. Gibson has described as excellent. It said cancellation of the grievance committee had also caused discontent.

In Ottawa, Maj-Gen. R. B. Gibson, commissioner of penitentiaries, said the report "sounds to me like the work of a sensationalist who is trying to earn himself a little money."

Gen. Gibson said a check three weeks ago indicated food was good.

Gen. Gibson said he has no knowledge about the institution's "grapevine," to report on guards, as alleged in the newspaper.

CHARGED IN STABBING

HALIFAX (CP) — City police Thursday charged Fred Jones, 31, of Halifax, Ont., with murder in the fatal stabbing of Ali Rood Ghaffari, 30, of Tehran, Iran, and Midland, Ont., aboard the frigate HMCS Lauzon in Halifax harbor. The navy said the two sailors were "close friends," and that McCallum was the victim of "skylarking" aboard the frigate around midnight Wednesday.

33,000 CONDUCTED GUIDED TOURS OF GIANT PROJECT

An Ontario Hydro Commission news release indicates 33,000 people were conducted on guided tours of the gigantic St. Lawrence Seaway Project near Cornwall last month, setting an all-time record.

Some 60,000 people inspected the development at the power-house lookout, the Long Sault lookout, the townsites and at Iroquois Point in July.

The staff of the St. Lawrence Project information office at Cornwall has been increased for the summer by the addition of seven university students and six teachers.

HEAVY AMOUNT OF TRAFFIC SEEN

Extra heavy weekend traffic moving west through Belleville at noon today caused a back-up of vehicles along Front as St. E. as far east as the hospital. City police were doing their best to disperse traffic as quickly and efficiently as possible at the intersections of Dundas and East Bridge and at the four corners.

Among the vehicles was a convoy of cars and trailers returning from Camp Gagetown, N.B., after participating there in summer manoeuvres.

100 Motorists Found With Unsafe Vehicles

Peterborough's safe auto campaign brought nearly 100 drivers of unsafe vehicles to the attention of police last week.

17 to 18 years of age, who were operating autos unfit for road travel. Such safety features as signal lights and emergency brakes were not in operating order. In many cases the cars were without brakes altogether.

During the campaign, which will continue for an undetermined period, windshield wipers, lights, brakes and other safety features will receive a thorough check by experts. If approved, the car owner is provided with a safety shield sticker.

Junior Farmers Present $100 To Fair Board

Junior Farmers held their first meeting in their new building at the fair grounds last night, while the fair board was holding a meeting elsewhere on the grounds.

Part way through the evening Miss Kay Homan, vice-president of the Ontario Junior Farmers, past president of the local Junior Farmers and current assistant-director of the Belleville Recreation Committee, presented the fair board with $100 towards the Junior Farmers' new building, and added that more is forthcoming.

The Junior Farmers' building will be open for inspection at the fair from Monday next to Thursday, inclusive.

Quinte Golfers To Play in Eastern Tourney

Foxboro Scout Meets Queen At Jamboree

Boy Scout James Churchill of Foxboro, one of the scouts sent to England for the centennial jamboree, was just about the proudest boy last Saturday as he was chosen from among more than 1,000 Canadian scouts to meet Queen Elizabeth as she visited the Jamboree.

Jim, a member of the Foxboro Boy Scout troop, was chosen by Provincial Scout commissioner Lieder E. Boyaner as the typical Canadian Scout to personally meet the Queen.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Churchill are proud of the honor conferred upon their son and feel also that the Foxboro troop, as well as the Belleville Boy Scout Association has been honored in having one of their members chosen to greet the Queen. They received word last week from Ken N. Moore of Belleville, assistant contingent leader at the Jamboree, that their son had been chosen to greet the Queen.

All Buildings Painted, Cleaned For Coming Fair

A thorough cleaning job has been accomplished at the Fair Grounds and the location for the 1957 fair looks more like an exhibition park than it has in years. A large gang of men withdrawn lately every building on the grounds, repaired the fence encircling the race track and also gave it a coat of whitewash.

For the comfort of patrons of the fair, especially in the evenings, efforts are being made to eliminate the nuisance of flies and insects. Mr. McKenzie, with his sprayer, is giving the grounds a thorough going over and it is expected the pests will all be removed.

The Conklin Midway is moving in from Peterborough over the weekend and Mr. Conklin is adding seven flat August units and this whole show will be moved in the CNE after this fair is over. The "Kiddy Land" part of the Midway will be located to the west and south of the grandstand and this will take up much of the parking space in that area. Those with cars are requested to use the Catherine St. entrance until plenty of space will be available in the infield.

The fair board has been given allow the children the opportunity to see the fair from a good vantage point and has opened the grandstand to them at a nominal price of 25 cents for three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. As usual the horse racing on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons will feature the best horses in training in the province. The secretary reports that all classes are filled in the exception of the free-for-all. On Tuesday the 2.28 class and the 2.20 class will be raced, while on Wednesday the 2.25 class and the free-for-all will go. The horses will be started from the Mitchell gate. Given good weather, it is expected all records for attendance will be broken.

Obituary

PETERBOROUGH — A senior member of the PCVS teaching staff, Wesley Brown, died at the Civic Hospital Tuesday after an illness of three weeks. He was 65.

Mr. Brown had suffered from a heart condition for several years. Although he was unable to use stairs and was confined to his basement classroom he had been in his duties during the past year and missed no teaching days.

He had been senior machine shop instructor at PCVS for the past 29 years. From the start when the shop first opened, he watched and encouraged its growth to its present scope. He was an efficient and well-liked teacher.

Besides his normal teaching duties he influenced and advised generations of students as a staff member of various committees, including the Student Council, At Home committee and Safety committee.

Mr. Brown was born in St. Thomas where he lived until coming to Peterborough in 1928. His parents were the late John Brown and Annie Gillespie.

He saw service in the army in the First World War with the 18th Battalion.

A member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, he was also a Mason and Oddfellow.

Mr. Brown married the former Mary Lillian Cartwright. They had one son, John W., who lives in Toronto.

Besides his wife and son he leaves a sister, Mrs Mina Cott, of St Thomas, and two brothers, Chesley, of Fort Richie, Fla., and Roy, of Pontiac, Mich. There are also six grandchildren, Patricia and Susan Brown.

The funeral will be held in the Kaye funeral home Thursday. The Rev. C. G. Boyd officiated. Interment in Little Lake cemetery and burial will be held in London, Ont. at the Mount Pleasant Cemetery today, with the Rev. Daniel Young officiating.

John W. Brown is a former member of this newspaper's reporters' editorial staff and his wife is the former Betty Donnelly of Belleville.

HARRY THEODORE DUNKLEY
Hoard's Station

Following an illness of eight years Harry Theodore Dunkley, Hoard's Station, died at his home Thursday, August 8. He was in his 60th year.

Born at Rawdon, son of the late James Dunkley and Mary Maybee, he resided in Brighton Township before moving to the last residence in Sidney 40 yrs. ago. Mr. Dunkley was a farmer before illness forced his retirement. He was a member of Hoard's United Church.

Besides his wife, the former Mary Ellen Grillee he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ivan (Ada) Herrington of Trenton, and Mrs. John (Mary) Sharp, Campbellcroft; four sons, Jim, Belleville, Carman and Bert, both of Trenton, and Leslie, at home; and 18 grandchildren. Mr. Dunkley was the last living member of his family.

Resting at his late residence, the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Council Accepts Tenders for Plant, Sewage System

Subject to the approval of Ontario Municipal Board, contracts for the construction of a purification plant and for a sewage system, have been let by Stirling village council.

Humphreys and Glasgow of Toronto were the successful tenderers for the purification plant at $128,436, while Ritchie and Sons, Hamilton, were given the contract for the sewer at a lower tile at $160,216.40. In both instances the lowest tender was accepted.

There were nine tenders received, seven for the sewer system, and two for the purification plant.

The village will also purchase a new fire pumper, the cost of which will be $12,000.

Municipal board approval for the purchase, payment will be made by debentures to be sold locally.

Build Hospital At Elliot Lake

ELLIOT LAKE (CP) — The Sisters of St. Joseph, whose mother house is at North Bay, have given to build and operate uranium boom town's first hospital, it was announced Thursday.

The interim hospital board of this Blind River district community said the 100-bed hospital will cost more than $2,000,000. Mining companies would provide a $1,000,000 capital to enable an early start.

The municipality has provided a 10-acre site. The nearest hospital to Elliot Lake is at Blind River, 35 miles distant.

'Show Window' of County Opens 4-Day Run Monday

The Belleville Fair, "Show Window of Eastern Ontario," opens a four-day exhibition starting Monday.

According to Fair president, Dr. Russell Scott and his directorate, the 1957 edition will be one of the best in the history of the century-old agricultural show.

Program exhibits, entertainment, displays, sports, and colorful midway and many other features substantiate this statement.

Heading the special events, and an outstanding feature for the kiddies as well as grownups will be the famous Lone Ranger, his Indian side, Tonto their horses "Silver" and "Scout" and "Lassie" the famous wonder dog of radio and television.

The Lone Ranger and Lassie will appear Thursday only when they will stage three shows, two in the afternoon.

Tops in stage entertainment will be the New York extravaganza "Stairway to the Stars" which will be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Lovers of harness racing will find the Lone Ranger and Lassie of the province in thrilling heats on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

The well-known Conklin Midway, with all other basic features will be on hand during the entire four days. New rides, shows and other outstanding events will line the corridor of fun.

A special attraction for the children will be the "Kiddies Land" where all kinds of rides and other features will cater to the fun wants of the youngsters.

Military and other bands will be on hand daily to supply the musical background.

OUTSTANDING EXHIBITS

Of special interest to the rural population of the district will be the outstanding exhibits of livestock and horses. Many farm products will be on display as will modern farm machinery.

Schools of the district will offer exhibits of pupils' work. Needlework will also be on display.

There will be a grand baby show on Monday afternoon at the clubhouse of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club situated within the fair grounds.

Merchants and industrialists of the city and district will be represented in outstanding displays in various buildings. There will be the latest word in automobiles, electrical appliances, machinery, household goods, furniture, building materials and many other features.

Junior Farmers and 4-H club members of the county and district will conduct a four-day program featuring many phases of activity.

The exhibition opens Monday at 10 a.m. and at 2.30 in the afternoon.

The Lone Ranger and Lassie will make their first appearance on Thursday at 3 p.m. They will be in the ring at 7.30 and again at 8.15 and 8.15.

Fireworks and entertainment will start at eight o'clock on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and at 2.30 in the afternoons.

Special afternoon performances will likely be interspersed with parades and judging of horses. The horse racing will begin at 1.30 Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

The fair will be formally opened with special ceremonies in front of the grandstand prior to the evening presentation of the stage show on Monday night.

Angela Wilnow Will Present Fine Dog Act

Who doesn't love a dog? And who doesn't love to see the intelligent canines cavort through their routines with all the dexterity and charm of human beings?

Those who do love dogs in any have a real treat in store for them when they see Angela Wilnow and Her European Beauties at the Belleville Fair.

Miss Wilnow has infinite patience and she loves dogs, a combination which makes possible one of the country's best dog acts.

Every dog in the act is a artist and each one is throughly familiar with his part in the act. They go through their tricks enthusiastically and enjoying every moment of it.

The training of any animal calls for an infinite amount of patience coupled with a thorough knowledge of its habits and characteristics. Miss Wilnow has them to perform in a group and in unison is naturally much more difficult.

These European Beauties of Miss Wilnow's execute tricks of acrobatics and balancing that a human would find extremely difficult to perfect.

Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Orser Happily Wed for Fifty Years

TRENTON (Special) — There was a large gathering of relatives and friends on the occasion of Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Orser's 50th wedding anniversary at their R. R. 4 Frankford home last Sunday.

The couple was married on August 3, 1907 at Gunter in Sidney Township with the Rev. Charlie Cunningham a Free Methodist Church minister.

The newly weds first moved to a farm in Rawdon township where they lived for three years until they took over the general store and post office at Gunter. Eight years later they went back to farming in Sidney township.

Mr. Orser in good health excepting for a touch of arthritis remembers the differences in prices when he was keeping store at Gunter in 1911. "Sugar sold at 20 pounds for $1; tea 30c a pound, butter 25c a pound, and eggs at 15c a dozen," he recalled.

The couple lived in Sidney until they moved to their present home in 1940.

Born Mrs. Orser is the former Ida Trumble of Lansing, Michigan. Her husband was born in Rawdon township.

Born to the union were nine children, Lorne, John of Wellington, Angus of Frankford, Glen of Belleville, a son Edison, who died some years ago. Five daughters, Mrs. Arthur (Daisy) Bongard of Belleville, Mrs. Joe (Pearl) Irish of Stirling, Mrs. Cecil (Carrie) Mountenay of Trenton, Mrs. Alton (Mary) Hadley of Stirling and Mrs. Harley (Isa) Hadley of Trenton. In addition 25 grandchildren, 17 great grandchildren, 3 great great grandsons and four of the granddaughters are married.

Accused Given Six Months for False Pretences

Pleading guilty to a charge of false pretences involving the passing of a worthless cheque in the amount of $140.00, Wilmer John DeRoche, 26, of Kingston, was sentenced to six months in jail by Magistrate T. V. Wright in Tweed magistrate's court Thursday afternoon.

DeRoche purchased a car from a Tweed car dealer and tendered a cheque for $1,400 in payment. The cheque proved worthless.

Eight hours after the cheque bounced, DeRoche was apprehended as he left a Tweed hotel by Police Chief Walter Higgins. DeRoche has a police record.

IN MEMORIAMS

YOUNG, In loving memory of Mrs. Lillian Young, who passed away August 9th, 1950.
There's a face that is handsome as ever,
There's a voice we're longing to hear,
There's a smile we'll remember
Though we try to forget ever
There's a sad sweet remembrance,
There's a heart that is true,
There's a token of affection dear,
Reminding me of you.
Ever remembered by Kaye, Doug and family.

In loving memory of Alfred E. Burley, who passed away August 9th, 1956.
Calm and peaceful he is sleeping,
Free from pain and suffering now,
Angels guard him while he slumbers,
But trust in God to meet somehow.
Sadly missed by Mother, Uncle, Howard and Harold and families.

Lost Children On Increase Says Constable

"Keep the children in front of you, don't let them tag along behind," is the timely advice of Police Constable William T. Evans as a measure to reduce the number of lost children reported in downtown Belleville.

The constable reports that hardly a day goes by without some child being lost as it accompanies its mother or parents on a shopping trip downtown. "Definitely," he says, "the number of lost children is on the increase."

The kiddies tag along after their mother, become absorbed in something of interest and the first thing mother turns around to find her brood missing.

Kindly officer finds the crying child and turns it over to the police detachment, and a search for the parents begins.

And occasionally the mother or parents take some footing.

But the police have an ace in the hole. If the "lost" parents cannot be found, the child is taken to the police station and eventually the reunion takes place as the mother misses her child and as a last resort also turns up at the station.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Dominion Steel, A. V. Roe Canada and Aconic Mining Corporation today featured morning trading of lower stock market.

Dominion Steel opened at 32¼, a 1957 high and a gain of 1¼ points. In later transactions, however, the price slowly declined to 30½, off ¾. Volume at 11:15 a.m. on Dosco was 20,000 shares.

Following Thursday night's announcement that Avro had offered to buy control of Dominion Steel, Avro lost 2¼ at 19¼. It firmed to 19¾ later on a turnover of 10,000 shares.

Aconic, which dropped 9.37½ Tuesday, had 80 cents today at $2.30 after opening at $2.99. Turnover was nearly 40,000 shares in the first hour.

Meanwhile, the rest of the market was edging lower. Industrials lost a point on index and western oils were off three-quarters of a point. Golds were narrowly easier. Price changes in most cases were fractional with losers holding an edge.

The 11 a.m. volume of 492,000 shares was the second-lightest of the year and one of the lightest in three years. Thursday's first hour sales totaled 600,000 shares.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 5 5-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Thursday's rate was at 13-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.64, up ¼.

Pope Unlikely To Heed Plea For Segregation

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius is "extremely unlikely" to heed a plea by a group of New Orleans Roman Catholic laymen that their church halt racial integration, Vatican sources said today.

These sources noted that the Pope has frequently referred to the equality of men, regardless of color. However, there is no available information that he has ever spoken directly upon the subject of segregation.

The sharpest criticism ever expressed here against segregation was that of l'Osservatore Romano Oct. 1955, when it declared that "racial exclusion is a sin against the nature of Catholicism."

Vatican sources said the Vatican newspaper's words doubtless reflected, in general, the attitude of the pontiff. L'Osservatore, at the time, was commenting upon the impeding of a Negro priest from celebrating mass in a mission near New Orleans.

L'Osservatore described the action as a "sacrilege" and praised the intervention of Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel of New Orleans in the Negro priest's behalf as being "prompt and admirable." The archbishop has suspended masses at the mission.

Vatican sources, therefore, see little chance that Pope Pius will support the group's request that Archbishop Rummel be asked to "take no further steps" toward integration and that the papacy decree that segregation is not morally wrong and sinful, as it has been defined by the archbishop.

Divers Find Andrea Doria Shark-Infested

NEW YORK (CP) — Peter R. Gimbel, adventurous 29-year-old member of a New York department store family, has paid a third visit to the sunken Italian liner Andrea Doria.

Gimbel, who went down to the Andrea Doria's grave shortly after she sank July 26, 1956, made skin-diving descents to the ship Saturday and Tuesday.

He and diver Ramsey Parks, 24, said the Doria, in 240 feet of water off the Massachusetts coast, is "pretty well covered" with marine growth although her name still is visible on the bow plates.

The divers had two encounters with sharks and in one of them the shark veered off only after Gimbel had driven his knife into its head. For this reason, Gimbel said, they aren't planning a return visit soon for additional underwater photographs.

The Doria went down after collision with the Swedish liner Stockholm, which limped to port. Fifty lives were lost.

PLANE LANDS SAFELY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. military air transport plane with 51 persons aboard developed engine trouble over the Atlantic Thursday night but landed safely at the Azores. It carried 41 passengers and a crew of nine.

Prime Minister Now Member Of Press Club

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker and most of his cabinet attended a reception in their honor at the Ottawa Press Club Thursday night at which the prime minister was inducted as a club member.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter cattle prices had a general decline here this week, reports the Ontario public stockyards. Steers declined 25 cents, a hundred weight on top ends with lower grades lax. Heifers, cows, yearlings and bulls closed 50 cents lower for the week.

Calves were active, however, as prices were stronger for good, choice and medium vealers. Hogs experienced another sharp drop, while sows sold 50 cents a hundredweight lower.

Lambs were steady, as buyers were sorting closely all week. Ewes were automatically discounted $1 a hundredweight, with discounts on heavy bucks varying. Sheep prices were unchanged.

There were about 600 fewer cattle this week compared with last, and about 300 head less than the same week 1956. Western cattle totalled 1,300, similar to last week. There were 180 stock calves from the west, with two loads sold to Eastern Canadian slaughterers. Three loads of choice steers were exported to the United States.

Slaughter cattle quality declined slightly this week. Top grades sold fairly well as lower grades moved slowly. Prices were generally steady.

In spite of the short week, trading was somewhat limited. The relatively small offerings of genuine fed yearlings caused a good demand for the class. The supply of heifers and steers lacking quality and finish—which exceeded the demand, resulted in a slight carryover.

Prices:

Slaughter Cattle: Choice steers $20-21; odd lots $21.25; good $19-20; medium $17-19; common $15-17; good $16.50-17; a few choice top to $18; medium $15-16; common 13-15; boner steers and heifers $10-12; choice fed yearlings up to $21.50; good $19-20; good cows $12-12.50; medium $11-12; common $10-11; bulls steers and cutters $7-9.50.

Replacement Cattle: Good $18-20; medium and medium $15-17.50; heifers $14-16.

Calves: Good and choice vealers mostly $22-23; sales to $24.75; medium $18-21; common $14-17; bulls $10-12.

Hogs: Grade A mostly $35-to-a $25.50; tags $15 a hundredweight, on a dressed - weight basis.

Sheep and Lambs: Good lambs $25; common down to $15 a hundredweight; feeders $18 - 18.50; good light sheep $8-9; common $3-7.

Oriols Perform Difficult Feats High Overhead

Any idea that famous aerial acrobats don't make just as wonderful housewives is disproved by Mrs. Oriol — listens to Henrique Oriol talk of his wife, with whom he makes the famous team of "Les Oriols" who will appear at the Belleville Fair from Monday to Saturday next week.

"Suzette designs and makes all the costumes that are used in our act, and we use hundreds during a year's tour. I'll come down off the perch from flying every night to eat, and ready for a long sleep. She'll come down, pick up a pattern, and start sewing a new costume so that it will be ready when we move to the next stop on the tour.

"She doesn't stop there. She refuses to let me forget that we're Danes when we're touring other countries. There's no restaurant for us. No matter how trying the performance has been, she insists on cooking dinner for me and making all the dishes I like so much at home. She is truly a remarkable young lady," concludes Henrique.

Both the Oriols talk in reverent tones of their famed grandfather, who taught them all the difficult routines which now make them Europe's most sought after aerial duo. Grandfather Oriol is now 76. Up to a few years ago he could still mount to the rigging and perform many of the most difficult stunts.

"Grandpop is certainly a remarkable man," Suzette points out. "He not only taught us how to execute our stunts, but also he instilled in us a way of thinking about practice and execution which makes us know how to concentrate on the task at hand."

Just how well Les Oriols execute their acrobatic magic will be revealed on their appearance here at the Belleville Fair.

Inflation Greatest Threat To Average Person's Savings

By RORRES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Today's inflation is difficult to assess.

It is difficult to say to what extent it is due to an undesirable rise in prices and how much to a wider range of activity which requires an increased amount of currency.

Let us imagine that through some process of financial legerdemain—or of extreme depression—the buying power of the dollar was so increased that $1 would buy as much as the current $100 . . .

That would mean that a car which might be purchase today for $2,500 could be bought for $25; or that a house which might be purchased today for $150,000, could be bought for $150.

It would also mean that an article which today might be bought for $1 would cost one cent; and that a newspaper, for instance, which sells for five cents, would sell for one-twentieth of a cent.

NEW MEANING

In such a situation the word "dollar" would take on a new meaning of relatively astronomical heights and the word "cent" would take on the same meaning as the word "dollar" today.

Obviously, in such a situation, our present coinage of dollars and cents would be inadequate for the convenient transaction of business and we would have to issue coins in terms of fractions of cents.

Or, take a less extreme example out of living memory. Take the man who in the early years of the century made, say, $75 a month.

Such a man, in those days, was relatively prosperous. He could own his own home and live in what were considered comfortable circumstances.

Would it have been practicable, however, to have held his salary at $75 a month and enable him to have added all the things that in the meantime are considered necessary to a good standard of living?

USING ALL

For, chances are, he was living up to his $75 in buying the conveniences of his day—without adding automobiles, radio and television, electric refrigerators, washers and dryers and scores of other items considered ordinary conveniences today.

Assuming, however, he received moderate increases in time $75, without the dollar's buying power changing, perhaps he could add all these things.

But, again, we must ask: Would all these developments and their marketing have been practicable in terms of early-century dollars?

There may be answers to such questions but they seem to be rarely considered.

Given such instances, the advocates of continuing inflation may ask:

What is the difference between regarding, say $5, $5, or $100 in the same fashion as we used to regard $1, and regarding one cent in the same fashion as we used to vaule $1? Isn't it a matter of what monetary terms we get used to?

These questions and examples are not intended to underestimate the dangers of real inflation, but only to illustrate some of its complexities.

For, beyond doubt, the greatest danger to the average person in these post-war years has been and is inflation—the erosion of the value of his work in terms of what it will buy.

Road Angels Hold Meet

Members of the Belleville "Road Angels Rod and Custom Club" held a road rally Thursday night which was organized by Jack Matthews, Scott McLean, Bob Heath and Gord Kearry; who were unable to participate due to Club rules.

This was the first club event during the short period they have been in organization and which was most successful.

A trophy for first prize was donated by a local radio and TV Shop. The winners were: Jones Bray, Jim Uens and Gord Crake.

The Road Angels hope to hold bigger and better events in the future.

RALLY CLOSES SEPT. 1

Police Blotter

Reported stolen a couple of days ago a car owned by Robert Lyall, Charles Street, was found abandoned on the Mt. Pleasant parking lot last night.

Henry Pom, 16, of 18 Everett Street, complained of injury to his arm Thursday afternoon after he was in collision with a local taxi at the entrance to a Front Street service station. The boy says he slipped on a bicycle at the time of the mishap.

Three break-ins were discovered by police or reported to police during the night.

One was at the Beaver Lumber Company where a door was forced but nothing taken. Another was at the swimming pool on Dundas Street where a door leading to the canteen was forced and small quantity of chocolate bars taken, and the third was at Hoyt's Cleaners which was found insecure by patrol officers early this morning. Missing is a small amount of money from the office cash box and a box of cigars.

COMMONWEALTH TRADE FIGURES

Prime Minister Diefenbaker is eager to arrange a conference to stimulate Commonwealth trade.

If some of the Commonwealth countries do not respond to this proposal with marked enthusiasm, some figures contained in a release by the United Kingdom Information Office may provide a clue to a possible reason.

These figures show that there is a marked contrast between Canadian trade with other Commonwealth countries and the trade of other major members of the Commonwealth. The difference is not that Commonwealth trade is more important to Canada, but that it is much less important. One might reason from this that other members of the Commonwealth would be even more eager than Canada to discuss a subject in which they are so vitally interested, but it may well be that the governments of some of these countries believe that their trade with the United Kingdom lands is already as extensive as is possible, or as large a proportion of their total trade as is advisable. We should not overlook the fact that one of the main factors prompting Prime Minister Diefenbaker to seek increased trade with Britain and other Commonwealth countries is the excessively protectionist policy which the U.S. plays in the Canadian trade picture. If several other Commonwealth countries have a comparable problem, then it is only in relation to their trade with Britain.

Only 18 per cent of Canada's foreign trade is with Commonwealth lands, with the United Kingdom accounting for 14 per cent of these exports and 70 per cent of these imports.

At the other end of the scale, 76 per cent of New Zealand's trade is with Commonwealth countries and the United Kingdom handles 90 per cent of these exports and 70 per cent of imports.

Canada and New Zealand are, admittedly, at opposite ends of the scale in the question of the proportion of Commonwealth trade to the whole foreign trade picture. But Commonwealth trade accounts for 76 per cent of the total trade of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland, 59 per cent of Australia's trade, 54 per cent of South Africa's, 53 per cent of Ceylon's, 50 per cent of the trade of United Kingdom dependencies, 48 per cent of India's, 46 per cent of Britain's own trade and 39 per cent of Pakistan's.

Many of these countries might be pardoned for wondering whether, in the interests of a stable economy, they should not be well advised to endeavor to find new markets for their goods, and new suppliers, outside of the Commonwealth.

But, essentially, Prime Minister Diefenbaker is right. Whatever question may arise about the wisdom of New Zealand, for example, depending more heavily on trade with Britain, which shows these figures in over three quarters of that Dominion's total trade, there is no question but that increased trade between Canada and other members of the Commonwealth would strengthen both parties to such exchanges of goods. Canada needs to increase the present low proportion of her trade with Commonwealth countries, while other Commonwealth countries which depend so heavily on Britain as a purchaser for their goods and as a supplier for the goods they require could find in Canada a welcome additional market and source of supply.

THUNDER IN THE EAST

U.S. occupation troops are leaving Japan -- but there has been no suggestion that Uncle Sam has any intention of leaving Okinawa, a most convenient island base which was wrested from the Japs in bloody fighting during the latter part of World War Two.

Okinawa might be said to be Uncle Sam's Pacific Cyprus -- essential to defence plans in that area in just the same way that Cyprus is indispensable to John Bull in his desire to retain some semblance of military control over the uneasy Eastern Mediterranean area.

The difference, up to the present, has been that the natives of Okinawa, although restless, have not resorted to the type of terrorism with which the Cypriots have been plaguing the British lion for many months.

All that, though, may be changed in the not distant future. The pro-Communist mayor of Naha, in Okinawa, has had his hold strengthened by an election in which his followers doubled their seats in the city council, now holding 12 out of 30.

One needs to accept such reservations such descriptions as "pro-Communist." Sometimes this tag is attached to men who are not really pro-Red..but merely anti-West - - and there can be a vast difference in the Far East and indeed in any Asiatic or African land. It would not be altogether surprising, though, if this time the tag was legitimate - - for the situation in Okinawa, occupation by foreign troops with every prospect that this occupation will continue indefinitely, provides fertile soil for the type of crop the Communists like to raise.

CLUB MANAGERS

Club managers must pleasant be
How'er to rage they're goad-ed,
Have eyes that instantly can see
An ash tray overloaded.
The food that each will satisfy
Is mentioned, is expected.
And service prompt they must supply
Or none will feel neglected.

Club managers have much to do,
A fact there's no denying;
Must daily spend an hour or two
The club's provisions buying.
And though no one would call them saints,
Until the day is ended
With patience they must hear complaints
From those who've been offended.

Salad Time Here, Alas

There is a morbid little game to be played these summer days by anyone who does not live in deathly fear of the cook. This obviously does not include the head of the house, who admittedly is frightened and meanly passes the information along, muttering that would the rules for a new version of Old Maid be taken, and passed from the shelf containing cook books into the hands of any one of them. Stand it on its spine and then let the book open where it will. The odds are 50 to 1 that it splendidly call why slow salads. Not meats, not potatoes, not puddings or pies -- just salads. The odds are 50 to 1 -- and they increase over weekends -- that cook has turned to those pages so often in recent days that the book has a definite curvature of the spine. The morbid little game? It consists in performing the trick before the visitors whom the cook -- bless her little soul -- is trying to impress. Not for any ulterior reasons, of course, but just in the instinctive way cooks have. By serving a roast that night for the visitors' dinner. Not a salad that one night, but a roast.

Now, there must be no attempt in this game to be at all critical or down a general denunciation of cooks. It is certain that one who is far overweight -- due entirely to his having given up smoking -- is in no position to make such a denunciation, even if he wished. Living in abject terror of the cook, he will instantly agree, without argument, that salads are good for his figure. Especially under the theory that if you can't lick them you join them. He will himself point out to the cook the obvious parallel of the rabbit. The rabbit is not entirely fond of lettuce, and is seriously lithe and slender. In commercial advertising, for example, he, the rabbit, is so lithe as to be entirely sinew. The cook will not, of course, remember any of this. The punch line, however, had best be spoken inaudibly. It is salads.

Let 'Uncle' Do Too Much

Kingston Whig-Standard

Canadian territory now forms most of the radar Maginot Line which has been built at a cost of $400,000,000 by the United States for the protection of the continent. The idea is to give the Americans enough seconds warning of aircraft from Soviet Russia flying the short route across the Arctic.

The Distant Early Warning Line (DEW Line) stretches from western Alaska across the upper rim of the continent, through the Canadian Arctic Island. It consists of a chain of radar posts interconnected electronically.

There is a chain of relay points to the Continental Air Defence Command in Colorado Springs, Colorado and to Canadian Air Defence Command headquarters at St. Hubert, Quebec.

The line was built by the Western Electric company — an American company — and will be run by another American company, the Federal Electric Corporation, a subsidiary of the International Telephone Company. Building and operation are under the direct supervision of the United States Air Force with, as the reports have it, "the active co-operation of the Canadian government."

Theoretically the line will give about three hours' warning of Russian attack. The original estimate was six hours but the speed of jet bombers has risen. The line is admitted to offer no warning against fast, high-flying missiles. This is a job for anti-missile lines, one of which is entirely Canadian.

The British, who built fighting aircraft which are the world's finest, and most effective cannot announced that effective fighter aircraft cannot be much higher. They are going to concentrate on missiles and are changing their whole defence structure accordingly. We can now sit back and take a good look at the DEW Line, the building and operation of which was forced on us by the need of sovereignty on our own soil which has never been occupied anywhere else in a free country. We might be pardoned for wondering what we are going to do now in the way of effective defence for our country.

Our army, according to official statements from the army exercises in Camp Gagetown, will have attached to it, more or less automatically, batteries of American atomic missiles. Army planning is being formed about weapons which we do not possess, in other words. We are not capable of running our part of a future joint war effort.

We would inevitably join with the United States in an emergency. There is no doubt of that, and nothing wrong with it. But not to play an honest part we need to be fully effective. If our territory is being used, our troops being committed, we must insist that we are in on the ground floor in the shaping of command and strength, of course, there cannot be. Also this is a political and economic question. What is defensible in weapons and equipment would probably not be possible in a prosperous peacetime atmosphere. But we are accepting the "poor relation" role too readily. Are we perhaps just a bit inclined to relax and let "Uncle" do it?

Whistles Are for Dogs

The Printed Word

Trail of a new gadget is reported from Allentown, Pa. It is "a vest-pocket, radio-controlled whistle that can inform a person's wife, by means of the telephone even though he's miles away from his phone." The gadget, about the size of a package of cigarettes, may be carried in his pocket by the subscriber to the service. When his number is called and not answered, the telephone company automatically sends out a radio signal, which sounds like a whistle if the subscriber is within an eight-mile radius. The whistle continues prior to the nearest telephone, dials a prearranged number and is put to his wife's number.

The Pennsylvania, company says it has already signed up several customers for the new service. They include a local television repairmen and insurance salesmen. These may find the service worth the cost quoted of 25 cents per call, or $5 a month plus an additional five cents for each call over the eighty. Others may hesitate before subscribing.

Judging from what happened when users experiences elsewhere, about twenty-five out of the first eighty will be wrong numbers, ten more will be from women trying to get in touch with the boss charity in which the telephone number is given wrongly and, another; fifteen will be to tell the lucky person that he has won a week's free dancing lessons by the Mary Ann Studio of Dance, and eight will be inquiries about what radio or television program he has on at the time, and the moral of one of Benjamin Franklin's fables, one can pay too much for a whistle.

Placing the Blame

Sault Ste. Marie Star

It seems to be the nature of man to blame human faults upon the inanimate things with which cannot answer back. One can hardly pick up a paper without reading of fatal things which are out of control, people being "impaired by liquor" and boys who became criminals because they "kept bad company".

How to Grow Your Own Fish

By J. B. Dawson, Wildlife Biologist for the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests

During the hot summer months as small springs, intermittent streams and ponds dry up, temperature water supplies become a very valuable farm asset. In many instances, however, permanent water sources are either insufficient or are not suitably located.

Artificial ponds, properly constructed, can supply a number of useful purposes. They may provide water for livestock, supplies for use, fire protection, spraying, irrigation, recreation, beautification and fish. The last of these, habitat for fish and wildlife production.

Ponds may be constructed by excavating dug-out ponds which utilize surface water by damming small valleys or draws to impound water supplies from springs or from runoff, or by by passing water from a permanent stream.

With a little forethought, a farm pond can be made very attractive to wildlife and, where suitable, support such game fish as bass or trout.

Ponds should be fenced from livestock to encourage the growth of bank shrubbery and emergent vegetation in the shallower portions of the pond. This type of vegetation increases wildlife values considerably. A small portion of the pond may be left accessible to livestock, or water can be piped from the pond's banks for this purpose.

Although most shallow ponds will probably be most suitable for duck and muskrat habitat, some deeper types may be suitable for fish production.

Larger ponds are best for fish and an important factor is water depth. Ponds must have some depths of 10 to 14 feet in depth or winter mortality can be expected to occur from oxygen depletion. Trout ponds should be spring fed and bottom temperatures should average 65 degrees F. or slightly less in midsummer. Bass stocked along with bluegill sunfish or golden shiners often make an excellent combination for larger warm water ponds, and the production of bait minnows, while not a simple matter, may be very worth while in areas of high bait demand.

With the fish problem under control, many landowners will find they have acquired a very good pond. The whistle of a black duck's wings in October, the redwing's familiar call as the farm boy tends his muskrat traps in spring, the hot of a fish on a line or even the splashings of "the old swimming hole" all combine to make a pond worth-while.

Here any advice is desired concerning fish and wildlife aspects of farm ponds landowners should contact their District Lands and Forests at Kemptville.

Paris Styles For Males

Stratford Beacon-Herald

If what we hear from Paris is true, what designers do to women's fashions is mild compared with what they're going to do with men's suits. They have decided their ought to be a colorful "new look" for men: Red suits, blazer-striped pants and sateen dinner jackets. For summer, one tailor suggested red gabardine slacks with a red and brown checked homespun jacket. A red pork-pie hat to top him off.

Another suggestion is matching pants for the bright striped blazer. Trousers on most of the suits shown were cut stove-pipe fashion, very skinny and without cuffs.

Vests were shown with halter-necks, like those on dress suit vests, and daytime vests were limited to matching linen, while evening vests were in brilliant silk. Seemingly, a man will look like a matador.

Recommended for the fashionable male in a dinner suit is beige or pale toast-brown, preferably satin or satin and wool. These suits are one-button models and are shown with bowties, tied poet-bow fashion. If these fashions should come over here, what's your pleasure, gentlemen?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of my neighbors up at the summer resort is an elderly man who spends the entire summer making garden ornaments in a cottage, amidst the rocks and trees overlooking the lake. He has come up to the cottage until the start of July, thus his gardens are mostly of flowers that bloom best in autumn, such as zinnias, chrysanthemums, dahlias and other late flowers and even cabbias. I called on him the other day to find him toiling happily in beds of zinnias that are in but won't be in full bloom until mid-September, along with his numerous and skilfully planned salvia patches.

"But," I protested, "all these will be in full glory after you're gone for the summer. When do you leave?"

"First week of September," he said.

"We'll all be gone, then," I pointed out. "There will hardly be a soul around here to see them."

"What difference does that make?" enquired the old man, artfully.

"Well, heck," I said, "the whole point and purpose of flower- farmers is to be seen."

"Is it?" retorted the old boy, shrewdly dibbling the t o p s o i l around the zinnia plants. "Well, I will tell you. Did you ever hear all those religious orders that are cloistered and do nothing but worship God all day and all night? Their purpose is to make sure that there is never an instant of time in which God is not being worshipped. Lest, by forgetfulness, or accident, or the interference of other things, there should be an instant anywhere on earth that God is forgotten, these cloistered orders of men or women keep constant prayer welling up."

"I've heard of them," I admitted.

"Among us gardeners," said the old boy, "there are some who feel the same. We just love flowers to bloom, and we don't care who sees them. Who sees all the wildflowers that bloom in their wild and unexplored regions of the earth? Somebody. So I figure when I am gone, and get to the Pearly Gates, and they ask me to come along some day and see me, and pat my shoulder, and say "You had a mighty fine garden, my son Joe. What are you doing up here?"

"'Gardening, Sir,' I'll say."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LISTEN — AND THINK!

There is nothing new to the art of listening — yet listening is an art! We learn more by listening than we do by most other things. But then we have the advantage of thinking — and thinking is what has changed the ways and customs of history. Rodin did a great s t a t u e which he called "The Thinker." It is a simple, yet dramatic creation, and is famous the world over. There is a bronze cast at the Cleveland Art Museum and one I have seen in San Francisco. It makes one think just to view this great, powerful sculptured work.

To listen is to be challenged — if we think during the process. I like to read books that make me think, like Stevenson's essays, and those of Montaigne. No one can read anything that Thoreau wrote without thinking, especially his famous "Walden." As a man took that stays alive, and always thinketh in his heart, so is he."

will. The reading of any good book is a science, or philosophy, stimulates thought.

Then are opportunities for scores of sermons in Emerson's essays. We live over many a happy day listening to many of the old, familiar songs of yesteryear. Can we ever forget the inspiring, and comforting song by Stephen Foster or the words of Oliver Wendell Holmes? Or those early gospel hymns? We do a great deal of thinking as we listen to them.

Listen — and think. It's one of the surest routes to added knowledge. Interesting talk always leads to good, and serious thinking. Conversation that does not make us think, like Stevenson's essays, and those of Montaigne. No one can read anything that Thoreau wrote without thinking, especially his famous "Walden." As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

OUR LONGING FOR ETERNITY

Man has been called a creature who takes care of his dead. The animals pay no attention to the carcasses of the dead companions of the herd or flock. But man looks after his dead.

It is also a proven fact that men in past ages built stone tombs for those who died and while they continued to live in mimeon-walled huts. What does this mean? One thing it quite obviously means is that man stands in sublime contrast to the animals, but he also has reverence for God's gift of immortality comprehensible to him but something he regards as sublime. It is not sublime in itself but in what it leads to.

And as it was for ancient man, so it is for us. There is an awesome regard for what lies beyond in the dim reach of what we call eternity. When we came from we do not know. But what we do know is that we will go on to a realm which from the beginning man has believed has eternal existence.

The Bible expresses it in the timeless way of saying that house of this tabernacle be dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

All Is Vanity

Windsor Star

An English woman visiting Tillsonburg either offered a perfect example of English nonchalance or a perfect example of something else, we're not sure what. When a serious fire broke out she was caught in a beauty shop, her hair half done. Frantic kinfolk feared she had perished in the blaze.

Not so. She merely had walked out and casually entered another beauty shop down the street, where she was duly tended. An entire business block was in flames, but, to her, first things first, and nothing was going to be caught with her hair down, even if half the town burned down.

This woman possessed coolness under fire, indeed. She was calm, self-possessed, composed, and imperturbable. Added to these characteristics however, probably was a bit of feminine vanity.

Harvest Time Blues

Windsor Advance-Times

In case anyone around here is in real doubt about the value of Windsor's business to the community he should bend an ear to the complaints of businessmen. With every sign of a healthy thinking of nothing but harvesting, business seems to be quite quiet in town. However, we would predict that without the current harvest activities the shrinking would increase in volume before the end of the year.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Legend of the Lone Ranger Stems From Murdered Patrol

The legend of the Lone Ranger stems from a patrol of six Texas Rangers, who were assigned to track down and capture the notorious Butch Cavendish, leader of a ruthless band of outlaws that terrorized the West years ago when there was little law west of the Pecos.

Led by a Captain Reid, the Rangers approached a spot called Bryant Gap, and stopped to send a scout ahead to look for signs of the Cavendish gang. Meanwhile, Captain Reid, anticipating trouble, asked his younger brother, also a member of the Rangers, to take care of the captain's wife and son in the event anything happened.

When the scout returned to report that there were no signs of the gang, the Rangers filed through the narrow canyon bed, unknowingly headed into an ambush, which the scout had previously arranged. The guide, Collins, lagged behind, and watched the gang open fire from the canyon rim. Four of the patrol were killed immediately, and the captain and his brother returned the fire, but to no avail. Collins checked quickly for signs of life, then joined the Cavendish gang, reporting that all were killed.

Actually, the younger Reid was still alive. During the night, an Indian from the Potawatomi tribe came upon the bodies and discovered Reid. He carried him to a nearby cave and spent days bringing him back to health. When the remaining Ranger awoke, he recognized the Indian Tonto as an old childhood playmate, one who used to call him "Kemo Sabay," or trusted scout.

When Tonto told him what had happened, the Lone Ranger swore out a vendetta, asking Tonto's help to track down the ruthless gang. Knowing he would be recognized, Reid donned a mask, and assumed the role of the Lone Ranger. Six gr... as had been dug by Tonto when the Rangers were buried in order to mislead anyone.

For many weeks, the Lone Ranger and Tonto trailed Butch Cavendish, hoping to take him alive and bring him to justice. One day, suddenly, a shot rang out and the Lone Ranger's horse staggered and fell dead. Tonto rode after the Killer, but returned soon, having lost the trail. He then remembered stories about a wild white stallion that ranchers and hunters had seen in area, suggesting that he and the Lone Ranger set out to find him, while continuing their search for Cavendish.

Several days later, as they climbed the summit of a hill, they spotted the stallion, in a fight-to-death battle with a giant buffalo. As he charged, reared, plunged and dodged, sun reflected from his coat as from a coat of polished silver. However, the bison had gored the stallion and was winning the battle. As the beast lowered his head for the death charge, the Lone Ranger fired two shots and killed him. With Tonto, he washed the wounds of the horse and cared for him for several days. When the stallion regained his strength, the Lone Ranger felt he had fought for freedom and deserved it. But the horse trotted back after running a short distance. Answering to the name of Silver, he learned rapidly from the Lone Ranger, and was soon ready for the saddle.

When the Lone Ranger first mounted Silver, the horse reared high in the air in accomplishments. "High," commanded the Lone Ranger, "reared up, again!" Silver responded, and later the command became "Hi-yo, Silver, away!"

Eventually, this was contracted to "Hi-Yo Silver, away!" the clarion call of a mystery rider who wears a mask and fights on the side of justice. With Silver's speed and Tonto's assistance, the Lone Ranger captured the Cavendish gang, who were tried by law and punished for their crimes.

Having fulfilled one vow, the Lone Ranger next turned to locating his brother's wife and child. In the smoldering remains of a wagon train that had been attacked by the Apaches on its way to Fort Laramie, Tonto discovered a name-plate on a charred trunk — the name of Reid. It took thirteen years to discover that young Dan Reid was alive, being cared for by an old pioneer woman called Grandma Fribble.

When the Lone Ranger found her, she lay dying, but produced a locket that had pictures of Dan's father and mother. Grandma Fribble was in the same wagon train, but escaped with Dan when the latter's mother was killed. Before Dan's foster grandmother died, she asked the Lone Ranger to unmask, which he did, making her one of two people who have ever seen his face — the other being Tonto.

A third, little known request that Captain Reid had made of his brother, was to care for the silver mine they had discovered together, with the rightful share to be set aside for the wife and child. With all promises fulfilled, having found Dan Reid, the Lone Ranger proceeded to dedicate his life to fighting for the right and justice in the years to follow.

LANDMARK GOES

OTTAWA (CP)—The downtown Windsor Hotel which has served Ottawa for more than 100 years will close Aug. 31. An unused section of the old hostelry was damaged by fire earlier this year, and the site at the corner of Metcalfe and Queen streets will be turned into a parking lot.

Railways Will Get Green Light To Boost Rates

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian railways will get the green light shortly to boost certain freight rates in line with increases authorized this week in the United States.

Informants said Thursday the higher rates could cost Canadian shippers about $20,000,000 a year.

The authorization for the raise is understood to be under consideration by the board of transport commissioners following the order by the U.S. interstate commerce commission. The U.S. increases, on a specified list of traffic, are seven per cent in the east and west and four per cent in the south.

Canada for some years has followed a semi-automatic practice of matching U.S. rate changes on types of traffic common to the two countries.

ACROSS-BORDER TRADE

Chiefly affected by the Canadian increases will be the heavy flow of goods between Canada and the United States, which now brings Canada earnings about $250,000,000 a year, almost equally divided between the CNR and CPR.

Also affected will be rates on various types of Canadian commodities which are linked with similar U.S. rates, mainly for competitive purposes, with differentials maintained at the same levels despite rate changes in one country or the other.

One example is the movement of Canadian grain from the west to Atlantic ports in Canada and the U.S., on which stable differentials are maintained to give Canadian ports a chance at the business despite a longer and more expensive rail haul.

It is understood the transport board's order will permit the lines to fix rates effective Aug. 26, same day the U.S. rates will be raised.

CHANGE SOVIET TITLE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government has dropped the title of first deputy premier which was instituted after Stalin's death in March 1953. Anastase Mikoyan and Joseph Kuzmin, formerly known as first deputy premiers, now are being called simply deputy premiers.

A. V. Roe Makes $60,000,000 Bid For Dosco Stock

MONTREAL (CP)—A. V. Roe Canada Limited, rapidly expanding holding subsidiary of the British Hawker Siddeley group, has made a $60,000,000 bid for control of the vast Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation empire.

The offer to buy a controlling interest of Dosco was made public Thursday after a meeting of the board of directors of the sprawling steel and coal company. It was in the form of a letter of intent covering common Dosco shares and convertible debentures and included the condition that Avro must acquire 1,600,000 shares — approximately 52 per cent of Dosco shares outstanding if all debentures are converted.

ABOUT $27 A SHARE

The offer amounted to about $27 a common share. The closing market price per Dosco share here Thursday was $31. If Avro acquires 1,600,000 common shares the transaction would have an indicated value of about $60,000,000.

The Avro offer would involve about $17,000,000 in cash and more than 2,000,000 Avro shares, which closed Thursday at $2.

It was the second time in four months that Avro has moved to buy into a steel-producing company. Last April Avro bought 150,000 shares of Algoma Steel Corporation stock for about $15,000,000. At the same time, Avro's Orenda Engines Ltd. and Canadair Limited, rapidly expanding aircraft manufacturing subsidiary, announced the letter of intent and said some legal requirements are still to be met but the formal offer will be made no later than Aug. 30. It will be open for acceptance for 30 days.

Mr. Lang, who has persistently denied reports that control of Dosco was being sought by other interests, said the Avro offer would be forwarded to Dosco shareholders as rapidly as possible.

BIG MARITIMES INTEREST

Dosco and its subsidiaries stretch from Windsor, Ont., to Newfoundland and employ about 30,000 persons. Operations are centred in the Maritimes. Dosco and 22 of its subsidiaries reported a net profit of nearly $7,650,000 last year—equal to $3.15 a common share. The report did not include figures for 10 other subsidiaries and associated companies.

The extension of Avro subsidiaries in recent years is a reflection of the broadening of activity of the parent Hawker Siddeley group.

Avro's airplane subsidiaries at Malton are Avro Aircraft Ltd., and Orenda Engines Ltd. Other subsidiaries include Canadian Steel Improvement Ltd., Canadian Applied Research Ltd., Canadian Car Co. Ltd., and Canadian Steel Foundries (1955) Ltd.

The company's capital stock is made up of 2,500,000 common shares—of which 4,754,000 are issued—and $25,000,000 authorized preferred shares, none of which are issued.

CNRA Appoints Lionel Train Acting Head

At a recent meeting of the Canadian National Recreation Association board of directors Lionel J. Train, first vice-president of the Association, was named Acting President for the balance of 1957 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George F. Foster.

In addition to heading the Association, Mr. Train will also retain the position of chairman of building. Allan Meagher has been appointed chairman of property which chairmanship was formerly held by the late Mr. Foster.

Minor Baseball

Terry Thompson bested Casey Soden in a mound duel allowing two hits for one run as the CNRA defeated K of C 3-1 in a Tamman baseball playoff game. The score was 5-1.

Thompson sent down 14 batters via the whiff route and issued but one walk. Soden allowed only four hits for five runs, striking out four and walking three.

The winners scored two runs in the first and fourth innings sandwiching a single in the third. The Knights got their only run in the sixth.

Jim Lockwood with two, Garry Reid and Stu Muirhead hit safely for the winners with Moreton and Soden being the only Knights to connect with Thompson's shots.

Wellman Clan Holds First Reunion Picnic

The first Wellman reunion picnic was held August 4, 1957 at Glenn Cairn Park, Crowe Lake, at Marmora. There were 94 members of the clan and two visitors present.

This number consisted of the descendants and their families of the late George and James Wellman. Mrs. Louis Nichols, of Victoria Square, the only living direct descendant, daughter of the late George Wellman was among those present.

Mr. R. P. Wellman, of Peterborough, who was chosen to act as master of ceremonies for the occasion, requested everyone to rise and sing "Be present at our table Lord", after which all enjoyed a most sumptuous repast.

PRIZES PRESENTED

During a lull through dinner, prizes were presented. To the eldest person present, Mrs. Anderson of Toronto replied with a claim of 81 years. Brenda Dorreen Pearson, of Belleville, took the prize for the youngest person present being nine weeks old. Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Wellman, of Ottawa, laid claim to the prize offered for the oldest couple from the most distant point.

Immediately following dinner, an executive was appointed to plan for the next reunion to be held in 1958. The officers elected were: president—Lorne Wellman R.R. 1 Omemee; vice-president — Edgar Ray, R.R. 2 Belleville; treasurer — Mrs. A. Greenwood, 17 Craig Street, Belleville.

The afternoon passed most pleasantly and far too quickly. The adults enjoyed the opportunity to visit while the young people derived a great deal of pleasure from the water and the fine beach at Glen Allen Park. Those from distant points were regretted having to leave early for home, but all left already looking forward to the next reunion.

Members present came from Belleville; Cobourg; Omemee; Ottawa; Peterborough; Thomasburg; Toronto and Victoria Square in Contario.

One member present resides at Rivers, Manitoba.

FAREWELL PARTY

On Wednesday afternoon a farewell party, with 14 neighbors present, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Garrison, Holloway Street, in honor of three neighbors, Mrs. E. Kuntze, Mrs. E. Pollard, and Mrs. W. Anderson, who are leaving the community to reside in Oshawa, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Miami, Florida, respectively.

Following a social time, tea was served and farewell gifts presented.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis Johnston are shown following their marriage in St. Augustine of Canterbury Church, Montreal. The bride is the former Miss Marie Anita Edna Lalonde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Lalonde of Montreal, and her bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Johnston of Belleville.

JOHNSTON — LALONDE

St. Augustine of Canterbury Church, Montreal, was the setting on Tuesday, July 16, at 9.00 a.m. for a lovely wedding when Marie Anita Edna Lalonde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Lalonde, of Montreal, became the bride of John Lewis Johnston, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Johnston. The Reverend J. S. Hurley officiated before a background of Sweetheart roses and pale blue and pink gladioli.

Mr. Alfred O'Reilly presided at the console of the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Gerald Sweeney, in his rendition of four numbers during the service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Joseph Lalonde, was charmingly attired in a bridal gown of floor-length French lace and silk tulle over slipper satin. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a sheaf of Sweetheart roses. A diamond pendant, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her ensemble.

Her attendants were her two sisters, Mrs. G. Lombardo, as matron of honor, and Miss Bernadette Lalonde, as bridesmaid. Both were attired in ballerina length French lace and silk tulle over taffeta in pastel yellow and blue, respectively. They carried bouquets of multi-colored gladioli.

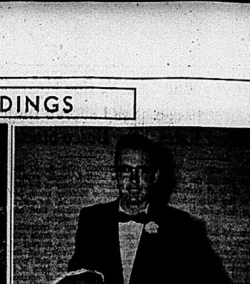
Mr. Douglas Johnston attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. George and Alfred Lalonde, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Beauchamp, Prudhomme Avenue, Montreal, which was beautifully decorated with Sweetheart roses and pink and white gladioli. The bride's table was appointed with a lace cloth, centred by a three-tiered round wedding cake topped with Sweetheart rosebuds and nestled about the base with tulle. Bridal bouquets added a nuptial accent.

Mrs. Joseph A. Lalonde, mother of the bride, received wearing beige toned French lace over shell pink, with pink accessories and corsage of carnations and rosebuds. Mrs. Albert L. Johnston, mother of the bridegroom, assisted, gowned in blue and white printed and pleated nylon sheer over white satin, with white accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses and carnations.

Following the reception, the bride and bridegroom left by motor to Quebec City, the bride travelling in nigger brown silk shantung with deep yellow, pleated hat and gloves, and corsage of yellow carnations and tea roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will reside in Belleville, at 415 Dundas St. E.

Out-of-town guests were present from Hamilton, Belleville and Westerley, Rhode Island, U.S.



Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Konarek are pictured signing the register following their recent marriage in Christ Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Barbara Alice Dix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dix, of Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Joseph Konarek, of Branford, and the late Mr. Konarek. KONAREK — DIX

Pastel-tinted gladioli adorned the alter in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, August 3rd at 1.00 p.m. for a lovely summer wedding when Archdeacon C. P. Creeggan, rector of the church united in marriage Barbara Alice Dix, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dix, to Joseph Konarek, of Brantford, son of Mrs. Joseph (Eva) Konarek, and the late Mr. Konarek.

Mr. Robert Bell, guest organist from St. Thomas Anglican Church, rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the boys choir as they sang, "Brother James' Air", (the 23rd Psalm).

Given in marriage by he father, Mr. William Dix, the bride was radiant in her full-length bridal gown of scalloped and brocaded nylon net over pink tulle and white taffeta having a scalloped, "V"-shaped neckline, the fitted bodice coming to "V" points at back and front over the gracefully full skirt. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a hat-effect headdress in matching material, and she carried a cascade of pink roses.

Miss Heien Weston, of Belleville, as maid of honor, and Miss Bettie MacElwee, of Timmins, Ontario, as bridesmaid, were gowned alike in French blue crystal charm in waltz-length, featuring gored, fitted bodices with portrait necklines and narrow standup collars and short sleeves. They wore matching headdresses and carried nosegays of pink roses mingled with white 'mums.

Mr. Vincent Jones, of Brantford, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Walter Las, of Smiths Falls, Ontario, acted as usher.

The reception was held in Christ Church parish hall where Mrs. E. Exley, R.M.C., guest pianist, favored with a piano solo, "Fifth Nocture by Lacbace", and accompanied Miss Grace Veley in a duet rendition of "Soiree de Vienne," by Schubert-Liszt.

The bride's table was daintily appointed with white linen damask, centred by a three-tiered pillared wedding cake topped by a tiny bouquet of white flowers, related about the base with white tulle, and flanked by tall pink and white candles, and the bridal bouquets.

The bride's mother received the guests, attired in a brown copper-tone suit-dress with with brown accessories, and corsage of pink and bronze 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Eastern Canada, the bride chose a pink figured print sheath in brown with chocolate brown, straight-line duster, beige accessories, and corsage of yellow roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Konarek will reside in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored guest at several showers in Brantford; one at the home of Miss Pauline Sevier, another by Miss Jean Mary Marjorie Huff; and one at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Lawrence, as well as one at the home of Miss Helen Weston, of Belleville.

Guests were present from Belleville, Brantford, Hillier, Hamilton, Timmins, North Bay, St. Thomas, Toronto, Oakland, Ontario, and Vancouver, B.C.

FOLEY — BAILEY

A lovely double-ring wedding was solemnized on Saturday, July 20, at 2.30 p.m. in Calvary Temple, Belleville, when Shirley Hlecan Bailey, of Point Anne, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bailey, was united in marriage to Bernard Joseph Foley, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Foley, The Pinnacle, Hope Smith, assisted by the Reverend Laurie Price, pastors of the temple, officiated before an altar adorned with pink asters and ferns.

Traditional wedding music was provided by the church organist, Mr. Johnson, who also accompanied the soloist, Miss June Reid, in her rendition of "I'll Walk Beside You" during the ceremony, and "I Love You Truly," as the register was being signed.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Raymond Bailey, was charming in a gown of white, slipper satin net and Chantilly lace, fashioned with molded, long torso bodice with the sweetheart neckline outlined with tiny seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The full-length skirt fell in graceful folds ending in a cathedral train.

Her finger-tip veil of bridal illusion was caught to a coronet headdress of matching net dotted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She wore three-quarter length Chantilly lace and nylon gloves, and carried a bouquet of red Sweetheart roses mingled with maidenhair fern.

Mrs. Janice Sweeney attended the bride as matron of honor, gowned in turquoise net over taffeta, while the bridesmaids, Miss Barbara Henderson, in shrimp net and lace over taffeta; Miss Barbara Henderson, in lime net and lace over taffeta; Miss Joan Ireland in pink net and eyelet over taffeta; Miss Hilda Tompson in blue lace and net over taffeta, and Miss Wanda Bryden in yellow net and lace over taffeta. All wore matching headdresses, mitts and shoes and carried bouquets of white Shasta daisies and fern.

The little flower girl, Miss Carlene Brant, cousin of the bride, in pink tulle and lace net with matching headdress and carried a baskette of baby mums, white Shasta daisies and fern, and Miss Carolyn Chisholm who carried the bride's train, was also in pink taffeta and net, with matching headdress.

Master Ronald Bailey, cousin of the bride, performed the duties of ring-bearer, natty in grey trousers and blue jacket.

Mr. Delbert Foley, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, acted as groomsman, while the ushers were, Messrs. Jack Henderson, Cecil Ruttan, William Reynolds, Donald Orr, James Pine and James Henderson.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held for 72 guests at Point Anne Orange hall, where the catering was capably handled by the ladies' Auxiliary, of Point Anne.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white linen damask, centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and flanked by vases of pink and white snapdragons and 'mums, and the bridal bouquets. Mr. Laurie Price proposed the toast to the bride and bridegroom.

The bride's mother received the guests, wearing light blue nylon net and lace over taffeta, trimmed with acet pearls and rhinestones, with white accessories, and corsage of white 22nd Anniversary Marked by Surprise Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Adamson, North James Street, was the scene of a happy gathering last evening, when friends and relatives assembled for a surprise party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Bull on the occasion of their 22nd wedding anniversary.

Dancing and a social time occupied the evening. Each of the guests of honor were required to take part in the treasure hunt in which they were rewarded by finding many lovely surprises including a coffee table and smoker.

Refreshments and a special anniversary cake, made by Mrs. Ed. Huddleston, were served by Mrs. Percy St. Pierre, of Sudbury, nee Margaret Lovering, formerly of Belleville, Miss Jacqueline Bull and Mrs. Howard Adamson.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. F. C. (Florence) Lovering, of Montreal.

Shasta daisies and fern. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who presented her with crystalette with white accessories and corsage of similar flowers.

For the wedding trip to the southern United States, via Lea bridge, the bride chose an ensemble of blue crystalette with duster, pink accessories and corsage of baby pink Sweetheart roses. The couple, upon their return, will reside at Belleville Hills Apts.

Guests were present from Smiths Falls, Deseronto, Demorestville, Point Anne, Actinolite, Madoc, Foxboro, Halloway, Bingington, New York; Cannifton and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was honored by a presentation of a lovely table from the Mead - Johnson Company, of which the bride is an employee.

The bride's gifts to her bridesmaids, single strands of pearls; to her matron of honor, pearls and matching earrings; to her flower girl and train-bearer, single strands of pearls; to the ring-bearer, initialled cuff links; to her bridegroom, gold cuff links and to the groom's gift to his bride, two strands of pearls and matching earrings and to his groomsman and ushers monogramed cuff links.

Surprise Linen Shower Fetes Bride-to-Be

A surprise linen shower was held Wed. evening at the flower-decked home of Mr. and Mrs. Clive McDougall, Trent Road, in honor of Miss Patricia Trusler, Saturday bride-to-be.

A social get-together and games, directed by Miss Shirley McIsaac, of Trenton, were greatly enjoyed, after which the guest of honor, on whom the hostess had pinned a pink carnation corsage with white flowing ribbons, was seated in the living room archway, beneath a pink wedding bell with cascading pink and white streamers. A pink rosette-decorated doll pram, filled to overflowing with prettily wrapped gifts, was wheeled in by little five-year-old Pauline Kybert, of Campbellford—flower girl at the coming wedding—and placed before the bride-to-be.

As the gifts were opened, Patricia graciously expressed her appreciation to each and all for the kind sentiments which accompanied them.

Following the viewing of the lovely linens, refreshments were served in the form of a buffet luncheon, with Mrs. George Taylor, sister of Mr. Ted Cooke, bridegroom-to-be, presiding at the delightfully appointed tea table with its exquisite English lace cloth, centred by the pink gladioli, and flanked by tri-branched silver candelabra with white pink candles.

Miss Judith Trusler, sister of the bride-to-be, and Miss Sharon McDonald, daughter of the hostess, assisted in the tea room.

Children's Convalescent Home Has Change of Name

At a meeting held at the home of Mrs. R. Dawson 35 Charlotte St. recently, a committee was formed from the Board of Governors of the Hastings Mental Health Association to make arrangements for an "Open House" at the Babies Convalescent Home at Plainfield, to be held in connection with the official opening of the new playground for the children of this home was discussed. Refreshments will be served also, to make this a milestone in the brief life of this humanitarian home.

The Hastings Mental Health Association petitioned the Ontario government for the change of name to denote more clearly the status of the Babies Convalescent Home at Plainfield.

This home is for mentally retarded infants and as such it was felt by the Board of Governors that the public would be more aware of its purpose if a more suitable name were chosen. Hence the "Children's Convalescent Home for Mentally Retarded Infants" is now the official title.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Vellerman have worked unstintingly, for the welfare of these unfortunate children, and have in five years achieved a good measure of success.

The buildings and grounds and now an enclosed playground are a tribute to the unselfish care and devotion of this couple who, with a small group of citizens in the community, comprise the Board of Governors, work and plan to keep open this haven for retarded infants and children.

The public will have an open invitation to visit the home and gain valuable knowledge of the work being done for the well-being of retarded children, who, if this home did not exist, would have to wait their turn for admittance to the Provincial homes.

Continued interest in this home at Plainfield in the County of Hastings will be appreciated by the few who, with Mr. and Mrs. Velleman, are determined to do their utmost for these almost forgotten little ones.

Mrs G. A. Bradford Wins Quinte Golf Title

Mrs. G. A. Bradford is the 1957 lady golf champion of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club.

Mrs. Bradford won the title and accompanying trophy defeating Mrs. J. D. Corke 4 and 3 on the club links yesterday.

The new champion defeated Marion Sallaway in the semi-final with Mrs. Corke turning back the bid of Mrs. McLean Haig.

Several members of the club played in the Kingston Catarqui Club ladies' field day with Mrs. Gerry Carleton scoring a prize-winning low gross 100 in the third flight.

Clubs represented were Belleville, Watertown, Brockville, Prescott, Gananoque, Catarqui and Napanee.

Plans have been completed and a near-record field entered for the Quinte ladies' field day scheduled for tomorrow.

HOSTS LEAVE THEIR GUESTS AND GO TO CHURCH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Whose guests are not interested in going to church, and we either get it before they come to visit us, or they tell us when the subject comes up, is it discourteous for my husband and me, who are regular church-goers, to go to church on Sunday morning and leave our guests for this hour-and-a-half or two hours? — Hostess

Not a bit discourteous for you and your husband to go to church and leave your guests . . . naturally they would understand.

BOTH SAY "HOW DO YOU DO"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have another question concerning that "How do you do." Is "How do you do" the correct thing for both persons introduced to say — that is, by the one who is being introduced as well as by the one to whom he or she is being introduced? Or is there a distinction as to the phrase used to acknowledge the introduction?

Y.R.

There is no difference . . . both persons concerned with the introduction say "How do you do." And it's a great comfort to know that this is correct . . . "How do you do" . . . is always correct in acknowledging an introduction!

ENGRAVED INVITATIONS TO A LARGE, INFORMAL WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in October, a church wedding. I want to have an informal wedding, but I also would like to have a large wedding. Also I would like to send out invitations — I have plenty of money and to the reception. Would it be at all correct to send out engraved formal invitations to a large informal wedding?

Bride-to-be

Yes, it would be correct for you to send out engraved invitations to your large, informal wedding just as for a formal wedding . . . and the invitations would follow the same wording as the invitations to a formal wedding.

ADDRESS THANK-YOU NOTE TO WIFE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a wedding gift is sent to me by a husband and wife, should I write my thank-you note to both, or (as I've been told by two or three friends) to the wife? I want to be right about this, and would so very much appreciate your advice. — Bride-to-be.

Your friends are right . . . you write your thank-you note to the wife, but in the note you thank them both. For example, to begin the note, "Thank you, your husband (or 'Tom and Jim') were so thoughtful and generous to send me such a handsome crystal centerpiece, and Bill and I thank you deeply for your goodness to us."

BEAUTY TIPS FOR GIRLS WHO RIDE

A girl on a horse cuts a pretty picture — especially when both are beautifully groomed.

Girls whose major complaint in life it seems to create about the difficulty of meeting men should concentrate on he-man sports — especially horseback riding. And, even more especially, riding as it is done at the dude ranches in Texas, that's what we hear — that dude ranches are among Dan Cupid's favorite haunts.

If you're man-hunting, a cruise is not the answer. Ship decks are a steady procession of husband-hunting females — and not a man in sight except the married ones! Ditto the verandahs, swimming pools and cocktail lounges of resort hotels. But dude ranches? That's a different story. Confidentially, that's where men go to get away from women. But, from what we hear, despite all their cynicism, something happens to them once they get there. Maybe it's the scenery, the crisp, clean mountain air, the real down-to-earth living, so close to Nature . . . whatever it is, they mellow. And, gals, those alleged woman-haters can, in time, be had, as the saying goes. So, if you're to be one of the late vacationers this year, why not give this a thought? And, if you're the time, take a few lessons before you hie off to the hills and dales.

Even if you're not the athletic type, you can have a good time. Your host might even run away and a Galahad will come along to your rescue. It might even be worth taking a tumble — just accidentally, of course. Then, too, there's what a pretty figure you'll cut in your smart riding togs!

Your first problem will be clothes, a little costly, to be sure, but worth it if you make up your mind to take the sport seriously. Most persons who start riding continue because it's fun and so delightfully social. Buy good togs; they're an investment that will pay off. Give some thought to how you'll look as you canter along, and select a habit that will give you a gay and colorful air.

Make-up comes next, and there are a few special rules for riders. Skin protection is the most important thing to keep in mind. That cool, crisp mountain air we mentioned before can seriously windburn your face if you're not careful, so before you head for the great outdoors, give your face a light coating of petroleum jelly. It will make your face shiny, it's true, but remember that, as you ride, the cool breezes will redden your cheeks. And that adds up to a rosy glow that's not at all unbecoming to the outdoor girl.

Also wise to use a lip pomade. Chapped lips, a hazard on the ranch, are no beauty bargain. The pomade will ward off this condition, and you can top it off with a bright lipstick for a glamour touch. Remember to bring along plenty of lubricating cream. Slather it all over your face at night and add added protection against wind and sun.

TRIM TRANSITION

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PARENTS SHOULD NOT INTERFERE WITH THIS FRIENDSHIP

Why is it that so many parents lack the wisdom and understanding to realize that the wider horizons their children have, the more friendships they can make with boys and girls whose backgrounds are different from theirs, the thinking and doing from our own, just so much better will the young people be prepared to get on successfully and usefully in the world.

To deliberately try to put blinders on children's eyes to prevent them from seeing anything except those people and those things within their immediate environment; to try to confine their minds within the narrow limits of a single set of ideas; is to rob those children of the freedom to develop into the finest men and women of which they are capable, to cheat them of the opportunity to become at home in the world in which they are a part, and in which they might learn to lend a helping hand.

These are the thoughts that always come to my mind when I receive a letter like the following:

"I'm 16 years old and my boy friend is 17.

"He's a very fine boy and a type any girl should be proud to have as a boy friend. But my parents disapprove of him because he's of a different nationality and faith from ours. That's the only reason.

Recently, this boy's family moved to another city, and now my mother is always telling me that this is my chance to break off with him and that I shouldn't even write to him. I can't see why she feels this way, and I think I have a right to keep in touch with him, because, although we definitely have no intention of getting married very soon, we have talked of marrying when we are older. But if my parents have their way, we never will."

As may be gathered from what I've already said, this seems to be the general attitude for the girl's parents to take. To forbid their daughter to write to this boy is not only to take away from these two young people their right to a friendship that would broaden the thinking of both of them, but it might well set the stage for them to run on a piece of deception by continuing their acquaintance despite the parental prohibition. And that would be most unfortunate.

The possibility of marriage between the two is another matter entirely, and one which should be left alone for the time being. Admittedly, it's a question which involves a great many things, but I can see no reason for going into them at this point.

A 16-year-old girl and an 18-year-old boy are both too young to think of marriage seriously, and apparently these two particular young people are wise enough to be aware of this and mean to do nothing rash.

It may well be that time will solve their problem by causing them to lose interest in each other, since nothing is so impermanent as the plans of very young people for their future. On the other hand, if it doesn't, and their friendship lasts through the years until they are of proper marrying age, they may by then have grown into a mutual understanding which would go a long way toward showing them what their next steps should be.

If these parents are not open-minded enough to realize all this, and if they don't get real pressure on the girl to terminate her friendship with the boy, then I think there is nothing she can do but give in. For she is certainly not of an age yet to assert her right to independence of action.

But I think it would be very regrettable, and possibly very tragic, for the parents to force the issue in any such way, for it could breed in their daughter a resentment and bitterness that might not only bring about a lasting feud between her and themselves, but might also create an emotional disturbance in the girl whose influence on her personality might be lastingly harmful results.

I hope no such situation will develop, but that the girl may continue to keep in touch with the boy without parental interference.

Ever so good looking and a perfect transition model to this two-piece dress of cotton tweed. Width is achieved across the top by the device of a set-in band of grosgrain that continues down each side of the middy top. There is a grosgrain belt in back where the bands terminate. There is seaming on the skirt both front and back in panel effect. A kick pleat is released down low.

Question: I am going to pickle walnuts this year and am going to use the recipe in the 1935 Cookbook . . . It calls for walnuts to be placed in brine. Could you tell me how strong a brine to make? I would appreciate an answer as soon as possible as the nuts are about ready to do. Mrs. R. C.

Answer: Since you included the recipe in your letter I thought it would be advisable for me to shift it to my answer, include the amount of salt for brine and thus make it available at once to others who read your letter and want to make pickled walnuts too.

PICKLED WALNUTS

Walnuts should be tender enough to be easily pierced with a pin, and of uniform size. Use rubber gloves on hands when handling walnuts, otherwise they will stain hands badly. Scald nuts thoroughly; rub or peel off outer skin. Place in brine made of 1-2 cup of salt to each 4 cups of boiling water, stirring until salt dissolves. On the seventh day drain well, wipe each nut and pierce with darning needle several times. For each 100 nuts make the following pickle from spices: (see note below) 1 oz. black pepper, 1-3 oz. each nutmeg, mace, cloves, 1 oz. ginger root and 1-2 tablespoons mustard seed. Mix spices together, place nuts in sterilized jars with layers of spices between each layer of nuts. Pour over them vinegar that has been boiled for 5 minutes. Put on tops and seal.

FRIDAY (Guests))

Broiled Fillets of Salmon Trout; Lemon or Tartare Sauce; Creamed New Peas with Small Onions; Cauliflower; Tossed Green Salad with Emem's 1957 Mayonnaise (see Thursday); Fresh Berry Pie; Coffee.

Note: Another recipe for Pickling Walnuts that I have says to soak them in brine 9 days, stirring once every day and changing the brine every third day. I would like to recommend those 2 extra steps to you in this hot weather.

Question: Some time ago I read in your column that when mixing yeast buns you let the dough rise on top of your electric stove under an electric light bulb. I am anxious to try that method as sometimes I have difficulty finding a warm spot in my kitchen and the dough very slow to rise. What degree of heat the electric lights should be . . . number of watts . . . should the bowl be placed directly under the light-bulb . . . should it be covered? How long should the rising take . . . Dora D.

Answer: The bulb is 40 watts. The bread dough is in a big white enamel dishpan, covered with a big dotted tea towel. Top of dishpan is 9 inches from light bulb. Dough usually takes from 1 1-2 to 2 hours for the first rising; about 1 1-2 hours for the second rising. Dough should not be "slow to rise" if you are using 2 packages of granular yeast. Let me know if I can be of further help to you in making perfect bread. I hope it is whole wheat.

HEALTHY FOOD

Cool, crip salads, popular in summer, should be eaten all year round because of their high food value.

Wife Preserver

A new multi-purpose food conditioner that not only forms a protective barrier to retain moisture but also helps to make any cake, pastry or confection more delicious, or it will make it of perfect texture, or it will make it keep in flavor and freshness.

Sunday School Picnics

FOUR SUNDAY SCHOOLS

MOIRA—A successful and delightful day was spent on Moira's school picnic on Saturday when a combined S.S. picnic with Eggleston, West Huntingdon, Plainfield and Moira Sunday School was held.

At 1:30 a ball game was organized with Douglas Farrel and Billie Miller being captains and Douglas' team won 6-4.

At noon the tables were laden with tasty dishes and all enjoyed the meal.

A peanut scramble for children was held and all given a balloon and free drinks.

RACES

Races were enjoyed with young and old taking part, with winners as follows: girls 4-5: Brad Vanderwater, Muriel Morton; boys 1-5: Grant Mumby, Wayne McCurdy, Kenneth McCurdy; boys 6-9: Jimmy Vanderwater, Brian Thompson, Larry Thompson; girls 6-9: Gail Thompson, Diane McInroy, Donna Preston; girls 10-12: Phyllis Thompson, Pauline Wilson, Margaret Sheffield; boys 10-12: Billie Vanderwater, Donnie Farrel, Allan Thompson.

Married women's race — Lois McInroy, Marjorie Thompson, Mildred Preston.

Three-legged race — 12 years and under: Billie Vanderwater and Allan Thompson; Margaret Sheffield and Eva Wilson; 12 years to 15: Donnie Farrel and Richard Morton; Sharon Hammond and Donna Hammond.

Pie eating contest with girls feeding boys blindfolded — Alex McCurdy and June Morton; Cecil Geen.

This contest provided a lot of fun.

A ball game with Eggleton and West Huntingdon against Moira and Thomasburg was played with the former team winning.

At 3 o'clock a hay ride was organized with tractor and wagons and all journeyed to the church where a film was shown by Mr. Jim Blackwood, Youth for Christ leader from Belleville. The film was "The Cry of the Orient."

Thanks were extended to each and everyone who helped to make the day such a successful one.

Vancouver City Revitalizes Downtown Section in Biggest Building Boom in History

By ERWIN FRICKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The day when visitors could describe Vancouver as an unlistinguished city with one of the world's most beautiful settings are passing into history.

Vancouver has often been compared with Rio de Janeiro, San Francisco, Naples and Hong Kong in the beauty of its scenic backdrop.

But the comparisons that architects, city planners and urban designers want to hear are with such cities as Stockholm, Philadelphia and Fort Worth, Texas. These are pioneers of a relatively new structural science — urban design.

And Vancouver is set on pioneering this field for Canada.

RAPID GROWTH

A world - famous architect, Richard Neutra, once said: "Rio, Hong Kong, Vancouver — man's heart has often responded to the lure of wondrous sites only to threaten them later with his metropolitan turmoil."

The response to "wondrous sites" is obvious here in Vancouver's growth in 71 years from a village of 2,300 to the third-largest city in Canada. Nearly half of British Columbia's 1,300,000 population is squeezed into greater Vancouver.

"People keep pouring into Vancouver like water into the top of a cave that is almost filled up," said architect Ned Pratt, designer of the British Columbia Electric Company's new 22-storey, 285-foot high head office.

"Each year they build higher and higher up the mountain, farther and farther outside of town."

Most of the "metropolitan turmoil" here is from the increasing traffic as streets built for shopping convenience also are forced to become arterial highways.

CHANGING SKYLINE

The city planners don't want to bypass the downtown area, however. "If the heart of a city decays, the whole body decays," says Wells Coates, a specialist in urban design. "It is important that the heart be revitalized."

The last three years have seen the biggest burst of downtown building in the city's history. In 1956 Vancouver issued building permits totalling $64,700,000, top of any city in the Pacific northwest, Canadian or American. This was sparked by a tremendous increase in new office buildings and other commercial structures to a total of $23,000,000.

And this building splurge has revamped the city's downtown skyline.

No longer are the 25-storey Marine Building and the Hotel Vancouver starkly prominent. Brick and stone structures have given way to skyscrapers resembling elaborate steel and glass cages.

Representative of this new look are the B.C. Electric towering $8,000,000 head office and the 21-storey Burrard Building. In both, outside walls are merely glass and enamelled steel.

NEW STRUCTURES

Other impressive new downtown buildings include:

A $13,000,000 post office, the biggest in Canada; Georgian Towers, whose 23 storeys make it the tallest apartment building in Western Canada; a $2,000,000 public library whose shelves will hold five times the number of books in the old building; a $2,500,000 customs building and million - dollar office buildings for Shell Oil, Alaska Pine and MacMillan and Bloedel.

Work was also started this spring on a $4,000,000 auditorium, the first component of a planned $33,500,000 civic centre.

Two years ago the city's Technical Planning Board drew up a development plan designed to meet the needs of fast - growing Vancouver for the next 20 years. The program covered the general business area, industrial and commercial zones and the residential sections of the city.

Gerald Sutton-Brown, chief city planner, warned that "the pace of individual development is so great that early action is needed before the opportunity is lost."

The board's recommendations were approved by city council and copies of the report sent out to civic and business groups.

BUSINESSMEN AID

When a $1,000,000 city bylaw for downtown development was defeated in December, 1955, some businessmen formed the Downtown Redevelopment Corporation. It is to work with city planner Sutton - Brown but will be financed by the businessmen.

This corporation grew out of the work—called Project 58—done by a team of five architects specializing in urban design. Mr. Coates is leader of the group, which includes Geoffrey Massey, son of actor Raymond Massey.

"Urban design lies between architecture on one hand and city planning on the other," said Mr. Coates, who 30 years ago served a two-year apprenticeship with Le Corbusier, the famed French architect.

"Downtown Vancouver is 1,200 acres of used, misused, disused and partially used land," he said.

"We are trying to make all of it usable and produce a skyline worthy of the magnificent setting Vancouver enjoys. No city in the world can beat it.

"As urban design consultants we are concerned with the overall three-dimensional pattern. Individual developers would work within the design. Otherwise you get the haphazard development you see in downtown Toronto or New York."

It was hoped that by 1958 — B.C.'s centennial year — Project '58 would have a scale model for display of its over-all plan for downtown Vancouver. The scheme is lagging because businessmen so far have not made available the $150,000 to finance the model.

"Our scheme doesn't fail because it is behind schedule," said Mr. Coates. "But we must do something before it's too late and too expensive."

AN ANCIENT STORY

MITCHELL, S.D. (AP) — An 82-year-old driver of a 42-year-old truck struck and injured a 76-year-old pedestrian here while travelling at two miles an hour. Police said Charles Phillips, 74, walked into the path of the 1915 truck driven by Ed Schlimgen, 82. Phillips suffered a sprained back.

BEACH TRICK

A few sunbathers gasped at their first glance at this scene on Kitsilano Beach in Vancouver—others only smiled. It was a trick dreamed up by two boys, David Scotland, 10, tries to pick up the head of his buddy, 11-year old Gordon Rideout, buried to his neck in sand. (CP Photo).
